Ronske, James Reelected

Legal Point Delayed Earlier Vote

Paul J. Ronske was reelected to his 10th one-year term as chairman of the DuPage County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Chester L. James, Downers Grove Township assistant supervisor, was re-elected president of the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission following the election of Ronske. James starts his eighth consecutive one-year term as president since joining the commission in 1949.

Ronske has been an assistant supervisor from York Township for 14 years. He has two more years left in his present term.

Election of the chairman of the county board and president of the forest preserve commission originally was slated for Monday, but a legal point of order raised by Gerald Weeks, supervisor from Milton Township, stopped the vote.

Weeks, who received six votes including his own yesterday for the county board chairmanship, said Monday that the election could only be held in a specially called meeting.

DuPage County State's Atty. William Hopf agreed the meeting was called and publication given for yesterday. The forest preserve commission followed suit by calling its meeting for the same time.

The commission and the county board are comprised of the same members, each being a township supervisor or assistant supervisor.

Following other legal questions raised by Weeks and agreed to by Hopf, the county board and forest preserve commission will have to conduct specially called and published meetings from now until the second Monday in June.

The June meeting is the first legal meeting of the year, according to state law.

Addison Township Supervisor Fred Koebelman nominated Weeks for county board chairman, saying the coming year will see tremendous changes in the county and Weeks was the only man who could handle them.

In the vote, Carl Demme, assistant supervisor of Addison Township, took a stand against the establishment and voted for Weeks with Koebelman.

Elbert Droegemueller and Donald Prindle, also assistant supervisors of Addison Township, voted for Ronske, as did Bloomingdale Township Supervisor Pat Saviano and Assistant Supervisor Donald Jack Wall.

Ronske didn't vote, though Weeks voted for himself.

Weeks told The Register before the meeting that the next time he has a similar matter to bring to the board he will do it privately.

He also called the shot before the meeting when he predicted he would get six votes.

"I have more ammunition (information on legal procedure) that I have gathered since Monday, but I can't and won't use it at this meeting," Weeks said.

Ronske said, after being elected, that the countywide sewer plan and other public works matters would be top priority for the coming year. "The move of county buildings west of Wheaton will also be a priority item," he said.

Ronske will appoint committee chairmen and assign committees later.

Weeks is presently chairman of the finance committee, but said earlier he doubts he will be reappointed.

Erlenborn Bland On Remap

A Congressional redistricting plan which would tie Franklin Park, Northlake, and Melrose Park into the 14th District with DuPage County is regarded by U.S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Ill., as a "compact district," at least for him.

The remap plan was introduced by Senate Republicans Tuesday in accord with a U.S. Supreme Court one-man, one-vote ruling.

The plan allegedly would give Republicans three more districts, and is rapped by Democrats as being "gerrymandering," and by some Downstate Republicans as being "a waste of time."

Erlenborn was said Thursday to feel "rather bland" about it.

The comment came from Finley McGrew, Erlenborn's administrative assistant in Washington, D.C.

HE SAID ERLBORN had no particular objection to the Illinois Senate proposal, but "we would rather stay where we were. We got accustomed to it."

Erlenborn's 14th District is comprised of all of DuPage County townships plus three Will County townships.

Under the new proposal, Erlenborn would pick up not only Franklin Park, Northlake, and Melrose Park in Leyden Township but Lemont Township in south Cook County, unincorporated areas in Leyden Township and four more townships in Will County. He would lose Joliet Township in Will County.

According to McGrew, Erlenborn has spoken privately with the U.S. representatives whose territory he would be entering.

All are Republicans — Harold Collier in Leyden Township, Edward Derwinski in Lemont Township, and Leslie Arends in Will County. Arends is senior ranking House Republican.

All, in turn, would move into newly redistricted areas containing most of the areas they now control politically.

McGrew SAID ERLBORN is not concerned about Lemont and the Will County townships, though they reportedly have more Democratic votes than in DuPage County. Erlenborn always has carried the Will County townships in his district against any Democratic opponent.

However, both Erlenborn and McGrew believe "the whole thing (plan) is based on the legal fiction that 1960 census figures are relevant."

The Senate proposal is based on the 1960 census, which McGrew believes sets population at 415,000 for Erlenborn's proposed new district.

He said the 1970 census "probably will show a much larger population," pointing out that DuPage alone now is estimated at over 400,000.

The U.S. Supreme Court recently held that Illinois, New York, and Missouri were in violation of the one-man, one-vote standards.

McGrew said he's not too sure but that the Illinois Senate proposal also falls short of the standards.

HE SAID "A COUPLE of the districts (in Illinois) came out at populations of 430,000 or more, which is 15,000 to 20,000 larger than the smaller districts."

McGrew anticipates that after the 1970 census, the state may find that DuPage County alone will qualify as one Congressional district.

Illinois had 25 Congressional districts prior to 1960, but is down to 24 now. It could go to 23 after 1970, according to McGrew, because "Illinois has been growing rapidly, but not as rapidly as some other states."

Regardless how the new proposal fares in the Illinois Senate this year, Illinois will have to reapportion itself again in 1971.

Await Juvenile Home Plans

Architectural drawings and artist renderings are expected soon for the proposed DuPage County juvenile detention home.

Groundbreaking for the home is slated Sept. 1. The DuPage County Board of Supervisors has been working on plans for several months.

The home is expected to cost about $1,637,000, which would include improvement of the grounds.

Report Runway Closing

Bensenville and suburbs near the south end of O'Hare International Airport should have a relatively quiet summer, free of jet noise. Those to the north will be faced with increased noise.

Chicago officials announced this week that the 10,000-foot east-west runway at the south end of the airport will be closed for 105 days, more than three months.

Ferdinand Rosa, administrative engineer to City Aviation Comr. William Downes, said improvements will be made at the runway, including a new taxiway, a tunnel underneath the runway, and new runway turn-offs.

Improvements will enable planes to taxi off the runway more frequently. Increased use of the runway when improvements are completed in August will most likely result in more noise for residents near the airport.

THE TUNNEL under the runway will be used to gain access to a proposed cargo area planned for east of the Chicago & North Western Railway tracks and north of Illinois 19 (Irving Park Road).

Rosa said the improvements, which are expected to cost $14 million, are necessary if the city is to match the increased demands placed on air service.

"The thing Chicago needs is another airport," he said.

Neal Callahan, community relations officer for the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said the closing of the runway will result in added use of O'Hare's other runways.

O'Hare has five major runways, including the one which will be closed.

Those which will be used more frequently include two northwest-southeast runway strips, another east-west runway, and a northeast-southwest runway. Use of runways depends on several factors including the direction of the wind.

DAN VUCUREVICH, control tower chief at O'Hare, said construction, which will require closing the runway originally opened in fall, 1967, will increase the benefits of its use.

The east-west runway is used mostly for departures, he said, adding that when instrument landing equipment is put in at the runway this year more landings will be possible.

He indicated that more noise for residents living near the airport's east-west runway will be a likely result.

Last summer for five months residents in north DuPage County and the Schiller Park area were hit by jet noise when the 11,600-foot northwest-southeast runway was closed for improvements.

ANOTHER northeast-southwest runway is still in the planning stage. It would be located at the southeast end of the airport.

In conjunction with the 8,600-foot runway expected to be started this year, Illinois 19 will be relocated further south.

Roselle Students Set Talent Show Tonight

Students at Trinity Lutheran School, Roselle, will present a talent show tonight at 7:30. Included in the program will be a presentation of the students' art and handicraft projects.

Confirmation of eighth graders at Trinity will take place May 4. The confirmation class will be present at three church services this Sunday to be introduced to the congregation. Pictures of the class will be taken Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

Reinertsen Elected

Norman Reinertsen, principal of Itasca North Junior High School, yesterday was unanimously elected president-elect of the DuPage Valley Division, Illinois Education Association.

He will serve during the coming term when Walter Rundle, Fenton High School teacher, serves as president.

Y-Indian Braves Collecting Paper

Little braves of the Y-Indian Guides in the Twinbrook YMCA area are conducting a paper drive this week, according to Ralph Bleick, chief of the Sauk Nation Indian Guides.

The goal for each little brave is to collect a stack of paper equal to his height.

This is the group's first service project for the community which covers Bloomingdale, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Medinah, Roselle and Schaumburg.

If you see a little Indian brave in your area collecting paper he will be very happy to pick up your old newspapers. If you have not been contacted and have newspapers you would like to have picked up, please contact the Twinbrook YMCA office, 894-6900, or Ralph Bleick, 529-1265, and they will have someone pick up your papers.

The proceeds will go towards a community function within the Twinbrook Y area.

Y-Indian Guide braves are boys in grades one, two and three participating with their fathers learning to be good citizens while promoting one of the important aims of the Y-Indian Guides, to be "pals forever," with dad or son.

Kaufman Named To Library Board

Kenneth Kaufman, assistant superintendent of Bensenville Elementary School Dist. 2, has been named to the Bensenville Community Library board.

He will fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Carol Wehr, who resigned from the board last April. The term ends next year.

Kaufman, 405 S. Walnut St., Bensenville, was appointed assistant superintendent in July, 1967. Before coming to Bensenville in 1966, he was superintendent of schools in Steward, Ill.

Adelberg Denies Using School Funds

A special meeting of the Churchville Elementary School Dist. 3 board was held Wednesday "for the purpose of investigating recent newspaper publications." About 200 citizens attended.

The publications referred to have charged Supt. Arthur J. Adelberg with using district funds for personal purchases. Adelberg's attorney, John Demling, denied the charges and said he had "irreparable proof that not one cent of public funds or anyone's funds were used to purchase his (Adelberg's) house."

Also present at the meeting was Donald Bark, auditor of the district's books for this fiscal year. Bark said his firm would conduct a thorough audit of the district's books if the board so desired.

Board members adjourned into an hour and a half executive session to discuss the matter. When they returned, board member Alan B. Klokowski move that the board employ the auditing firm to study the books.

When the audit is finished, Klokowski moved, the board should meet to make its decision.

THE MOTION WAS approved. Board President Joseph Labuszewski stated that a progress report on the audit would be made at the board's regular meeting May 12.

Attention has been focused on the Churchville Dist. 3 board since April 14 when it supported the dismissal of a teacher by Adelberg on a charge of "neglect of duty." The teacher, Mrs. Janet Uherka, presented her case to the board at that time. The board voted to uphold the dismissal.

Mrs. Uherka was present at Wednesday's meeting. She said Thursday, "I hope the present issues do not overshadow the real problems of education in the district."

This week, letters were sent to all parents in the district from Adelberg explaining his position in the matter. In the letters, he stated that rocks had been thrown through the windows of his home and that his children had been bothered since the charges originally were made.

A different letter, composed by several teachers, also was placed in the mailboxes of every teacher in the district. The letter stated:

"WE THE UNDERSIGNED would like to state that we are in support of the present administration. We feel that the present administration has been concerned with and allowed for professional growth and creativity of the teaching staff."

"The prime interest of the administration has always been focused in the educational and cultural advancement of the children in the district."

"It has maintained an open mind policy toward new and innovated methods in education and has consistently sought and encouraged the support and cooperation of the community it serves."

According to Mrs. Darwin Walton, one of the initiators of the letter, the purpose of the letter is simply to give teachers who wish to do so an opportunity to lend their support to the administration.

The letters have not yet been presented to the board, Mrs. Walton said. She added that they will be held until the education association makes its comments on the anticipated at nearly $500,000 with the remainder spent in the two succeeding years.

Actual construction of the building is expected to take 14 to 16 months.

Average daily occupancy of the home now would be about eight juveniles, according to DuPage County Juvenile Court Judge Robert Nolan.

The home eventually will be designed for 30 youths with an additional two wings capable of accommodating 15 youths each planned for later. The essential facilities of the building are to be designed for 60 youths.

Youths, eight through 17 years old, awaiting court action or transfer to another facility would be detained in the home for periods from three days to three months, on the average, Nolan said.

Now, delinquent youths are put in private homes or other detention facilities in other counties, or simply released, he pointed out.

"By the time the home is built, we will be near the capacity of 30 youths at any given time," he said. The first year of use will be late 1970, when the projected figure is 29 youths.

The facility would not be fenced in or walled, but top security precautions are planned with complete control assured within the home, according to Nolan.

"There will be maximum security without making the youth feel he is in solitary," Nolan said.

"It will be something between a hotel and a jail."

Nolan is working closely with the county board planning committee and courts and education committees which are organizing the plans.

The home will be located on county-owned land about one mile west of Wheaton.

Quad-Village Sanitary Authority Not Down Drain Yet

by RICHARD BARTON

Six men tried to keep a quad-village sanitary authority from going down the drain Tuesday.

Roselle Village Pres. Robert Frantz, Addison's President-elect Robert DeVries, Addison administrator William Drury, village engineers Joseph Pavia and John Freel and outgoing Addison pres. Harry Warthen showed up for what was to be the third meeting of the four villages.

But, Bloomingdale and Glendale Heights officials failed to appear and no affirmative action was taken.

Roselle, Bloomingdale, Addison, and Glendale Heights have been trying to establish a cooperative sewer trunk line and sewage treatment plant.

This was to have been the third meeting between the four villages to hash out guidelines.

Expected to be present were outgoing

Bloomingdale Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp and Glendale Heights Village Pres. William Keating.

Haverkamp, Keating, Warthen and Frantz comprised the steering committee for the organization of the cooperative line.

Haverkamp said Wednesday he expected no one to attend the meeting since there were new administrations in Bloomingdale, Glendale Heights, and Addison.

"That is the concern of the new regime, not mine anymore," he said.

"There is nothing I can do now since I will be village president only a short while longer."

Bloomingdale President-elect Robert Meyers said Wednesday he would have gladly attended the meeting if he had known it was being held.

"We are getting no cooperation from Haverkamp in making the transition from his to our administration," Meyers said.

"He doesn't have the best interest of the village in mind by making it as difficult as possible to take over."

MEYERS SAID he will not "drop the ball" on trying to work with the three other villages in the quad-village plan.

He added he will contact Frantz to get filled in on the details of the plans and former proceedings.

The four villages may meet again after new presidents take office May 1.

Before the scheduled meeting Tuesday, the Addison delegation waited at the Bloomingdale village hall in one car. Parked behind them was J. Richard Koehler, Roselle village engineer.

Village engineers were to issue a feasibility study.

The meeting had been called for 8 p.m. At 8:25 p.m. the Addison delegation told Koehler they were going to wait across the street at a tavern.

At 8:30 p.m., Bloomingdale Trustee Robert McLaughlin drove up and told Koehler that he had talked to Haverkamp earlier and thought he wasn't going to show up. Koehler departed.

Soon, Frantz was seen sitting in his car on the other side of the village hall.

He joined the Addison delegation and the "meeting" was adjourned to Indian Lakes Country Club where an informal discussion of the merits of the sanitary authority and its relationship to the controversial Hoffman-Rosner residential project were discussed.

Comments at first indicated that Bloomingdale was the only village that could get the multi-million dollar commercial-residential development.

Drury later said Addison could annex Hoffman-Rosner without too much trouble because the village limits were only 1,000 feet away.

"If we could get Hoffman-Rosner, we could build an airport southwest of it that age treatment plant to service its residential project and nearby Campanelli Bros. project for about three years. It would then be abandoned unless first "donated" to Bloomingdale in lieu of tap-on fees.

The quad-village authority representatives said a plant further down the east branch of the DuPage River to service all four villages would be a better but slower alternative.

The firm proposes building its own sewer

Ticket Sale Good

Itasca police said they are receiving a good response in donations and ticket sales for the sixth annual policeman's ball to be held May 2.

There has been about a 90 per cent purchase response from letters sent out earlier which contained two tickets each.

THE 10-piece Bill Russell Orchestra with vocalist Lavon Carroll will provide the music.

Proceeds will go to the police department to purchase equipment and other items.

Tickets are $1.50 each and can be purchased from any policeman, at the station or at the door.

Board Approves Zoning For R-4

The Bensenville Zoning Board of Appeals last week voted to recommend annexation and R-4 (multiple-family) zoning for almost five acres on east George Street near Addison Creek.

The petitioner is Ralph Cantrell, a local builder, who with the Cantrell and O'Brien Development Corp. is developing a 71-home, 24-acre subdivision known as Brentwood East. Cantrell said "nothing is planned at the moment" for the five acres.

The zoning board's recommendation was made almost 90 days after the public hearing Jan. 31. Ninety days is the maximum time the board is allowed to make a recommendation to the village board.

Tornado Information Will Be Distributed

Literature on how to prepare for a tornado or emergency is to be passed out soon in Wood Dale, according to the local civil defense unit.

In case of a tornado, residents should take over in the southwest corner of a basement or first floor room. They will be alerted by a three-to-five-minute steady blast on the village siren, according to the literature.

Portable radios should be turned on for instructions.

Can Weeks and Ronske 'Pull in Harness'?

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

Gerald Weeks, LeDiable of the county board, after his devastating challenge last Monday on the "legality" of that session, appears not have lost his standing in Republican politics even if he did not win the board chairmanship.

The special meeting Thursday, conducted under the direction of the State's attorney to assure its legal correctness, resulted in the reelection of Paul Ronske to the board chairmanship over Weeks by a vote of 21-6. A request to make it unanimous failed of approval.

The impression as early as Tuesday was he had lost what test he originally had to lead the board. The main unanswered question was: Would his successful effort to force the county board to obey the law in the conduct of its proceedings be tantamount to a loss of the chairmanship of the finance committee, where he is rated among the best ever to serve in that capacity?

Paul Ronske, the reelected chairman, had told the press when this question was asked in an interview that he had never "punished anyone on this board."

SO THERE WAS AND still is much speculation about how he would handle the problem. It would amount to a test of his statesmanship as county chairman for it was presumed that Weeks would not decline a position where he was rendering an invaluable service to the county.

Nevertheless, the law of leadership says that the appointee in whatever capacity, is obligated to follow the thinking on policy, in this case, the thinking of the board chairman.

The question of course remains, and it has to be answered first, whether Weeks and Ronske can "pull in harness" after the Monday confrontation. The county chairman who now will give more thought than usual to committee chairmen appointments will probably find the task this year for the finance committee a difficult and ticklish one.

IT WILL BE surprising if Weeks does not retain his committee chairmanship, despite the rumors abroad that the county chairman is going to "crack the whip" and maintain ironclad control the coming year.

Letting bygones be bygones, it would be to their mutual benefit to continue as in the past. That's why the belief is they'll take the longer view.

Weeks appears not to have fallen in regard as a good Republican. In fact he was lauded by two Republican leaders for his "integrity and sense of fair play." One is a well known county attorney and the other a popular county official. They say when the whole story is told, Weeks will not lose stature.

Attention has been called to the fact that Weeks stood alone and did not receive a word in defense of his stand by any member of the board. Yet he was said to have backing for the chairmanship.

LOOKING AT SOME political aspects of what are being called unlawful proceedings, thoughts turned to the Democrats who have been telling the voters of a need for a check on the majority party by minority representation on the county board.

Hubert Loftus, Addison attorney and Democrat, was a little bit indignant.

"The Republicans have been preaching good government," he says, "all these years and acting illegally. This shows we have been right in insisting that representation on a governing body by the minority party is essential to good government because it serves as a check on operations."

"If the Republican 31-member board had a Democrat on it he would have yelled his head off against what they were doing, and would have saved the Republican Party this embarrassment."

He thinks this is an invitation for the Democrats to take up arms in this Republican sea of troubles and urge the voters to elect some Democrats to help them.

OUT OF THE POLITICAL mainstream for some time, Loftus feels the urge to get back in one of several big races coming up in Election Year 1970. He says when that bug bites, you have to do something about it. This disease is called courthouse fever or statehouse fever and if you think big, Potomac fever.

This Addison Democrat thinks his party is capable of throwing a pretty good wall-op in DuPage County but has to learn how to organize its strength and get on target. Loftus sees 1970 as a year of opportunity for the Dems.

No doubt the Democrats will be nosing around the courthouse from now on searching out a good campaign launching pad. They see Armageddon in the distance.

But one reason why the GOP has been around so long is because when the call goes out for what Barney Long, a former county GOP chairman, referred to as "defense of the flag," they rally in monolithic unity.

THIS CALL CAN BE expected to go out in the not too distant future, and an effective strategy mapped out to defend the DuPage citadel. The Republicans are said to have a good ear for danger in whatever disguise, and will be expecting the ancient enemy to launch their 1970 mechanizations not only earlier than usual but in a more sophisticated manner.

Although the 1970 elections are more than a year away, the campaign is starting right now in DuPage County. Ed Rossi, Glendale Heights Democrat and loser in his county board bid in a tissue-thin race, warns that the Bloomingdale Township Democrats won a moral victory in defeat April 1 and will be back for a future testing.

"Our program," says Rossi, "is to remain as the loyal and responsible opposition. We will remain a vibrant force in township and county affairs."

The Glendale Democrat believes he aroused in Bloomingdale Township citizens the need for more concern about township and county government. Although defeated, he believes his campaign efforts have been justified.

Recount Ballots

Bloomington officials will meet Saturday at 9 a.m. in the village hall to conduct a "discovery recount" of the ballots of the April 15 municipal election.

Two losing candidates for four-year terms as trustees from the Alert Bloomington Citizens' Party have petitioned for an examination of the ballots.

Their wife Frank Johnson, of 118 S. Pleasant St., and James McIntosh, of 224 Tee Lane.

They lost to Forward Party candidates Werner Troesken, of 170 W. Franklin St., and Paul Ahlrich, of 227 E. Schick Road.

Johnson received 342 votes, McIntosh, 336, Troesken, 358, and Ahlrich, 371.

There is a possibility the two-vote difference in tallies for McIntosh and Troesken may change if any discrepancies in the balloting are discovered Saturday.

Jack Wagborne, village attorney, said Wednesday that the "discovery recount" itself will not change the results of the election.

IF MISTAKES are found on the ballots, however, the candidates may petition for an actual recount similar to that which was done last Friday in Itasca.

In Itasca a write-in candidate who at first was thought to be the winner turned into a loser when the recount was over. There, trustees voted on determining the validity of the ballots. This will not be done Saturday, explained Wagborne.

According to rules set up for the reconvened session of the canvassing board, the public will be required to remain seated during the examination of ballots.

The election in Bloomington was close in most of the balloting except for the race for village president.

Robert Meyers, of the ABC party, ousted incumbent Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp, 372-304. Meyers was sworn in as president Wednesday.

MRS. DOROTHY GALLO, ABC party candidate for clerk, defeated Forward Party Candidate Mrs. Arlene Malek, 363-356.

Ralph Johnston, of the ABC party, was the leading vote getter with 387. Incumbent Trustee Robert McLaughlin of the Forward Party received 344 votes, just two more than Johnson, who petitioned for the discovery recount.

The Way We See It

Good Man for Job

The 13th Congressional District will lose an effective representative when Donald Rumsfeld resigns his post to become director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The nation's poor will gain an effective and sympathetic representative.

Rumsfeld has been an outstanding representative for the district, which stretches from the North Shore communities to Schaumburg and Palatine townships. He has actively represented the people of this diverse area, including its poor.

When problems have occurred in the district which might involve federal agencies, Rumsfeld has been quietly available to help.

On national issues, he has championed free access to information in federal agencies. He is regarded as a hard working congressman who does his homework.

During his four terms, Paddock Publications staff have become unusually well acquainted with him.

Although he represents one of the nation's most affluent congressional districts, Rumsfeld's genuine concern for the poor is evident. Last summer, when our staff interviewed him in connection with his campaign, he told us he viewed the role of OEO as a sparkplug. Rather than develop programs and operate them, Rumsfeld felt, OEO should turn successful programs over to regular governmental departments. He felt OEO was less likely to critically analyze effectiveness of new programs if it would ultimately operate them.

He will have an opportunity to test his views on a sympathetic administration.

We wish him well in his new assignment and expect imaginative new anti-poverty programs to result from his involvement with OEO.

The Nation from Distant Vantages

by CLIFFORD G. ROWE
Asst. Managing Editor

Leaving Portland the plane banked eastward and began the long climb above the Cascade Mountains.

Below the Columbia River glistened in the mid-afternoon sun, and smoke from the mills along its banks trailed between its gorge walls.

MT. HOOD TOWERED to the right, seeming within a wing-tip's reach, and the mountains sloped off to the south only to soar again in Mt. Jefferson... Mt. Washington; to the north, Mt. St. Helens... Baker... Adams... Rainier.

At 30,000 feet, I picked up the pocket book from my lap and resumed a different look at my nation through the eyes of the Walker Report on Chicago disorders during last summer's Democratic Convention.

("Hippie-types" had joined the more formalized protest groups and had added a new dimension which they considered to be satirical. Their statements, while objectionable to many, made good newspaper print. "We saw a chance of developing a real popular involvement among the people within the revolution," Abbie Hoffman said. "Revolution for the hell of it!" "Theatre in the streets.")

Below, now, it is open, coarse. The earth surges and falls, sharply, roughly, unevenly. Dirt roads are scratched into the surface, going nowhere but into fields of snow; going only the Lord knows where when there is no snow.

TO THE NORTH IS Butte, clasp

its border the gaping wound of the open-pit copper mine. And, shortly, the south is Bozeman, its back to the mountains, its face to the open plains, the grand Tetons in the distance.

There is the sudden drop off, and then the massive, brown, gouged, gorged plains, a formidable barrier to its early challenges.

"Several persons, including reporters, continued across the bridge. A couple of police officers chased them back across the bridge with batons swinging. One reporter said he proceeded to cross the bridge, believing that the order to clear was meant only for the demonstrators and not for the press. He admitted that he was not wearing any visible press identification. A police officer came up to him and hit him several blows on the head with a baton, telling him to get off the bridge.")

The rivers below swell and sweep into belts of green, orderly land, neatly sized and blocked, arranged at the feet of... the city.

We are across its northern sprawl and sweep its lakefront. The eye seeks out Lincoln Park, Grant Park (no signs of battle, now;... the Hancock Building... Wrigley Field...)

("LAST NIGHT," the policeman said to the young people, "we had the hitters. Tonight we have the pitchers. It was better tonight, wasn't it?" (He) interprets this as a comparison of Monday's clubs to Tuesday's greater use of tear gas.")

Traffic fills the meandering expressways, spilling off into the side streets, trailing off into the distance.

It is a city alive, a nation alive, life being the very essence of its struggle.

("IN AN EFFORT to ease the tension, two of the folk singing trio of Peter, Paul and Mary appeared at a speaker's stand that had been set up by the demonstrators. Peter Yarrow, sporting a droopy mustache and wire-rimmed glasses, took the microphone. "Please be calm, everyone," he urged. Then, with Mary Travers, a blond with long, straight hair, he began to sing. The crowd joined in with "Blowin' in the Wind," "If I Had a Hammer," "This Land is My Land" — an incongruous choir of protesters and onlookers, standing in the glare of TV lights and police lamps against a backdrop of the dark park.")

The Political Beat

Tax Statement: Battling for Minds

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

The Ogilvie taxing and spending program for Illinois has been given full partisan treatment in the Legislature with the issuance of a joint statement by Rep. John P. Touhy, House Democratic leader and Sen. Thomas A. McGlock, Senate Democratic leader.

From now on, these Chicago Democrats can be expected to be on the attack. This is not only to serve notice on the governor and his band of "moderate" Republican conservatives, who have charged that the Democrats have brought Illinois to "the brink of bankruptcy," not to lose sight of the location of the important segment of the party of opposition. It has every indication of being an outright challenge to downstaters — Stevenson, Simon, Howlett — for leadership of the party.

UNTIL THE DEMOCRATS can establish an acceptable leadership in Illinois, to win the confidence of a major segment of the voters, they cannot expect to contest successfully an Ogilvie directed GOP. This joint statement then is a bid for Illinois Democratic leadership. Chicago based where both legislative leaders have a constituency.

This era of marked transition in the 1960's in Illinois and the nation saw the Democrats begin with much fanfare and promise only to be harshly rejected at the end of the decade in a blaze of political warfare and intense social conflict.

Both Democrats and Republicans in Illinois suffered major wounds and divisions in the 1968 political campaigns but the GOP has been able to retain in the midst of a changing society a semblance of unity and direction. Their success at the polls is chiefly responsible for this of course.

But such victory, in itself, is no warrant for continuance in office in this time of profound change and disenchantment. Promises held out in 1968 must be translated into promises kept both at Washington and Springfield these next four years. The political temperature can, and probably will, change suddenly and without notice in the immediate years ahead as political leaders must be aware.

THIS IS THE TEMPER of the times, of a social order deep in change searching for stability and renewal. The political situation in Illinois shows clearly that we are witnessing the death of an era. Whatever the future holds it must be different, more revolutionary than FDR's New Deal, perhaps.

What these Democratic leaders are saying shows that they are clearly aware of it. They know that for the Democratic Party to survive in Illinois calls for a brand new approach by the party leadership. The Downstate Democrats who are contesting a Democratic renewal under a Chicago banner, also have the same understanding about survival.

The implication in the joint statement, that the Illinois Republican governor is laying the groundwork with his new tax program to build a huge surplus to assure his reelection in 1972, can be considered a political paper as well as a fiscal analysis by the loyal opposition.

The struggle for men's minds is accelerated with this document. These Democratic leaders tell us that the information they provide is a comparison of revenue estimates made by the governor and estimates made at the University of Illinois and used by the Revenue Study Commission. The comparative figures are miles apart.

IN EFFECT WHAT they say is that their estimated $775 million surplus for fiscal 1970 is more than half the yield of the 4 per cent income tax which has been proposed. This could mean that they think it too high and that half of this amount or 3 per cent along with other revenue, will take care of proposed spending.

Among the several areas of revenue raising in which they cite the Governor's estimates as out of line, the service broadcasting tax shows the greatest variance in estimated revenue yield.

The governor's figures say this tax will yield only $16 million, but their estimates contradict this to say the yield will be $96 million.

In this manner, the joint statement claims a huge surplus is being scheduled. They challenge the governor's budget book on the ground that it is "deliberately designed" to give as little information as possible to the Legislature and the public.

They reassure us that the fiscal condition of the state is "too serious" for partisan politics. But the logic used to present all this indicates the Ogilvie budget people for having partisan motives.

THIS PAPER CLARIFIES the conjecture about the state running "in the red." Of the $60 million borrowing from the motor fuel tax balances authorized by the Legislature, only half this amount has been used. The governor believes that's all that will be needed to tide over for this fiscal biennium.

The Democrats, because they have been denied detailed spending information, "no spending figures whatever in the budget," claim they are not able to evaluate the Ogilvie spending program and point out to the Illinois taxpayer any weaknesses that may show up.

They ridicule the "belt-tightening" program, saying that the governor is providing for two budget bureaus, both requesting much more money than was budgeted last year.

Further information, not in this statement, points a finger at a rapid increase in the executive department personnel, a jump from 44 under Governor Shapiro to 144 now. The question now asked is: "What happened to the 'patronage revolution'?"

Critic's Corner

Timing Was Bad

by MARY SCHLOTT

Harper Junior College board members deserve marks for guts, though not good timing for their move to investigate possible conflicts of interest if students or faculty members serve as college trustees.

It took guts because the board members apparently expect that one of the suggestions coming out of this committee could be a recommendation that state law forbid students or faculty members to serve as college trustees.

If that is their goal it would have been far easier to just plant the suggestion with the state representatives. Instead the Harper board called for a formal study of the conflict of interest question by a committee that must argue the point where the public can hear.

THE TIMING FOR proposing the study could not have been worse.

It came on the heels of student Lawrence Moats of Mount Prospect being sworn in as a college trustee with a citizens' mandate.

Observers at the meeting saw the study proposal as a deliberate attempt to shake Moats' composure, to intimidate him before he has a chance to settle in.

If that was the intent, it was equally a slap at Harper district voters who chose Moats as their representative over a respected Barrington industrialist encouraged to run by other incumbents though he had missed 12 of 17 college board meetings last year.

SEVERAL TRUSTEES in the couple weeks since Moats' election have indicated in private conversations, however, that what they really fear is an organized faculty takeover of the college's elective offices.

These college board members have lost confidence in the district's voters because the voters' choice for trustee was different than theirs.

This is not to say that faculty members living in the Harper college district have no right to be interested in who wins college board elections or that potential conflicts of interest don't exist.

Moats, for example, would be wise to announce immediately that he intends to pass his vote on any faculty promotions that come before the college board while he is still a Harper student, just two months more.

A COLLEGE TEACHER employed by Harper college should not serve on its board. As a matter of fact, state law clearly prevents it.

The Harper board of trustees can still use the perspective that people with an intimate insight into academic matters can bring to the board.

That knowledge might come from someone teaching at another institution, as it did during the years when Paul O'Dea of Hoffman Estates, an English teacher at Mundelein College, was serving on the Harper board.

Forbid students to serve as elected board members and this year you would have ruled out several thousand district residents, a quarter of them permanent residents 25 years of age or more.

Some of the concerned citizens who have made inquiries about the continuing faculty hiring controversy came from that group.

But at least one citizen who took the time to make her concerns known at a board meeting about the faculty hiring problem drew trustee comments that were exasperated, patronizing and just short of impolite.

The trustees' latent attitude toward the public interest shows in the fact that the conflict of interest committee will include two members each from the trustees, the faculty, the student body and the administration.

There will be no members from the general public. Trustees believe they're speaking for that group.

Increasingly, however, they do not — as the public's reaction to incumbent trustees' backing of the industrialist with the bad attendance record shows.

INCUMBENT TRUSTEES, most of them on the scene since the community college district was formed in 1965, show increasing signs of believing that William Rainey Harper College is their creation. Yet every taxpayer, not just trustees, has an interest in Harper's success.

Harper trustees must shake this proprietary attitude and stop putting out the clear signal that "Daddy knows best."

Moats' election is a first sign of public disenchantment. Incumbent college trustees should heed the message. If they don't, the tide of public support will turn and ousted college trustees will only have themselves to blame.

The Fence Post

'Will Do Utmost'

As anyone who has ever run for public office knows well, elections are not won by candidates alone. They are, rather, won by the long hours of hard work contributed by those who support the candidates of their choice, and by the conscientious citizens who go to the polls and exercise their precious right to the ballot.

In just this way was the election of me and my running-mates, William Fremd and James Humphrey, to the board of high school Dist. 211 won last Saturday, and to each worker and each voter, we are grateful.

WORDS, OF COURSE, are small compensation to offer those who gave so generously of their time and effort in our behalf; those who walked the blocks and stood at shopping centers to distribute our literature; who opened their homes for our coffees; who made literally hundreds of telephone calls; who manned the sound trucks that helped us turn out the vote. Inadequate though it is, to each of them from each of us goes a sincere "Thank You."

To the voters, who weighed our qualifications against those of the other candidates and found us not wanting, our gratitude. Your overwhelming expression of confidence in these two experienced men and in me, a relative newcomer whose ability has yet to be proved, was truly gratifying. I speak, I believe, for us all when I say that we will do our utmost to represent every resident and student in Dist. 211 to the very best of our abilities.

A Bad Review

Re: Mrs. F. Hamlin's article recommending "Education and Ecstasy" as recommended reading for the critics of the Family Living Program (to provide insight which may lead to approval.)

I have not as yet been able to locate the book, but the library was able to furnish me with the following review:

Books reviewed by Kirkus Service Inc. Aug. 1, 1968.

"Education and Ecstasy" by George B. Leonard. Look Magazine will serialize this post Summerhillian fantasy and the publishers will extend attention further. But the book is hardly coherent — it's pseudo-technical conjecture with a reliance on muzzy maxims: "Education, at best, is ecstatic" or "The times demand that we choose delight." All more hopeful than helpful. He parleys a popular education writer's acquaintance into his model Kennedy School where a child can roam freely from one supercomputerized — fun learning device (designed to teach calculus or sensory awareness) to total environments, and to a center where he can get complete feedback on his progress at his own pace. These are a middle-aged man's "ecstasies" daydreams, and his notions are derived from the seminars for open-minded adults he sometimes conducts at the Esalen Institute at Big Sur. The accounts of the Big Sur weekends, largely encounter groups on a particular theme, are fascinating to frightening. The school he projects sounds impossible and the book is repetitive, inconsistent, dangerously (ecstatic)."

After reading this review, are you sure you want me to read the book?

A. Casper

School Needs

I would like to thank all of the people who voted for me in the recent school board election in School Dist. 59.

Throughout my campaign I pointed out two major problems in School Dist. 59 — finances and communications.

In the area of finances, I will do everything in my power to work toward sound financial planning for our school district.

In the area of communications, I feel that the help of the citizens is needed. I was elected to represent all of the people in School Dist. 59, and I solicit the comments of all the citizens regarding the schools in our district.

Only through the interest and cooperation of the citizens of Dist. 59 can we continue to maintain high quality education in our schools.

Entry Pictured

We want you to know how much we appreciate your showing our World Flower Show entry in your paper March 23.

It is good of you to show an entry even though it was not a blue ribbon winner. No matter what ribbon is won the entry took months of research, hunting, sanding, spraying, wiring, bending, worrying and setting up and removing the entry according to schedule. The ribbon itself is such a prize but then to find a picture of it in Paddock Publications is a real reward and makes it all so much more worthwhile.

School Beat

Schools, Unite

by JUDY MORRIS

Much has been said in recent months concerning the real losers in the battle over financing education.

But little has been said of the "other front," that is the war going on between teachers, school boards and administrators.

The widely publicized trouble in Churchville Dist. 3 is an extreme, but still valid, example of the sort of hostilities which too often exist within a school district. Underlying the charges of "administrative irregularities" and "teacher rebellion" are many deep-seated fears and jealousies.

THE SCHOOL BOARD is frightened and resentful of the teachers' association; the teachers are angry about what they feel is an invasion into their classrooms. And the superintendent, whose role is supposedly one of mediator, becomes an object of suspicion on both sides for trying to influence the actions of each.

While these factions are bickering over who should control the schools, what becomes of those who are being controlled — the children?

Can anyone reasonably believe they don't know that a power struggle is in progress just above them and that they are the pawns?

Children are the most perceptive members of the human race, for what they lack in judgment, they make up in sensitivity. Perhaps they can't define or understand the issues, but they can and do sense tension.

SO WHILE PARENTS and educators attempt to teach their children the fundamentals of living in harmony with others, adults are at the same time presenting an example of disunity and divided ranks.

It is time for all those involved with the schools to remember the true purpose of the educational process is the provision of a well rounded and complete education.

This objective can only be achieved when both sides are willing to forget petty grievances and take command of their own emotions and jealousies.

The whole point of having teacher associations and school boards and superintendents is to create a balanced system of education where all interests can be served. Many school systems have been able to work out just such a delicate balance of power in education without th and without fear.

Let us see more open discussions, more interaction between those interested groups. Let them recognize the worth of the others. Let's see them not only invite each other to more meetings but welcome such an exchange.

IF NECESSARY, LET them set up formal debates so that views can be aired publicly. In this way, suspicion and rumor can be squashed before they had a chance to grow.

Let us see these groups forget their individual ambitions and return to a unified front. In the words of a popular song, let's see them quit "acting more like children than children."

DiOrio Elected Dist. 2 Head

James DiOrio, who has served on the Bensenville Dist. 2 school board for eight years, was elected president Tuesday of the Fenton Dist. 100 high school board.

DiOrio was appointed to the Dist. 100 board in 1967 and was reelected to the board last year. In his years on the elementary school board, he served as president for one year.

Search for Happiness Film Set at Church

An open house, including a movie entitled, "Man's Search for Happiness," will be held at the Elgin Ward, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon), Friday 2 from 7 to 9 p.m.

The church is located at Parkview and Pleasant in Century Oaks, just off Big Timber Road in north Elgin.

Area residents are invited said Lee Wernli. He is bishop and presides over the Mormon congregation of 400 members. Bishop Wernli said there will be no charge for admission and no collection.

EXHIBITS BY various organizations of the local church will depict the Mormon cultural, recreational and character-building programs.

A priesthood exhibit will explain the Mormon Welfare Program which stresses self-reliance and encourages members to maintain a year's supply of food.

dent for one year.

DiOrio, the father of five children, is president of D. DiOrio and Sons, Inc., a sewer construction firm in Bensenville. In a past interview, he committed himself to "an attempt to continue the improvement of our schools."

ACTIVE IN many community projects, DiOrio has served with the Bensenville Boys Athletic Association, as director of the DuPage Council of Girl Scouts, and as president of the Century Teen Club. He has also served as a member of a negotiating team for laborers and engineers in his field.

Stereo Tapes Swiped From Bensenville Car

A case containing 20 stereo tapes valued at $135 was reported stolen Tuesday from a car parked in a lot at Fenton High School, 1000 W. Green St., Bensenville.

Donald Tice, of 224 S. Mason St., reported the theft to police.

Elected as secretary of the board was Kenneth Carroll, who has served the board in this capacity for several years.

DiOrio bears the distinction of being one of the first men to serve on both the Dist.

100 and the Dist. 2 boards. Since he was appointed to the Fenton board in 1967, two other men have successfully run for both boards. These are Martin Roume, current president of the Dist. 2 board, and Will Davidson.

DiOrio will serve a one-year term as president of the board. Outgoing president is Ellsworth Sachse.

Philip Nixes Tax

State Rep. James "Pete" Philip, R-Elmhurst, has announced his opposition to the state budget as proposed by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

The 37th District representative in a Springfield GOP conference informed House Speaker Ralph T. Smith and the GOP House leadership that he was unalterably opposed to a 4 per cent state income tax.

"Taxpayers throughout the 37th District feel that, if and when an income tax is ever passed by the General Assembly, new revenues should be partly in lieu of some of the taxes that are presently being paid," Philip said.

"Taxpayers of this district should not be penalized for other areas of the state where personal property and real estate taxes are not collected. In the 37th District, 99 per cent of the taxpayers pay their tax bills and the monies are distributed to all taxing bodies.

"ILLINOIS should have a homestead exemption for all homeowners 65 and over. No consideration was given to this exemption in the new budget. This exemption could be modeled after other states.

"Public aid is a portion of the budget that has risen from $443 million in 1968 to $552 million in 1969 and to $676 million in the proposed budget for fiscal 1970.

"We will never reduce the number of recipients when we continually increase the budget or vote deficiency appropriations," Philip pointed out.

"The service occupation tax should be broadened, but not be applied to TV, radio and other repairs, admissions and commercial services such as haircuts, beauticians, laundry and dry cleaning, insurance, doctors and dentists, and other occupations such as photographic process," Philip said.

Jazz Competition Set

The Fenton High School Stage Band will compete in a jazz festival May 3 at Mundelein High School. Groups participating in the festival will be in open competition from 11:30 a.m. through 5:30 p.m.

This year will mark the third annual festival. It is sponsored by the Mundelein High School Boosters and the Karnes Music Company of Des Plaines.

From the afternoon competition, which is open to the public at no charge, the judges will select eight bands to perform in the evening concert. From these, two bands in each category will be named the "Festival Bands for 1969."

Guest soloist for the music festival will be Sonny Stitt who often ranks as one of the top 10 saxophone players named by international jazz critics.

During the afternoon, Stitt will meet with participating students in informal clinic sessions and will perform as a soloist with the Karnes Jazz Lab Band at the evening performance.

Mundelein auditorium will house the evening concert which begins at 7:30. There will be a $1.25 admission charge.

Beeline Net Sales Down From '68 Period

H. Edison Birginal, chairman of the board of Beeline Fashions, Inc., Bensenville, has announced that consolidated net sales for the first quarter ending March 29, 1969, amounted to $12,544,975 and net income for the same period was $514,147, or 21 cents per share.

THIS COMPARES with net sales of $12,631,223 and net income of $607,690, or 25 cents per share for the comparable period in 1968. Net income for 1968 has been adjusted to reflect the surcharge which was enacted in 1968.

The earnings per share are based on 2,478,200 shares outstanding in 1968 and 2,467,115 shares outstanding in 1968. Beeline Fashions, Inc., is a merchandiser of wearing apparel direct to consumers via the "party-plan" method.

Map Park Survey Distribution

About 60 volunteers will meet at 8 p.m. next Thursday in the gymnasium of Westview School in Wood Dale to plan distribution of a questionnaire designed to develop a master park and recreation plan for the Wood Dale Park District.

The survey on leisure behavior, attitudes and interests of local residents has been prepared for the park district by the consulting firm of McFadden and Everly, Ltd., of Winnetka.

When completed, the data will provide the park district with information on how people make use of their leisure time, the facilities used and activities engaged in, along with general opinions and attitudes toward various operations geared to the needs for both park facilities and recreational programs.

Of particular significance in the report will be a question whether Wood Dale should change its form of government.

This question will be asked of village residents in cooperation with the park district.

The study will also concern responses to such questions as, "How do you most often spend your vacation?" and "What time or times of day, during the week, would you most often have free for participation in activities that you would consider recreational?"

It also will delve into how residents feel about future recreation facilities built in conjunction with school and existing park district facilities.

Obituaries

Paul M. Lippold Jr.

Paul McKinley Jr., 15, of 934 Duxbury Lane, Schaumburg, son of Paul and Lorraine Lippold, was pronounced dead on arrival Tuesday at St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, of carbon monoxide poisoning, which has been ruled accidental by the county coroner.

Graveside services will be held at the Evergreen Cemetery in Detroit, Mich. Funeral arrangements were made by Oehler Funeral Home, Des Plaines.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Sherry Hansen of Austin, Texas; and his grandparents, Arthur and Ruth Johnson, and Mrs. Ellore Lippold all of Dearborn, Mich.

Deaths Elsewhere

William Mihna Sr., 76, of Round Lake, died Monday in the Waukegan Hospital, Waukegan. Funeral mass was said yesterday at St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church in Streamwood. Interment was at Mount Hope Cemetery, Elgin. Among survivors is a son, Matthew Jr. of Streamwood.

William H. Weiss

William H. Weiss, 53, was pronounced dead on arrival yesterday at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, after a long illness.

Friends may pay their respects tomorrow at the Wheeling Funeral Home, 189 S. Milwaukee Ave., from 9 a.m. until time of prayer services at 11 a.m. in the funeral chapel. Fr. Mulcahey will officiate. Burial will be at All Saints Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Mr. Weiss was born Feb. 19, 1916, in Cologne, Germany, and for the last 10 years had lived at 404 Virginia Place in Wheeling. He had been employed as an electrician at Avon Cosmetic Co. in Morton Grove. He was a member of Germany American National Congress in Chicago.

Surviving are his widow, Josephine; two sons, Jerome Weiss of Wheeling, and Helmut Weiss of U. S. Army stationed at Ft. George G. Meade, Md.

Boon or Bane, Daylight Time Starts Sunday

For those of you who like the sun to be up and busy before you arise, Sunday will not be your day.

But for those who like an extra hour getting in the evening, Sunday is the day.

Sunday is the day we switch to Central Daylight Time, lose an hour's sleep, use up all that extra daylight outdoors and still think we have time for indoor evening activity.

THE MAGIC HOUR occurs at 2 a.m., when the time actually becomes 3 a.m. To keep up with the world, it is suggested one turn the clock ahead one hour at this time.

Those not wishing to wait up for this moment, however, can just set the clock ahead at bedtime.

Northwest Suburban Council of Boy Scouts of America, will provide some 350 booths and exhibits from area Boy Scout units.

The show will begin at 12:45 p.m. Saturday and run until 9 p.m. Sunday, the show will be open from 2 to 6 p.m.

Taking part in opening ceremonies will be Mrs. Marje Everett, Arlington Park owner; Robert Aicher, Schaumburg village president; Robert Sasser of Park Ridge, council president; Leslie Nelson of Arlington Heights, scout executive, and Marlin Hadley, Scout-O-Rama chairman.

THE DES PLAINES Drum and Bugle Corps will provide music.

Over 300 scouting units will be participating, representing 13,000 scouts and volunteer leaders.

This year, a special service will be offered to persons who need wheel chair transportation. The scout council has made arrangements to have several wheel chairs available at the main gate and persons who have need of a chair may call the scout service center at 290-6505.

Scout-O-Rama is one of the biggest program activities carried on in the Northwest Suburban Council. Thirty per cent of the proceeds will go to participating units for program and camping material. All other funds will be used to provide program and camping facilities for scouts in the Northwest Suburban Council.

COG Survives Transition

The Council of Governments of Cook County (COG) made it safely through the transition of power on the Cook County board.

Though COG, as a voluntary association of governments, is non-partisan, it had been organized with the strong promotion of Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, a Republican, when he was Cook County board president.

Wednesday, George Dunne, Ogilvie's Democrat successor, pledged his support to COG and agreed to serve on the council's top executive committee.

"I knew of your organization's creation and your direction," Dunne told the executive committee Wednesday. "I felt, since you are organized and we (Cook County) are a member government, we ought to have a close liaison."

Dunne pledged the county board's support anytime it could be of service to COG.

He observed, despite elections and switches in party power, "we are all entrusted with the affairs of government."

Dunne was elected by his fellow Democrat commissioners to succeed Ogilvie as county board president following Ogilvie's January swearing-in ceremony as governor.

News of Bensenville

On Feb. 15, Mrs. Robert Kerch left on a two-month vacation that went half way round the world. She went to Seattle first, then on to Hawaii for four weeks, where she stayed with her son and family, the junior Robert Kerches. Although this was her second trip, they still did some sight-seeing around the islands; then she returned to Seattle to spend the next three weeks with her son, Royal and his wife. After that a visit to granddaughter and family, the Del Edgerts in Olympia, Wash., was on the schedule followed by a visit to a grandson, Rueli Kerch and family in Sumner, Wash. Her final visit on the West Coast was with her brother and family, the Ted Nollers of Woodville, Wash.

Good wishes for a return to good health go to Mrs. Roland Steging, who spent last week in Memorial Hospital undergoing tests.

Ralph Vannella was honored for his April 14 birthday, although a few days late, with a family dinner Wednesday at the home of their daughter and family, the Bernie Helgesons in Elgin. Monday Ruth had been guest of honor at a dinner given by the Union Station Chapter of the Milwaukee Railroad Women's Club in Chicago. The Vannellas were sorry to miss for the first time, a granddaughter's celebration, when the Joe Kratochvil's 7-year-old Lisa Rose made her First Holy Communion last Sunday in Mt. Home, Ark.

GOOD WISHES GO TO former local resident, Mrs. Arthur Barrett, who underwent major surgery in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, on Monday. She is coming along well.

Mrs. Frank Leider entertained in her new home on Briar Lane last Friday, when she hosted a luncheon for several volunteers who work together at St. Alexius Hospital. Two of the girls' birthdays were honored — Irene Petke of Hoffman Estates and Fran Madsen of Elk Grove Village. The other guests were Adell Bissell and Lorraine Kennedy of Hoffman Estates, Barbara Fidler of Elk Grove Village, President of the St. Alexius Hospital Auxiliary, Marie Maass of Itasca, and Mary Hill and Ruth Vannella of Bensenville.

Good wishes for a speedy recovery go to Martin Bachelor who has been ill with the flu.

Mrs. George Leatham had a quiet birthday Sunday, although the girls and their families all got home for dinner in the evening. Bruce, at SIU in Carbondale, was busy with studies and could not get home.

ANGELO AND LORRAINE Tomassoni were surprised by a group of friends who treated them to an evening out to celebrate their 26th wedding anniversary last Sunday. They were the Art Eckers, Chris Lasorsos, Loras Hecks, Jim Ellmans, Gene Chamberlands, Ray Pacendass, Lou Spillones, Al Schirmers, Dick Vosses, John Harvells, Ernie Huters and Jack and Lil Owens who also celebrated their anniversary over the weekend.

Steve and Irene Kallik attended the recent wedding of a nephew, Bill Whelan, and Pat Mueller in Chicago.

Washington Street neighbors wish every happiness to Floyd and Cora Haugland and children, Tommy, Robert and Ann Marie, who will be making their home in Franklin Park.

David and Jennifer McGuire celebrated their fourth birthday Saturday evening with a family party in the Dan McGuire's Glendale home. On hand for the double celebration for the twins were aunts, uncles and grandparents, Mrs. Jesse McGuire and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erickson of Chicago.

ROBERT AND MARIE Barnes and daughters, Linda, Judy, Debbie and Diane, and John and Barbara Reher and daughters, Kaye and Gail, joined John and Linda Reher for dinner at Eileen's Green Tree Inn in celebration of the Rehers' 42nd wedding anniversary.

Mohawk residents will be happy to hear that former neighbors, Barbara and Pat Freas have welcomed an addition to their family, a daughter, Tracey. They now make their home in Michigan.

Valerie Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Olivarez, was baptized at St. Alexis Church on April 13.

Condolences are extended to Chuck and Jean Schroeder on the recent death of their brother-in-law, Mr. William Mancuso.

Also to Magna Ballering, Lois Tribble, Mrs. Duane Quaranto and Dennis and Robert Ballering on the recent death of the husband and father, Mr. Frank R. Ballering.

Jack and Mary Sanborn, daughters, Rosemarie and Angela, and infant son, John Arthur III, picked up Mary's father, Joseph De Stefano, at O'Hare over the weekend. He had returned from an extended visit to California. This was the first opportunity to see his now grandson The Sanborns and DeStefanos spent Sunday together at the De Stefano home.

Harold and Dolores Ostrand attended the christening party for Todd Davki, infant son of Florence and Ron Krueger, in their Elmwood Park home on Sunday.

LISA MARIE SZOTT celebrated her second birthday with a day at her grandparents' home in Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Senobio Solis. Her brother, Michael, and parents, Rosemary and James Szott, were also present.

Lucille Tomczak entertained Mary Sanborn, Dolores Snider, Georgia Magrow and Lucille Southwell Friday evening, for an evening of cards.

Laura Du Pre celebrated her recent third birthday with a family party in the Gregory Du Pre's home on Pershing. Aunts, uncles, cousins and grandmother, Mrs. Viola Amado, were guests. Laura, her sister, Cheryl, and cousins enjoyed egg coloring and an Easter Egg hunt, as well.

Michelle Antonette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael De Biasi, was baptized April 13 at St. Alexis Church.

Renee Tabor celebrated her seventh birthday with an after school party in her Poppy Lane home. Joining her for party games, prizes and a special birthday doll cake made by her mother, Donna, were Faith, Hope, Charity, Mary Margaret Braun, Nicole Clark, Joan Bouchard, Cathy and Lisa Affeto and Donna Dionesotes, and Renee's brothers, Dale, Danny and David.

Angelo and Lorraine Tomassoni and children, Gail and Bruce, flew to Phoenix for a week's vacation at Easter time. They were houseguests of Angelo's mother, Mrs. Irma Tomassoni. While there, they visited friends in the area. Bruce climbed the mountains and took a side trip to Scottsdale, where he saw the Chicago Cubs in training and received many autographs.

Henry and Dolores Bronars and children, Paulette, Stephen and Cyndee, were dinner guests of Lloyd and Lorrie Richards of Beverly Hills on Sunday. The Bronars and Richards were both celebrating their 18th wedding anniversaries. Tuesday, the Bronars' anniversary, Henry and Dolores dined at Jimmy Wong's Restaurant.

BRENTWOOD NEWS

Frank and Joan Chesnick and daughter, Joby, enjoyed a visit from Frank's mother, Mrs. John Chesnick of Jester, Mich.

Carol Hynes attended a convention of the Perky Pound Peppers held recently at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb. Carol attended lectures, luncheons and banquet with Paula Kreuzer of Villa Park.

Belated anniversary wishes go to Ralph and Rose Cantrell who celebrated last Friday.

Condolences are extended to Sue Riley on the death of her aunt, Mary Mogan of Evanston.

Kenny Kreuzer celebrated his 12th birthday when seven friends joined him, his dad, Frank, and brother, Frankie, for a swim party at the Leyden Pool. They returned to the Kreuzers' Daniel Drive home for cake and ice cream.

VI Pocius, Anna Carlson, Geri Carpenter, Jean Johnson and Ethel Geer flew to Malaga, Costa Del Sol, Spain, for eight days. The weather was perfect and VI was enthralled with her first jet flight and first European trip.

The ladies took a ride through the mountains and stayed at a hotel on the banks of the Mediterranean. From the hotel, they could see the Rock of Gibraltar in the distance. The group enjoyed shopping tours at Tournalinos, a visit to Marbella, a bullfight and then a flight for a day's visit to Tangiers, Morocco, touring the Casbah.

On their trip home, they alighted in Newfoundland to find snow, preparing them for the cooler climate at home.

Kenny Kreuzer celebrated his 12th birthday when his dad, Frank Kreuzer, took Kenny and seven neighborhood friends for a swim party at the Leyden Pool. They returned to the Kreuzer home on Daniel Drive for birthday cake and ice cream.

Happy anniversary wishes go to Ralph and Rose Cantrell today.

Frank and Joan Chesnick had as Easter dinner guests, the Harry Burdette family.

Carol Hynes and friend, Paula Krueger of Villa Park, attended the convention of Perky Pound Peppers held at Northern Illinois University, De Kalb, on a recent weekend. The ladies enjoyed the speakers, a fashion consultant program, luncheons and a banquet.

Vi Pocius, sister, Geri Carpenter, their mother, Anna Carlson, and friends, Jean Johnson and Ethel Geer, flew to Costa del Sol, Spain, for a fabulous eight-day vacation. The weather was perfect for tours. They saw the oldest bullring and oldest town in Spain at Ronda. They said that the drive through the mountains was spectacular. Another tour was made with a flight to Tangiers Morocco, where they spent the day in the Casbah. Also included were stops at Tournalinos and Marbella, on the coast. They could see the Rock of Gibraltar from their hotel room.

The thing to do in Spain, they said, is to see a bull fight on a Sunday afternoon. Vi also enjoyed shopping trips and getting her feet wet in the Mediterranean Sea.

On their return trip, the plane stopped at Newfoundland, so the ladies alighted to find snow on the ground.

Annex and Zone Program Added To Graphic Arts

The Bensenville village board last week annexed and zoned R-4 (multiple-family) 5.5 acres at the northeast corner of Marshall Road and Argyle Street.

Hannibal Muscato of Browngate Builders, Bensenville, is planning to construct about four apartment buildings containing a total of from 75 to 80 units. They will be one and two-bedroom apartments.

Muscato said he hoped construction would begin in about six months.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board passed an ordinance calling for the vacating of Eastview Avenue, north of Hillside Drive, for the proposed Milwaukee Road industrial park.

The board also increased the pay of its secretary, Mrs. Kay Murphy, from $10 to $15 a meeting, and canvassed votes from Tuesday's election.

College of DuPage has added a new technical-occupational program area to its curriculum — graphic arts.

The program will prepare students to fill a variety of positions in the graphic arts field, which includes specialists in mid-management, sales, estimating, quality control and production. Other professional areas include process photography, press work, color matching and process arts.

Current growth rate for the graphic arts industry is approximately a 16 per cent per year increase in demand for qualified professionals in the Chicago area.

Plans are being made to enable students to participate in cooperative education programs which will permit them to complement classroom experience with challenging work situations.

Audit At White Pines Shows $392 Missing

An audit of the books at White Pines Golf Course near Bensenville last week disclosed that $392 was missing from the weekend receipts, police reported.

Mrs. Lillian Sosneck, a worker at the park district owned course, said the money may have been taken from a safe or desk.

News From Bloomingdale

Mr. and Mrs. August Fessler were guests of honor for their 48th wedding anniversary at an open house held at the home of their son, LeRoy Fessler and family on Goodridge Terrace, on Sunday afternoon. Relatives and friends gathered for the day's festivities beginning with church services at St. Paul United Church of Christ, where a floral arrangement was displayed in their honor by their children.

Best wishes were also being received by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bock, in honor of their first wedding anniversary on Sunday.

Miss Frances Neddermeyer died following a heart attack in her home on Gary Avenue Saturday morning. She was a school teacher for over 40 years in the area, from Batavia to Elmhurst. Funeral services were held Tuesday in Wheaton. She is survived by a sister, Blanche, to whom condolences are extended.

Sympathy is also extended to the family of Mrs. Elizabeth (Matt) Hahn whose funeral was held in West Chicago on Monday. She was the mother of Mrs. Harry Stark of Cloverdale.

Donna Lynn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hollen, was baptized Sunday morning at St. Paul United Church of Christ by the Rev. James Beeken. Her godparents are Charles and Marsha Franzen.

Miss Mary Haberkamp was guest of honor at a miscellaneous bridal shower held at the Ronald Couture home in Glen Ellyn on Sunday afternoon, where 20 guests showered her with gifts for her future home. Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Haberkamp of Army Trail Road, will soon become the bride of Richard Couture of Glen Ellyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Petersohn recently returned from their stay at Indian Rocks Beach, Fla. They visited Mrs. Matt O'Halloran and others who have moved south from this area.

Birthday greetings the past week went to Jill Soukup, Pearl Selcke, Bud Roloff, Susan and Consulo Cantu, Michael Diamond, Cora Christensen, Ronald Fernald, Cheryl Thorne, Lyle Kramp and Clara Petersohn.

Get well wishes go to Mrs. Elmer Hansen, who suffered a relapse, and to Andrew Heim who suffered a heart attack Friday and is in intensive care in Winfield DuPage Central Hospital.

Mix Boy, Breeze, Kite For Fun Day

Take one boy, a day that compels him to be out of doors and in an enticing breeze. Mix these elements in any proportion and you're sure to see a bright kite tacking to and fro as it climbs above rooftops.

Kite flying is something a guy can afford with maybe just the change in his jeans . . . 15 or 20 cents.

Kites, like kids, come in all shapes, sizes and colors. They're even easy to make and assembling the basic elements is no chore — two sticks, paper, an old shirt for a tail and plenty of string.

Favorable wind conditions and a running start sends the kite skyward. Once it catches and begins to climb, the man at the end of the string is king.

IT'S NO SIMPLE thing to guide a kite through clouds and sky. Keep the line taut; give a gentle tug; let out more string . . . all are split-second decisions a boy must make.

It's an adventure charged with excitement. You never know when your high-flying kite will catch a gust of wind and require tricky navigational maneuvers to keep aloft . . . or when it will crash toward the ground.

UNWINDING A spool of string as he races to get his kite the Moody Wood Dale Airport and several prairies that provide room for kite flying.

The ultimate prize is to sail your kite higher than anyone ever did before. And who can deny that the spirit of a kid doesn't soar with his kite.

Title I OKd for Lake Park

Title I, a state project to meet the educational needs of educationally deprived children, has been officially approved for Lake Park High School by the state superintendent's office, it was reported at Monday's board meeting.

Titled Project "Catch-Up" in Lake Park, the program is an attempt by the school to bring students with lower than average verbal and nonverbal skills up to the level of their classmates.

In the case of Dist. 106, this means that 27 incoming freshman students will have the opportunity to attend a special six-week summer program that will drill them in English, mathematics, and reading.

THE PROGRAM IS entirely state-supported and runs simultaneously with the regular summer school session. Students will be chosen for the project on the basis of test scores and teacher recommendations.

Each student who participates in the project will be tutored individually according to his needs. Parents will be kept informed of the progress of the students.

Tax Bills Better Than Expected

On the eve of last week's municipal election in Itasca, local residents received their 1968 tax bills which surprisingly did not show an anticipated increase as previously reported.

Last month indications from the office of DuPage County Treasurer Elmer Hoffman were that property owners could face tax hikes of from 4 to 22 per cent, with Itasca's rate pegged at more than 7 per 100 of assessed valuation.

But at the village board's meeting last week, Village President Wilbert Notke said the increase for Itasca property owners was "still high but a lot better" than expected from Hoffman's office.

ACCORDING TO Notke, the 1968 rate for Itasca was $6,697, not the anticipated $7,186. The 1967 rate was $5.82 per 100 of assessed valuation, he said.

Some property owners, part of the Wood Dale Park District before detachment this year, found their levy at $1.18 for 1968 while others not affected by the Wood Dale taxing body were only $.154.

In 1967, the Itasca Park District levy was $.100 with Wood Dale tagged at $.125.

Hospital Releases Man Following Crash

Hester Yant, 57, of 228 Fishing, Wood Dale, was treated and released Tuesday from Central DuPage Hospital, Winfield, following an auto accident near Illinois 96 and Lambert Road, Glen Ellyn.

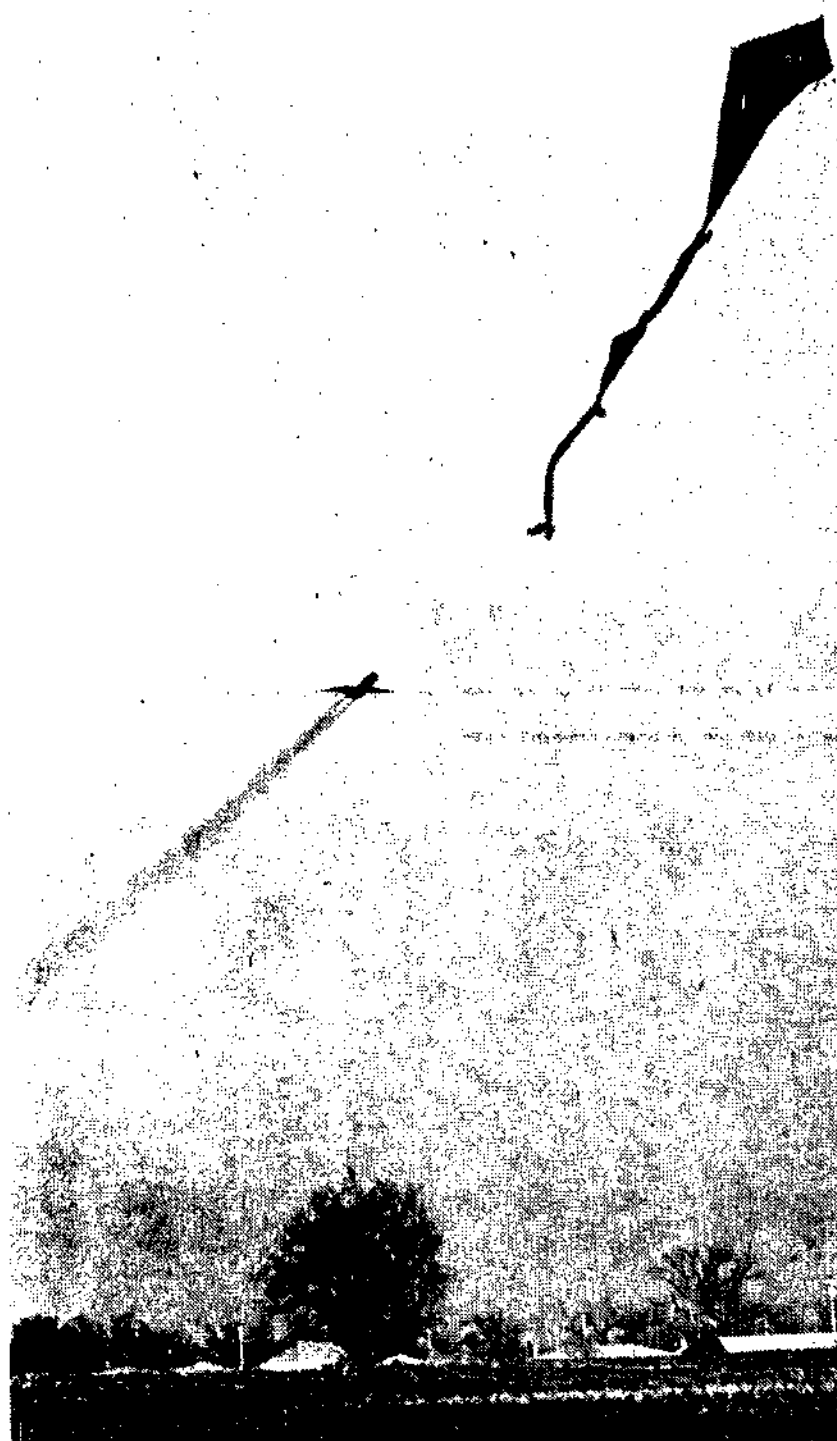

Yant complained of chest and possible internal injuries. DuPage County sheriff's police said.

Yant was injured when another car crossed the center line and the two vehicles collided.

RETRIEVING HIS "Jolly Roger" kite, Sam prepares to rewind the spool of string and start all over again.

SOARING HIGH overhead, almost in competition with a jet taking off from O'Hare Airport, is young Sam Ochoa's kite.

WINDING A spool of several hundred feet of string, Sam is faced with the arduous task of bringing in his kite.

County OKs 241 Building Permits

A total of 241 building permits were issued last month by the DuPage County Building and Zoning Department for buildings to be erected in unincorporated areas of the county.

Estimated value of the structures is $4,440,510.

The highest number of permits was for single-family dwellings. Last month, 103 permits were issued with an estimated value of $2,606,300.

THE NEXT HIGHEST total of permits last month was for remodeling, with 31 issued. The estimated value is $122,965. Multi-family dwelling permits amounted to only 13 with an estimated value of $988,000.

Permits for garages and sheds totaled 26 with $37,575 estimated value.

Two permits each were issued for additions to business buildings, additions to churches and construction of new churches. The total value for the six permits is estimated at $286,700.

A value of $128,500 was placed on permits issued for construction of business buildings last month. One television broadcasting tower was given a permit for construction with an estimated value of $9,000.

The total revenue to the county was $60,262, according to Elbert Droegemueller, chairman of the DuPage County Board of Supervisors' Building Committee. Droegemueller is an assistant supervisor from Addison Township.

Kickin' It Around

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

THERE HE WAS last weekend, marching down the fairway with that quick, heavy stride, his sleeves pushed up, his pants a little baggy.

And there they came by the thousands, in a raging horde armed with binoculars and umbrellas and folding stools, marching with their leader.

No matter how many times we've witnessed this scene, whether in person or on television, we will always be a little excited by the appearance of Arnold Palmer, the most glamorous golfer of all time, and his Army, Arnie's Army.

This time it was the Tournament of Champions, and Palmer was up there with the leaders again. The television cameras helped give you the feel of what this super-star of professional sports was experiencing as he surveyed and executed every shot.

Like an ordinary man, he sweats and the pain and effort of what he's doing shows on his face. Here is a true folk hero who possesses the charisma which has led to his now-famous Arnie's Army, a group of worshippers who loyally follow their leader up and down the fairways of America.

You can't help but ask yourself just what is it that makes Arnold Palmer stand as a demigod to thousands of Sunday golfers and sports fans of all ages?

Before we ever handled a golf club, before we ever sent a pitch shot to the green or a drive slicing into the next fairway we were caught up in the magic of this man.

There's a new look in sports today. There are so many teams, so many players, so many new cities and stadiums that we can't keep up with them even though our business is following sports.

People need somebody to identify with now, and Palmer remains their man, just as he was 10 years ago. George Archer was the recent Masters journey, but you don't identify with a George Archer. Billy Casper? Never.

Casper is so perfect on the course he is almost unreal. Straight down the middle off the tee, on the green in two and two putts.

Arnie is something else. You can make those faces right along with him, suffer with him, die with him and — best of all — win with him. He's like us out there, trying to conquer the world.

You can identify with that swing. He attacks the ball with the ferocity of a hammer-swinging high school kid trying to ring the bell at the county fair. He seems to finish his swing off balance, and that appeals to the average duffer who always feels off balance.

How about the way he gets into trouble — and out of it, sometimes. He has a way of getting out of trouble spectacularly and effectively.

And his Army loves it.

"Atta boy, Arnie. We're behind you. Kill 'em. Arnie. Don't let Fat Jack bother you, Arnie baby. Keep in there swinging."

"Beauty, Arnie. Man, look at those wrists and forearms. Perfect Arnie."

"Man, does he bruise that ball. I mean bruise it. He don't need a wood like them other guys. How I wish I could bruise it like that."

"Beauty, Arnie. Must be 300 off the tee. Never a doubt. So you were a little off. No sweat. Don't worry, Arnie baby. We're behind you. Sock it to 'em."

"Now, that's bruisein' it, Arnie. Wow. Look at that distance. Beauty. Arnie whoops. Shake it off, Arnie. We all hit trees now and then."

And so it goes, across the land. The goes, across the land. The Army is there, and it's a challenge just to move with it at a tournament.

A few years ago at the Western Open we joined Arnie's Army, were stabbed by an umbrella tip and gouged by a handle, and stepped on by some gal wearing golf shoes. But the Army always moves on, leaving the ill and wounded behind.

Crowds are fickle. They even turned on Babe Ruth once when he was booing the great Johnny Unitas last fall. But if a somebody boos Arnie, he'll probably end up flat on his back. Nobody boos Arnie.

Playing with Palmer obviously is an ordeal for the pros. We remember once at the Western when a fellow professional turned to the crowd, naturally it was Arnie's Army, and shouted, "Why don't you clove us shut up?"

Then there was that time at the Western when Arnie putted out on the seventh green and his Army started to stampede the eighth tee. Others still had to put out but the Army didn't care.

"Please be quiet," Palmer exhorted. "Please. There are other players here. Let them finish. Please be quiet."

They stopped the stampede and all was quiet. The King had spoken and they listened.

Arnold Palmer remains the most celebrated of professional athletes. He'll draw bigger crowds on the practice tee or putting green than other professionals attract on the course.

Gene Littler is the biggest money winner on the tour this year, but the appearance of a Gene Littler doesn't mean that much money to the sponsors.

Tournament sponsors the world over know that even now if the name of Arnold Palmer is included on the entry list they can confidently expect to attract thousands more paying spectators; certainly enough more to warrant their adding thousands of extra dollars to the prize money.

Most observers feel the Palmer legend was largely created in the spring and early summer of 1960. In the 1960 Masters he came to the last holes needing two birdies to edge out Ken Venturi who was already in the clubhouse. He got them, holing putts of 45 and six feet.

Two months later in the National Open in Denver, Palmer went into the final round eight strokes off the pace. On the first hole, a 346-yard par four, he slammed his drive on the green, two putted for a birdie, and then birdied five of the next six holes. He won the tourney by a single shot.

Thus began the legend of Palmer's invincibility — of his being able to produce whatever miracle the situation called for.

Arnold Palmer is not winning regularly, but when the stakes are important enough, his determination is as impressive as it was 10 years ago. He's got some more wins coming.

And Arnie's Army will be there, lining both sides of the fairway, ladies in pink tennis shoes, boys in letter jackets, women in big straw hats, men in business suits with bright, colored shirts and button-down collars.

They'll grunt with him when he swings a golf club, they'll suffer with him, they'll worship him, they'll be forever resentful or contemptuous of anybody who tries to best him, they'll cheer his every move out there.

It was like the morning at the recent Masters in Augusta, Ga. Bob Goalby, the defending champion, was sitting in the clubhouse when a tremendous roar went up out on the course.

"What's that?" asked Goalby, obviously startled, sitting up in his chair.

"Arnie just tucked in his shirt," said a reporter.

The Monster Man and the Flying Demons will be there. The Big Red and the Hilltoppers will be there too. And let us not forget Country Joe and the boys.

They'll all be there . . . for once again it is time for the Palatine Relays, the most exciting and colorful track meet this side of the eighth lane at Champaign.

The Palatine Relays for years has been known as the big preliminary for district meets. Since the first Palatine Relays in 1933, track fans have kept their eyes, tapes and stop watches on the Palatine Relays.

MANY A TIME AN unknown has come to Palatine to put on a stunning performance; many a time a highly publicized prepster has made the trip to Palatine only, as the track buffs say, to get blown off the track. And many more times the unknowns have remained unknown and the greats have given greater efforts at the Palatine Relays.

The 1969 edition of the relays will be held Saturday at the Hale Hildebrandt Field (the home of Fremd High School on South Quentin Road in Palatine) with the preliminaries starting at 9 a.m. and the finals getting underway at 1 p.m.

Englewood High School will be entered in the meet and will bring along, some say in a cage, the Monster Man.

The Monster Man's alias is Willie Thomas. Willie Thomas is a hefty young man for a trackster and his preliminary warmups put the best of Sumo wrestlers to shame. He grunts, he snorts and he groans; he waves to the crowd, smiling through his big white teeth; he gives his opponents the Sonny Liston glare. It's a great show.

THERE'S ONE MORE thing about Willie Thomas — he happens to run 880 yards faster than anybody else in the state. He has run the 880 in 1:52.4 indoors and he will use his marvelous ability on Englewood's two-mile relay and mile relay.

The Big Red of Arlington has been rated by some to be the favorite to win the Class 'A' division. Arlington doesn't have a sprinter or a quarter miler who would rank with the best anywhere but somehow coach Bruce Samore gets together four boys for each relay and they DO rank with the best anywhere.

Arlington and Englewood, along with Maine East's Flying Blue Demons and Glenbard West's Hilltoppers, will be staging the Charge of the Light Track Shoes all day Saturday for the Class 'A' title while the other 21 schools, including Conant, Forest View, Prospect, St. Viator and Wheeling, will be going for Pick-Up Points, which, incidentally, is not a new gas station name.

THE REAL HILLTOPPER in the group, Coach Joe Johnson who hails from Kentucky, will bring his slim yet talented troops to the Relays and will be favored to win the Class 'B' championship though Fremd's Vikings will be in the running, if you'll pardon the expression.

Among the other 21 schools, Glenbard South should be closest in the final tally to Palatine and Fremd. Fenton of the TriCounty is another Paddock area entry in the field.

Englewood, Glenbard West, Maine East and Arlington will be the primary contenders in the Class 'A' two-mile relay. Englewood has none other than the Monster Man for an anchor, Glenbard West took second in the Oak Park Relays, Maine East won the event in the Blue Demon Relays and Arlington has outstanding distance runners in Tom Swanson, Dave Marszalek, Joe Hooker and Scott Butler.

THE CLASS 'B' two-mile relay record of 8:07.1 is sure to be broken by such schools as Palatine with Mark Wisk, Phil Donahue, Fred Miller and Reed Jacobson or Paul Davenport and Fremd with Craig Stitt, Bill Jarocki and Ray Sommer.

Arlington has the best mile relay time in the state thus far with a 3:24.4 and will be favored with Glenbard West and Englewood. The Class 'B' mile relay winner should come from Elmwood Park, Palatine or Fremd.

Arlington has the best time in the 880-yard relay going into the meet with a 1:30.5 and Palatine has the best among Class 'B' schools with a 1:31.8.

THE SHUTTLE HURDLES should be a close event with Niles West, Wheeling (headed by Nick Silvestri and Tom Johann), Arlington (headed by Dave Steele and Sam Wit) and Englewood (headed by Mike Stover) listed as the stronger teams. Howard Kreutzinger should keep Palatine in contention in Class 'B' hurdles.

The top Class 'A' pole vaulters are Gary Fageron and Fred Harth of Arlington and Brad Green of Maine East; top vaulters in Class 'B' are Guy Zajonc and Ed Meyer of Palatine and Jeff Bruce and Chuck McGuinn of Fremd.

Richard Bildner of Lane Tech, Paul Tollefson of Arlington and Nick Cashion of Glenbard West will battle for honors in the shot put and Jeff Meissner of Prospect will be right up there in the high jump.

AMONG THE NOTED discus throwers are Kevin Barthel of Wheeling, Henry Schiepp of Palatine and Paul Tollefson of Arlington. In the long jump, Steve Glutting of Riverside-Brookfield, Jerome Benion of Marshall, Jeff Genson of Maine East, Todd Somers and Wit of Arlington and Mike Mitchell of Wheeling have all cleared more than 20 feet.

In the 100-yard dash, Jim Verborg of Palatine has done a 10.0, Bob Batchelor of St. Viator has a 10.1, Terry Shanon of Forest View has a 10.1 and Stew Oakley of Wheeling has a 10.1.

In the mile run, Visk has the state's best time with a 4:19.5. Other top milers at the Relays will be Ken Popejoy of Glenbard West who has a 4:20.2 and is the state cross country champion, Swanson who has a 4:27.4 and Frank Savage of Wheeling who has a 4:31.4.

Glenbard West won the Class 'A' championship last year and Palatine won the Class 'B' title in 1968 and the Class 'A' championship in 1966 and 1967. The 1969 Palatine Relays should be an extraordinary meet with 10 former championship teams and the Big Red and the Flying Demons and the Monster Man and the . . .

College of DuPage Falls, 8-3

A five-run second inning carried Rock Valley to an 8-3 victory over the College of DuPage in conference baseball action.

Five hits and three errors brought in the five runs in the second frame, and Rock Valley scored singletons in the third, fourth, and fifth.

George Rodriguez worked on the mound for DuPage and was relieved by Bob Behn in the final frame.

DuPage scored its only three runs in the sixth on singles by Dick Malacek, Joe Oliver, and Lanny Castino and a triple by Mike Clements. Oliver had two hits in the game.

'Cats Hot on Cold Day; Stop Grove

by PAUL LOGAN

After viewing the Wheeling-Elk Grove baseball game last Wednesday night, those named spectators who lasted out the freeze-in probably wouldn't have been too surprised to have heard "Jingle Bells" on their car radios.

It was that cold.

ADDITIONAL credence to the playing conditions was this quip by a prep football coach, just as he was leaving for warmer climes: "It was NEVER this cold in the football season!"

However, the Wildcats weren't bothered by the inclement weather because of their radiating heating unit located on the mound. Bill Newman was never hotter.

THE cats lefty ace, who blazed one tailing fastball after another by Grove batters, hit and pitched Wheeling past the defending Mid-Suburban League champs, 5-0, at the losers Iceberg diamond.

Newman, who gave just two scratch singles in going the route, tied this years league high in strikeouts—13—which had been established the previous day by Gordon Hollywood, a lefty for the Grove.

The first of the Groves safeties came on the fourth pitch of the game when Gary Pleckhardt dumped it into shallow right field. Pleckhardt stole second but froze there as the next three Grenadiers struck out.

Both Newman and Grove rightly Tom Emslie battled on even terms until the third. Then the Cat hurler poked out the first of two hits — a blast to left-center that went for a double. An error on the relay allowed him to reach third with the top of the batting order due up and no outs.

TWO OUTS later, Jack Bastable stepped to the plate and soundly rapped a run-scoring single up the middle. That was all that Newman needed.

The Grove got one more hit — a single to deep short by Emslie — as the Wheeling chucker began throwing smoke.

In the fifth, slugger Newman clouted another double down the right field line sending home Gary Schweitzer who had singled, stole a base and advanced to third on a wild pitch.

Minutes later Don Wrights grounder to the left side enabled the third run to score.

WHEREIN big guns sounded for the last time in the sixth inning. Bob Fitzgerald walked, Dan Hull singled and Schweitzer loaded things up with a perfect bunt down the third base line. This sent Emslie to the bench and Dave Rosol in to stop the uprising.

Scott Day thought otherwise as he ripped a two-run single up the middle. Newman coasted the rest of the way fanning the last five batters. He walked only two batters in registering his second win of the year. He also went two-for-two and scored two runs.

The big man with the bat, however, was Bastable with a three-for-four day.

BASTABLE WAS also in three of the top defensive plays of the game. The first two cut him down on base — once trying to stretch a single into a double and the other was being picked off on first by Emslie.

However, the Cat catcher retaliated by gunning down a Grenadier on first who strayed off the bag. Pick up six point summary

Tennis Invite Saturday

Some of the state's finest tennis players will convene at Arlington High Saturday at 9 a.m. for the annual Arlington Invitational Tennis Tournament.

Besides the host Cardinals, the meet will feature squads from Prospect, Oak Park, Evanston, Glenbard West, York, Ottawa and Blue Island.

Competition will be at first and second singles and first and second doubles. Each boy will play in three rounds, with the winners advancing to the semi-final and then final rounds and losers playing back through consolation rounds.

According to Arlington tennis coach Tom Pitchford, having playbacks should make the team title chase close. "Even if a boy loses, he'll get a chance to win another two points for his team through the playbacks. So depth may be the real key to who wins the first place trophy."

"The meet will be between us, Oak Park and Evanston, I would think," he continued. "If our two doubles teams win, we should finish at the top. Nobody else has that good doubles entries."

Rated as some of the top performers entered in the meet are Oak Park's Pete Armstrong, a district medalist last year; Evanston's Bob Rensin and Bob Thompson, Prospects Dave Johnson and the two Arlington doubles units of Ken Jorgensen and Greg Harris and Bill Stelling and Paul Stevens.

"Ottawa always comes up with some real tough players," Pitchford said. "York lost Jeff Dawson to Downers North or they could have been real tough, and Glenbard West lost their two best players to graduation. So I think the meet should really be between Oak Park, Evanston and ourselves."

"The meet was set up as a preliminary to the state districts," the coach added. "I feel that at least the four best singles players here will be among the leaders in the state meet, and — I hope — so will my two doubles teams."

The top two teams and the top two individuals at each level will receive trophies. In addition, the first place team and individuals at the freshman levels will get trophies.

Classic Roll-Off Set

Buick-in-Evanston and Langlo's Refinishing will square off this weekend for the grand championship of the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

The competition between the winners of the two halves in the men's league will begin at Hoffman Lanes Saturday at 7:00 p.m. and at Gummel's Lanes Sunday at 1:00 p.m.

Langlo's Refinishing swept to the first half crown and Buick-in-Evanston survived a mild scare in the closing weeks to grab the second half prize.

Ted Geiersbach is the leading average bowler on the Langlo's entry with a 191, and Ted carved out a 693 series in January.

Ray Olson owns a 190 average for Buick-in-Evanston.

For highs this year, Langlo's has a 1087 game and 3045 series. Buick checked in with highs of 1082 and 3027.

Knights Land First League Win

over the hosting Huskies. It was a first for both sides' Prospect's first win and Hersey's first loss following three conference outings apiece.

LUNDSTEDT'S SAFETY occurred after a third Knight traffic jam on the base paths proved a little too much for Hersey's sophomore starter Bruce Frase. Frase allowed baserunners in each stanza and worked his way out of two successive loaded sacks situations leading up to the fateful fifth.

Then the visitors literally walked away with the lead, pushing home two base runners on free passes after the bags had filled up again. Lundstedt's hit followed and a theft of home forced a 5-0 advantage that was just a little too much for Hersey to overcome.

Ron Dolejs, who was knocked out of the box by Conant Monday, came back for Larry Pohlman's crew Wednesday with a cool distance performance that had him working his way out of just as many threatening situations as Frase had.

IN THE BOTTOM of the fifth Dolejs too filled the bags and then walked across a pair of runs. But the Prospect veteran was quicker to shut the door than Hersey had been and an inning later darkness curtailed the contest with the Knights in possession of their second victory in seven matches overall.

A key Huskie error and two key calls by KEITH REINHARD Tom Lundstedt was among the handful of spectators present for the first three or four innings of a Hersey-Prospect baseball contest at MacArthur field Wednesday.

Brisk winds discouraged the former Knight great from staying for the whole game and he left while a scoreless deadlock was still intact. It's a good thing for Prospect he didn't take his kid brother along with him though.

A two-out single by Dave Lundstedt in the top of the fifth frame proved to be the decisive blow in a 5-2 Prospect triumph Pohlman during the five-run fifth had just as much effect on the outcome as Lundstedt's smash. With one away, a grounder by Mike Wulbecker was dropped at first, putting him aboard and Jeff Suss then acknowledged a hit-and-run call by dropping a single down the left field line to place runners at first and second.

The hit-and-run sign went out again with Jim Carroll at the plate and it allowed both runners to advance while he beat out an infield roller to fill the bases.

DAVE LEMMON WALKED, pushing across Wulbecker, and Steve Grant caught a free ride to first, forcing in Suss. An out later Lundstedt sent both Carroll and Lemmon in and then with Lundstedt drawing a throw down to second on a steal, Grant dashed home with the final tally of the uprising.

Frase, who was only tapped for only one earned run, during that spree, gave way the fifth to Bob Leja. Other than Lundstedt's hit, Leja fanned five of the six men he faced to close out the contest.

Mike Ryder and Jim Fletcher scored Hersey's runs, reaching on a single to left and a walk respectively, advancing on Rich Grutzmacher's safety and coming home when Frase and Steve Fisher drew bases on balls.

After the defeat, Steve Chernicky's youthful band still sported a 4-2 overall record.

Knight Golfers Head South

The finest golf teams in the state, including 1968 state champ Glenbrook South, 1967 titlist New Trier East and local power Prospect, will convene Saturday at the University of Illinois' Savoy Golf Course for the annual Champaign Invitational Golf Tournament.

In all, 29 teams are entered in the meet, considered by prep golf fans as the best invitational of the season and a good index to the state meet in May. The squads — five men each — will play one of the course's two 18 hole rounds — the top two entries on each team playing the old course, and the bottom three challenging the recently opened new course.

"Both should be challenging to the boys in the meet," felt Prospect golf coach Mike Nissen. "I would say that the old course is probably the rougher of the two, but the new course will be tough too."

As far as his own Knights are concerned, Nissen is still pretty much up in the air. They could do well, he feels, but they are pretty much of a question mark. "We really haven't had a good meet this year," he said, "but the talent is there, it's just a matter of them doing the job."

"Last year," he added, "we had a horrible time down there, but we were all juniors. They could turn around this time and do quite well."

Cougars Triumph

With a four-run outburst in the fifth inning and John Furius six shutout innings, Conant won its second Mid-Suburban League baseball game 6-3 over Fremd Wednesday on the Cougar diamond.

The win boosted Conant's MSL record to 2-1 while Fremd dropped to 0-3.

Fremd led 3-2 going into the bottom of the fifth when Conant exploded for the winning runs.

Wally Wiener opened the fifth with a single and went to second and then third on an error and a walk to John Furius. With the bases loaded, Larry Celeste walked and Wiener scored. Jim Button then hit a pinch hit single which scored Mike Arkus and Furius and Celeste raced home when Button's single was errorred in the outfield.

Fremd opened the scoring in the first inning on singles by Pete Clar, Ed Wlodarczyk and Larry Anderson, two stolen bases and two errors.

Conant made the score 3-1 in the second on a single by Dave Kellermeyer and double by Celeste. The Cougars scored in the third as Kirk Wyatt walked, Gil Lopez-silvero hit into a fielder's choice and Wiener doubled.

Furius went the distance for Conant giving up four hits, striking out seven and walking none. Furius' record is now 3-0.

Falcons Win, 2-1

by JIM EWART

Even the best intentions can lead to misfortune.

Glenbard North's diamond men can attest to this. With the best motives in mind the Panthers offered Forest View's John Caltagirone a free pass to first base in a Mid-Suburban League duel Wednesday.

The walk would have filled the bases with Falcons in the eighth inning of a 1-1 deadlock, but Panther Joe Barnes' second pitch was a bit too far off the mark for his receiver to handle.

Forest View's Rich Olson, who had taken up residence on third, bounded home, sliding under a tag attempt to give his team the win, and put the Falcons in a four-way tie for second place with a 2-1 record in the MSL.

EARLIER IN THE inning Olson had placed himself safely on first with a solid single into right-center field. He assisted in his move to scoring position by dancing (the Charleston) over a Frank Russo grounder on a hit and run to second, and took third on the Panther pandemonium that ensued.

Game opening back-to-back singles by Glenbard North could have indicated a high scoring afternoon, but Falcon pitcher Steve Kellet struck out two and forced a pop fly to retire the Panthers in the first inning.

Going the full distance, Kellet turned in a fine performance allowing only four hits and one walk, working to six straight markless innings.

Glenbard North's score came in the second frame, when Terry Horan singled, was moved to second on a sacrifice, took third on a passed ball, and crossed the plate on the Panther's final hit of the game by Jeff Dowd.

FOREST VIEW threatened in the first, came closer in the second, and scored in the third inning to even the match. Kellet helped his own cause, by drawing a base on balls, and went to second on a sacrifice by Gabino Galindo.

Falcon Pete Cavallero collected the RBI with a blast to the fence in right center field, demonstrating the most power in the contest, for a double, but was out attempting to stretch it into three bases.

Forest View counted six hits in their win, spreading them over five innings and six team members.

Derby Debut in 1875

The Kentucky Derby was inaugurated in 1875.

Bosox Rookie of Year

Pitcher Don Schwall in 1961 was the last Boston Red Sox player to win the Rookie of the Year honors.

Sudden Sam Strikeout King

Sam McDowell's 283 strikeouts led the American League in 1968.

Elk Grove at Bronco Oval

Elk Grove's track team will be taking part in the first annual Barrington Invitational Track Meet this Saturday at the Bronchos' oval.

Six teams, which were to have begun action at 10:30 a.m., will start competing at 1:30 p.m. because of a conflict with ACT tests.

Along with the Grenadiers and the Bronchos will be Mundelein, Sycamore, St. Charles and Marion Central.

All the field events will begin at 1:30 with the running events beginning at 2 p.m.

A team trophy will be given to the first place team with a traveling trophy going to the outstanding individual contestant. Medals will be given for the first three places in the individual events with ribbons for fourth and fifth. Medals will also be given to the first team in each relay with ribbons for second, third, fourth and fifth.

Marszalek Shoots a 36

Mark McCormick is one of the least heralded men in sports. What he has done is make Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus millionaires. McCormick is Palmer's and Nicklaus' lawyer and he arranged their endorsement propositions.

Chris Marszalek is a freshman golfer at Arlington High School. He may become one of Mark McCormick's future clients.

In a wind which gusted up to 30 miles hour, Marszalek shot a 36 over nine holes at Palatine Hills. A 36, mind you! For a freshman! Marszalek took only 11 putts over nine holes and one-putted seven greens. Four of his sinking putts came from farther than 15 feet.

Marszalek's 36 led Arlington to 164-175 victory over Conant Tuesday in a Mid-Suburban League golf match.

Jack Van Veen shot a 41, Brad O'Berry a 43 and Mike Rossi a 44 for Arlington. Conant's scores were Rick Johnson's 42, Pat Dwyer's 42, Rick Ortwerth's 41, Bruce Rucks' 50 and Chris Dilger's 50.

Arlington won the fresh-soph match 176-217.

Lake Park Whips Conant in Tennis

Lake Park's tennis team took a 4-1 victory over Conant in a non-conference match Friday afternoon.

Lake Park's fresh-soph team won 5-0. Cal Behrens of Lake Park defeated Roger O'Keefe 6-4, 1-6, 6-3 in No. 1 singles and in No. 3 singles Lake Park's Chuck Zahara beat Tom Lefebvre 6-1, 4-6, 6-1.

Conant's only win came in No. 2 single when Nick Kron defeated Steve Elsborg 6-3, 6-3.

Lake Park won both doubles matches Scott Werner and Nick Szazuk defeated Rick Reif and Ross Goben 6-0, 6-1 and John Fridlund and Eric Udd defeated Jim Fortman and Mike Berman 6-3, 6-2.

Muskie Speaks To the Young

EDITOR'S Note: Among all candidates for office in the 1968 election, few struck a more responsive chord with young audiences than Maine's Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the Democratic candidate for vice president. In this dispatch he speaks to the young on the role they can play in helping build the kind of nation they want.

by SEN. EDMUND S. MUSKIE

Written for United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—During the 1968 campaign I had the opportunity to meet and talk with a great many young people—on college campuses and in high schools, from Vermont to California; Wisconsin to Texas.

The students were friendly at times, unfriendly at other times. But there was never any question that they were participating vigorously in the political campaign, and that their participation was being felt.

This is a heartening development in our political system, and it has been a long time coming. For the first time, really, in 1968, student power was as much of a factor in the political complexion of our country as ethnic, economic or regional groups. Students discovered that they, too, were an interest group, with as much at stake in this election as their elders.

Young people discovered that an incumbent President was not immune to their dissatisfactions.

Young people discovered that the nominations of the political parties need not be the simple ratifications of the wishes of a few.

Young people discovered that military service options need not be decided without their participation.

And young people discovered that they are as entitled to participation in the political system as they are to an education in a university. And that the choices and discussion in that political system should be as free and as open as life at a university.

Our political system and the university thrive on the same basic ingredient: an open and vigorous dialogue among concerned participants which leads to enlightened decisions—decisions which reflect not only the theories of education and government, but also the needs and desires of those students and those citizens who are directly concerned.

Until very recently, the genuine and effective participation of young people—students—in the decision-making process of the universities and the political system was heresy. Many thought that their participation simply was not necessary, or that the young simply were not qualified to make productive contributions. Government officials and college administrators felt that the young people in our society were well enough represented by their parents or by the deans of the colleges.

Young people have taught us differently, and I am grateful for it. They have shown us that education has made them more enlightened and more responsible, and that we need to hear their voices.

We have all learned that as a society grows larger and more complex, the opportunities for participation must be broadened in all its areas.

As decision-making tends to become more centralized, we must increase our efforts to decentralize it.

As our problems become more involved and more difficult, we must hear more voices and more opinions.

So the universities and the political process are undergoing a revolution. It is sometimes quiet, sometimes noisy. But the effect is the same. We are expanding the range of opinion which we want to hear.

This process is a real challenge. Just as the lead in reforming our universities has been taken by young people, so can the lead in reforming our political parties be taken by young people. They have participated in a university community, and they know the value of the open and uninhibited exchange of ideas. They know the value of academic freedom. And if they know those values, then they know the value of political freedom.

If they become apathetic, they will betray themselves and their state. If they decide that the job is too big, the job will never be done. If they decide that it is not worth doing, no one will ever do it.

It will not be an easy task. Inviting people to disagree is not the best way to begin a search for mutual goals, but it is far better than giving up that search before it ever begins.

In this task the art of communication is crucial, and communication requires individual initiative as well as self-restraint.

It requires a willingness to listen as well as speak, to learn as well as teach, to appreciate the rights and sensitivities of others as well as our own.

Only in this way can issues be exposed and defined—free of the passion and intolerance which hinder rational and constructive decisions.

Freedom of speech is not freedom from responsibility. In a free society, that responsibility must be discipline in a commitment to the prerogatives of others as well as our own. Free speech was not conceived as a device for noise to mask our failings. Rather, it evolved from a sensitivity to the fallibility of man.

For almost 200 years, we have demonstrated a genius for converting disagreement into effective policy. 1969 is no time to ignore our experience.

Plan Skating Club; Are You Interested?

Its springtime but for ice skating buffs, its not too early to start thinking about the winter season.

And thats exactly what seven men were doing Wednesday evening at the home of Joe McGrath, 1301 E. Kensington Road, Arlington Heights.

The subject was skating and the idea was to set the wheels in motion to form an ice skating club for Arlington Heights.

Although it may not seem like a good time to start talking about skating, there are many aspects of a club operation that must be considered and it's never too early to launch the preparations.

"We're looking for people who are interested in a club for Arlington," said McGrath, "and this naturally would also take in those from the surrounding area."

"Mount Prospect's club is successful and we're interested in promoting skating for the entire area as much as possible."

Anyone interested in additional information about the possibility of an Arlington Heights Ice Skating club should contact McGrath at 259-8280 or Don Zordan, of 811 E. Apple Tree Lane, at 259-9205.

Others at the organizational meeting Wednesday were Ted Lindstrom, Tom McShane, George Schott, and Jerry Weber of Arlington and Ron Lach of Mount Prospect.

Grove, Hersey, Glenbard Triumph

Shades of yesteryear!

Or, to be more exact, shades of last year's Coach Larry Peddy's Elk Grove Grenadiers, showing the form of last baseball season when they copped the schools first Mid-Suburban League crown ever, sent a host Prospect diamond squad to its second defeat in two outings Tuesday afternoon, 4-2.

The Grenadiers, behind Gordon Hollings fine chucking on the mound that allowed the Knights just four hits while 13 were sent back to the bench with strike outs, pounded across three runs in the first inning and another in the fifth to offset a late inning rally by Coach Larry Fohlman's Knights.

On the mound for Prospect was Gary Cordeva, who also enjoyed a fine day, allowing four hits and fanning eight Grendier batsmen. But first inning tension took its toll on the young Knight and tagged him with the mound loss.

IT HAD TO BE some type of ancient Arctic torture that Hersey perpetrated at MacArthur Field Tuesday.

In a diamond battle with the visiting Cougars of Conant under the most blustery of weather conditions, only a team nicknamed Huskies could prevail of course. But the host nine pushed the contest near the limit of endurance before pulling out a 4-3 decision.

While fierce winds howled out of the north across a leaden overcast, the visitors battled their way back from a game-long deficit into a 3-3 deadlock just as all parties concerned were about to retreat to warmer climates.

A pair of clutch hits by Dick Powell and Rich Grutzmacher with one away in the bottom of the seventh finally provided the hosts with the decisive run just before the last semblance of daylight ebbed away. The two key blows spoiled six innings of near immaculate twirling by Conant southpaw John MacDonald. A sophomore with a sharp curve, MacDonald settled down after a first inning Hersey bombardment and retired 16 Huskies in a row.

A three run outburst in the fourth inning followed by a two run fifth spelled defeat for Coach Fran Somers, Arlington varsity baseball nine Tuesday afternoon at Glenbard North.

The Cards, who had taken a 3-0 lead after a one run first and two run second, fell victim to a flurry of errors and timely Panther hits as they fell to their first loss of the Mid-Suburban League campaign. The Panthers strung together a double, an error, another double and a second error in the fourth to score three times. Then, in the fourth, a base on balls followed by a wild pitch, a single, another error and yet another one-bag shot were fashioned into a pair of Panther runs to win the game.

Gary Anderson, a lanky right-hander, took the loss for the Cards in his second outing of the young season. Glenbard's Tim Dee worked the full seven innings for the Panther victory. In all, Anderson gave up six hits, fanned two and walked two in his six inning stint, while Dee whiffed six Cards and walked five. The Cards committed three costly errors; the Panthers four.

The Cards drew first blood in the tilt when Al Feldman singled to left and then stole second with two men down. Card first-sacker Dave Armstrong then hit the Panther third baseman who muffed the chance, and Feldman raced home with the tally seconds later when the Panther short stop bobbled Dow Woodards bounce.

The Cards added their last two scores in the third when Armstrong walked, and was forced at second on Woodards fielders choice. Catcher Pat Donabue then followed up with a double to right to move Woodard to third, and both base runners scurried home on Dean Schmelzers blast to right.

But that was all for the Cards as Dee then settled down and hurled shutout ball for the next four innings.

Harper Gains 7-2 League Triumph

Wilson College — one of the melting pot junior colleges in Chicago — was bested in baseball Tuesday afternoon by a team which some might think would be too soft to do such a thing — a college from the wealthy suburbs.

But even though Harper College is located in the heart of Illinois' well-to-do class, the school turns out some hardnosed ballplayers.

One of them is Kevin Roeske. He keyed the Hawks' drive to their first Northern Illinois Junior College League triumph, 7-2, by scattering seven hits over the nine inning tilt.

For the first seven frames he blanked the Chicagovans. However, all Harper's games, up until this NJCC affair, have just gone seven innings, but all league contests must go the whole nine.

Wilson tallied their only runs in these final frames — both helped across by Hawk errors. But by that time Harper had built up a commanding lead.

The Hawks, blanked for the first two innings, busted loose in the third. Jim Stamborski, who was placed in the leadoff spot by Coach Clete Hinton because of his speed, reached on an error and promptly stole second.

Kevin Freund, who led both teams with a fine three-for-five day at the plate, singled him home. Bill Erdmann also singled and both runners scored on a hit by Ron Kunde.

Harper then added runs in the eighth and ninth which offset Wilson's tallies. Jim Kenny opened the eighth by reaching on an error, moved to second on a passed ball and then to third on an infield out. Ron Dall walked and stole second but a bad throw by the Wilson catcher allowed Kenny to come trotting home.

Erdmann got his third hit of the day in the ninth. He went to second on a wild pitch and came scampering around on a double by Kenny to cap the scoring.

The victory upped the Hawks overall record to 4-3. Wilson is now 3-5. Pick up agate

DUTCH UNCLE to the Community

We hope this picture makes a point. Like the real uncle in the photograph here, the Paddock Real Estate Section is a Dutch Uncle, too . . . here in the Northwest Suburban Area.

For our job is to "talk straight" to give you the facts, features and home values home buyers and sellers appreciate.

You'll find all types, descriptions, sizes, styles and prices offered by your local Realtors . . . Dutch Uncles in their own right because they are famous for good solid "advice" and sound service.

There's a place for Dutch Uncles . . . every home should have one . . . follow the Paddock Real Estate Section every Friday.

With Company For 35 Years

Florence Bradley

brated her 35th service anniversary on April 21.

"I can remember when we had eight-party lines and each customer had a special ring. That could be very annoying when someone on your line had night-owl friends who called them after you were sound asleep."

MRS. BRADLEY began her telephone career as an operator on the north side of Chicago. For the past 22 years she has worked in Arlington Heights. Her present position is clerk in the central ticket investigating group.

She is the mother of two children, Patrick, an electrical engineer for Motorola, and Marie, a stewardess for TWA. She is past director and secretary of the Valley Bell Credit Unit; Director of Gateway Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America; and a member of the Forest View Homeowners Assn.

"The telephone company has come a long way since 'the good old days,'" said Florence (Mrs. Edward) Bradley, 1246 S. Gregory, Arlington Heights, who is celebrating her 35th service anniversary on April 21.

Griesser Is Honored

Recognition for five years of service was given to William J. Griesser, 814 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, by the All-State Insurance Co.'s when he was presented with a special service pin at a ceremony held recently in his honor.

Griesser is finance product development manager in the firm's home office in Northbrook.

FREDERIC J. THIEL, CLU (right), and his wife, Josephine, of 245 S. Greenwood, Palatine, are shown with Melvin P. Haycraft, CLU, director of agencies for the Prudential Insurance Co.'s Illinois region, as they display the company president's citation plaque. The award was presented to the Palatine district office, 238 N. Northwest Hwy. Mr. Thiel, manager of the office, accepted the plaque on behalf of his district representatives who were honored for all-round accomplishment in 1968.

Place Is Assistant

Gene Place

Gene Place of Arlington Heights has been promoted to assistant vice president of Rolled Steel Corp., Skokie, it was announced by Seymour Waldman, president of the steel service center. Place is Rolled Steel's comptroller.

His responsibilities include supervising accounts receivable and accounts payable, management of advertising and over-all charge of electronic data processing applications within the firm.

Before joining Rolled Steel 17 years ago, Place attended Northwestern University, majoring in accounting. Prior to this he spent two years with the United States Army.

Carnehl Is Promoted

Wilbert G. Carnehl

Wilbert G. Carnehl of Lake Zurich has been promoted by Illinois Bell Telephone Co. to district construction supervisor in Evanston. In his new assignment he will be responsible for the 60 employees who handle construction activity in the Evanston district.

HE JOINED THE company in 1946 as a lineman in Arlington Heights and subsequently has held a number of posts in the plant department including cable splicer, line foreman, assistant staff supervisor and most recently control center foreman.

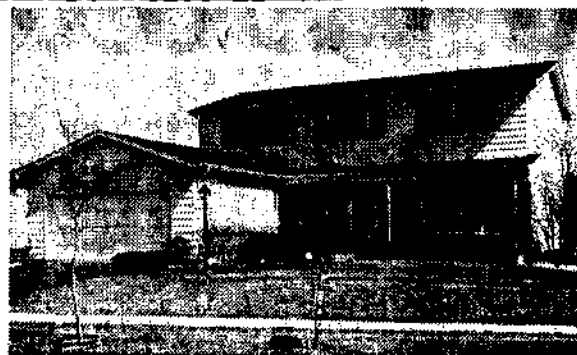

Carnehl is a member of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights and of the Gateway Council of Telephone Pioneers of America, a civic and social organization of veteran employees with a membership of 350,000.

If dual channel capability is required, a simple field conversion kit is available.

The basic transceiver, according to Hallicrafters, will operate literally anywhere "as is" with self-contained nickel-cadmium or "D" type batteries and detachable whip antenna. Weighing only 10 pounds including batteries, the FM-5B is extremely portable. For mobile operation a mounting kit is required.

The FM-5B transceiver unit with an aluminum seamless case measures 10 1/2 inches in length, 4 inches deep and is 10 inches high including battery case. Gas-ketted for all-weather protection, it operates efficiently in a temperature range of -30 degrees to 50 degrees C and in humid environments up to 95 per cent relative.

The FM-5B transceiver unit with an aluminum seamless case measures 10 1/2

Plan Bensenville Garden Apartments

Architectural renderings and a proposed site plan were recently submitted to Fred Steing president of the village of Bensenville, by John G. Marker, architect, in connection with the public hearing set for April 18 before the Bensenville Zoning Board of Appeals, to determine the zoning and annexation of the 60-acre tract located north of Grand Avenue between Church and York Roads adjoining the White Pines Golf Course. A 1,300-apartment complex is planned for the tract.

In accepting the plans on behalf of the village officials, Steing said, "This project would definitely mark another milestone for our village. It is a quality addition to our community and the benefits to be derived from revenues in real estate taxes, sales taxes and additional consumers for our stores and services, will be very substantial. This is a real opportunity for Bensenville to participate in a progressive program."

Marker, vice president and director of the architectural department of Wight and Co. Inc., located in Downers Grove, was selected by the owners of the property to do the preliminary plans for the garden apartment community which would utilize one-half the site for 28 three-story elevator buildings and the remaining 35 acres for landscaped terraces.

The site plan for the Bensenville project was created by Carl L. Gardner & Associates, land planners of new towns, conventional and cluster-type subdivisions, grading plans, shopping centers, industrial parks and feasibility reports.

Erickson Retires

Frank M.
Erickson

Frank M. Erickson of 330 George St., Bensenville, recently retired from the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Co. after completing 44 years of service.

At retirement he was a special serviceman in the company's Distribution shop on the city's North Side.

A native of Chicago, he and his wife, Edna, have two sons, Wayne and Donald, and one grandchild. He plans to devote some of his leisure time to fishing, hunting and baseball.

Gualano and Mealman Top Ford Salesmen

Dino E. Gualano and Ronald Mealman of Schmerler Ford, Inc., 104 W. Irving Park Road, Bensenville, have been selected to receive the nation's leading Ford salesmanship awards for 1968.

Bernard L. Crumpton, Ford Division's Chicago district sales manager, said the men will receive the Top Hatter Award — highest sales honor accorded by the division — at a Ford "300-500 Club" banquet this month.

CRUMPTON SAID THE Top Hatter Award is presented to approximately 4 per cent of the nation's Ford dealer sales force. Its purpose is to focus attention on the outstanding Ford dealership salesmen of 1968, and on car and truck selling as a profession that performs a "valuable service to the national economy and the local community."

He also said the average 300-500 Club member sold nearly $600,000 worth of automotive merchandise in 1968 to qualify for the national honor.

Salesman Thomas Cornella will receive special recognition for excellent sales achievement during 1968, and will be presented Ford Division's Sales Award.

Roto Completes Leasing Course

Dick Roto of Roto Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., 1410 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, has just completed a fundamentals of leasing course conducted at Ford's Chicago Marketing Institute.

The course is one of a number offered by Ford Marketing Institutes to benefit Ford and Lincoln-Mercury customers by emphasizing after-purchase service and customer relations.

NI-Gas Wants Rate Changes

Northern Illinois Gas Company announced that it has requested Illinois Commerce Commission approval for changes in the company's rate schedules. C. J. Gauthier, executive vice president, said the result would be a net revenue decrease of approximately $27,000 per year.

Gauthier explained that the proposal will affect three groups of NI-Gas customers. A $150,000 per year reduction of gross charges for low-usage residential and commercial customers, savings of about $56,000 annually by commercial customers using gas for air conditioning, and an increase in the minimum charge from $1.00 to $1.35 per month for residential customers who do not use gas for either hot water heating or space heating are included.

The proposal asks that the rate changes become effective May 15 of this year.

Mrs. Hennig Retires from Bell

"You name the suburb and I've worked in it," said Dorothy (Mrs. Edward) Hennig, 446 S. Barron, Bensenville, who retired recently from Illinois Bell after 21 years of service. She began as ticket clerk in 1928 but took time off to rear a family. For the past 11 years she has worked as an operator in Oak Park.

Mrs. Hennig is the mother of three children: Patricia Wakup whose husband, Richard, works in the plant department in River Grove; John, of Elgin; and Bill, at home. She has two grandchildren.

THE MOST memorable event that happened while Mrs. Hennig was running the switchboard was when the Frazee farm in Bensenville burned. It happened at 3 a.m. when she was alone in the office. It was her duty to ring the fire whistle and answer the questions of all who called to make inquiries about the fire.

She plans "to take things easy for a while and then do some sightseeing." Her hobbies include knitting, crocheting, cooking, baking and enjoying her grandchildren.

Dole Plant Sold To Cook Electric

Cook Electric Co. announced that it has entered into an agreement to purchase the former manufacturing plant of Dole Valve Co., Morton Grove, for approximately $4 million.

The facility, located at 6201 Oakton Street on 22 acres adjacent to Cook Electric's present corporate headquarters, provides 283,000 square feet of space which will enable the company to bring together its manufacturing, research and executive operations now carried on in three Chicago area locations.

Lectrohm, Inc., a subsidiary on the northwest side of Chicago, will not be involved in the move.

Expansion of manufacturing operations can be accomplished in the present structure and there is room for further expansion on six adjacent acres. The site also provides five acres of parking.

Cook Electric is a major supplier to the independent telephone industry with 75 per cent of its revenue derived from these operations.

The company operates plants in Chicago, Palatine and Morton Grove.

Companies Lease Incubator Space

Bennett and Kahnweiler, Chicago-based industrial real estate firm, has announced the completion of two transactions in "incubator" buildings in Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village.

Forse, Clean - A - Mation, of Anderson, Indiana, and Caldwell Industrial Supplies, of Waukegan, both leased 2720 square-foot areas in the incubator. Forse, a manufacturer of laundry and dry cleaning equipment, will use their space as a Chicago office, and Caldwell, a supplier of abrasives, fasteners and cutting tools, will open a new branch office and showroom in the Centex location.

McCusker Is Promoted By American Airlines

Fred H. McCusker

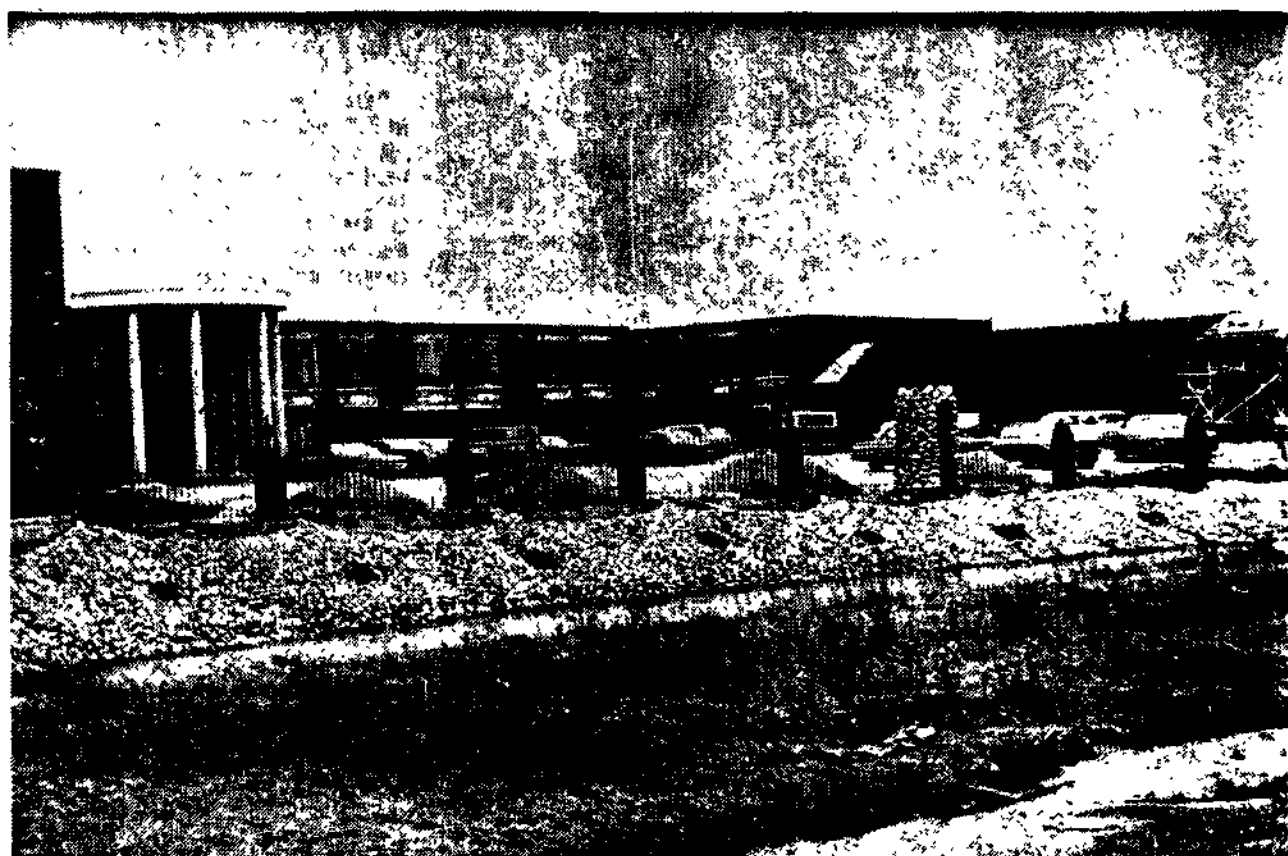

Fred H. McCusker of 214 Pleasant Drive, Elk Grove Village, has been elected assistant vice president by the board of directors of American Airlines.

McCusker, who has been the airline's city manager in Chicago, will transfer to New York to assume his new duties as assistant vice president in charge of ground services for the airline's system.

New Shares Are Issued

Stockholders of the A. O. Smith Corp. voted at a recent annual meeting to increase the number of common shares from three million to six million and authorized a new class of one million shares of preferred stock. The A. O. Smith Harvester Products, Inc., has sales and executive offices in Arlington Heights.

"The increased number of shares will give the company greater flexibility for possible acquisitions or other corporate purposes," said Lloyd B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer, adding that

ROYAL COURT INN and Camelot Restaurant, Des Plaines, nearly completed, will be opened on or before May 1, according to George Samatas, co-owner. Old English decor is used throughout the $1,750,000 complex, including 125 rooms, a restaurant with facilities for up to 400 people, meeting rooms and a heated swimming pool.

Crowell Joins Club

John Mufich Buick in Mount Prospect announced the addition of Bryon Crowell to the Professional Salesman Club of General Motors.

Crowell has achieved this recognition in less than a year of selling Buicks.

He lives in Des Plaines with his wife and two daughters.

Major Study Of Real Estate Data

Initial statistics gathered by St. Paul Federal Savings and Loan Assoc. of Chicago for February and March of 1969, in a major study of residential real estate sales throughout Cook County indicate that Northbrook homes are leading in value in a selected north suburban area with an average selling price of $44,900 per house. Second and third place villages were Palatine and Barrington with an average selling price of $37,100 and $36,800 respectively.

Following in the order of their valuations are Park Ridge at $36,000, Mount Prospect at $35,500, Inverness at $34,500, Prospect Heights at $34,900, Arlington Heights at $33,200, Buffalo Grove at $32,900, Des Plaines at $31,500, Elk Grove Village at $27,900, Hoffman Estates at $27,300, Schaumburg at $27,200, Wheeling at $26,100, Hanover Park at $23,700 and Streamwood at $21,500.

The study, which is being prepared monthly as a public service by St. Paul Federal, includes data on both houses and apartments, grouped according to individual municipalities as well as by north, west and south sections of the city.

Faustin A. Pipal, president of the association, said that monthly, quarterly and annual reports will be issued giving comparisons of previous periods and cumulative totals.

In the north suburban area, the largest volume of home sales was in Arlington Heights, with 106 homes sold in February and March at a total dollar value of $3,514,000, followed by Streamwood and Des Plaines, with 82 and 69 homes respectively.

Other statistics gathered in this area list the following towns in order of volume: Mount Prospect with 59 homes sold, Northbrook with 58, Elk Grove Village with 48, Palatine with 46, Park Ridge with 38, Buffalo Grove with 25, Schaumburg with 25;

Wheeling with 22, Hoffman Estates with 17, Prospect Heights with 16, Rolling Meadows with 12, Hanover Park with 11, Barrington with 10 and Inverness with 3. Apartment sales in the Northern suburbs revealed an average selling price of $17,400 per apartment unit. A total of 25 apartment buildings were sold in this area at a total of $2,074,000.

The St. Paul Federal report is based upon a telephone survey of sellers and buyers in all residential transactions reported by the office of the Cook County Recorder Sydney R. Olsen.

Study Shows Preferences In Kitchens

Results of a study by 3H Building and Development Co., on home buying preferences of Berkley Square residents, Arlington Heights, show that the visual impact of the kitchen is extremely important, according to 3H.

The greatest number of Berkley Square residents are in their thirties and aware of decor; the study shows that given a kitchen with a dark wallcovering, they will turn it down in favor of the same size kitchen covered in a light, bright wall treatment that gives the appearance of greater space.

The color combination of pink and white with touches of green in the kitchen is repeated in the chair upholstery, the curtains and the latticework of the wallpaper. Also featured is the provision for a separated dining area in the kitchen.

SIGNING A long-term agreement under which the Branigar Organization, Chicago, will manage the Midlane Country Club, Wadsworth, are H. O. French of Branigar; W. G. Van Der Woort, Mount Prospect; G. T. Adams, Mount Prospect; R. C. Wallace of Branigar; and E. Monsen, Glenview.

Branigar To Manage Club In Wadsworth

The Branigar Organization, Inc., Chicago-based management firm specializing in the operation of golf courses, resorts and hotels, has signed a long-term management contract with Midlane Country Club, Wadsworth, near Waukegan.

Included in the management package are the golf course, dining facilities, summer theatre and riding stables located on the Midlane property.

H. O. French, Branigar vice president who heads the management services division, announced the appointment of Robert Sullivan as interim manager at Midlane. Bob O'Day remains as resident golf professional.

The agreement brings to six the number of Branigar-managed golf courses in the Chicago area. Others are Indian Lakes, Bloomingdale, Tally Ho, Mundelein; White Pines and Mohawk, Bensenville; and Buffalo Grove, near Wheeling.

G. T. Adams, Mount Prospect, president of the investment group which recently bought Midlane (Changing the name from Midlane Farms to Midlane Country Club), stated that the agreement with Branigar was intended to give permanent professionalism to the management of the 18-hole golf course and ancillary activities.

Wilson's Attend Miami Bankers Conference

Mr. and Mrs. G. Rex Wilson, 1145 Van Buren Ave., Des Plaines, were in Miami, Fla., April 12 to 17 where they attended the Small Bank Presidents Conference.

Wilson is president of Des Plaines National Bank, 678 Lee St., Des Plaines, and active in numerous banking and civic organizations in the suburban area.

Market Conditions Cause Competition

Inflationary pressures and the search for protection of capital have brought about major changes in the structure of the mortgage money market, the National Association of Real Estate Boards said recently.

The report of the annual spring mortgage study of NAREB's department of research added, "Expectation that inflation will continue has led investors to reassess equity versus fixed-yield holdings. Others, believing that correction of the inflationary spiral will be a lengthy process, are taking a breather in the short term market. Thus, the competition for mortgage funds is keen between the single-family residential and the income property sectors."

The study, based on returns from 190 Realtors for the single-family residential picture and 108 Realtors for the income property situation, must be viewed in light of the dates involved. The questionnaires were mailed on March 10, and the returns closed two weeks later for tabulation. Both the prime and discount rates have been raised and banks' reserve requirements have been increased in the interim.

For some communities, the outlook is relatively bright with local investors meeting home mortgage requirements. Areas more dependent on the interstate flow of funds face harsher times, particularly in those areas in which usury law ceilings are below the current average of conventional loans.

The NAREB study found average interest rates had risen substantially, but do not reflect fully market conditions because of statutory ceilings.

"The optimistic outlook expressed last fall regarding FHA home mortgages did not materialize. On the other hand, in some areas, lenders whose past interest in FHA loans was minimal are reported to be entering the current market," the report stated.

Interest rates on conventional financing of multi-family new construction have risen sharply in the past six months. Rates for high-rise apartments of 200 units or more are reported at 8.25 per cent and 8.50 in a majority of cases.

Despite high interest rates, augmented discounts in some cases, and equity participation in most large developments, resources are limited in most communities, the report indicated. The sale and financing, or re-financing, of existing multi-family buildings competes with new construction for mortgage loans.

Financing conditions for locally-oriented businessmen were reported as difficult. Credit on loans for commercial properties in secondary locations was reported tight by 50 per cent of the responses and virtually unattainable by 17 per cent.

Interest rates on mortgages for warehouse and industrial property with a national credit lease rose over the last six months and the availability of funds has tightened, the NAREB report found.

They Attract Empty Nesters

Herman Soifer, vice president in charge of apartment development for Miller Builders, Inc., said his firm has recently conducted a survey on reasons for the mounting popularity of suburban apartments with people who were formerly oriented to single-family housing.

"Our research shows," said Soifer, "that approximately 30 percent of the people moving into multi-family complexes such as our Greenbrier Apartments in Arlington Heights are executives and office workers being transferred here from another area or state."

"IN THE past, however," the building executive pointed out, "few apartments met the specialized needs of these transferred families. Most are in a financial position to afford a home of their own. As a result, they are in a position to demand home-like amenities in an apartment."

"Soundproofing," he remarked, "has been intensively researched with the result that sound board is now used between dry walls, and plumbing pipes have gaskets or insulation to further protect the privacy of tenants."

In addition to families from out of town, Soifer noted that many "empty nesters" now seek suburban apartment living. "These middle-aged adults," he said, "whose children have grown and are not living at home, want to remain in a suburban atmosphere, yet desire maintenance-free apartment living."

Other candidates for non-city apartments, according to the Miller survey, are retired persons who wish to insure the flexibility of moving to another climate, and newlyweds, who make up about 10 percent of Miller tenants.

In addition to its 156-apartment Greenbrier development, Miller Builders began construction this spring on approximately 1,700 apartments north of the new Yorktown Shopping Center in Lombard.

New Kennedy Bros. Firm

Robert N. Kennedy

William W. Kennedy

Robert N. Kennedy and William W. Kennedy, vice president of the Kennedy Company, builders, announced that they have separated from that firm to form a new company to be named Kennedy Brothers, Northbrook.

Effective immediately, they will assume operation of Charlemagne, formerly a Kennedy Company community of homes in Northbrook, and have initiated a division that will concentrate on building custom homes on various lots in the north and west suburbs.

Robert Kennedy will be president of the new firm and direct land acquisition and financing. William Kennedy will be vice president and director of marketing.

Kennedy Brothers projects five communities in operation by fall, 1970; Dewingate in the Plum Grove area of Rolling Meadows is scheduled to open in four months.

SCOTTVALE, ONE OF the Lancer-built models now shown, four bedrooms. An optional fireplace is in the model on display in Carlisle, Schaumburg, is available with three or display.

Scottvale Model Shown in Carlisle

One of the several designs currently drawing visitors to the model group in Carlisle, Schaumburg, is the "Scottvale."

The basic design for this bi-level home offers three bedrooms, two-and-a-half baths, two-car garage and full basement. An alternate plan provides for four bedrooms.

The informal design concept found throughout the Scottvale is suggested immediately by the simple exterior styling. The front entrance is set back under an extension of the roof. Shuttered windows in the front elevation plus antique house lamps lend a colonial touch.

Entering the wide front entry foyer leading back to the family recreation room at the rear of the house, the visitor finds himself at the home's traffic center.

From this point, traffic is dispersed to the living room and upper level sleeping area, to the basement, to the kitchen and family room or to the garage.

A thinline wrought-iron railing sets the raised living room, approximately 21 feet long and 13 feet wide, off from the entry foyer. A wide view window in the front wall is a feature here, while across the room is the 14 foot by 10 foot dining room.

A full bay window is found in the breakfast nook, which is 10 feet by 8 feet. Cabinets and appliances are matched and are arranged in a broken "el" layout in the kitchen. Here, again, wrought-iron railing is used.

The family room features paneling and sliding glass doors opening to the rear patio area. A large closet is just off an inside corner, while the powder room is at the far end.

An optional feature specified in the family room is a wood-burning fireplace, as in the "Scottvale" model on display.

The bedrooms and family bath, together with a linen-utility closet, are centered around a distributing hallway on the upper level. The master bedroom, nearly 18 feet long and 14 feet wide, features a walk-in closet and a private bath with built-in vanity.

The Scottvale and other Lancer-built models are open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk.

A general sales meeting held by Arlington Realty for their 25 member sales staff early this year was given nationwide recognition recently in "Realtors' Headlines," the weekly publication of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"Arlington Heights . . . 1975" was the subject of the meeting held at the Arlington Carousal in January. A guest panel included Village Manager L. A. Hanson, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Robert Campbell, Assistant to the Superin-

Ingenuity Needed To Get Financing

A good year for the single-family home market if Realtors display ingenuity in finding financing was predicted by the president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at a recent meeting of the Real Estate Board of metropolitan St. Louis.

Among the favorable factors for this segment of the industry noted by John Cotton, San Diego, are that household formations are continuing at a rapid rate and that "more people have higher wages and many have higher take-home pay than ever before."

Turning to the financial situation, Cotton observed, "Whether we like it or not, the current high interest rate is the inevitable result of supply and demand as it relates to money. If interest on our commodity were not at a higher rate than that on commercial loans, our lenders would be out of the market in this period of short money supply."

He said also that in this period of increasingly high interest rates, there is a less gloomy side, which is the amount of the "constant." "This term 'constant' refers to the total annual installment of principal and interest on a real estate loan," Cotton explained.

In the late 1920's, he continued, an interest rate of 8.4 per cent was not at all unusual, but generally there was no payment on principal until maturity, "and so the constant was 8.4 per cent — perfectly manageable in a householder's budget."

Cotton commented that as the interest rates have risen, the extended life of loans has increased, but that today's 9 1/2 per cent constant is well below the 12 per cent constant to which most home buyers were accustomed in the 1930's.

tendent, High School District 214, Jack Martin and Bell Savings & Loan executive Ned Shanahan.

Predictions for Arlington Heights they made include 25,000 more people, streamlining city services, 40 more miles of streets, three more deep-water wells, storage facilities for another six million gallons of water and an area double the present size.

Herbert Carl, Arlington Realty executive sales manager, acted as master of ceremonies and was credited for the story in "Realtors' Headlines."

Arlington Realty has four offices and 25 sales people in a community.

FACTS

ABOUT YOUR U.S. ARMY RESERVE

Members of the U.S. Army Reserve represent a wide array of civilian occupations. They are executives, bankers, bus drivers; they are teachers, doctors, salesmen; they are policemen, clerks, lawyers; they are Americans from all over the world.

One of every 60 American males 18 years and older is a member of the U.S. Army Reserve. They are energetic, versatile, and resourceful, giving true substance to the U.S. Army Reserve motto: "Strength in Reserve."

Habit-forming.

When you stack one U.S. Savings Bond on top of another, it becomes a habit that's tough to break and hard to beat. That's because it's so painless. Just tell your employer or banker to set aside a regular amount from your paycheck before you have a chance to spend it. Sign up today.

NOW—Higher Rates!

Savings Bonds now pay 4.25% when held to maturity — and Freedom Shares (sold in combination with E Bonds) pay a full 5%. The extra interest will be added as a bonus at maturity.

And now you can buy the Bond/Freedom Share combination any time — no monthly commitment necessary. Get the facts where you work or bank.

CHIEF SALESMAN at the new Addison Tellefsen and Associates real estate office, Robert J. Schiller, confers with Ralph F. Tellefsen, Jr.

Open Up Addison Services

A new real estate office at 4 West Lake Street in the Green Meadows Shopping Center, Addison, recently was opened by Tellefsen and Associates, Elmhurst.

"Clients in Addison, Bensenville, Itasca, Medinah, Roselle and Wood Dale can be served more conveniently from the new branch office," Ralph F. Tellefsen Jr. said. "This new office is the first in a series of steps in a long-term plan for expansion." Other communities served by the firm include Elmhurst, Lombard, Villa Park and Oak Brook.

Heading the branch organization's force of four salesmen is Robert J. Schiller, Elmhurst, who has been with Tellefsen for five years and has served as the firm's director of sales for the past two years.

Other salesmen in the Addison office are Donald M. Cameron and Charles R. Van Slyke Jr., both of Elmhurst, and Robert J. Hicks of Addison.

Recently added to Tellefsen's services is a guaranteed real estate trade-in policy, which helps a client select a new home, guarantees him cash for his present home, and makes it impossible for him to own two homes or pay on two mortgages.

A native of Elmhurst, Ralph Tellefsen, Jr. has operated his insurance business in Elmhurst since 1948. In the early sixties, the company was expanded to include real estate and moved to the present location.

Schiller was graduated from Immaculate Conception high school and attended St. Thomas College, St. Paul, Minn., and DePaul University. Last year he completed a seminar on "Investment Property Exchange and Taxation" sponsored by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Tellefsen and Associates are members of the Cooperative Multiple Listing Pool, the DuPage Board of Realtors, the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, and the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Outdoor Elegance With Canvas

In home decorating as in the world of fashion, what's in style today may be woefully out of date tomorrow.

But there's one thing you can count on: good design never goes out of style. And the best way to make sure this summer's outdoor decorating scheme doesn't look passe next year is to put your designs in canvas. Good design and canvas were made for each other.

Use canvas for a giant, red circle of shade where guests can gather for a pool-side party. Let it swoop in parabolic shapes over an Oriental-style pavilion in the garden to create a secluded spot for alfresco dinners. Or have it transformed into a bright Arabian cabana to provide privacy for quick swimsuit changes.

STRETCH CANVAS overhead to give an inviting welcome to doorways and walkways. Entrances will acquire a dramatic touch. Porches will gain shade and privacy, and walkways will be protected against the elements to become cozy settings for outdoor entertaining.

Over the patio or by the pool, canvas provides protection without confinement. Windbreaks, privacy panels and cabanas can be permanent or portable. Wide glass areas can be shaded by canvas to shield interior furnishings from harsh sunlight, reduce heat and glare and cut down substantially on air-conditioning costs.

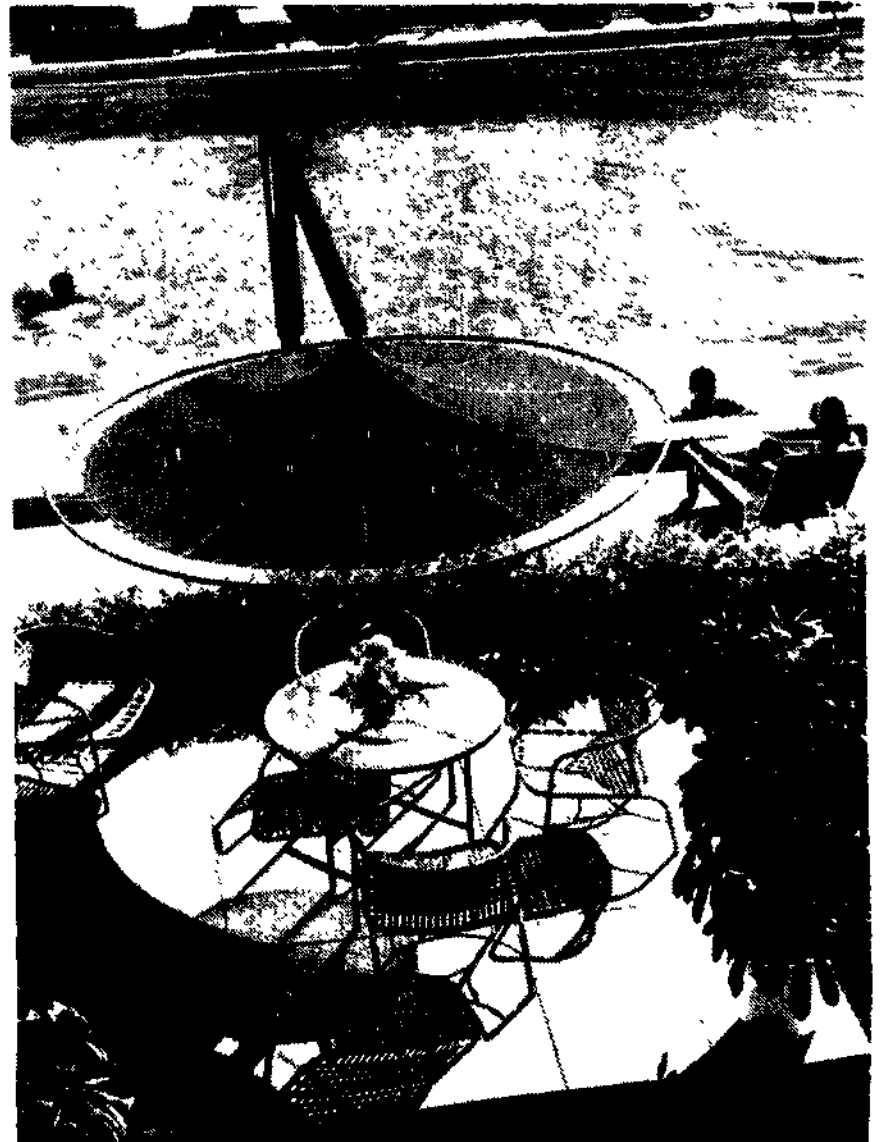

For more than 20 centuries, canvas has served pharaohs and peasants, prophets and pioneers, servicemen and homemakers. But never before has this durable, sunfast, water-repellent and mildew-resistant cotton fabric created such a stir in the decorating world.

GONE IS THE day when canvas was colored only dark green or drab khaki. Today it runs the entire color spectrum. There are cool colors like misty blue, aqua and lime . . . and bolder shades like royal blue and peacock green. Warm colors sizzle from firecracker red or hot orange to lemon yellow and salmon pink. Even stark white and rich black offer dramatic possibilities.

There are truly many wonderful ways you can use remarkable canvas. Try it in fun-loving stripes to add a festive flair, or in subdued, clified tones to lend a note of sophistication.

(For more information about Decorating with canvas readers may write the National Cotton Council, P. O. Box 12285, Memphis, Tenn. 38112.)

CANOPY OF BRIGHT red cotton canvas is supported by a cantilevered arm of redwood that casts a 10-foot circle of shade. Canopy can be tilted to place shadows where they're wanted.

May Meeting for Parents Of Hearing Handicapped

The second annual statewide meeting of parents of deaf and hard-of-hearing children will take place May 3 at Bradley University, Peoria.

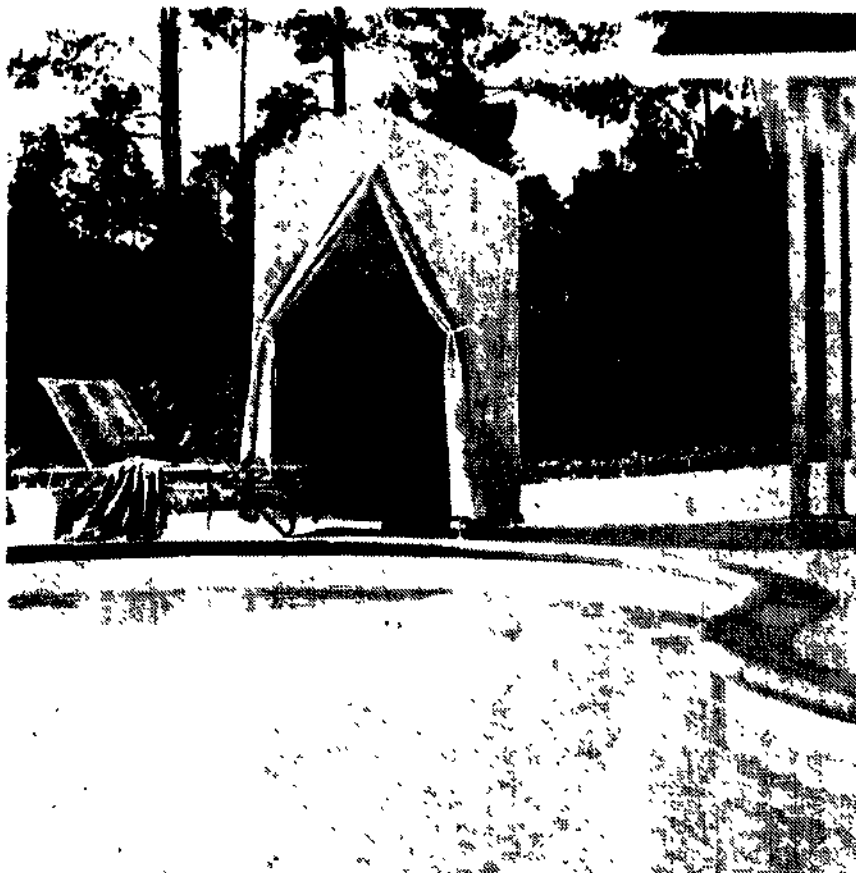

Sponsoring organization is Illinois Parents of the Hearing Impaired, composed of 16 local groups throughout the state.

Purpose of the day-long meeting, according to Mrs. Wayne C. Thomas of Chicago, president of the state organization, is to educate parents in the various facilities and programs available in Illinois for children who are deaf or whose hearing is impaired. The roster of speakers consists of officials of both public and privately operated agencies. Also included in the program will be workshops on teaching methods, educational courses, teacher recruitment and scholarships.

AS AN EXAMPLE of the activities of the Illinois association, Mrs. Thomas referred to the existence of just one high school in the state exclusively for deaf and hard-of-hearing children, that in Jacksonville. She said the organization is working vigorously toward the establishment of another high school for northern Illinois, possibly to be located at the Chicago Circle campus of the University of Illinois.

Those interested in attending the Peoria meeting on May 3 may contact Thomas Koonz, 18461 Cowing Court, Homewood, Ill., 329-0750.

English Channel Divides Two Worlds

by MARY ELLEN POURCHOT
(This is the sixth in a series.)

Our first crossing of the English Channel was on a calm moonlight autumn night from Calais to Dover. The second was on a rough and rolling sea in January when we returned to the continent.

When you cross the Channel from Calais, the white cliffs of Dover seem not as white as you had imagined, but there are more of them. And the sound of the English language is the greatest welcome you've felt anywhere.

You'll cherish those first wonderful words from the ferry attendant as you unfold your car from its cramped quarters below deck.

"Keep 'er comin', Lovie, tha's reet. Nah, mate, you 'appens to be too bloomin' close."

"Dad, I thought you said they spoke English here," our surprised 13-year-old remarked.

WE FOLLOWED a slow-moving line of cars towards the customs gate. Here is where the British undoubtedly gained their reputation for thoroughness. We watched the officer ahead paw through suitcases, unwrap china and sniff at bottles. We began to worry about our own loaded stationwagon. How about those Swiss watches? Would they toss out a half loaf of French bread? We envisioned the entire rear structure collapsing if one sack were removed.

"Too bad we didn't smuggle in some drugs," said our little Sherlock Holmes loudly.

We hushed him as we pulled into place. The officer asked how long we intended to stay in England and had we brought any liquor or cigarettes? He told us to read his folder about English driving, stay on the left and have a pleasant visit.

WE FELT SORRY for the Britishers behind us as they started to unwrap packages. It seemed that it was more difficult to return to England if you were English.

The ferry crossing took but one and a half hours and cost us about $34 for our car and the four of us. Car rates vary according to their overall length. The number of daily ferry crossings ranges from eight in summer to one in the winter. We crossed in October and January without reservations. However, they are advised from early July to the end of September.

Returning to the continent to Dieppe, France, we were told to arrive at the Newhaven docks three-quarters of an hour before departure time. This gave us an opportunity to fill out their forms, buy tickets in British currency (the cost this time was $40.00 for a 3% hour voyage), and to exchange our English pounds into French francs.

WE SOON BELIEVED the rumor that the French liners operating here in conjunction with British Railways were superior to the British ferries. We quickly parked the car in the hold of the "Valency," left the keys in it and walked upstairs to comfortable chairs and spacious restaurants. There were few passengers on this January crossing. We felt like royalty enjoying a private cruise.

THE ROUGH SEAS soon downed three of us, drowsy with dramamine. The youngest weaved about, exploring the ship. About mid-way the Channel smoothed out and passengers revived.

French customs take but a few minutes, requiring the usual formalities of showing passports and the green motor insurance card. Anyone who drives off the docks at Dieppe should follow the signs "Toute Directions" to get out of town. Otherwise he may end up at the fish warehouses as we did. We didn't mind an unscheduled tour of the town, though, since it was so pleasant to be driving on the right side of the road again.

Mrs. Fred Nicklas, past president and now director of the Women's Club of Inverness was installed as first vice president of the 7th District Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. The 7th District held its annual meeting April 18, at the Edison Park Methodist Church in Chicago. Thirty-seven women's clubs comprise the 7th District.

Mrs. Benjamin Adamowski of Chicago, was installed as president and Mrs. Frank Krempel, a past president of Prospect Heights Woman's Club, corresponding secretary.

Several district awards were received by the Inverness club. They were for outstanding achievement in library work; largest contribution to "Pennies For Art," which supports the Federation's Allerton House summer art scholarships; and three awards in the Literary Dept. Compositions and poetry written by Mrs. Wil-

SOME PEOPLE recommend the air ferry, a pleasant though somewhat more expensive method of crossing. Others go by Hovercraft, just 35 minutes from Dover to Boulogne.

For further information on car ferry and Hovercraft services, would-be travelers may write to travel agencies, automobile clubs or to the Continental Car Ferry Centre, 52 Grosvenor Gardens, London SW1, P. O. Box 303.

Mrs. Nicklas Named to District Post

Ilan Morris won the club the literature awards.

INVERNESS WOMEN attending the district meeting were: Mrs. Nicklas, Mrs. William Alexander, Mrs. J. H. Spottwood, Miss Norma Nicholson, Mrs. Elliott P. Woodruff, Mrs. Martin Keller and Mrs. John M. Howard.

In other club news, Scholarship Chairman Mrs. Owen Bell Jr., announced three Fremd High School students have won 1969 summer scholarships. They are Melanie Sowka, Judith Pallme and Gary Motta.

Miss Sowka has an art scholarship at Allerton House, Monticello. She is the daughter of the Ralph Sowkas of Palatine. The Summer Music Project at Northwestern in Evanston will be attended by Miss Pallme, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pallme, Inverness.

Top 7th District Awards Go to Arlington Juniors

Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club did it again — proved itself an outstanding club in the 7th District of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. At the District annual meeting April 16 in Edison Park Methodist Church, the Arlington Juniors collected several top awards for their participation in district-wide projects.

In art, the Juniors received the "outstanding achievement award" for scholarships given to area art students who attend Allerton Park summer art sessions.

In literature, two members of the Arlington club were cited for their excellence in the annual creative writing contest. Mrs. Charles Altman received a first place in the state contest for prose, a first place in the district in children's poetry, a district first place in juvenile fiction and honorable mention for an article.

MRS. JOHN HUTCHISON took three awards: third place in serious poetry, honorable mention for an essay and honorable mention for light verse.

The Arlington Juniors were recognized for their outstanding contribution in Indian Affairs and their work in the area of veterans service. The women have been making regular mailings to servicemen in Vietnam, have sent supplies to the USO on Cam Ranh Bay and have distributed service flags to families of servicemen.

THE FIRST PLACE award in youth work was earned for the successful formation of the first Juniorette Club in the district and in health for the constant effort in the field of cancer education.

In music, the Juniors took an award for the scholarships they gave to music students to attend summer music camps.

An honorable mention was received for collecting over 27 pounds of stamps which were sent to Norway to be sold for the support of Tubfrim, a health clinic for crippled children.

In the area of press relations, the club received first place for the best press book in the district. This book, and reports for the work done in four other categories, will be entered in state competition at the IFWC convention in May.

MRS. ROBERT FLETCHER, president-elect of the Arlington Juniors, gave her report as retiring 7th District Junior Director, mentioning that $1,500 had been made on the February Fair, the annual district ways and means project in which all Junior clubs cooperate.

Mrs. Raymond Crouch, retiring president of the club, has been named Assistant Junior Director for 7th District next year.

New on the Fashion Scene

By United Press International

The night shirtdress, a most beguiling look, is young, demure, appealingly feminine, with big billowy sleeves, a bloused bodice and wide moving skirt. The jewelry to wear with it, suggests Monet: a layered necklace featuring a multitude of slender chains dangling both a mini pendant and a whirling nugget. Nugget drop earrings and a charming swirl pin at the waist heighten the effect of femininity.

The slink dress, disarmingly simple. devastatingly effective, is contoured to the body, flounced low over a soft skirt. Jewelry to wear with it consists of long lariat of lacy motifs and slim chains terminating in tricos of mini-tassels. It can be looped high or low in a long look, doubled around the throat for a high tassel effect, or tied about the waist in an extravagant belt. Delicate tassel earrings and a pair of intricately pierced bracelets add to the air of sophisticated elegance.

RECORDS ARE READY to be shown to the Joliet Diocesan Council of Catholic Women at a convention Saturday in Joliet. Representing St. Walter's Church, Roselle, will be Mrs. Andrew Barclay, chairman of public relations, left, and Mrs. Joseph Tierno, Madinah, chairman of the community affairs commission. Ten other women from the church will also be delegates, along with the pastor, Rev. William Smith.

Juniors Offer Aid

This is national cancer month and the Community Achievement Committee of the Rolling Meadows Junior Womens Club will be distributing literature and posters in the area for this purpose.

The Juniors have recently elected new officers. For the new club year, Mrs. Larry Kellerman will serve as second vice president; Mrs. Denis Richards will be the club's treasurer; and Mrs. Daniel Weber, corresponding secretary. Officers will be installed at the May banquet.

Sorority Activities

Alums Try Crayon Painting

PHI MU
Crayon "painting" will be the subject of the Tuesday, April 29, meeting of Northwest suburban Phi Mu alumnae. The session begins at 7:45 p.m. in the home of Mrs. H. Liesenfeldt, 290 Baxter, Hoffman Estates.

Fellow club member Mrs. W. Dale Rommesburg of Arlington Heights, a former art teacher, will demonstrate the melted crayon technique. No previous experience or talent is needed to participate.

Dress is casual and guests are welcome. Reservations and a list of materials needed may be obtained from the hostess, 529-3644, or from president Mrs. F. M. Brasch, Mount Prospect, 437-5256.

BETA SIGMA PHI

Lambda Delta Chapter held its April 18 meeting at the home of Mrs. Neil Benson, Rolling Meadows. A transferee welcome ritual was given by president Mrs. Bill Smead. Transferees Mrs. Kenton Jens, Arlington Heights; Mrs. Bob Krause, Rolling Meadows; Mrs. Dave Dumm and Mrs. Tina Parker, Buffalo Grove; Mrs. John Hinds, Wheeling; and Mrs. Tom LaCour, Palatine, were each presented with a yellow rose.

Programs for the evening were "Make an Art of Living" presented by Mrs. Ted Anderson, Palatine, and "Let's Match Wits" by Mrs. Paul Capodanno, Palatine.

May Day baskets for Little City of Palatine were made yesterday in the home of Mrs. Peter Moga during the day and at the home of Miss Clarion Soli in the evening.

Mrs. Addison Humphrey, Arlington Heights, will be hostess for the group's Preferential Tea Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

XI ETA RHO chapter saw a program on "Holiday Magic" at a recent meeting and made baby bibs for Lutheran General Hospital.

Little Annette who lives at Lydia Children's Home in Chicago was surprised with an Easter basket made for her by members. The chapter is collecting newspapers as a project to help Annette.

Any area Beta Sigma Phi interested in joining Xi Eta Rho may contact Mrs. L. Legg at 439-3776 or Mrs. R. Miller at 827-3822.

Pakistan Slide Talk For Palatine Nurses

Slides and a discussion of her missionary work in Pakistan will be presented to the Palatine Registered Nurses Club by Dr. Patricia Noecker when the group meets at 8 p.m. Monday. The meeting will be held at the firehouse on Slade Street in Palatine.

Final plans will be made for the annual banquet which will be held May 5 at Martindale's in Crystal Lake. Reservations for the dinner may be made at this meeting.

Area registered nurses interested in attending the meetings, which are held on the fourth Monday of the month, may contact the membership chairman, Mrs. Jack Knotek, 358-6912, or any member of the club.

Dance at St. Mary's

The picture-lined hallway will depict a French Gallery as St. Mary's Altar and Rosary and Holy Name Societies of Buffalo Grove sponsor "April in Paris," their annual spring dance.

The dance will be held Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the school hall. Music will be provided by the Hardt's Melodiers. Tickets are available at the door. Proceeds of the dance will be used to reduce the parish debt.

'Tornado' in Town

Members of the Streamwood Civil Defense will present a movie, "Tornado," and discuss the disaster plan for the village at the meeting on Wednesday of the Hanover Township Nurses Association.

A nominating committee will be appointed to select candidates for the upcoming election of officers.

For further information those interested may contact Mrs. Margaret O'Neil, 400 Berkely, Streamwood.

Use Care in Clean-up

For paint removing and brush cleaning, solvents labeled "non-flammable" are safest, the National Fire Protection Association says. If you must work with flammable ones, it is best to do it outdoors but never in any area where there is an open flame or where anyone is smoking.

Kathleen Miller Is Bride

Yellow and white flowers set the theme of the March 15 wedding of Kathleen D. Miller of Roselle and James R. Bilskey of Lombard. Altar arrangements at St. Paul United Church of Christ, Bloomingdale, were composed of yellow and white mums. The bride's bouquet was of white carnations with yellow roses, and her attendants all carried yellow carnations and pompons.

The Rev. James P. Beecken performed the double ring rites at 5 in the afternoon in a candlelight setting.

The bride's parents are the Roy G. Millers, 11 E. Pine, and the groom is the son of the Henry E. Bilskeys.

AS SHE WAS given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white slipper sat-in gown edged at the elbow-length sleeves and the empire waistline with lace studded in pearls. Medallions of lace accented the sheath skirt and the chapel train.

The bride wore a headpiece of lace petals edged with pearls to hold her elbow-length veil in place.

Her sister, Barbara Miller was maid of honor, wearing a blue karate dress with a high neck banded in Venice lace. The empire-styled gown flowed to the floor with a train of lace.

Wearing identical blue gowns and carrying yellow bouquets were three bridesmaids, Carol Krivanek, Bensenville, and Mary Sue Pieper and Maureen Reardon, both of Roselle.

Also in a blue dress, but a lighter shade, was the 4-year-old flower girl, Tina Bilskey of Westmont, a cousin of the groom. She carried yellow pompons.

Patrick Bilskey, 4, of Lombard was ring bearer. He is a nephew of the groom.

Yellow orchids were worn at the shoulder by the mothers of the bride and groom. Mrs. Miller wore an oyster colored coat dress, and Mrs. Bilskey chose a gold crepe dress.

A DINNER FOR 225 guests followed the ceremony at the Elgin Elks Club. The couple then left for a 2-week honeymoon in Florida.

They are living in an apartment in Wheeling, and the groom works in Chicago as a film processor for Skrudland Photo Service.

The bride, a graduate of Lake Park High School, was in her junior year at Illinois State University before her marriage.

TABS Bridge Date

The first day of May will find the TABS (Thursday Afternoon Bridge) group playing at Salt Creek Country Club, Itasca. The session begins at 10 a.m.

Reservations and cancellations should be phoned to Mrs. G. F. Watson, 437-2164, or Mrs. C. Brock, 437-0909, by Monday.

TABS golfers and any other women interested in the golf group are reminded of the first meeting Tuesday, May 6, at 9 a.m. at the Salt Creek club.

Grow Most Lettuce

Western iceberg lettuce is the generic term used to identify iceberg produced in California and Arizona, representing 85 per cent of all lettuce consumed in the nation.

St. James Officer Installation May 1

The new Parish Center will be the setting for the installation of officers for St. James Catholic Women's Club of Arlington Heights and for their final Morning of Renewal. This event is planned for Thursday, May 1, at 9 a.m.

A Mass will be celebrated by Father Edward Laramie after which the new officers will be installed.

Father Warren McCarthy of St. Mary of the Lake Seminary, Mundelein, is the guest speaker for the Morning of Renewal. His presentation will deal with the "New Theology of Death and the New Theology of Resurrection."

The new officers are Mrs. Herbert Fasth, president; Mrs. Philip Willmarth, 1st vice president; Mrs. Edward Lehan, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Russell Piton, recording secretary; Mrs. William Ganser, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Richard Meyer, treasurer.

Maypole Decorations For CCW Show May 3

Miniature maypole table decorations will set the theme for St. Hubert's Council of Catholic Women's annual fashion show at Itasca Country Club Saturday, May 3.

A maypole will be the background for members of the Hoffman Estates CCW modeling spring and summer fashions from the Lual Shop in Schaumburg and their teenage daughters who will model formal fashions from Rogn's in Elgin. Wigs from Spanish Flair will complement the fashions.

The fashion show will begin with a cocktail hour at noon, followed by luncheon. Reservations are limited and may be obtained from ticket chairman, Mrs. Donald Luchesi, 894-4762.

Co-chairmen of the show are Mrs. Carl Paulson and Mrs. Chris Theros. In charge of decorations are Mrs. Robert Petryl and Mrs. Edward Sigatose.

Spanleys Married 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. John Spanley

The next best thing to celebrating your own golden wedding day is helping good friends celebrate theirs. Mr. and Mrs. John Spanley, former Bensenville residents now living in Sarasota, Fla., were married 50 years ago March 29 and are now back in town to attend festivities for Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Geils on their 50th date of May 9.

John Spanley and Mildred Madhus were born and married in Chicago. They lived in Bensenville for 35 years and were the original owners of Millie's Restaurant, 12 E. Green St. Mr. Spanley was also in the trucking business and later employed by Yale Lock Co. in Addison.

He retired in 1966, and the couple moved to Sarasota the same year.

THEY CELEBRATED their golden wedding date at the Palm Terrace Mobile Home Park where they are assistants to the manager since moving to Sarasota. The clubhouse at the park was decked with gold and white for the evening party on the exact anniversary date.

The Spanleys' daughter, Mrs. Marion Kunkle of Royal Oak, Mich., flew to Florida for the occasion, and their son Jack phoned from Italy. He has been in the U.S. Navy for 27 years and is presently on sea duty in the Mediterranean area.

SAD COMMENTARY ON ARBOR DAY

We witness the demise of the Prospect Heights Garden Club, which languished due to lack of community interest. And then... a telephone check of about a dozen local garden clubs found none with definite planting plans and only one — The Wheeling Garden Club — which plans to contribute money in lieu of elbow to the town beautification committee, as a salute to Arbor Day.

Garden-clubbers, do you know the Cook County Forest Preserve District provides 1,500 free seedlings — just for the asking — for Cook County children? A garden club can order enough for botany or science classes at the local school or sponsor a junior garden club project. "Plant Illinois" northern region chairman is Mrs. Russell Christensen, 8253 Lockwood, Skokie, OR 3-4900.

SALAD LOVERS: The dandelions are in their peak for a little thousand island, oil and vinegar, or whatever you like. I've seen many of the dandelion pickers stalking the saw-toothed species in the parks and woods. If you want to try a little digging, go to areas that you know are untouched by fertilizer and insecticide, and pick the young leaves only. Once the dandelions get to puff-ball stage, that's it for the salad and wine makers.

If grackles and starlings keep working over the lawn, chafe the grubs and other soil insects are underneath. The Chicago Horticultural Society says that turf authorities no longer approve of applying long-lasting insecticides such as DDT. Diazinon (Spectracide) is preferred by many. Controlling soil insects will get rid of the bigger pests. They can't afford to spend their energy pushing through soil which does not contain their natural food. Some of the fertilizer companies manufacture products that are a combination lawn food, soil insect killer and pre-emergence crabgrass killer. Greenfield's Trebl is one that comes to mind off hand.

Planting new trees and shrubs? Be sure to plant them at the same depth they grew in the nursery.

FEEDBACK: Some of our readers seem to be having problems restraining their new seedlings. About all you can do is pinch off the last set of leaves (providing the seedling has four or more sets of true leaves) and pray or keep them in a cold frame. It's still too early to transplant annuals to their permanent spot in the garden. Hang in there until Memorial Day nears.

No solution to pollution, but plants have to "breathe" too. Use your empty window cleaner bottles to spray house plant leaves with water and do wipe them off when the dust clouds settle.

The annual cult of lawn care has become a status symbol in suburbia today. Absorb a few basics if you want a show lawn. Never work on a wet lawn — tromping on soggy turf causes needless compaction, mats the blades, even encourages mold and mildew. Wait at least two days after a rain to cut the lawn.

If mushrooms, mold or mildew show up, give a lawn fungicide like Acti-Dione a fair shake.

If the grass gets out of hand with a growth spurt, due to several days' deluge, go over it, cutting it very high. Lower the mower a half inch to an inch in two days or so, gradually trimming to normal height of 2 to 2½ inches (for merlot blue lawns, which most of us enjoy). Never shear off a long growth in one fell swoop — the shock may injure the lawn, taking weeks to recover (lo, that sick yellow cast!).

MINI PUPPET THEATER

by MARILYN HALLMAN

A large empty facial tissue box can be made into a good stage for mini puppets. (Directions for puppets were in last Friday's paper.) Here's how:

Cut up two corners of the box and open out the side. Snap a clothespin "leg" to each corner of the box. Trim the cut side off even with the bottoms of the clothespins. Paint the box or cover it with colored construction paper. To make it easier to get your puppets up into the box, cut a semi circle out of the back of the stage (figure A).

Set your stage on a chair and sit behind it. And it's on with the mini show!

Concert Starts Drive for Band Shell

Palatine Village Band will kick off a fund-raising drive to purchase a new band shell at its annual spring concert this Sunday, April 27. The concert, scheduled for 4 p.m. in the auditorium at Hersey High School, Rand Road and Thomas, Arlington Heights, is free to the public.

Two guest artists will be featured on the program. C. J. Shoemaker, conductor of bands at North Central College in Naperville and father of the Palatine Village Band musical director, Dr. John R. Shoemaker, will be guest conductor; Ronald Grundberg, former euphonium soloist with the Fifth Army Band, will be guest instrumentalist.

DURING THE course of his extensive musical career, C. J. Shoemaker earned a master's degree at the University of Michigan, was woodwind instructor at the University of Wisconsin Summer Music Clinic for two summers, served as guest instructor of woodwind instruments at Foulton College in St. Louis, Mo., and was principal clarinetist for the Oak Park Symphony Orchestra for several years.

His experience as band conductor includes 34 years in the public school system of Downers Grove, the last six years of which he headed the music department. His Downers Grove High School Band was chosen to perform for an American School Band Directors Association convention held in Chicago, and in 1964 Shoemaker was selected to conduct the All-State High School Band at the annual Illinois Music Educators Conference. At present he is completing his fifth year at North Central College as band conductor and instructor of woodwind instruments.

IN SUNDAY'S concert, Palatine Village Band will perform two selections under the baton of guest conductor C. J. Shoemaker. The first is "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna" and Simeon Roncal's "Marcha 3 de Febrero." The balance of the program, to be conducted by his son, PVB musical director John R. Shoemaker, will include "Vaquero," by Nestico; Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in B Flat Minor"; "Classical Overture," Goss; "Jazz Waltz," Mahaty; and selections from "My Fair Lady," Lerner and Loewe.

The talents of euphonium soloist Ronald Grundberg will be featured in "La Mandolinata," by Herman Bellstedt. In addition to his experience with the Fifth Army Band, Grundberg plays first chair euphonium and is a frequently-heard soloist with the North Shore Concert Band.

THE SPRING CONCERT winds up a most successful 1968-69 season for the Palatine Village Band, according to the director. Its musicians, from more than 10 northwest suburbs, played to hundreds of area residents last summer during the weekly concert series in Palatine's Community Park — which is where that new band shell is so urgently needed, Shoemaker said.

There has been a gratifying rise in attendance for the band's indoor programs this past season, he added. The last concert, played at Forest View High School, was applauded by a near-capacity crowd.

PALATINE VILLAGE Band musical director John R. Shoemaker (left) listens attentively as his father, C. J. Shoemaker, points out a possible change in the program for the band's concert this Sunday at Hersey High School.

Give special thought to providing foods that are easy to eat when feeding children. Samples finger foods such as carrots and celery sticks, cheese cubes, crisp strips of toast, wedges of apples and oranges. Serve meals in small places so children will not need to cut it. Etiquette aside, it's also easier for a young child to drink his soup from a cup than to sip it from a spoon.

Membership is open to musicians from junior high school through college age. Musicians are requested to write for applications to the orchestra personnel manager Mrs. Sylvia Scandora, 26W265 Grand Ave., Wheaton, 60187.

The Metropolitan Youth Orchestra members come from over 20 communities and 50 schools reaching a radius of 100 miles.

Victory over Cancer

Dr. Arthur I. Holleb, chief medical officer of the American Cancer Society, says uterine cancer, only 30 years ago the leading cause of cancer death among women, today is virtually 100 per cent curable — if detected early enough.

Bells Will Ring At Choir Concert

The Elmhurst College Choir will give a concert of sacred choral music at the Prospect Heights Community Church, on Sunday at 8:15 p.m.

An interesting feature of the Choir's presentations is the appearance of a group of its members organized into a Handbell Choir. The Chapel Bell Ringers, as the group is called, holds membership in the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, and is one of relatively small number of such collegiate musical groups. The Chapel Bell Ringers appear in conjunction with the singing of the Choir as well as in a group of numbers especially transcribed or composed for their use.

Virtually all of the music presented by the Elmhurst Choir in its 1969 season is sacred music. The Chapel Bell Ringers also concentrate on the performance of devotional music. Ranging in character from folk hymns to polyphonic motets, and from sixteenth-century composers to contemporary composers, the concerts include works designed to appeal to all tastes in churchly music.

Ronske, James Reelected

Legal Point Delayed Earlier Vote

Paul J. Ronske was reelected to his 10th one-year term as chairman of the DuPage County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Chester L. James, Downers Grove Township assistant supervisor, was re-elected president of the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission following the election of Ronske. James starts his eighth consecutive one-year term as president since joining the commission in 1948.

Ronske has been an assistant supervisor from York Township for 14 years. He has two more years left in his present term.

Election of the chairman of the county board and president of the forest preserve commission originally was slated for Monday, but a legal point of order raised by Gerald Weeks, supervisor from Milton Township, stopped the vote.

Weeks, who received six votes including his own yesterday for the county board chairmanship, said Monday that the election could only be held in a specially called meeting.

DuPage County State's Atty William Hopf agreed. The meeting was called and publication given for yesterday. The forest preserve commission followed suit by calling its meeting for the same time.

The commission and the county board are comprised of the same members, each being a township supervisor or assistant supervisor.

Following other legal questions raised by Weeks and agreed to by Hopf, the county board and forest preserve commission will have to conduct specially called and published meetings from now until the second Monday in June.

The June meeting is the first legal meeting of the year, according to state law.

Addison Township Supervisor Fred Koebbe named Weeks for county board chairman, saying the coming year will see tremendous changes in the county and Weeks was the only man who could handle them.

In the vote, Carl Demme, assistant supervisor of Addison Township, took a stand against the establishment and voted for Weeks with Koebbe.

Elbert Droege and Donald Prindle, also assistant supervisors of Addison Township, voted for Ronske, as did Bloomingdale Township Supervisor Pat Savajano and Assistant Supervisor Donald Jack Wall.

Ronske didn't vote, though Weeks voted for himself.

Weeks told The Register before the meeting that the next time he has a similar matter to bring to the board he will do it privately.

He also called the shot before the meeting when he predicted he would get six votes.

"I have more ammunition (information on legal procedure) that I have gathered since Monday, but I can't and won't use it at this meeting," Weeks said.

Ronske said, after being elected, that the countywide sewer plan and other public works matters would be top priority for the coming year. "The move of county buildings west of Wheaton will also be a priority item," he said.

Ronske will appoint committee chairmen and assign committees later.

Weeks is presently chairman of the finance committee, but said earlier he doubts he will be reappointed.

Erlenborn Bland On Remap

A Congressional redistricting plan which would the Franklin Park, Northlake, and Melrose Park into the 14th District with DuPage County is regarded by U.S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Elimhurst, as a "compact district," at least for him.

The remap plan was introduced by Senate Republicans Tuesday in accord with a U.S. Supreme Court one-man, one-vote ruling.

The plan allegedly would give Republicans three more districts, and is rapped by Democrats as being "gerrymandering," and by some Downstate Republicans as being "a waste of time."

Erlenborn was said Thursday to feel "rather bland" about it.

The comment came from Finley McGrew, Erlenborn's administrative assistant in Washington, D.C.

HE SAID ERLBORN had no particular objection to the Illinois Senate proposal, but "we would rather stay where we were. We got accustomed to it."

Erlenborn's 14th District is comprised of all of DuPage County townships plus three Will County townships.

Under the new proposal, Erlenborn would pick up not only Franklin Park, Northlake, and Melrose Park in Leyden Township but Lemont Township in south Cook County, unincorporated areas in Leyden Township and four more townships in Will County. He would lose Joliet Township in Will County.

According to McGrew, Erlenborn has spoken privately with the U.S. representatives whose territory he would be entering.

All are Republicans — Harold Collier in Leyden Township, Edward Derwinski in Lemont Township, and Leslie Arends in Will County. Arends is senior ranking House Republican.

All, in turn, would move into newly redistricted areas containing most of the areas they now control politically.

McGrew SAID ERLBORN is not concerned about Lemont and the Will County townships, though they reportedly have more Democratic votes than in DuPage County. Erlenborn always has carried the Will County townships in his district against any Democratic opponent.

However, both Erlenborn and McGrew believe "the whole thing (plan) is based on the legal fiction that 1960 census figures are relevant."

The Senate proposal is based on the 1960 census, which McGrew believes sets population at 415,000 for Erlenborn's proposed new district.

He said the 1970 census "probably will show a much larger population," pointing out that DuPage alone now is estimated at over 400,000.

The U.S. Supreme Court recently held that Illinois, New York, and Missouri were in violation of the one-man, one-vote standards.

McGrew said he's not too sure but that the Illinois Senate proposal also falls short of the standards.

HE SAID "A COUPLE of the districts (in Illinois) came out at populations of 430,000 or more, which is 15,000 to 20,000 larger than the smaller districts."

McGrew anticipates that after the 1970 census, the state may find that DuPage County alone will qualify as one Congressional district.

Illinois had 26 Congressional districts prior to 1950, but is down to 24 now. It could go to 23 after 1970, according to McGrew, because "Illinois has been growing rapidly, but not as rapidly as some other states."

Regardless how the new proposal fares in the Illinois Senate this year, Illinois will have to reapportion itself again in 1971.

Await Juvenile Home Plans

Architectural drawings and artist renderings are expected soon for the proposed DuPage County juvenile detention home.

Groundbreaking for the home is slated Sept. 1. The DuPage County Board of Supervisors has been working on plans for several months.

The home is expected to cost about $1,637,000, which would include improvement of the grounds.

Report Runway Closing

Bensenville and suburbs near the south end of O'Hare International Airport should have a relatively quiet summer, free of jet noise. Those to the north will be faced with increased noise.

Chicago officials announced this week that the 10,000-foot east-west runway at the south end of the airport will be closed for 105 days, more than three months.

Ferdinand Rosa, administrative engineer to City Aviation Comr. William Downes, said improvements will be made at the runway, including a new taxiway, a tunnel underneath the runway, and new runway turn-offs.

Improvements will enable planes to taxi off the runway more frequently. Increased use of the runway when improvements are completed in August will most likely result in more noise for residents near the airport.

THE TUNNEL under the runway will be used to gain access to a proposed cargo area planned for east of the Chicago & North Western Railway tracks and north of Illinois 19 (Irving Park Road).

Rosa said the improvements, which are expected to cost $1.4 million, are necessary if the city is to match the increased demands placed on air service.

"The thing Chicago needs is another airport," he said.

Neal Callahan, community relations officer for the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said the closing of the runway will result in added use of O'Hare's other runways.

O'Hare has five major runways, including the one which will be closed.

Those which will be used more frequently include two northwest-southeast runway strips, another east-west runway, and a northeast-southwest runway. Use of runways depends on several factors including the direction of the wind.

DAN VUCUREVICH, control tower chief at O'Hare, said construction, which will require closing the runway originally opened in fall, 1967, will increase the benefits of its use.

The east-west runway is used mostly for departures, he said, adding that when instrument landing equipment is put in at the runway this year more landings will be possible.

He indicated that more noise for residents living near the airport's east-west runway will be a likely result.

Last summer for five months residents in north DuPage County and the Schiller Park area were hit by jet noise when the 11,600-foot northwest-southeast runway was closed for improvements.

ANOTHER northeast-southwest runway is still in the planning stage. It would be located at the southeast end of the airport.

In conjunction with the 3,600-foot runway expected to be started this year, Illinois 19 will be relocated further south.

Roselle Students Set Talent Show Tonight

Students at Trinity Lutheran School, Roselle, will present a talent show tonight at 7:30. Included in the program will be a presentation of the students' art and handicraft projects.

Confirmation of eighth graders at Trinity will take place May 4. The confirmation class will be present at three church services this Sunday to be introduced to the congregation. Pictures of the class will be taken Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

Reinertsen Elected

Norman Reinertsen, principal of Itasca North Junior High School, yesterday was unanimously elected president-elect of the DuPage Valley Division, Illinois Education Association.

He will serve during the coming term when Walter Rundle, Fenton High School teacher, serves as president.

Y-Indian Braves Collecting Paper

Little braves of the Y-Indian Guides in the Twinbrook YMCA area are conducting a paper drive this week, according to Ralph Bielick, chief of the Sauk Nation Indian Guides.

The goal for each little brave is to collect a stack of paper equal to his height.

This is the group's first service project for the community which covers Bloomingdale, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Medinah, Roselle and Schaumburg.

If you see a little Indian brave in your area collecting paper he will be very happy to pick up your old newspapers. If you have not been contacted and have newspapers you would like to have picked up, please contact the Twinbrook YMCA office, 894-8500, or Ralph Bielick, 529-1265, and they will have someone pick up your papers.

The proceeds will go towards a community function within the Twinbrook Y area.

Y-Indian Guide braves are boys in grades one, two and three participating with their fathers learning to be good citizens while promoting one of the important aims of the Y-Indian Guides, to be "pals forever," with dad or son.

Kaufman Named To Library Board

Kenneth Kaufman, assistant superintendent of Bensenville Elementary School Dist. 2, has been named to the Bensenville Community Library board.

He will fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Carol Wehr, who resigned from the board last April. The term ends next year.

Kaufman, 406 S. Walnut St., Bensenville, was appointed assistant superintendent in July, 1967. Before coming to Bensenville in 1966, he was superintendent of schools in Steward, Ill.

Adelberg Denies Using School Funds

A special meeting of the Churchville Elementary School Dist. 3 board was held Wednesday "for the purpose of investigating recent newspaper publications." About 200 citizens attended.

The publications referred to have charged Supt. Arthur J. Adelberg with using district funds for personal purchases. Adelberg's attorney, John Demling, denied the charges and said he had "irreparable proof that not one cent of public funds or anyone's funds were used to purchase his (Adelberg's) house."

Also present at the meeting was Donald Bark, auditor of the district's books for this fiscal year. Bark said his firm would conduct a thorough audit of the district's books if the board so desired.

Board members adjourned into an hour and a half executive session to discuss the matter. When they returned, board member Alan B. Klokowski moved that the board employ the auditing firm to study the books.

When the audit is finished, Klokowski moved, the board should meet to make its decision.

THE MOTION WAS approved. Board President Joseph Labuszewski stated that a progress report on the audit would be made at the board's regular meeting May 12.

Attention has been focused on the Churchville Dist. 3 board since April 14 when it supported the dismissal of a teacher by Adelberg on a charge of "neglect of duty." The teacher, Mrs. Janet Uherka, presented her case to the board at that time. The board voted to uphold the dismissal.

Mrs. Uherka was present at Wednesday's meeting. She said Thursday, "I hope the present issues do not overshadow the real problems of education in the district."

This week, letters were sent to all parents in the district from Adelberg explaining his position in the matter. In the letters, he stated that rocks had been thrown through the windows of his home and that his children had been bothered since the charges originally were made.

A different letter, composed by several teachers, also was placed in the mailboxes of every teacher in the district. The letter stated:

"WE THE UNDERSIGNED would like to state that we are in support of the present administration. We feel that the present administration has been concerned with and allowed for professional growth and creativity of the teaching staff.

"The prime interest of the administration has always been focused in the educational and cultural advancement of the children in the district.

"It has maintained an open mind policy toward new and innovative methods in education and has consistently sought and encouraged the support and cooperation of the community it serves."

According to Mrs. Darwin Walton, one of the initiators of the letter, the purpose of the letter is simply to give teachers who wish to do so an opportunity to lend their support to the administration.

The letters have not yet been presented to the board, Mrs. Walton said. She added that they will be held until the education association makes its comments on the planned for later. The essential facilities of the building are to be designed for 60 youths.

Youths, eight through 17 years old, awaiting court action or transfer to another facility would be detained in the home for periods from three days to three months, on the average, Nolan said.

Now, delinquent youths are put in private homes or other detention facilities in other counties, or simply released, he pointed out.

"By the time the home is built, we will be near the capacity of 30 youths at any given time," he said. The first year of use will be late 1970, when the projected figure is 29 youths.

The facility would not be fenced in or walled, but top security precautions are planned with complete control assured within the home, according to Nolan.

"There will be maximum security without making the youth feel he is in solitary," Nolan said.

"It will be something between a hotel and a jail."

Nolan is working closely with the county board planning committee and courts and education committees which are organizing the plans.

The home will be located on county-owned land about one mile west of Wheaton.

Quad-Village Sanitary Authority Not Down Drain Yet

by RICHARD BARTON

Six men tried to keep a quad-village sanitary authority from going down the drain Tuesday.

Roselle Village Pres. Robert Frantz, Addison's President-elect Robert DeVries, Addison administrator William Drury, village engineers Joseph Pavia and John Freil and outgoing Addison pres. Harry Warthen showed up for what was to be the third meeting of the four villages.

But, Bloomingdale and Glendale Heights officials failed to appear and no affirmative action was taken.

Roselle, Bloomingdale, Addison, and Glendale Heights have been trying to establish a cooperative sewer trunk line and sewage treatment plant.

This was to have been the third meeting between the four villages to hash out guidelines.

Expected to be present were outgoing

Bloomingdale Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp and Glendale Heights Village Pres. William Keating.

HAVERKAMP, Keating, Warthen and Frantz comprised the steering committee for the organization of the cooperative line.

Haverkamp said Wednesday he expected no one to attend the meeting since there were new administrations in Bloomingdale, Glendale Heights, and Addison.

"That is the concern of the new regime, not mine anymore," he said.

"There is nothing I can do now since I will be village president only a short while longer."

Bloomingdale President-elect Robert Meyers said Wednesday he would have gladly attended the meeting if he had known it was being held.

"We are getting no cooperation from Haverkamp in making the transition from his to our administration," Meyers said.

"He doesn't have the best interest of the village in mind by making it as difficult as possible to take over."

MEYERS said he will not "drop the ball" on trying to work with the three other villages in the quad-village plan.

He added he will contact Frantz to get filled in on the details of the plans and former proceedings.

The four villages may meet again after new presidents take office May 1.

Before the scheduled meeting Tuesday, the Addison delegation waited at the Bloomingdale village hall in one car. Parked behind them was J. Richard Koehler, Roselle village engineer.

Village engineers were to issue a feasibility study.

The meeting had been called for 8 p.m. At 8:25 p.m. the Addison delegation told Koehler they were going to wait across the street at a tavern.

At 8:30 p.m., Bloomingdale Trustee Robert McLaughlin drove up and told Koehler that he had talked to Haverkamp earlier and thought he wasn't going to show up. Koehler departed.

Soon, Frantz was seen sitting in his car on the other side of the village hall.

He joined the Addison delegation and the "meeting" was adjourned to Indian Lakes Country Club where an informal discussion of the merits of the sanitary authority and its relationship to the controversial Hoffman-Rosner residential project were discussed.

Comments at first indicated that Bloomingdale was the only village that could get the multi-million dollar commercial-residential development.

Drury later said Addison could annex Hoffman-Rosner without too much trouble because the village limits were only 1,000 feet away.

"If we could get Hoffman-Rosner, we could build an airport southwest of it thatage treatment plant to service its residential project and nearby Campanelli Bros. project for about three years. It would then be abandoned unless first "donated" to Bloomingdale in lieu of tap-on fees.

The quad-village authority representatives said a plant further down the east branch of the DuPage River to service all four villages would be a better but slower alternative.

Ronske, James Reelected

Legal Point Delayed Earlier Vote

Paul J. Ronske was reelected to his 10th one-year term as chairman of the DuPage County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Chester L. James, Downers Grove Township assistant supervisor, was re-elected president of the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission following the election of Ronske. James starts his eighth consecutive one-year term as president since joining the commission in 1949.

Ronske has been an assistant supervisor from York Township for 14 years. He has two more years left in his present term.

Election of the chairman of the county board and president of the forest preserve commission originally was slated for Monday, but a legal point of order raised by Gerald Weeks, supervisor from Milton Township, stopped the vote.

Weeks, who received six votes including his own yesterday for the county board chairmanship, said Monday that the election could only be held in a specially called meeting.

DuPage County State's Atty. William Hoff agreed. The meeting was called and publication given for yesterday. The forest preserve commission followed suit by calling its meeting for the same time.

The commission and the county board are comprised of the same members, each being a township supervisor or assistant supervisor.

Following other legal questions raised by Weeks and agreed to by Hoff, the county board and forest preserve commission will have to conduct specially called and published meetings from now until the second Monday in June.

The June meeting is the first legal meeting of the year, according to state law.

Addison Township Supervisor Fred Koebelman nominated Weeks for county board chairman, saying the coming year will see tremendous changes in the county and Weeks was the only man who could handle them.

In the vote, Carl Demme, assistant supervisor of Addison Township, took a stand against the establishment and voted for Weeks with Koebelman.

Elbert Droegemueller and Donald Prindle, also assistant supervisors of Addison Township, voted for Ronske, as did Bloomingdale Township Supervisor Pat Savatane and Assistant Supervisor Donald Jack Wall.

Ronske didn't vote, though Weeks voted for himself.

Weeks told The Register before the meeting that the next time he has a similar matter to bring to the board he will do it privately.

He also called the shot before the meeting when he predicted he would get six votes.

"I have more ammunition (information on legal procedure) that I have gathered since Monday, but I can't and won't use it at this meeting," Weeks said.

Ronske said, after being elected, that the countywide sewer plan and other public works matters would be top priority for the coming year. "The move of county buildings west of Wheaton will also be a priority item," he said.

Ronske will appoint committee chairmen and assign committees later.

Weeks is presently chairman of the finance committee, but said earlier he doubts he will be reappointed.

Erlenborn Bland On Remap

A Congressional redistricting plan which would tie Franklin Park, Northlake, and Melrose Park into the 14th District with DuPage County is regarded by U.S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Elmhurst, as a "compact district," at least for him.

The remap plan was introduced by Senate Republicans Tuesday in accord with a U.S. Supreme Court one-man, one-vote ruling.

The plan allegedly would give Republicans three more districts, and is rapped by Democrats as being "gerrymandering," and by some Downstate Republicans as being "a waste of time."

Erlenborn was said Thursday to feel "rather bland" about it.

The comment came from Finley McGrew, Erlenborn's administrative assistant in Washington, D.C.

HE SAID ERLBORN had no particular objection to the Illinois Senate proposal, but "we would rather stay where we were. We got accustomed to it."

Erlenborn's 14th District is comprised of all of DuPage County townships plus three Will County townships.

Under the new proposal, Erlenborn would pick up not only Franklin Park, Northlake, and Melrose Park in Leyden Township but Lemont Township in south Cook County, unincorporated areas in Leyden Township and four more townships in Will County. He would lose Joliet Township in Will County.

According to McGrew, Erlenborn has spoken privately with the U.S. representatives whose territory he would be entering.

All are Republicans — Harold Collier in Leyden Township, Edward Derwinski in Lemont Township, and Leslie Arends in Will County. Arends is senior ranking House Republican.

All, in turn, would move into newly redistricted areas containing most of the areas they now control politically.

McGrew SAID ERLBORN is not concerned about Lemont and the Will County townships, though they reportedly have more Democratic votes than in DuPage County. Erlenborn always has carried the Will County townships in his district against any Democratic opponent.

However, both Erlenborn and McGrew believe "the whole thing (plan) is based on the legal fiction that 1960 census figures are relevant."

The Senate proposal is based on the 1960 census, which McGrew believes sets population at 415,000 for Erlenborn's proposed new district.

He said the 1970 census "probably will show a much larger population," pointing out that DuPage alone now is estimated at over 400,000.

The U.S. Supreme Court recently held that Illinois, New York, and Missouri were in violation of the one-man, one-vote standards.

McGrew said he's not too sure but that the Illinois Senate proposal also falls short of the standards.

HE SAID "A COUPLE of the districts (in Illinois) came out at populations of 430,000 or more, which is 15,000 to 20,000 larger than the smaller districts."

McGrew anticipates that after the 1970 census, the state may find that DuPage County alone will qualify as one Congressional district.

Illinois had 26 Congressional districts prior to 1960, but is down to 24 now. It could go to 23 after 1970, according to McGrew, because "Illinois has been growing rapidly, but not as rapidly as some other states."

Regardless how the new proposal fares in the Illinois Senate this year, Illinois will have to reapportion itself again in 1971.

Await Juvenile Home Plans

Architectural drawings and artist renderings are expected soon for the proposed DuPage County juvenile detention home.

Groundbreaking for the home is slated Sept. 1. The DuPage County Board of Supervisors has been working on plans for several months.

The home is expected to cost about $1,637,000, which would include improvement of the grounds.

Cost of the first year construction is anticipated at nearly $500,000 with the remainder spent in the two succeeding years.

Actual construction of the building is expected to take 14 to 16 months.

Average daily occupancy of the home now would be about eight juveniles, according to DuPage County Juvenile Court Judge Robert Nolan.

The home eventually will be designed for 30 youths with an additional two wings capable of accommodating 15 youths each planned for later. The essential facilities of the building are to be designed for 60 youths.

Youths, eight through 17 years old, awaiting court action or transfer to another facility would be detained in the home for periods from three days to three months, on the average, Nolan said.

Now, delinquent youths are put in private homes or other detention facilities in other counties, or simply released, he pointed out.

Report Runway Closing

Bensenville and suburbs near the south end of O'Hare International Airport should have a relatively quiet summer, free of jet noise. Those to the north will be faced with increased noise.

Chicago officials announced this week that the 10,000-foot east-west runway at the south end of the airport will be closed for 105 days, more than three months.

Ferdinand Rosa, administrative engineer to City Aviation Comm. William Downes, said improvements will be made at the runway, including a new taxiway, a tunnel underneath the runway, and new runway turn-offs.

Improvements will enable planes to taxi off the runway more frequently. Increased use of the runway when improvements are completed in August will most likely result in more noise for residents near the airport.

THE TUNNEL under the runway will be used to gain access to a proposed cargo area planned for east of the Chicago & North Western Railway tracks and north of Illinois 19 (Irving Park Road).

Rosa said the improvements, which are expected to cost $1.4 million, are necessary if the city is to match the increased demands placed on air service.

"The thing Chicago needs is another airport," he said.

Neal Callahan, community relations officer for the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said the closing of the runway will result in added use of O'Hare's other runways.

O'Hare has five major runways, including the one which will be closed.

Those which will be used more frequently include two northwest-southeast runway strips, another east-west runway, and a northeast-southwest runway. Use of runways depends on several factors including the direction of the wind.

DAN VUCURVICH, control tower chief at O'Hare, said construction, which will require closing the runway originally opened in fall, 1967, will increase the benefits of its use.

The east-west runway is used mostly for departures, he said, adding that when instrument landing equipment is put in at the runway this year more landings will be possible.

He indicated that more noise for residents living near the airport's east-west runway will be a likely result.

Last summer for five months residents in north DuPage County and the Schiller Park area were hit by jet noise when the 11,600-foot northwest-southeast runway was closed for improvements.

ANOTHER northeast-southwest runway is still in the planning stage. It would be located at the southeast end of the airport.

In conjunction with the 8,600-foot runway expected to be started this year, Illinois 19 will be relocated further south.

Quad-Village Sanitary Authority Not Down Drain Yet

by RICHARD BARTON

Six men tried to keep a quad-village sanitary authority from going down the drain Tuesday.

Roselle Village Pres. Robert Frantz, Addison's President-elect Robert DeVries, Addison administrator William Drury, village engineers Joseph Pavia and John Freil and outgoing Addison pres. Harry Warthen showed up for what was to be the third meeting of the four villages.

But, Bloomingdale and Glendale Heights officials failed to appear and no affirmative action was taken.

Roselle, Bloomingdale, Addison, and Glendale Heights have been trying to establish a cooperative sewer trunk line and sewage treatment plant.

This was to have been the third meeting between the four villages to hash out guidelines.

Expected to be present were outgoing

Bloomingdale Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp and Glendale Heights Village Pres. William Keating.

HAVERKAMP, Keating, Warthen and Frantz comprised the steering committee for the organization of the cooperative line.

Haverkamp said Wednesday he expected no one to attend the meeting since there were new administrations in Bloomingdale, Glendale Heights, and Addison.

"That is the concern of the new regime, not mine anymore," he said. "There is nothing I can do now since I will be village president only a short while longer."

Bloomingdale President-elect Robert Meyers said Wednesday he would have gladly attended the meeting if he had known it was being held.

"We are getting no cooperation from Haverkamp in making the transition from his to our administration," Meyers said.

"He doesn't have the best interest of the village in mind by making it as difficult as possible to take over."

MEYERS SAID he will not "drop the ball" on trying to work with the three other villages in the quad-village plan.

He added he will contact Frantz to get filled in on the details of the plans and former proceedings.

The four villages may meet again after new presidents take office May 1.

Before the scheduled meeting Tuesday, the Addison delegation waited at the Bloomingdale village hall in one car. Parked behind them was J. Richard Koehler, Roselle village engineer.

Village engineers were to issue a feasibility study.

The meeting had been called for 8 p.m. At 8:25 p.m. the Addison delegation told Koehler they were going to wait across the street at a tavern.

At 8:30 p.m., Bloomingdale Trustee Robert McLaughlin drove up and told Koehler that he had talked to Haverkamp earlier and thought he wasn't going to show up. Koehler departed.

Soon, Frantz was seen sitting in his car on the other side of the village hall.

He joined the Addison delegation and the "meeting" was adjourned to Indian Lakes Country Club where an informal discussion of the merits of the sanitary authority and its relationship to the controversial Hoffman-Rosner residential project were discussed.

Comments at first indicated that Bloomingdale was the only village that could get the multi-million dollar commercial-residential development.

Drury later said Addison could annex Hoffman-Rosner without too much trouble because the village limits were only 1,000 feet away.

"If we could get Hoffman-Rosner, we could build an airport southwest of it that would put the DuPage County airport right out of business. It could land corporate jets," Drury said.

The Hoffman project would be bounded by Army Trail Road on the south, Bloomingdale village limits on the north, Bloomingdale Road on the west and the extension of Glen Ellyn Road on the east.

The firm proposes building its own sewer treatment plant to service its residential project and nearby Campanelli Bros. project for about three years. It would then be abandoned unless first "donated" to Bloomingdale in lieu of tap-on fees.

The quad-village authority representatives said a plant further down the east branch of the DuPage River to service all four villages would be a better but slower alternative.

Ticket Sale Good

Itasca police said they are receiving a good response in donations and ticket sales for the sixth annual policeman's ball to be held May 2.

There has been about a 90 per cent purchase response from letters sent out earlier which contained two tickets each.

THE 10-piece Bill Russell Orchestra with vocalist Lavon Carroll will provide the music.

Proceeds will go to the police department to purchase equipment and other items.

Tickets are $1.50 each and can be purchased from any policeman, at the station or at the door.

Board Approves Zoning For R-4

The Bensenville Zoning Board of Appeals last week voted to recommend annexation and R-4 (multiple-family) zoning for almost five acres on east George Street near Addison Creek.

The petitioner is Ralph Cantrell, a local builder, who with the Cantrell and O'Brien Development Corp. is developing a 71-home, 24-acre subdivision known as Brentwood East. Cantrell said "nothing is planned at the moment" for the five acres.

The zoning board's recommendation was made almost 90 days after the public hearing Jan. 34. Ninety days is the maximum time the board is allowed to make a recommendation to the village board.

Tornado Information Will Be Distributed

Literature on how to prepare for a tornado or emergency is to be passed out soon in Wood Dale, according to the local civil defense unit.

In case of a tornado, residents should take over in the southwest corner of a basement or first floor room. They will be alerted by a three-to-five-minute steady blast on the village siren, according to the literature.

Portable radios should be turned on for instructions.

Ronske, James Reelected

Legal Point Delayed Earlier Vote

Paul J. Ronske was reelected to his 10th one-year term as chairman of the DuPage County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Chester L. James, Downers Grove Township assistant supervisor, was reelected president of the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission following the election of Ronske. James starts his eighth consecutive one-year term as president since joining the commission in 1949.

Ronske has been an assistant supervisor from York Township for 14 years. He has two more years left in his present term.

Election of the chairman of the county board and president of the forest preserve commission originally was slated for Monday, but a legal point of order raised by Gerald Weeks, supervisor from Milton Township, stopped the vote.

Weeks, who received six votes including his own yesterday for the county board chairmanship, said Monday that the election could only be held in a specially called meeting.

DuPage County State's Atty. William Hopf agreed. The meeting was called and publication given for yesterday. The forest preserve commission followed suit by calling its meeting for the same time.

The commission and the county board are comprised of the same members, each being a township supervisor or assistant supervisor.

Following other legal questions raised by Weeks and agreed to by Hopf, the county board and forest preserve commission will have to conduct specially called and published meetings from now until the second Monday in June.

The June meeting is the first legal meeting of the year, according to state law.

Addison Township Supervisor Fred Koebelman nominated Weeks for county board chairman, saying the coming year will see tremendous changes in the county and Weeks was the only man who could handle them.

In the vote, Carl Demme, assistant supervisor of Addison Township, took a stand against the establishment and voted for Weeks with Koebelman.

Elbert Droege and Donald Prindle, also assistant supervisors of Addison Township, voted for Ronske, as did Bloomingdale Township Supervisor Pat Saviano and Assistant Supervisor Donald Jack Wall.

Ronske didn't vote, though Weeks voted for himself.

Weeks told The Register before the meeting that the next time he has a similar matter to bring to the board he will do it privately.

He also called the shot before the meeting when he predicted he would get six votes.

"I have more ammunition (information on legal procedure) than I have gathered since Monday, but I can't and won't use it at this meeting," Weeks said.

Ronske said, after being elected, that the countywide sewer plan and other public works matters would be top priority for the coming year. "The move of county buildings west of Wheaton will also be a priority item," he said.

Ronske will appoint committee chairmen and assign committees later.

Weeks is presently chairman of the finance committee, but said earlier he doubts he will be reappointed.

Report Runway Closing

Bensenville and suburbs near the south end of O'Hare International Airport should have a relatively quiet summer, free of jet noise. Those to the north will be faced with increased noise.

Chicago officials announced this week that the 10,000-foot east-west runway at the south end of the airport will be closed for 105 days, more than three months.

Ferdinand Rosa, administrative engineer to City Aviation Comm. William Downes, said improvements will be made at the runway, including a new taxiway, a tunnel underneath the runway, and new runway turn-offs.

Improvements will enable planes to taxi off the runway more frequently. Increased use of the runway when improvements are completed in August will most likely result in more noise for residents near the airport.

THE TUNNEL under the runway will be used to gain access to a proposed cargo area planned for east of the Chicago & North Western Railway tracks and north of Illinois 19 (Irving Park Road).

Rosa said the improvements, which are expected to cost $1.4 million, are necessary if the city is to match the increased demands placed on air service.

"The thing Chicago needs is another airport," he said.

Neal Callahan, community relations officer for the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said the closing of the runway will result in added use of O'Hare's other runways.

O'Hare has five major runways, including the one which will be closed.

Those which will be used more frequently include two northwest-southeast runway strips, another east-west runway, and a northeast-southwest runway. Use of runways depends on several factors including the direction of the wind.

DAN VUCUREVICH, control tower chief at O'Hare, said construction, which will require closing the runway originally opened in fall, 1967, will increase the benefits of its use.

The east-west runway is used mostly for departures, he said, adding that when instrument landing equipment is put in at the runway this year more landings will be possible.

He indicated that more noise for residents living near the airport's east-west runway will be a likely result.

Last summer for five months residents in north DuPage County and the Schiller Park area were hit by jet noise when the 11,600-foot northwest-southeast runway was closed for improvements.

ANOTHER northeast-southwest runway is still in the planning stage. It would be located at the southeast end of the airport.

In conjunction with the 8,600-foot runway expected to be started this year, Illinois 19 will be relocated further south.

Roselle Students Set Talent Show Tonight

Students at Trinity Lutheran School, Roselle, will present a talent show tonight at 7:30. Included in the program will be a presentation of the students' art and handicraft projects.

Confirmation of eighth graders at Trinity will take place May 4. The confirmation class will be present at three church services this Sunday to be introduced to the congregation. Pictures of the class will be taken Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

Reinertsen Elected

Norman Reinertsen, principal of Itasca North Junior High School, yesterday was unanimously elected president-elect of the DuPage Valley Division, Illinois Education Association.

He will serve during the coming term when Walter Rundle, Fenton High School teacher, serves as president.

Erlenborn Bland On Remap

A Congressional redistricting plan which would the Franklin Park, Northlake, and Melrose Park into the 14th District with DuPage County is regarded by U.S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Elmhurst, as a "compact district," at least for him.

The remap plan was introduced by Senate Republicans Tuesday in accord with a U.S. Supreme Court one-man, one-vote ruling.

The plan allegedly would give Republicans three more districts, and is rapped by Democrats as being "gerrymandering," and by some Downstate Republicans as being "a waste of time."

Y-Indian Braves Collecting Paper

Little braves of the Y-Indian Guides in the Twinbrook YMCA area are conducting a paper drive this week, according to Ralph Bleick, chief of the Sauk Nation Indian Guides.

The goal for each little brave is to collect a stack of paper equal to his height.

This is the group's first service project for the community which covers Bloomington, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Medinah, Roselle and Schaumburg.

If you see a little Indian brave in your area collecting paper he will be very happy to pick up your old newspapers. If you have not been contacted and have newspapers you would like to have picked up, please contact the Twinbrook YMCA office, 894-8500, or Ralph Bleick, 529-1285, and they will have someone pick up your papers.

The proceeds will go towards a community function within the Twinbrook Y area.

Y-Indian Guide braves are boys in grades one, two and three participating with their fathers learning to be good citizens while promoting one of the important aims of the Y-Indian Guides, to be "pals forever," with dad or son.

Erlenborn was said Thursday to feel "rather bland" about it.

The comment came from Finley McGrew, Erlenborn's administrative assistant in Washington, D.C.

HE SAID ERLBORN had no particular objection to the Illinois Senate proposal, but "we would rather stay where we were. We got accustomed to it."

Erlenborn's 14th District is comprised of all of DuPage County townships plus three Will County townships.

Under the new proposal, Erlenborn would pick up not only Franklin Park, Northlake, and Melrose Park in Leyden Township but Lemont Township in south Cook County, unincorporated areas in Leyden Township and four more townships in Will County. He would lose Joliet Township in Will County.

According to McGrew, Erlenborn has spoken privately with the U.S. representatives whose territory he would be entering.

All are Republicans — Harold Collier in Leyden Township, Edward Derwinski in Lemont Township, and Leslie Arends in Will County. Arends is senior ranking House Republican.

All, in turn, would move into newly redistricted areas containing most of the areas they now control politically.

McGrew SAID ERLBORN is not concerned about Lemont and the Will County townships, though they reportedly have more Democratic votes than in DuPage County. Erlenborn always has carried the Will County townships in his district against any Democratic opponent.

However, both Erlenborn and McGrew believe "the whole thing (plan) is based on the legal fiction that 1960 census figures are relevant."

The Senate proposal is based on the 1960 census, which McGrew believes sets population at 415,000 for Erlenborn's proposed new district.

He said the 1970 census "probably will show a much larger population," pointing out that DuPage alone now is estimated at over 400,000.

The U.S. Supreme Court recently held that Illinois, New York, and Missouri were in violation of the one-man, one-vote standards.

McGrew said he's not too sure but that the Illinois Senate proposal also falls short of the standards.

HE SAID "A COUPLE of the districts (in Illinois) came out at populations of 430,000 or more, which is 15,000 to 20,000 larger than the smaller districts."

McGrew anticipates that after the 1970 census, the state may find that DuPage County alone will qualify as one Congressional district.

Illinois had 28 Congressional districts prior to 1950, but is down to 24 now. It could go to 23 after 1970, according to McGrew, because "Illinois has been growing rapidly, but not as rapidly as some other states."

Regardless how the new proposal fares in the Illinois Senate this year, Illinois will have to reapportion itself again in 1971.

Await Juvenile Home Plans

Architectural drawings and artist renderings are expected soon for the proposed DuPage County juvenile detention home.

Groundbreaking for the home is slated Sept. 1. The DuPage County Board of Supervisors has been working on plans for several months.

The home is expected to cost about $1,637,000, which would include improvement of the grounds.

Cost of the first year construction is anticipated at nearly $500,000 with the remainder spent in the two succeeding years.

Actual construction of the building is expected to take 14 to 16 months.

Average daily occupancy of the home now would be about eight juveniles, according to DuPage County Juvenile Court Judge Robert Nolan.

The home eventually will be designed for 30 youths with an additional two wings capable of accommodating 15 youths each planned for later. The essential facilities of the building are to be designed for 60 youths.

Youths, eight through 17 years old, awaiting court action or transfer to another facility would be detained in the home for periods from three days to three months, on the average, Nolan said.

Now, delinquent youths are put in private homes or other detention facilities in other counties, or simply released, he pointed out.

"By the time the home is built, we will be near the capacity of 30 youths at any given time," he said. The first year of use will be late 1970, when the projected figure is 29 youths.

The facility would not be fenced in or walled, but top security precautions are planned with complete control assured within the home, according to Nolan.

"There will be maximum security without making the youth feel he is in solitary," Nolan said.

"It will be something between a hotel and a jail."

Nolan is working closely with the county board planning committee and courts and education committees which are organizing the plans.

The home will be located on county-owned land about one mile west of Wheaton.

$800 in Electronics Stolen Out of Auto

Kaufman Named To Library Board

Kenneth Kaufman, assistant superintendent of Bensenville Elementary School Dist. 2, has been named to the Bensenville Community Library board.

He will fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Carol Wehr, who resigned from the board last April. The term ends next year.

Kaufman, 405 S. Walnut St., Bensenville, was appointed assistant superintendent in July, 1967. Before coming to Bensenville in 1966, he was superintendent of schools in Steward, Ill.

Adelberg Denies Using School Funds

A special meeting of the Churchville Elementary School Dist. 3 board was held Wednesday "for the purpose of investigating recent newspaper publications." About 200 citizens attended.

The publications referred to have charged Supt. Arthur J. Adelberg with using district funds for personal purchases. Adelberg's attorney, John Demling, denied the charges and said he had "irreparable proof that not one cent of public funds or anyone's funds were used to purchase his (Adelberg's) house."

Also present at the meeting was Donald Bark, auditor of the district's books for this fiscal year. F said his firm would conduct a thorough audit of the district's books if the board so desired.

Board members adjourned into an hour and a half executive session to discuss the matter. When they returned, board member Alan B. Klokowski moved that the board employ the auditing firm to study the books.

When the audit is finished, Klokowski moved, the board should meet to make its decision.

THE MOTION WAS approved. Board President Joseph Labuszewski stated that a progress report on the audit would be made at the board's regular meeting May 12.

Attention has been focused on the Churchville Dist. 3 board since April 14 when it supported the dismissal of a teacher by Adelberg on a charge of "neglect of duty." The teacher, Mrs. Janet Uherka, presented her case to the board at that time. The board voted to uphold the dismissal.

Mrs. Uherka was present at Wednesday's meeting. She said Thursday, "I hope the present issues do not overshadow the real problems of education in the district."

This week, letters were sent to all parents in the district from Adelberg explaining his position in the matter. In the letters, he stated that rocks had been thrown through the windows of his home and that his children had been bothered since the charges originally were made.

A different letter, composed by several teachers, also was placed in the mailboxes of every teacher in the district. The letter stated:

"WE THE UNDERSIGNED would like to state that we are in support of the present administration. We feel that the present administration has been concerned with and allowed for professional growth and creativity of the teaching staff.

"The prime interest of the administration has always been focused in the educational and cultural advancement of the children in the district.

"It has maintained an open mind policy toward new and innovative methods in education and has consistently sought and encouraged the support and cooperation of the community it serves."

According to Mrs. Darwin Walton, one of the initiators of the letter, the purpose of the letter is simply to give teachers who wish to do so an opportunity to lend their support to the administration.

The letters have not yet been presented to the board, Mrs. Walton said. She added that they will be held until the education association makes its comments on the

Quad-Village Sanitary Authority Not Down Drain Yet

by RICHARD BARTON

Six men tried to keep a quad-village sanitary authority from going down the drain Tuesday.

Roselle Village Pres. Robert Frantz, Addison's President-elect Robert DeVries, Addison administrator William Drury, village engineers Joseph Pavia and John Freil and outgoing Addison pres. Harry Warthen showed up for what was to be the third meeting of the four villages.

But, Bloomingdale and Glendale Heights officials failed to appear and no affirmative action was taken.

Roselle, Bloomingdale, Addison, and Glendale Heights have been trying to establish a cooperative sewer trunk line and sewage treatment plant.

This was to have been the third meeting between the four villages to hash out guidelines.

Expected to be present were outgoing

Bloomingdale Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp and Glendale Heights Village Pres. William Keating.

HAVERKAMP, Keating, Warthen and Frantz comprised the steering committee for the organization of the cooperative line.

Haverkamp said Wednesday he expected no one to attend the meeting since there were new administrations in Bloomingdale, Glendale Heights, and Addison.

"That is the concern of the new regime, not mine anymore," he said.

"There is nothing I can do now since I will be village president only a short while longer."

Bloomingdale President-elect Robert Meyers said Wednesday he would have gladly attended the meeting if he had known it was being held.

"We are getting no cooperation from Haverkamp in making the transition from his to our administration," Meyers said.

"He doesn't have the best interest of the village in mind by making it as difficult as possible to take over."

MEYERS SAID he will not "drop the ball" on trying to work with the three other villages in the quad-village plan.

He added he will contact Frantz to get filled in on the details of the plans and former proceedings.

The four villages may meet again after new presidents take office May 1.

Before the scheduled meeting Tuesday, the Addison delegation waited at the Bloomingdale village hall in one car. Parked behind them was J. Richard Koehler, Roselle village engineer.

Village engineers were to issue a feasibility study.

The meeting had been called for 8 p.m. At 8:25 p.m. the Addison delegation told Koehler they were going to wait across the street at a tavern.

At 8:30 p.m., Bloomingdale Trustee Robert McLaughlin drove up and told Koehler that he had talked to Haverkamp earlier and thought he wasn't going to show up. Koehler departed.

Soon, Frantz was seen sitting in his car on the other side of the village hall.

He joined the Addison delegation and the "meeting" was adjourned to Indian Lakes Country Club where an informal discussion of the merits of the sanitary authority and its relationship to the controversial Hoffman-Rosner residential project were discussed.

Comments at first indicated that Bloomingdale was the only village that could get the multi-million dollar commercial-residential development.

Drury later said Addison could annex Hoffman-Rosner without too much trouble because the village limits were only 1,000 feet away.

"If we could get Hoffman-Rosner, we could build an airport southwest of it that would put the DuPage County airport right out of business. It could land corporate jets," Drury said.

The Hoffman project would be bounded by Army Trail Road on the south, Bloomingdale village limits on the north, Bloomingdale Road on the west and the extension of Glen Ellyn Road on the east.

The firm proposes building its own sewer treatment plant to service its residential project and nearby Campanelli Bros. project for about three years. It would then be abandoned unless first "donated" to Bloomingdale in lieu of tap-on fees.

The quad-village authority representatives said a plant further down the east branch of the DuPage River to service all four villages would be a better but slower alternative.

Ticket Sale Good

Itasca police said they are receiving a good response in donations and ticket sales for the sixth annual policeman's ball to be held May 2.

There has been about a 90 per cent purchase response from letters sent out earlier which contained two tickets each.

THE 18-piece Bill Russell Orchestra with vocalist Lavon Carroll will provide the music.

Proceeds will go to the police department to purchase equipment and other items.

Tickets are $1.50 each and can be purchased from any policeman, at the station or at the door.

Board Approves Zoning For R-4

The Bensenville Zoning Board of Appeals last week voted to recommend annexation and R-4 (multiple-family) zoning for almost five acres on east George Street near Addison Creek.

The petitioner is Ralph Cantrell, a local builder, who with the Cantrell and O'Brien Development Corp. is developing a 71-home, 24-acre subdivision known as Brentwood East. Cantrell said "nothing is planned at the moment" for the five acres.

The zoning board's recommendation was made almost 90 days after the public hearing Jan. 31. Ninety days is the maximum time the board is allowed to make a recommendation to the village board.

Tornado Information Will Be Distributed

Literature on how to prepare for a tornado or emergency is to be passed out soon in Wood Dale, according to the local civil defense unit.

In case of a tornado, residents should take over in the southwest corner of a basement or first floor room. They will be alerted by a three-to-five-minute steady blast on the village siren, according to the literature.

Portable radios should be turned on for instructions.

Ronske, James Reelected

Legal Point Delayed Earlier Vote

Paul J. Ronske was reelected to his 10th one-year term as chairman of the DuPage County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Chester L. James, Downers Grove Township assistant supervisor, was reelected president of the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission following the election of Ronske. James starts his eighth consecutive one-year term as president since joining the commission in 1949.

Ronske has been an assistant supervisor from York Township for 14 years. He has two more years left in his present term.

Election of the chairman of the county board and president of the forest preserve commission originally was slated for Monday, but a legal point of order raised by Gerald Weeks, supervisor from Milton Township, stopped the vote.

Weeks, who received six votes including his own yesterday for the county board chairmanship, said Monday that the election could only be held in a specially called meeting.

DuPage County State's Atty. William Hopf agreed. The meeting was called and publication given for yesterday. The forest preserve commission followed suit by calling its meeting for the same time.

The commission and the county board are comprised of the same members, each being a township supervisor or assistant supervisor.

Following other legal questions raised by Weeks and agreed to by Hopf, the county board and forest preserve commission will have to conduct specially called and published meetings from now until the second Monday in June.

The June meeting is the first legal meeting of the year, according to state law.

Addison Township Supervisor Fred Koebmann nominated Weeks for county board chairman, saying the coming year will see tremendous changes in the county and Weeks was the only man who could handle them.

In the vote, Carl Demme, assistant supervisor of Addison Township, took a stand against the establishment and voted for Weeks with Koebmann.

Elbert Droegebauer and Donald Prindle, also assistant supervisors of Addison Township, voted for Ronske, as did Bloomingdale Township Supervisor Pat Savaiano and Assistant Supervisor Donald Jack Wall.

Ronske didn't vote, though Weeks voted for himself.

Weeks told The Register before the meeting that the next time he has a similar matter to bring to the board he will do it privately.

He also called the shot before the meeting when he predicted he would get six votes.

"I have more ammunition (information on legal procedure) that I have gathered since Monday, but I can't and won't use it at this meeting," Weeks said.

Ronske said, after being elected, that the countywide sewer plan and other public works matters would be top priority for the coming year. "The move of county buildings west of Wheaton will also be a priority item," he said.

Ronske will appoint committee chairmen and assign committees later.

Weeks is presently chairman of the finance committee, but said earlier he doubts he will be reappointed.

Erlenborn Bland On Remap

A Congressional redistricting plan which would divide Franklin Park, Northlake, and Melrose Park into the 14th District with DuPage County is regarded by U.S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Elmhurst, as a "compact district," at least for him.

The remap plan was introduced by Senate Republicans Tuesday in accord with a U.S. Supreme Court one-man, one-vote ruling.

The plan allegedly would give Republicans three more districts, and is rapped by Democrats as being "gerrymandering," and by some Downstate Republicans as being "a waste of time."

Erlenborn was said Thursday to feel "rather bland" about it.

The comment came from Finley McGrew, Erlenborn's administrative assistant in Washington, D.C.

HE SAID ERLBORN had no particular objection to the Illinois Senate proposal, but "we would rather stay where we were. We got accustomed to it."

Erlenborn's 14th District is comprised of all of DuPage County townships plus three Will County townships.

Under the new proposal, Erlenborn would pick up not only Franklin Park, Northlake, and Melrose Park in Leyden Township but Lemont Township in south Cook County, unincorporated areas in Leyden Township and four more townships in Will County. He would lose Joliet Township in Will County.

According to McGrew, Erlenborn has spoken privately with the U.S. representatives whose territory he would be entering.

All are Republicans — Harold Collier in Leyden Township, Edward Derwinski in Lemont Township, and Leale Arends in Will County. Arends is senior ranking House Republican.

All, in turn, would move into newly redistricted areas containing most of the areas they now control politically.

McGrew SAID ERLBORN is not concerned about Lemont and the Will County townships, though they reportedly have more Democratic votes than in DuPage County. Erlenborn always has carried the Will County townships in his district against any Democratic opponent.

However, both Erlenborn and McGrew believe "the whole thing (plan) is based on the legal fiction that 1960 census figures are relevant."

The Senate proposal is based on the 1960 census, which McGrew believes sets population at 415,000 for Erlenborn's proposed new district.

He said the 1970 census "probably will show a much larger population," pointing out that DuPage alone now is estimated at over 400,000.

The U.S. Supreme Court recently held that Illinois, New York, and Missouri were in violation of the one-man, one-vote standards.

McGrew said he's not too sure but that the Illinois Senate proposal also falls short of the standards.

HE SAID "A COUPLE of the districts (in Illinois) came out at populations of 430,000 or more, which is 15,000 to 20,000 larger than the smaller districts."

McGrew anticipates that after the 1970 census, the state may find that DuPage County alone will qualify as one Congressional district.

Illinois had 26 Congressional districts prior to 1950, but is down to 24 now. It could go to 23 after 1970, according to McGrew, because "Illinois has been growing rapidly, but not as rapidly as some other states."

Regardless how the new proposal fares in the Illinois Senate this year, Illinois will have to reapportion itself again in 1971.

Await Juvenile Home Plans

Architectural drawings and artist renderings are expected soon for the proposed DuPage County juvenile detention home.

Groundbreaking for the home is slated Sept. 1. The DuPage County Board of Supervisors has been working on plans for several months.

The home is expected to cost about $1,637,000, which would include improvement of the grounds.

Y-Indian Braves Collecting Paper

Little braves of the Y-Indian Guides in the Twinbrook YMCA area are conducting a paper drive this week, according to Ralph Bielick, chief of the Sauk Nation Indian Guides.

The goal for each little brave is to collect a stack of paper equal to his height.

This is the group's first service project for the community which covers Bloomingdale, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Medinah, Roselle and Schaumburg.

If you see a little Indian brave in your area collecting paper he will be very happy to pick up your old newspapers. If you have not been contacted and have newspapers you would like to have picked up, please contact the Twinbrook YMCA office, 894-8500, or Ralph Bielick, 829-1285, and they will have someone pick up your papers.

The proceeds will go towards a community function within the Twinbrook Y area.

Y-Indian Guide braves are boys in grades one, two and three participating with their fathers learning to be good citizens while promoting one of the important aims of the Y-Indian Guides, to be "pals forever," with dad or son.

Kaufman Named To Library Board

Kenneth Kaufman, assistant superintendent of Bensenville Elementary School Dist. 2, has been named to the Bensenville Community Library board.

He will fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Carol Wehr, who resigned from the board last April. The term ends next year.

Kaufman, 408 S. Walnut St., Bensenville, was appointed assistant superintendent in July, 1967. Before coming to Bensenville in 1966, he was superintendent of schools in Steward, Ill.

Adelberg Denies Using School Funds

A special meeting of the Churchville Elementary School Dist. 3 board was held Wednesday "for the purpose of investigating recent newspaper publications." About 200 citizens attended.

The publications referred to have charged Supt. Arthur J. Adelberg with using district funds for personal purchases. Adelberg's attorney, John Demling, denied the charges and said he had "irreparable proof that not one cent of public funds or anyone's funds were used to purchase his (Adelberg's) house."

Also present at the meeting was Donald Bark, auditor of the district's books for this fiscal year. Bark said his firm would conduct a thorough audit of the district's books if the board so desired.

Board members adjourned into an hour and a half executive session to discuss the matter. When they returned, board member Alan B. Klokowski moved that the board employ the auditing firm to study the books.

When the audit is finished, Klokowski moved, the board should meet to make its decision.

THE MOTION WAS approved. Board President Joseph Labuszewski stated that a progress report on the audit would be made at the board's regular meeting May 12.

Attention has been focused on the Churchville Dist. 3 board since April 14 when it supported the dismissal of a teacher by Adelberg on a charge of "neglect of duty." The teacher, Mrs. Janet Uherka, presented her case to the board at that time. The board voted to uphold the dismissal.

Mrs. Uherka was present at Wednesday's meeting. She said Thursday, "I hope the present issues do not overshadow the real problems of education in the district."

This week, letters were sent to all parents in the district from Adelberg explaining his position in the matter. In the letters, he stated that rocks had been thrown through the windows of his home and that his children had been bothered since the charges originally were made.

A different letter, composed by several teachers, also was placed in the mailboxes of every teacher in the district. The letter stated:

"WE THE UNDERSIGNED would like to state that we are in support of the present administration. We feel that the present administration has been concerned with and allowed for professional growth and creativity of the teaching staff.

"The prime interest of the administration has always been focused in the educational and cultural advancement of the children in the district.

"It has maintained an open mind policy toward new and innovated methods in education and has consistently sought and encouraged the support and cooperation of the community it serves."

According to Mrs. Darwin Walton, one of the initiators of the letter, the purpose of the letter is simply to give teachers who wish to do so an opportunity to lend their support to the administration.

The letters have not yet been presented to the board, Mrs. Walton said. She added that they will be held until the education association makes its comments on the planned for later. The essential facilities of the building are to be designed for 60 youths.

Youths, eight through 17 years old, awaiting court action or transfer to another facility would be detained in the home for periods from three days to three months, on the average, Nolan said.

Now, delinquent youths are put in private homes or other detention facilities in other counties, or simply released, he pointed out.

"By the time the home is built, we will be near the capacity of 30 youths at any given time," he said. The first year of use will be late 1970, when the projected figure is 29 youths.

The facility would not be fenced in or walled, but top security precautions are planned with complete control assured within the home, according to Nolan.

"There will be maximum security without making the youth feel he is in solitary," Nolan said.

"It will be something between a hotel and a jail."

Nolan is working closely with the county board planning committee and courts and education committees which are organizing the plans.

The home will be located on county-owned land about one mile west of Wheaton.

$800 in Electronics Stolen Out of Auto

More than $800 in electronic equipment was reported stolen Wednesday from a car parked in the Georgetown Square shopping center lot in Wood Dale. James Marconi, of 245 Washington Square, reported the theft to police.

Report Runway Closing

Bensenville and suburbs near the south end of O'Hare International Airport should have a relatively quiet summer, free of jet noise. Those to the north will be faced with increased noise.

Chicago officials announced this week that the 10,000-foot east-west runway at the south end of the airport will be closed for 105 days, more than three months.

Ferdinand Rosa, administrative engineer to City Aviation Comr. William Downes, said improvements will be made at the runway, including a new taxiway, a tunnel underneath the runway, and new runway turn-offs.

Improvements will enable planes to taxi off the runway more frequently. Increased use of the runway when improvements are completed in August will most likely result in more noise for residents near the airport.

THE TUNNEL under the runway will be used to gain access to a proposed cargo area planned for east of the Chicago & North Western Railway tracks and north of Illinois 19 (Irving Park Road).

Rosa said the improvements, which are expected to cost $1.4 million, are necessary if the city is to match the increased demands placed on air service.

"The thing Chicago needs is another airport," he said.

Neal Callahan, community relations officer for the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said the closing of the runway will result in added use of O'Hare's other runways.

O'Hare has five major runways, including the one which will be closed.

Those which will be used more frequently include two northwest-southeast runway strips, another east-west runway, and a northeast-southwest runway. Use of runways depends on several factors including the direction of the wind.

DAN VUCUREVICH, control tower chief at O'Hare, said construction, which will require closing the runway originally opened in fall, 1967, will increase the benefits of its use.

The east-west runway is used mostly for departures, he said, adding that when instrument landing equipment is put in at the runway this year more landings will be possible.

He indicated that more noise for residents living near the airport's east-west runway will be a likely result.

Last summer for five months residents in north DuPage County and the Schiller Park area were hit by jet noise when the 11,600-foot northwest-southeast runway was closed for improvements.

ANOTHER northeast-southwest runway is still in the planning stage. It would be located at the southeast end of the airport.

In conjunction with the 8,600-foot runway expected to be started this year, Illinois 19 will be relocated further south.

Roselle Students Set Talent Show Tonight

Students at Trinity Lutheran School, Roselle, will present a talent show tonight at 7:30. Included in the program will be a presentation of the students' art and handicraft projects.

Confirmation of eighth graders at Trinity will take place May 4. The confirmation class will be present at three church services this Sunday to be introduced to the congregation. Pictures of the class will be taken Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

Reinertsen Elected

Norman Reinertsen, principal of Itasca North Junior High School, yesterday was unanimously elected president-elect of the DuPage Valley Division, Illinois Education Association.

He will serve during the coming term when Walter Rundle, Fenton High School teacher, serves as president.

Quad-Village Sanitary Authority Not Down Drain Yet

by RICHARD BARTON

Six men tried to keep a quad-village sanitary authority from going down the drain Tuesday.

Roselle Village Pres. Robert Frantz, Addison's President-elect Robert DeVries, Addison administrator William Drury, village engineers Joseph Pavla and John Freel and outgoing Addison pres. Harry Warthen showed up for what was to be the third meeting of the four villages.

But, Bloomingdale and Glendale Heights officials failed to appear and no affirmative action was taken.

Roselle, Bloomingdale, Addison, and Glendale Heights have been trying to establish a cooperative sewer trunk line and sewage treatment plant.

This was to have been the third meeting between the four villages to hash out guidelines.

Expected to be present were outgoing

Bloomingdale Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp and Glendale Heights Village Pres. William Keating.

HAVERKAMP, Keating, Warthen and Frantz comprised the steering committee for the organization of the cooperative line.

Haverkamp said Wednesday he expected no one to attend the meeting since there were new administrations in Bloomingdale, Glendale Heights, and Addison.

"That is the concern of the new regime, not mine anymore," he said.

"There is nothing I can do now since I will be village president only a short while longer."

Bloomingdale President-elect Robert Meyers said Wednesday he would have gladly attended the meeting if he had known it was being held.

"We are getting no cooperation from Haverkamp in making the transition from his to our administration," Meyers said.

"He doesn't have the best interest of the village in mind by making it as difficult as possible to take over."

MEYERS SAID he will not "drop the ball" on trying to work with the three other villages in the quad-village plan.

He added he will contact Frantz to get filled in on the details of the plans and former proceedings.

The four villages may meet again after new presidents take office May 1.

Before the scheduled meeting Tuesday, the Addison delegation waited at the Bloomingdale village hall in one car. Parked behind them was J. Richard Koehler, Roselle village engineer.

Village engineers were to issue a feasibility study.

The meeting had been called for 8 p.m. At 8:25 p.m. the Addison delegation told Koehler they were going to wait across the street at a tavern.

At 8:30 p.m., Bloomingdale Trustee Robert McLaughlin drove up and told Koehler that he had talked to Haverkamp earlier and thought he wasn't going to show up. Koehler departed.

Soon, Frantz was seen sitting in his car on the other side of the village hall.

He joined the Addison delegation and the "meeting" was adjourned to Indian Lakes Country Club where an informal discussion of the merits of the sanitary authority and its relationship to the controversial Hoffman-Rosner residential project were discussed.

Comments at first indicated that Bloomingdale was the only village that could get the multi-million dollar commercial-residential development.

Drury later said Addison could annex Hoffman-Rosner without too much trouble because the village limits were only 1,000 feet away.

"If we could get Hoffman-Rosner, we could build an airport southwest of it that age treatment plant to service its residential project and nearby Campanelli Bros. project for about three years. It would then be abandoned unless first "donated" to Bloomingdale in lieu of tap-on fees.

The quad-village authority representatives said a plant further down the east branch of the DuPage River to service all four villages would be a better but slower alternative.

Teacher Pay Plan

District 211's school board was expected to ratify a new salary policy for teachers for the 1969-70 school year last night. If approved, the plan would provide a minimum raise of $700.

A teacher with a bachelor's degree who has no prior teaching experience will receive a salary of $7,300, under the new plan.

Of primary significance in this year's salary agreement is the omission of merit raises, which long has been the basis of salary increases in Dist. 211, one of the last high school districts in the area to use the system.

For the past several years, the Teachers' Association has requested abolishing merit raises, but could not sway the school board to agree until this year.

In the new plan, an automatic index scale has been established based on teachers' level of education and experience.

A YEAR OF EXPERIENCE is valued at 5 per cent of the base salary or $365. Movement from one level of education to another is valued at 10 per cent of $730.

The three levels of education accepted in the plan are a bachelor's master's, and master's plus 30 hours of graduate work.

If a teacher has not received a master's degree by the end of his eighth year in the system, he is automatically stopped on the index. The same would apply to a teacher whose performance in the classroom is not satisfactory during the preceding year.

Such teachers remain "frozen" until the conditions for movement on the index are met.

A teacher beginning his career next year can look forward to a potential yearly income of $15,330, but only after he has met an education requirement of 30 hours beyond the master's degree. He would also have to perform satisfactorily in the classroom for 18 years.

THE BOARD OF Education and Teachers Association approved the index. They called it "a major gain in the district's struggle to attract and retain a high caliber of teachers particularly in this area where most other high school districts have similar plans."

School officials described the index as desirable for two reasons.

A teacher's salary is based on the beginning teacher salary, so that the relationship between the lower and upper salary ranges always remain the same.

A career is established in classroom teaching, providing the teacher with the opportunity to advance through experience and education, without having to leave the classroom or even teaching to reach the average level of income in the community.

IN DETERMINING the step at which to place a teacher on the index, teachers employed on Sept. 1, who had not received an M.A., had experience of 10 or more years in the district and 15 or more hours beyond a B.A. should be allowed to progress two additional steps beyond the seventh; one eighth step of 1.34 and a ninth step of 1.37. No other teacher may progress beyond the seventh year of experience without a master's degree.

The maximum raise would be set at $2,000, except that a teacher who obtains an M.A. degree or qualifies for the M.A. plus 30 track between Sept. 1, 1968 and Sept. 1, 1969, shall receive a raise no greater than $2,730.

A teacher whose raise is calculated at less than $700, shall be placed at the next higher step, so no teacher's raise is less than the original raise of $700. Those teachers would remain at that step until they qualify for a higher step.

AT THE CONTROLS in this learning situation at Campanelli School is Bruce Trevor, Dist. 54 substitute teacher and pilot for American Airlines. Trevor has been a substitute teacher in the district since 1966. He resides at 588 Chippendale Place, Hoffman Estates.

Downey Looks Ahead

by PAT GERLACH

"I feel very responsible to the people of Hoffman Estates and I am extremely concerned about the awesome and cautious exercise of the presidential powers," Frederick E. Downey said in a post-election interview this week.

Downey, 39, who was elected village president in a Republican sweep of the village last week, also told The Herald he is doubly aware of the challenge of his responsibilities because of the "large vote of confidence" placed in him by the electors.

He tallied 1,633 votes in the April 15 election compared with 808 ballots cast for Atty. John F. Morrissey of the Hoffman Independent Party (HIP), and 744 votes which went to Howard "Jack" Noble, a current village trustee who led the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP).

"As a member and president of the Dist. 54 board of education I also felt an identical responsibility for the education of the elementary school children in our district," he said.

HE VIEWS THE HIRING of a village manager and planning for construction of a municipal building as several of the top priorities for his administration during the next few months, but stressed that there are also many other areas of concern needing fairly immediate attention.

Downey said that the day following his election he contacted Dr. Frank Endicott and his assistant Dr. William Hazard, both of the Northwestern University Placement Bureau, to make preliminary arrangements for a search for suitable candidates for the vacant managerial spot.

Endicott, who assisted Dist. 54 in the selection of former Supt. Kenneth Underwood, has been invited to attend the May 8 village board meeting to discuss job specifications with the trustees, Downey explained.

THE NEW VILLAGE president also plans to have his legal counsel review the existing village manager ordinance effected several years back to determine if revision is needed.

Indicating an amazing amount of organization which has taken place during the past week, the new president has set up methods to achieve implementation of all six planks in the village GOP platform on which he ran.

"During a talk with Chief John O'Connell last week, he particularly mentioned the deplorable working conditions under which the police department now operates," Downey explained in stressing the need for additional space.

Regarding appointments to various committees and boards, Downey said he is moving "rapidly to reappoint or interview new personnel."

"This is one of the most difficult areas in which to get qualified people, and it is certainly not just Republicans that we have in mind," he commented.

ALTHOUGH DOWNEY and his three new trustees and village clerk were sworn in last Saturday, much controversy has arisen since over just when he will be officially seated as president.

Roy L. Jenkins, retiring president, has refused to give up his post until the first board meeting next month, and has a supporting legal opinion from Village Atty. Peter Schultz.

Downey and his people have a legal opinion from their counsel which upholds their contention that they have been elected, notified of the canvass resolution adopted last week, and have been sworn in and are now in authority.

Downey said he expected to take office at last night's meeting and plans to propoganda detailing matters to be discussed at that time.

He explained that he has resigned the committee structure and will announce the establishment of two groups — a finance and a public works committee — on which all six trustees will serve.

THE FINANCE committee will be concerned with sources of revenue and expenditures, and the public works group will handle matters pertaining to water.

Death Accidental

An inquest held yesterday morning ruled that the death of a Schaumburg teenage boy Tuesday from carbon monoxide poisoning was accidental.

Paul M. Lippold Jr., 15, 834 Duxbury Lane, Schaumburg, was discovered lying in the front seat of his car in the family garage Tuesday evening by his mother. He was taken to St. Alexius Hospital and was pronounced dead on arrival.

Police said the boy had apparently been working on the engine of his car. The car hood was up, police stated, and tools were placed on the left front fender.

When the boy was found in the car, he was covered with a blanket.

MRS. LORRAINE LIPPOLD, mother of the victim, said she found her son in the car about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday after she returned home, noticed his car, and then searched the house for him. She then summoned help.

According to his mother, Paul Lippold was supposed to begin work at a gas station in Schaumburg Tuesday. The boy left home 6:30 a.m. Tuesday to go to work, she told police. However, his employer, Shelby Jones, said the youth had failed to show up as scheduled.

Friends of the Lippold youth told police that he had not been unhappy or despondent.

Graveside services for Paul will be held today in Evergreen Cemetery in Detroit, Mich.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Sherry Hansen, Austin, Texas; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Dearborn, Mich.; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Elmore Lippold.

Sub Teachers Like Mixed Bag

by DAN BRANNAN

What does a housewife with three children have in common with a pilot for a major airline? Quick now!

The answer is that both are substitute teachers in Dist. 54 classrooms when a regular teacher becomes ill. The Schaumburg Township school district has approximately 70 qualified substitutes registered for duty when needed.

At 7 a.m. on a school day, Mrs. Flo Ewen, Dist. 54 office secretary, starts taking the phone calls from regular teachers who will be unable to meet with their classes that day. Her job is to search through the files and line up a teaching replacement.

In nearly every case, a qualified substitute teacher is on duty by 8:30.

NORMALLY, between 25 and 30 substitutes are needed on a given school day. Most absences are due to teacher illness or unexpected emergencies.

"During the peak of the flu season, we needed as many as 45 substitute teachers each day," said Ronald Ruble, Dist. 54 director of personnel.

Many local housewives serve as substitute teachers in Dist. 54 schools. But the list also includes 12 airline pilots who reside in this area, a minister, a salesman, a chiropractor, and former Dist. 54 teachers. Most live in the district.

These substitute teachers are paid $22.50 per day.

To qualify for substitute teaching, a person must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited school, hold a valid Illinois teaching certificate of some type, or else have had two years of teaching experience plus at least 60 semester hours of credits, including six hours of professional education.

"Teachers are only human," Ruble stated, "and they are subject to illness, unexpected emergencies and personal problems. But their work in the classroom must go on without interruption. It is therefore necessary that we have capable and dedicated substitute teachers ready to step in and take over. These persons provide an important service to the children, the schools and the community."

RUBLE NOTED that Dist. 54 substitute teachers have the option of deciding what days they are available for teaching, what schools they prefer, and what grades they prefer. "The individual always has the option to say no," he remarked.

Dist. 54 provides a handbook for all substitute teachers in which that person's role is explained, according to the personnel director. In addition, an orientation session is held at the beginning of each school year.

"Some individuals prefer to teach only certain grades, while others will teach any grade," explained Mrs. Ewen, who is in charge of substitute files. A substitute can teach up to a maximum of 90 days per year.

Mrs. Virginia McNaughton, 244 Ashley Road, Hoffman Estates, does substitute teaching in grades three through six. She is also a library board member.

Another Dist. 54 substitute teacher is the Rev. David Eugh, of Hanover Park, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Living Christ and Village trustee.

BRUCE TREVOR, an American Airlines pilot, has been a substitute teacher in Dist. 54 since 1966. Trevor, who lives at 588 Chippendale Place, Hoffman Estates, considers teaching a great change of pace.

According to Twinbrook Principal R. K. Driggers, a replacement for a substitute teacher was once needed when the first substitute was called home to nurse an injured child.

"Substitute teaching allows many housewives with teaching experience to maintain their interest in education," Ruble said.

Any person interested in doing substitute teaching in Dist. 54 may contact Ruble through the Dist. 54 administrative office, 105 Audubon Place, Hoffman Estates, 529-1806.

"Some of our present full-time teachers started out as substitutes," Ruble noted.

School Sign-Up

Registration for Dist. 54 pupils entering kindergarten next September will be held May 8 at the district's 14 elementary schools.

Parents are to register their children at their neighborhood schools. Approximately 1,800 pupils are expected to begin kindergarten next fall. There will be about 60 classes.

Registration hours at each school will be from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. Parents whose last names begin with A through L will register in the morning and those whose last names begin with M through Z are to register in the afternoon.

Children entering school for the first time will need a birth certificate to register. All children entering kindergarten next year must be 5 by Dec. 1, 1969.

Illinois law requires that children entering public schools for the first time or entering kindergarten must have a physical examination. Dental examinations are a part of this physical examination. Forms for the examinations will be issued to parents on May 8.

Parents are urged to make appointments as early as possible in order to avoid the late summer rush before school.

There will be a book and materials fee of $3.75 for each kindergarten child. This fee will be collected prior to the opening of school Aug. 21. On that date the pupils will receive their class and teacher assignments.

Humphreys Reelected Head of Park Board

Harold Humphreys was reelected president of the Hanover Park Park District this week. Humphreys has served as president for the last two years.

James Lyons was elected vice president. Lyons and Humphreys were elected to six-year terms on the park board April 15. Both have been serving as appointed commissioners.

Other reappointments were Harold Soucie, treasurer; Nancy Nielson, secretary, and James Kamradt, recreation director.

Commissioner Richard Baker submitted his resignation. He is mayor-elect of the village. Baker was appointed to the park board in November.

Between The Lines

Open Up Housing

by MARY REIFSCNEIDER

The elections are over, new village board members are seated and it's time to take open housing proposals off the ice.

The Hoffman-Schaumburg Clergy Council has presented both the Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg village boards with a statement urging the passage of local fair housing laws. Both communities laid the proposal aside until after the election.

Leaders in neither community appear to see the need for such legislation and the proposals will surely die unless residents who agree with the clergy council step forward.

We don't agree with the statement offered by some officials that local fair housing ordinances would serve no purpose since federal and state laws exist in that area.

THE 1966 FEDERAL law requires that complaints of discrimination filed with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development be referred to a local or state agency for initial investigation in any municipality or state that has a fair housing law.

So, if someone has a complaint in Schaumburg or Hoffman Estates, wouldn't it be better to have it investigated by a local group that would probably have a better understanding of the problem and situation than the state agency? Isn't this concept really in keeping with the home rule philosophy that every local official holds so dear?

Fair housing ordinances don't give one group (minorities) privileges taken from the majority. What an ordinance basically ensures is every man's dignity, regardless of race. What's so terrible about that?

And the fact that minority families are now living in Schaumburg Township without incident is moot. We need to look to the future.

WE AGREE WITH the statement of the clergy council that the silence, by not passing open housing ordinances, is very loud. Chicago has adopted a fair-housing ordinance. So have Elk Grove Village, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Glen Ellyn, Wheaton, and a score of other Chicago suburban communities.

By not grappling with the issue as other communities have, our village is being heard. Whether we mean it or not, our silence is resounding throughout Chicago, and it sounds like "Blacks, stay out."

We think the vast majority of local residents are people of good will who wouldn't discriminate, but let's make the stand official and adopt open housing ordinances.

Downey Is Aware of The Challenge

streets, buildings and grounds, Downey said.

In the past, the board has operated with six separate committees with all trustees holding a chairmanship.

In the area of the police department, Downey will not use a committee to regulate that function, but prefers to have Chief O'Connell, whom he plans to reappoint immediately, report to the board monthly.

Other planned action for the first board meeting included appointment of Edward Hofert to replace Schultz as village attorney, Downey said.

Concerning a master plan, under preparation for the past six years, Downey said he has only seen a map "which is now out of date" but plans to schedule a meeting with Tec-Search, Inc., municipal planners retained by the village, as soon as possible.

"I WOULD LIKE TO study the plan, which I presume must be fairly good because I know Tec-Search is a very reputable firm," he said.

He discounted the possibility of quick adoption of the plan before he takes office "because there has been no public hearing and I just don't think you can pass something like this without one."

In the area of improving the relationship of the village with neighboring Schaumburg, Downey said this matter tops the list of cooperative ventures planned in line with the platform.

Although he definitely feels that the village "should get out of the recreation business," he has no firm plans calling for release of the Community Pool from village control to the park district as yet.

"I feel that this pool has been operating at a financial loss to the village, although I have not been able to see any figures to back this up," Downey said.

REGARDING A MORE than $1 million fraud suit instituted by the Teamsters Pension Fund late last year, Downey said he has received no communication from village officials or anyone else involved in the litigation and has thus far been unable to determine the status of the suit.

He hopes to have full cooperation of the three incumbent trustees — James Sloan, William Cowin, and Noble although he has received no indication of support since the election.

"It seems that there is so much to be done... all we can do is go in and roll up our sleeves," the new village president said.

Cite Keller Honor Pupils

Golf Rd. Section Closed For A Day

A section of Golf Road will be closed tomorrow starting at 5 a.m. for completion of water pipe installation. The section closed will be from Meacham Road to Route 53, police said.

Traffic will be rerouted south of Meacham to Higgins Road, and then east on Higgins to Route 53. According to police, the detour might possibly be in effect until Saturday evening.

Sign Up for Park Fun

Registration for the final lap and acrobatics lessons offered by Hanover Park Park District this season will be May 10 and 17, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Longmeadows Activities Center.

Classes will run May 24 through June 13. The program will be resumed in June.

On June 13, dance students will have an open house for parents at the activities center where skills will be displayed.

Dance classes for the fall include an advanced ballet course for students with three or four years training. The fall program will also include adult dancing instruction.

Hanover Park girls enrolled in the district's baton class will march in several parades this spring and summer.

On May 30 the girls will appear in a parade in Geneva and on July 4 they'll march in the annual Streamwood Independence Day parade. July 13 they'll be marching in the local "I Am an American Day" parade. On Aug. 9, they'll appear in the Algonquin parade.

The twirlers will also compete in the state tournament July 15 at St. Charles.

The baton classes will continue in the fall.

The district plans to offer women's softball league this spring. The board is trying to find suitable field. Pres. Harold Humphreys said if necessary, a ball field at a Dist. 48 school will be used.

The park district ball field near Highlands School has water standing for several days after rain, it was reported. Humphreys suggested investigating the possibility of filling in low areas with sand and dirt.

Ladies Aid Society To Hold Beef Dinner

The annual beef dinner, sponsored by the Ladies Aid Society of St. Peter Lutheran Church, Schaumburg, will be Sunday.

A limited number of tickets will be sold at the door, or tickets may be purchased from any society member. Dinner will be served from noon to 3 p.m.

The price for adults is $2.25, children 7 to 12, $1, and children 3 to 6, 50 cents.

The church is on Schaumburg Road, one-half mile east of Roselle Road.

District Schools Get High Marks

Dist. 211 high schools scored high marks in the Illinois High School Association Band Contest held at Round Lake recently.

Conant High School received a superior rating in prepared music, in which the band plays two concert selections and a march for three judges. The second part included sight reading, with the music unknown to the band ahead of time. They were awarded an excellent rating by the judge in this category.

The band was directed by Dave Hans. The choir, under the direction of Donald Breshears, received a superior rating in prepared numbers, and good in the sight reading category, for an overall rating of excellent.

Conant also entered a girls chorus, with the same results.

PALATINE HIGH School, under the direction of Tom Trimborn, won superior ratings in the prepared selections. In sight reading, the band was judged excellent.

The chorus, directed by David Reiser, received an excellent rating, after superior marks in prepared and good in sight reading.

William Fremd High School's band was directed by Jeffrey Corbin and the choir by Carl Ghidister. The band received a superior rating in prepared music and excellent in sight reading, while the choir had superior honors.

Notes on Youth

Bridge the Gap

(This column is written as a public service by the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth.)

We hear a great deal now about the "communication gap" between the generations. If such a gap does exist how and when did it begin?

It might begin in the everyday contacts children and parents have with each other verbally, literally hundreds of times a day.

In the interest of building "communication bridges" the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth presents some possible building blocks for constructive listening and talking:

—When talking to another person, particularly a youngster, keep in mind his intellectual level.

—BEWARE OF operating on preconceived notions, for it closes off any free flow of conversation.

—Stimulate others to talk freely.

—When talking, voice inflection is very important and must be kept in mind as related to purpose.

—Giving advice demands that you must be entirely familiar with the subject matter and have a good idea of what will be acceptable and nonacceptable.

—A phrase that might seem innocuous to you might be a strong one to someone else.

—In conversation look for clues in your listener's conversation.

Debbie was the winner in the sixth grade class.

Marjorie Dan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merwyn Dan of Hoffman Estates, won the seventh grade scholarship. Larry Weiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Weiner of Hoffman Estates, was the eighth grade winner.

Sam Keeps On Slammin'

Sam Sneed, who won his first PGA golf title in 1942, is still active in big-time tournament golf.

Is the senior class, Richard Tolman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Tolman of Hoffman Estates, was recipient of the scholarship.

Narcotics Workshop To Make Medical View

The final narcotics workshop Sunday at Holy Innocents Episcopal Church in Hoffman Estates will be concerned with the medical aspects of using drugs. The workshop is open to area residents. It starts at 8 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

The Rev. Bruce Wheeler will be one of two speakers who will talk on "The Medical Truths and Untruths about Drugs." The second speaker will be a physician who has had years of experience dealing with narcotics cases. Adults and high school students are welcome.

Tax Warrants Approved

Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors approved the issue of $55,000 in tax anticipation warrants by the township library Wednesday.

This is $17,000 less than the amount of warrants issued in previous years.

A tax levy totaling $171,600 for the township library was adopted at the town meeting this year. Low bidder for the tax anticipation warrants was the Roselle State Bank with a bid for 5% interest charges.

Atty. John Juergensmeyer appeared at the board of auditors meeting on behalf of the library board.

ACCORDING TO Michael Madden, librarian, revenue from the tax warrants will be used for operating expenses until tax money is distributed by Cook County. The township library will receive approximately $126,000 in tax revenue this year.

In other action Wednesday, Township

Supervisor Vernon Laubenstein appointed three new members for the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth — John Plum, Hoffman Estates; John Karstrom, Schaumburg, and Daniel Stowe, Hanover Park. Karstrom previously served on the township board of auditors and has acted in a liaison capacity with the youth committee.

On April 30 the members of the Committee on Youth will tour the State Training School for Girls in Geneva.

Walter Fraas was reappointed township weed commissioner by the supervisor.

Find Marijuana

Schaumburg police charged a Carpentersville man with possession of marijuana Wednesday after stopping a car without a rear license plate light.

A passenger in the car, Kenneth J. Wilson, 19, 414 Green St., Carpentersville, admitted that he had marijuana on his person, according to police.

Wilson faces trial in Narcotics Court. The driver of the car, Donald D. Pope, 20, of West Dundee, was charged with having no rear license plate light.

SGT. JAMES J. Dillon stopped Pope's car Wednesday about 12:45 a.m. on Algonquin Road, east of the Holiday Inn. When the driver opened his glove compartment for his vehicle registration certificate, the police officer noticed a gun handle. Both men were then taken to the station and thoroughly searched.

According to police, the marijuana was contained in a matchbox taped to Wilson's body.

Hoffman Estates Tops In Apartment Permits

Hoffman Estates led area communities in the number of apartment permits issued last month, although no permits for single-family homes were reported, according to information contained in a survey of new building issued last week by Bell Savings and Loan Association.

During March, the village reported issuance of 100 apartment permits carrying a total value of $560,000.

Streamwood led other local areas in the number of homebuilding permits, reporting 39 at a total dollar value of $682,400; while Schaumburg, with issuance of 35 home permits, reported $823,348 in total value.

IN A REVIEW OF all building reported last month, Schaumburg reported $1,024,148, compared with $1,685,080 for the same period last year.

Total value of all building in Streamwood during March was $725,668, indicating an increase over the $645,835 reported for the same period in 1968.

Total value of buildings in Hoffman Estates was listed at $570,100, compared with $1,388,386 listed in March 1968.

Close Runway for 3 Months

Bensenville and suburbs near the south end of O'Hare International Airport should have a relatively quiet summer, free of jet noise. Those to the north will be faced with increased noise.

Chicago officials announced this week that the 10,000-foot east-west runway at the south end of the airport will be closed for 105 days, more than three months.

Ferdinand Rosa, administrative engineer to City Aviation Comr. William Downes, said improvements will be made at the runway, including a new taxiway, a tunnel underneath the runway, and new runway turn-offs.

Improvements will enable planes to taxi off the runway more frequently. Increased use of the runway when improvements are completed in August will most likely result in more noise for residents near the airport.

THE TUNNEL under the runway will be used to gain access to a proposed cargo area planned for east of the Chicago & North Western Railway tracks and north of Illinois 19 (Irving Park Road).

Rosa said the improvements, which are expected to cost $1.4 million, are necessary if the city is to match the increased demands placed on air service.

"The thing Chicago needs is another airport," he said.

Neal Callahan, community relations officer for the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said the closing of the runway will result in added use of O'Hare's other runways.

O'Hare has five major runways, including the one which will be closed.

Those which will be used more frequently include two northwest-southeast runway strips, another east-west runway, and a northeast-southwest runway. Use of runways depends on several factors including the direction of the wind.

DAN VUCUREVICH, control tower chief at O'Hare, said construction, which will require closing the runway originally opened in fall, 1967, will increase the benefits of its use.

The east-west runway is used mostly for departures, he said, adding that when instrument landing equipment is put in at the runway this year more landings will be possible.

He indicated that more noise for residents living near the airport's east-west runway will be a likely result.

Last summer for five months residents in north DuPage County and the Schiller Park area were hit by jet noise when the 11,600-foot northwest-southeast runway was closed for improvements.

ANOTHER northeast-southwest runway is still in the planning stage. It would be located at the southeast end of the airport.

In conjunction with the 8,600-foot runway expected to be started this year, Illinois 19 will be relocated further south.

A Chicago woman was taken to St. Alexius Hospital Wednesday following a two-car collision on Golf Road in Schaumburg, near Route 53.

Mrs. Rose McMahon, 64, 3857 N. Kilburn Ave., was released after being treated for slight lacerations.

The other driver, Mrs. Josephine Kroeger, 57, 1065 Arnold Court, Des Plaines, was not injured.

According to police, Mrs. McMahon failed to turn right after coming onto Golf Road from the northwest exit of Route 53. Instead, her car proceeded straight ahead into the path of Mrs. Kroeger's car, police said.

Mrs. McMahon was ticketed for failure to obey a traffic control sign.

COG Grant Is Retracted

by MARTHA MOSER

The Illinois Law Enforcement Commission Tuesday reorganized the Cook County study on law enforcement and criminal justice.

A $65,252 planning grant originally awarded the Council of Governments of Cook County (COG) was retracted and given to a special committee set up by Cook County Board Pres. George Dunne.

The switch in study responsibility was a compromise measure to get the planning off dead center and done before its May 1 deadline for submission to the state.

COG HAD BEEN unsuccessful in meeting commission funding stipulations uniquely set up for the council when planning grants were awarded March 14.

At that time, commission chairman Arthur Bilek had asked COG officials to get grant approval from both Cook County Sheriff Joe Woods and Cook County States Atty. Edward Hanrahan.

Woods and Hanrahan, both commission members who were turned down on their own fund applications, had raised a howl when COG met funding criteria and allowing the public officials to work out differences with COG was seen as a measure to appease them.

Woods and Hanrahan, however, never acknowledged COG's requests for meetings. Their snub, in effect, wrenched control of the study from the council which represents all county governmental units to Cook County which represents its own government.

Appointed to the newly organized Cook County Committee on Criminal Justice are Cook County Commissioner Harry Semrow; Hanrahan; Public Defender Gerald Getty; Cook County Chief Probation Officer William Meyering; James Jordan, superintendent of Andy Home; John Weinrauch, assistant director of research and development in the office of Chief Judge John Boyle; and Fred Dumke, Oak Lawn village president.

MAJOR ANTHONY Yucevicius, deputy in charge of staff services, Cook County Sheriff's Office, was appointed project director.

Dumke will represent COG on the committee. Dumke is chairman of the COG public safety committee and a former member of the Law Enforcement Commission.

The committee is to study needed improvements in the areas of law enforcement and criminal justice. The county study will form part of a statewide application for "action" funds to be awarded Illinois under the federal Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

COG chairman Jack Pahl, Elk Grove Village president, asked the Law Enforcement Commission Tuesday to combine the final studies of the Cook County Committee on Criminal Justice and of Chicago. Chicago had received a separate planning grant for $146,892.

"The commission set up the division between Chicago and the rest of the county so I asked the commission to pull them together as a county unit," Pahl said after the meeting.

PAHL FURTHER suggested the commission combine studies of Illinois' six Chicago metropolitan counties, then add Lake and Porter Counties in Indiana to catch the entire urban crime area.

Road Plans To Be Ready Next Fall

Several alternate routes for the proposed — and long-awaited — North Suburban Freeway paralleling Rand Road will be in the hands of Illinois officials "by early fall," according to an engineering firm studying the area.

H. W. Lochner Jr., of the firm conducting the study, has notified O. V. Anderson of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission of the latest timetable for the route.

Lochner said in a letter that all data on the areas to be affected would be collected by June 1. During the summer, Lochner will draw up the routes.

THE COMMISSION agreed last night that it will confer with Lochner officials to suggest a route that would be as acceptable as possible to Arlington Heights.

In other action, the commission agreed to meet further to iron out potential zoning problems on the Gust Stavros development on the northern border of Arlington Heights.

Comr. Vic Beisler said, after suggesting further conferences on the development, "It could be one of the finest developments or it could be brought in as something I wouldn't be proud of."

The Board of Local Improvements will meet at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road.

AESOP SAYS:

The Dog that Froze

In the winter time, a dog rolled himself together and coiled up in as small a space as possible. He was so cold that he resolved to make himself a house when summer came.

But with the return of warm weather he lay lazily in the sun, stretched at his full length. He gazed upon his large size and decided that the task would be too difficult to make a house that would accommodate him.

The next winter was especially severe and the dog froze to death.

It is easy in good times to put the bad out of mind.

One reason why the 2,500-year-old stories of this Greek slave have endured among all peoples is that they accurately reflect human strengths and weaknesses.

It is easier to lie in the sun than to work, easier to spend than to save. But prudence suggests that our best interests lie in providing for the future by present effort.

Use PLUS 2 on your lawn but don't pay for it until your weeds are gone!

That's how sure we are of Scotts famous TURF BUILDER PLUS 2. Time and again we've seen it turn scraggly weed patches into thick, vibrantly green turf.

Put PLUS 2 on your lawn this week end. For the first few days nothing much will seem to happen. Then one day you'll notice that the weeds have begun to shrivel. A few days later they'll disappear completely — roots and all.

In their place will be healthy green turf — the result of the fertilizing action of PLUS 2. It's a full-feeding too, equivalent to Scotts famous Turf Builder. Makes grass plants spread out and fill in those places where the weeds used to be.

The time to use PLUS 2 is right now, while weeds are actively growing. You put it on just like ordinary fertilizer. It's clean, lightweight, and easy to handle. So pick up your PLUS 2 this week and don't pay for it until your weeds are gone.

Bring in this coupon and exchange for PLUS 2

Now you can stop crabgrass before it starts

If there was crabgrass in your neighborhood last year, it will likely be back this year, because its seeds are in the ground. But you can stop them before they get started — with HALTS PLUS. It sets up a barrier which stops crabgrass seeds as they sprout. Full-fertilizes good grass and grub-proofs your lawn — for a full year — at the same time. All from a single application.

Williams Has No Plans To Seek Rumsfeld Post

by ED MURNANE

Independent Democrat Lynn A. Williams of New Trier Township this week said he is not going to be a candidate for the soon-to-be vacant 13th Congressional District seat and added that Democratic chances of winning the seat "are very remote, at best."

Williams, who was a leading figure behind the presidential candidacy of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., last summer and who was defeated in a bid to unseat Rep. Donald Rumsfeld in 1964, was mentioned as a possible candidate for Rumsfeld's seat Tuesday by Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman and a former congressman.

Gov. Richard Ogilvie is expected to call a special election this fall, pending U. S. Senate confirmation of Rumsfeld's appointment as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity. The 13th District congressman was nominated for the post Monday by President Nixon.

"NO, I WOULDN'T think of running now," Williams told The Herald. "It's too one-sided a District as it's bounded now." He said his personal preference for a Democratic candidate for Rumsfeld's seat is State Rep. Harold A. Katz of Glenview. "But I haven't discussed this with him yet," Williams cautioned.

Katz headed the Katz commission which recommended reform of certain legislative procedures and also introduced the bill calling for nonpartisan selection of delegates to Illinois' upcoming Constitutional Convention.

Williams, a strong and frequent critic of Chicago Mayor Richard Daley and his Democratic organization, believes Democratic strength in the 13th District, and future election successes, depends almost solely on whether the township Democratic organizations continue to align themselves with the mayor or declare independence, as Williams' New Trier Township Democratic Organization has.

"THERE HAVE BEEN remarkable Democratic gains in both Evanston and New Trier townships," Williams said, "and both have declared their independence of downtown."

He said there would be similar gains in other townships, particularly Northfield, Wheeling and Palatine. If independent Democratic organizations existed.

"With independent organizations, the liberal and thoughtful people would be motivated to support Democrats," Williams said. "But this is not going to be the case when the committeemen and precinct workers are patronage jobholders."

Williams said many people "who call themselves independents are really slaves of party regularity."

New Trier Township, Williams said, has moved from a ranking of 28th in Democratic strength among Cook County's 30 townships to fifth in the eight years from 1960 to 1968. He attributes this to the independence of the township Democratic organization.

"I HAVE NOT been aware of any visible change in the population, either in quantity or otherwise," Williams said.

"The number of voters has stayed about the same."

He said the three eastern townships of the district — Evanston, New Trier and Niles — now have about a 50-50 split between Republican and Democratic voters.

"But any lead the Democrats would get in those three townships would quickly be wiped out by the automatic Republican majority in Wheeling and Northfield townships."

He said the Republican majority in the other townships — Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg — is just gravy for the Republicans.

Williams' independent stand was his main campaign issue when he sought election as a 13th District delegate to last year's Democratic National Convention in Chicago. He was defeated by two organization Democrats, Robert J. Downing, Northfield Township committeeman, and Raymond V. Krier, Niles Township committeeman.

WILLIAMS SUPPORTED McCarthy for president, while the two delegates gave their votes to Hubert Humphrey.

When he was defeated by Rumsfeld in 1964, he received the highest vote total to that date by a Democrat in the congressional race.

In 1966, he successfully opposed the organization incumbent in the race for Democratic committeeman of New Trier Township.

In his campaign last summer for the delegate's seat, Williams accused the unaware and unresponsive" to the changing needs and interests of suburban voters.

"As a loyal Democrat, I want a stronger Democratic Party," he said. "The way to make it stronger is to make it better and this means recognizing the suburban Democratic voters in determining party policy and candidates." He said Democrats in the suburbs "can't be treated as appendages to a city organization."

He also said "Authoritarian discipline" has advantages, but also carries great dangers. Decisions reached in secrecy by a small group of politicians may be efficient, but that doesn't necessarily result in selecting the best candidates or the ones people want."

Williams is the president of Anocut Engineering Co. in Elk Grove Village.

Center Criticized

by MARY SCHLOTT

An apparent attempt to discredit the Northwest Opportunity Center and reduce public support of the area anti-poverty effort was brought into the open this week.

Opportunity Center leaders spent two hours Tuesday night answering questions raised by center critics, apparently satisfying every person present but one.

That one was Mrs. Pat Tegmeier of Prospect Heights, a neighbor of center advisory committee member Charles Gawne who has sent a letter questioning the right of the Opportunity Center to receive funds from the 17-mile hike for the hungry which 1,400 area youths took part in April 4.

Telephone calls to Norwesco members have spread Gawne's criticisms all week. GAWNE'S LETTER, sent to Hunger Hike coordinator David Wurm of Mount Prospect, was the first indication that he had questions about the center's operations, other advisory committee members said Tuesday night.

Gawne's letter charged the center had "no concrete programs" to help "uplift poverty people of this area." He questioned what he said was the center's intent to use Hunger Hike funds for center salaries.

Gawne did not attend Tuesday's meeting. He had not been invited and Mrs. Tegmeier said he would have been unable to attend.

She echoed Gawne's charges, declaring, "The kids marched for hunger, not for salaries." "It seems very funny that you're trying to tell me what we hiked for," St. Paul Lutheran Church Vicar Nate Castens of Mount Prospect returned. "I hiked 17 miles and I knew that part of the $102 I earned, one-third of it, would go to the Northwest Opportunity Center, no strings attached."

"THE 20 OR 25 kids who worked hardest to plan the hike also knew that one-third of it would go to the Northwest Opportunity Center — with no strings attached," Castens said.

When Mrs. Tegmeier suggested that Hunger Hike money instead be used in the Northwest suburbs to feed poor people or give them clothes, Wurm had this answer: "Our committee understands that you don't fight hunger just by giving food to people. All you do is keep them submissive."

Wurm said the Hike for the Hungry coordinators wanted to put most of the money into development projects, like the center, which help people help themselves.

The Hunger Hike has raised an estimated $36,000, about $20,000 of it still to come in from teenager hikers slow in contacting their sponsors.

The Opportunity Center committee has not yet decided how to spend its share of the Hunger Hike money, it was stressed Tuesday by delegates representing Norwesco and the other two groups sharing the center's sponsorship — the Schaumburg Opportunity Council and Palatine's Community Effort Organization.

MRS. ALTON BROTEN, Norwesco president, said Gawne was not speaking for Norwesco in making his complaint. "We send our representatives uninstructed," she explained. "But his criticism was too negative for me. It is unfair to say that none of the (area poverty problems) are being worked on."

Wurm said his reaction to Gawne's letter was that Gawne, in sending the letter, was either "incredibly naive" or "this is an attempt to sabotage."

He said the criticism being spread about the Opportunity Center through letters and phone calls "breeds nothing but suspicion."

Mrs. Ruth Helbig of Elk Grove Village and Mrs. Rene Maddock of Des Plaines, two Norwesco members, said they agreed.

Launch L WV Drive

Wheeling Township's two top party officials, Democratic Committeeman James McCabe and Republican Committeeman Eugene Schlickman, helped launch the League of Women Voters' 50th anniversary fund drive in this area by donating $50 each in a unique bipartisan gesture.

The party funds will help provide capital funds for the nonpartisan League's second half-century of voter service.

Mrs. Bert Thompson of Des Plaines, chairman of the golden anniversary drive for the Arlington Heights L WV, said the two party officials are the first community leaders to contribute locally during the nationwide 50th anniversary celebration.

MRS. THOMPSON SAID it is the first time to her knowledge that both parties have supported League of Women Voters activities in Illinois by making cash contributions.

The goal set for the drive nationally is $11 million, $5 million of which will come from members. The money will give the League means with which to expand its studies of national, state and local problems, its voters service to the community and its publications services to both members and the community.

The Illinois League will use part of its share of the funds to operate an office in Springfield while the legislature is in session. Up to now the only state office has been in Chicago.

In supporting the League, both parties acknowledged the value of the League's nonpartisan action on issues, its candidates meetings and other voter services to residents.

Candidates meetings have been held in both Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights in the past. The most recent was a well-attended candidates night in Arlington Heights before the April 1 village elections.

With the opening of the finance drive this week, local Leagues will be asking businessmen and companies in the area to also support their activities.

Nurse Refresher Course Scheduled

A refresher course for registered nurses will be offered by Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, beginning May 5 and continuing Monday-Thursday for five weeks.

This is the second course of this type to be offered by the hospital this year. It is designed for nurses who have not worked for a time and are interested in returning to work.

The course is being coordinated by the in-service education department of nursing service at the hospital.

Among the areas to be covered during the five-week course are cardiac nursing, use of new equipment, a review of nursing procedures, rehabilitative nursing, orthopedic nursing, pediatric nursing and an introduction to the hospital today.

Information on the course is available from the nursing in-service education office at Lutheran General Hospital.

IT'S CHRISTMAS in May for members of the Northwest Community Hospital Staff. The NCH Players, a local theater group, will present "My Three Angels" next month as part of the hospital's 10th anniversary celebration. Decorating the tree are Dr. William Zwilling, Dr. Ronald Hudec and Dr. Frank Peifer.

CAP Unit Watches Flight Simulator

Thirty-five local Civil Air Patrol members recently watched a KC 97 flight simulator in action at the Air National Guard base at O'Hare Airport.

The group consisted of 5 seniors, 11 cadets and one prospective cadet from Prospect Heights Composite Squadron, 4 cadets and 12 cadets from Arlington Heights Squadron, and 2 members from CAP Group VII.

At the O'Hare building housing the flight simulator the group was met by Sgt. Jack Varon, flight simulator technician for the air national guard, who explained and demonstrated the equipment.

THE DEVICE can simulate numerous adverse flying situations with which pilots and engineers, must cope. Sgt. Varon said National guard personnel are required to take three hours of training each quarter in the simulator to maintain their flying proficiency.

This week CAP members from the two squadrons are to visit the control tower at O'Hare.

It's May Yule for Hospital

Doctors and staff members in Northwest Community Hospital are getting ready for Christmas. The holiday will come in when they stage the play "My Three Angels."

Humphrey Bogart starred in the movie classic several years ago.

The play deals with the adventures of three escaped French convicts during the 1890 Christmas season.

The holiday theme is especially appropriate. The production is the first event in an eight month salute to the hospital on the 10th anniversary of its opening in 1959.

This year also marks the fifth production by NCH Players and will be directed once again by Mrs. Martin Bodelson, supervisor of central services at the hospital.

Through Mrs. Bodelson's plays, the hospital has raised $20,000, enough to build and equip two hospital rooms.

"But even more than that, the plays form a bridge between the hospital and the community and provide an exciting way for staff members to relax," Mrs. Bodelson said.

Performance dates are May 23, 24, 30 and 31. A campaign dance to benefit the hospital will be held at the Round Table Room at Arlington Park.

Book Accepted Dental Care Plan

A book written by a resident of Arlington Heights who is a staff member at Lutheran General Hospital was published this spring.

"Public Relations for Hospitals" was written by Harold Kurtz, 1631 N. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights. Kurtz is director of public relations for the hospital, located in Park Ridge.

The book, described as a practical handbook for hospital public relations, was published by Charles C. Thomas, Publisher.

Kurtz has been director of public relations at Lutheran General since 1963. Before taking his present post, he was on the editorial staffs of several Wisconsin newspapers.

The Arlington Heights resident has a B.A. from Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, and a M.S. from the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

by LEA TONKIN

A dental service project will be launched by Norwesco May 14 with preliminary dental examinations of needy families in Elk Grove, Barrington, Schaumburg, Wheeling, Palatine and Hanover townships.

Mrs. Dennis Moore, Arlington Heights, chairman of the project, said this may be the first formal program in the United States in which dentists are donating their office time and professional care.

At a large dental office in the Golf Mill Shopping Center, Niles, dental hygienists on May 14 will chart the needs of those examined. Ten dentists will also participate that day. Interpreters will be on hand to assist Spanish-speaking residents.

TWO MAJOR GOALS are aimed at in the first screening session: first, referrals to local dentists will be made on the basis of the information gathered; and secondly, the survey will provide statistics necessary to seek funding for a permanent program.

After the initial examinations, the charts will be taken to a central location to be screened according to dental needs. Then a letter from the Chicago Dental Society's 11-member local committee will be sent to area dentists, asking their services on a no-charge or low-cost basis. Referrals will be made to those who volunteer.

Norwesco has been working on plans for a dental clinic for several years. Originally the group had planned to use the facilities of St. Alexis Hospital. Mrs. Ruth Helbig of Elk Grove Village was instrumental in this early stage of planning.

A PROGRAM WAS later developed whereby local dentists would donate their services to low-income families on an individual and more permanent basis. Dentists preferred this because they could use familiar equipment in their own offices.

The committee for dental services now includes Mrs. Moore, chairman; Mrs. Jane Broten, chairman of Norwesco; Mrs. Donna Mullen, nurse at the Child Development Center; Mrs. Connie Silva, Streamwood, and the advisory committee of 11 local dentists.

Transportation will be provided to the families participating. Application blanks for the program are available at the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, 255-3456.

Lawn And Garden

BY: RICHARD DeLANO

Everyone wants a beautiful lawn that will add to the over-all attractiveness of a neighborhood. Therefore, a considerable amount of time, money and effort goes into developing an attractive turf.

Since the development of modern weed killers, much of the effort has been eliminated from lawn care. Pre-emergence materials such as dacthal, trifluralin, zytron, tupersan, and others help the homeowner to win the battle of crabgrass before it starts. However, two things should be remembered when using these materials. First, they should be applied before the crabgrass seedlings sprout. This will be about May 15 to 30 in the greater Chicago area.

THE SECOND THING that must be remembered is that these pre-emergence materials, except for tupersan, may not be applied to newly seeded lawns. Thus, if you have a crabgrass problem and a problem with a thin, patchy lawn, use the new material tupersan and overseed as usual. However, if you use some of the other excellent crabgrass control materials, lightly seed those bare areas that are over six inches in diameter and avoid applying regular crabgrass killers. Spots smaller than six inches will quickly knit together in less than one season of growth.

Just as important as crabgrass control is fertilization. Properly applied, fertilizer can give your lawn the regular green color that creates the ideal setting for the shrub border or foundation planting. If you have already fertilized in March, an additional application this month is in order.

USE EIGHT TO TEN pounds of a 10-4-4, 10-8-6, or similar grade fertilizer per 1,000 square feet of lawn. If you use some of the popular high analysis fertilizers such as 20-10-5, 15-5-5, or 16-8-8, use 4-5 pounds per 1,000 square feet.

Fertilizing and weed killing are jobs that are performed only a few weeks of the year. Mowing, however, is done throughout the entire season; thus, it is important to do it properly. Clipped too short the leaf blade cannot develop a good root system. Clipped too long and the lawn loses its attractiveness. A good, medium height recommended by the University of Illinois is one and a half to two inches for blue grass lawns. If you have spot seeder, mow the lawn when the old grass reaches two and a half inches, regardless of the height of the new grass.

BROAD LEAF WEEDS in established lawns can be controlled readily by spraying with 2-4-D, 2-4-TP or a combination of the two. Some of the more persistent weeds such as chickweed may need up to three applications at two week intervals. The repeated applications are required because of the two-week breakdown of the chemical in the soil. Dandelions, however, are extremely resistant to weed killers when they are in bloom. Best wait until after their blooming season is over before spraying them.

Christened at St. Hubert Catholic Church was James Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell J. Beaupres Jr. of Blair Lane. Attending the mass were the Brian Allendorfer family of Hoffman Estates and the Beaupres children, Camey and Russell. Although grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell J. Beaupres and Mr. and Mrs. David Turner, all of Detroit, were visiting for several days, they were unable to stay for the christening. Godparents are Mrs. Terry Turner and Mr. Paul Beaupres, both of Detroit.

Janet Reilly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reilly of Edgefield, celebrated her birthday April 7 with her family.

David Schuman, Elmwood Lane, celebrated his birthday April 10 with his family, including his wife, daughter, Micki Joy, parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schuman, Skokie, sister, Carolyn, Sheri's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Vicker, Chicago, and sister and Mrs. Lee Simons of Chicago.

A DOUBLE BIRTHDAY celebration took place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dintenfass, Glen Lane, when their twin sons, David and Leonard, celebrated their 11th birthday April 12. Their father took them bowling to celebrate their birthdays.

Mrs. Jerry Dintenfass, Glen Lane, was hostess Monday afternoon for the Beth Tikvah Sisterhood literary tea. The guests discussed the book "In My Father's Court."

One-year-old April 20 was Scott Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Cook of Rosedale Lane. He celebrated his birthday with his family.

Michael Elias, Durham Court, and John Hughes, Kent Road, were among the students at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle campus whose names appeared on the dean's list for the fall quarter.

For the next month Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jones of Newport Road have been busy entertaining out of town guests. Visiting from Paris, Tenn. were Darlene's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LaValle. After their departure, Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Jones, Russell's parents, arrived from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. to spend the Easter holidays, and to help their grandson, Jeffrey, celebrate his sixth birthday, April 18.

Jeffrey also hosted an afternoon birthday party for brother, Matthew, sister, Michelle, and friends, Danny Landbo, Jackie Maddox, Lisa Neumann, Michael Erwin and David Kniptash. He also celebrated birthday with relatives, the Kenneth Jones family of Glen Ellyn.

Mrs. Lawrence S. Graff, Newport Road, past president of B'nai B'rith Women, Aliyah Chapter, was in Des Plaines Wednesday as a luncheon guest of the B'nai B'rith Women, Hollywood Park Chapter at Seven Eagles Restaurant.

DOUGLAS BABCOCK, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Babcock of Hillcrest Boulevard, recently returned home from Keesler A.F.B., Miss. to recuperate from surgery, and in time to celebrate his 21st birthday, April 11, with his family. Barbara Babcock is celebrating her 13th birthday with her family and plans include dinner and a show.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Tolman, Edgemont Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Oliff, Jefferson Road, joined Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kaplan for a weekend at a resort in Rochelle, where they did some swimming, took sauna baths, dined and danced.

Trying to stay up the longest were Greg Herliugson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herliugson of Durham Lane, and his guests, John Kerrigan, Jay Bain, Burt Padove and Mark Tash, when Greg celebrated his 13th birthday April 11 with a Memphis, Tenn. was the direction in slumber party.

which Mr. and Mrs. Richard Balasa and children, Brenda, Brian, Bonita and Barry, of Carleton Road went to spend the Easter holidays. They visited Mr. Balasa's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Balasa.

CELEBRATING A ninth birthday April 14 was Robert Daus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Daus of Newport Road. Party guests were his brothers, Richard, Jim,

Sunday morning Irv and Carolyn Bentcover, Washington Boulevard, and their son, Bryan, and daughter, Joelle, flew to Bloomington. Joelle remained there to visit her cousin, Gail Kaplan, daughter of the Ralph Kaplans of Webster Court, while the rest of the family flew on to Peoria to visit former Hoffmannites, Farol and Lorraine Ginsberg.

Jack and Eleanor Daly of Willow have been entertaining Jack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Daly of New York, who flew here last week to attend the wedding of their granddaughter, Karen, and Mitchell Karom. Also here for the Saturday ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Karom Sr. of Pennsylvania, parents of the groom, and from Rhode Island came his brother, Michael, who is in the Navy.

The George Reynolds and daughter, Cheryl, of Princeton are in the process of moving to a larger home on Newport Road in the Highlands.

On Webster Court, Ralph and Natalie Kaplan returned Sunday from spending the weekend at the Vagabond in Rochelle.

Playing Mah Jongg at the home of Harriet Miller on Washington Monday evening were Barbara Isaac, Adrian Romanowski of Weathersfield, Eunice Roebuck, and Donna Nievious of Barrington.

DIANE VERBA, DAUGHTER of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Verba of Bode, has her arm in a cast. Last week she put her arm through a glass door and suffered severe cuts to her arm.

April 12 Howard Shere, son of Steve and Ann Shere of Flagstaff, was 7 and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mark Barnett of Chicago, came for the day. In the afternoon, friends were invited to his pirate party. They were Scott Xaverius, John Murray, John Petersen, Katy McMullin, Martin Miller, Sheryl LeVine and Linda Shere.

Friday Lowell and Shari Wheeler of Payson held a going away party for Fred and Nancy Rower, 124 Payson. Surprising the couple at the Wheeler home were the Stan Paynes, Robert Gambrees, Bob Leas, Jim Scotts, Jack Kendells, Donald Farilles and the Larry Pavones.

Sunday Fred and Nancy and children, Jim and Sandy, moved to her parents' home in Elmhurst until they make their permanent move to their new home in Lake Havasu, Ariz.

Monday Mrs. Evelyn Shore moved into the former Rower home. Mrs. Shore will now be next door to her daughter and son-in-law, Margie and Bob Lea.

Sunday afternoon at St. Hubert Catholic Church, Patrick James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Graf of Flagstaff, was baptized by Father Adamitch. His godparents were an aunt, Mary Ellen Graf, and uncle, Carl Urbinetti, of Chicago. Also coming for the special event were grandparents, Mrs. Grace Urbinetti from Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Graf of Schiller Park.

WHEN COUSINS ARE confirmed at the same church and live in the same village it causes problems. The result was that Eric, son of Alex and Helen Johnson of N. Olive, and Richard, son of Dick and Irene Umbach of Pearl, held a joint party. After confirmation at St. Peter Lutheran Church, the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Redker, also of Hoffman, and the combined guest list of 36 first went to the Umbach home for cocktails and then to the Johnson home for dinner.

Mary Kay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Graessle of Hawthorne, celebrated her ninth birthday April 22. She invited 10 girlfriends to her home after school.

Lynn Weisz of Olive has been spending much of her time at Passavant Hospital, visiting her mother, Mrs. Adeline Starr of Chicago.

New residents to the area are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dutton and their three children, Laurie, Jim and Tom, of North Olive.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Friday, April 25, the 115th day of 1969 with 250 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase:

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1846 the first shots of the Mexican War were fired.

In 1898 Congress formally declared war on Spain.

In 1901 New York became the first state to require auto owners to affix license plates on their cars—and 954 vehicles were registered.

In 1945 delegates of 46 nations gathered in San Francisco to organize a permanent United Nations.

A thought for the day: Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "Every sweet has its sour, every evil its good."

Kickin' It Around

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

THERE HE WAS last weekend, marching down the fairway with that quick, heavy stride, his sleeves pushed up, his pants a little buggy.

And there they came by the thousands, in a raging horde armed with binoculars and umbrellas and folding stools, marching with their leader.

No matter how many times we've witnessed this scene, whether in person or on television, we will always be a little excited by the appearance of Arnold Palmer, the most glamorous golfer of all time, and his Army, Arnie's Army.

This time it was the Tournament of Champions, and Palmer was up there with the leaders again. The television cameras helped give you the feel of what this super-star of professional sports was experiencing as he surveyed and executed every shot.

Like an ordinary man, he sweats and the pain and effort of what he's doing shows on his face. Here is a true folk hero who possesses the charisma which has led to his now-famous Arnie's Army, a group of worshippers who loyally follow their leader up and down the fairways of America.

You can't help but ask yourself just what it is that makes Arnold Palmer stand as a demigod to thousands of Sunday golfers and sports fans of all ages?

Before we ever handled a golf club, before we ever sent a pitch shot to the green or a drive slicing into the next fairway we were caught up in the magic of this man.

There's a new look in sports today. There are so many teams, so many players, so many new cities and stadiums that we can't keep up with them even though our business is following sports.

People need somebody to identify with, and Palmer remains their man, just as he was 10 years ago. George Archer won the recent Masters tourney, but you don't identify with a George Archer. Billy Casper? Never.

Casper is so perfect on the course he is almost unreal. Straight down the middle off the tee, on the green in two and two putts.

Arnie is something else. You can make those faces right along with him, suffer with him, die with him and — best of all — win with him. He's like us out there, trying to conquer the world.

You can identify with that swing. He attacks the ball with the ferocity of a hammer-swinging high school kid trying to ring the bell at the county fair. He seems to finish his swing off balance, and that appeals to the average duffer who always feels off balance.

How about the way he gets into trouble — and out of it, sometimes. He has a way of getting out of trouble spectacularly and effectively.

And his Army loves it.

"Atta boy, Arnie. We're behind you. Kill 'em Arnie. Don't let Fat Jack bother you, Arnie baby. Keep in there swinging."

"Beauty, Arnie. Man, look at those wrists and forearms. Perfect Arnie."

"Man, does he bruise that ball. I mean bruise it. He don't need a wood like them other guys. How I wish I could bruise it like that."

"Beauty, Arnie. Must be 300 off the tee. Never a doubt. So you were a little off. No sweat. Don't worry, Arnie baby. We're behind you. Sock it to 'em."

"Now, that's bruising it, Arnie. Wow. Look at that distance. Beauty, Arnie...whoops. Shake it off, Arnie. We all hit trees now and then."

And so it goes, across the land. The goes, across the land. The Army is there, and it's a challenge just to move with it at a tournament.

A few years ago at the Western Open we joined Arnie's Army, were stabbed by an umbrella tip and gouged by a handle, and stepped on by some gal wearing golf shoes. But the Army always moves on, leaving the ill and wounded behind.

Crowds are tickle. They even turned on Babe Ruth once and were booing the great Johnny Unitas last fall. But if a somebody boos Arnie, he'll probably end up flat on his back. Nobody boos Arnie.

Playing with Palmer obviously is an ordeal for the pro. We remember once at the Western when a fellow professional turned to the crowd, naturally it was Arnie's Army, and shouted, "Why don't you clown up?"

Then there was that time at the Western when Arnie putted out on the seventh green and his Army started to stampede the eighth tee. Others still had to put out but the Army didn't care.

"Please be quiet," Palmer exhorted. "Please. There are other players here. Let them finish. Please be quiet."

They stopped the stampede and all was quiet. The King had spoken and they listened.

Arnold Palmer remains the most celebrated of professional athletes. He'll draw bigger crowds on the practice tee or putting green than other professionals attract on the course.

Gene Littler is the biggest money winner on the tour this year, but the appearance of a Gene Littler doesn't mean that much money to the sponsors.

Arnold Palmer

Tournament sponsors the world over know that even now if the name of Arnold Palmer is included on the entry list they can confidently expect to attract thousands more paying spectators; certainly enough more to warrant their adding thousands of extra dollars to the prize money.

Most observers feel the Palmer legend was largely created in the spring and early summer of 1960. In the 1960 Masters he came to the last holes needing two birdies to edge out Ken Venturi who was already in the clubhouse. He got them, holing putts of 45 and six feet.

Two months later in the National Open in Denver, Palmer went into the final round eight strokes off the pace. On the first hole, a 346-yard par four, he slammed his drive on the green, two putted for a birdie, and then birdied five of the next six holes. He won the tourney by a single shot.

Thus began the legend of Palmer's invincibility — of his being able to produce whatever miracle the situation called for.

Arnold Palmer is not winning regularly, but when the stakes are important enough, his determination is as impressive as it was 10 years ago. He's got some more wins coming.

And Arnie's Army will be there, lining both sides of the fairway, ladies in pink tennis shoes, boys in letter jackets, women in big straw hats, men in business suits with bright, colored shirts and button-down collars.

They'll grunt with him when he swings a golf club, they'll suffer with him, they'll worship him, they'll be forever resentful or contemptuous of anybody who tries to best him, they'll cheer his every move out there.

It was like the morning at the recent Masters in Augusta, Ga. Bob Goalby, the defending champion, was sitting in the clubhouse when a tremendous roar went up on the course.

"What's that?" asked Goalby, obviously startled, sitting up in his chair.

"Arnie just tucked in his shirt," said a reporter.

Ten Years Ago...

Arlington ruled Class A and Palatine Class B in the Palatine Relays... Rich Bader's spectacular anchor leg in the 880 yard relay, the final event, gave Russ Attis Cardinals a 53-59 victory over Chicago Phillips... Bader earlier had won the 100 yard dash... Palatine won five of six relay events in heading Class B... Top individual effort for Dick Welby's outfit was the anchor leg by Ken Gordon in the low hurdle shuttle... Gordon found himself 12 yards behind at the touch but he flashed to the wire in front.

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

The Monster Man and the Flying Demons will be there. The Big Red and the Hilltoppers will be there too. And let us not forget Country Joe and the boys.

They'll all be there... for once again it is time for the Palatine Relays, the most exciting and colorful track meet this side of the eighth lane at Champaign.

The Palatine Relays for years has been known as the big preliminary for district meets. Since the first Palatine Relays in 1933, track fans have kept their eyes, tapes and stop watches on the Palatine Relays.

MANY A TIME AN unknown has come to Palatine to put on a stunning performance; many a time a highly publicized prepster has made the trip to Palatine only, as the track buffs say, to get blown off the track. And many more times the unknowns have remained unknown and the greats have given greater efforts at the Palatine Relays.

The 1969 edition of the relays will be held Saturday at the Hale Hildebrandt Field (the home of Fremd High School on South Quentin Road in Palatine) with the preliminaries starting at 9 a.m. and the finals getting underway at 1 p.m.

Englewood High School will be entered in the meet and will bring along, some say in a cage, the Monster Man.

The Monster Man's alias is Willie Thomas. Willie Thomas is a hefty young man for a trackster and his preliminary warmups put the best of Sumo wrestlers to shame. He grunts, he snorts and he groans; he waves to the crowd, smiling through his big white teeth; he gives his opponents the Somy Liston glare. It's a great show.

THERE'S ONE MORE thing about Willie Thomas — he happens to run 880 yards faster than anybody else in the state. He has run the 880 in 1:52.4 indoors and he will use his marvelous ability on Englewood's two-mile relay and mile relay.

The Big Red of Arlington has been rated by some to be the favorite to win the Class 'A' division. Arlington doesn't have a sprinter or a quarter miler who would rank with the best anywhere but somehow coach Bruce Samore gets together four boys for each relay and they DO rank with the best anywhere.

Arlington and Englewood, along with Maine East's Flying Blue Demons and Glenbard West's Hilltoppers, will be staging the Charge of the Light Track Shoes all day Saturday for the Class 'A' title while the other 21 schools, including Conant, Forest View, Prospect, St. Viator and Wheeling, will be going for Pick-Up Points, which, incidentally, is not a new gas station game.

THE REAL HILLTOPPER in the group, Coach Joe Johnson who hails from Kentucky, will bring his slim yet talented troops to the Relays and will be favored to win the Class 'B' championship though Fremd's Vikings will be in the running, if you'll pardon the expression.

Among the other 21 schools, Glenbrook South should be closest in the final point tally to Palatine and Fremd. Fenton of the TriCounty is another Paddock area entry in the field.

Englewood, Glenbard West, Maine East and Arlington will be the primary contenders in the Class 'A' two-mile relay. Englewood has none other than the Monster Man for an anchor, Glenbard West took second in the Oak Park Relays, Maine East won the event in the Blue Demon Relays and Arlington has outstanding distance runners in Tom Swanson, Dave Marszalek, Joe Hooker and Scott Butler.

THE CLASS 'B' two-mile relay record of 8:07.1 is sure to be broken by such schools as Palatine with Mark Visk, Phil Donahue, Fred Miller and Reed Jacobson or Paul Davenport and Fremd with Craig Stitt, Bill Jarocki and Ray Sommer.

Arlington has the best mile relay time in the state thus far with a 3:24.4 and will be favored with Glenbard West and Englewood. The Class 'B' mile relay winner should come from Elmwood Park, Palatine or Fremd.

Arlington has the best time in the 880-yard relay going into the meet with a 1:30.5 and Palatine has the best among Class 'B' schools with a 1:31.8.

THE SHUTTLE HURDLES should be a close event with Niles West, Wheeling (headed by Nick Silvestri and Tom Johann), Arlington (headed by Dave Steele and Sam Wit) and Englewood (headed by Mike Stover) listed as the stronger teams. Howard Kreutzinger should keep Palatine in contention in Class 'B' hurdles.

The top Class 'A' pole vaulters are Gary Fagerson and Fred Harth of Arlington and Brad Green of Maine East; top vaulters in Class 'B' are Guy Zajonc and Ed Meyer of Palatine and Jeff Bruce and Chuck McGuinn of Fremd.

Richard Bildner of Lane Tech, Paul Tollefson of Arlington and Nick Cashion of Glenbard West will battle for honors in the shot put and Jeff Meissner of Prospect will be right up there in the high jump.

AMONG THE NOTED discus throwers are Kevin Barthule of Wheeling, Henry Schniepp of Palatine and Paul Tollefson of Arlington. In the long jump, Steve Glutting of Riverside-Brookfield, Jerome Benion of Marshall, Jeff Genson of Maine East, Todd Somers and Wit of Arlington and Mike Mitchell of Wheeling have all cleared more than 20 feet.

In the 100-yard dash, Jim Verborg of Palatine has done a 10.0, Bob Batchelor of St. Viator has a 10.1, Terry Shakon of Forest View has a 10.1 and Stew Oakley of Wheeling has a 10.1.

In the mile run, Visk has the state's best time with a 4:19.5. Other top milers at the Relays will be Ken Popejoy of Glenbard West who has a 4:20.2 and is the state cross country champion, Swanson who has a 4:27.4 and Frank Savage of Wheeling who has a 4:31.4.

Glenbard West won the Class 'A' championship last year and Palatine won the Class 'B' title in 1968 and the Class 'A' championship in 1966 and 1967. The 1969 Palatine Relays should be an extraordinary meet with 10 former championship teams and the Big Red and the Flying Demons and the Monster Man and the...

Hasbach Sparks Triumph

Pirates Tip Cards, 3-0

by CHUCK WILLOUR

It was all Dave Hasbach at Maple Park in Palatine Wednesday afternoon.

Or, rather, it was all Dave Hasbach and his blazing fast ball, his sharp breaking curve, nifty glove in the field and big bat at the plate that the Palatine Pirates seemed to need Wednesday, as Coach Roy Schottler's charges blasted past Arlington, 3-0, to claim their second victory in three Mid-Suburban League starts this season.

The big — 6-2 and about 180 pounds — junior up on an impressive display of pitching prowess, fanning right handed eight Cards, walking only one and allowing only one ball to fall safely for a hit. And — even more impressive — he allowed only two balls to be hit out the infield all day!

AND THE PIRATE standout added even more to his glory by deftly handling four solid shots back to the mound and then booming out two long blasts to center, one going for a double and the other being pulled down after a long chase.

Of course, Hasbach could never have won the game by himself. His Pirate teammates contributed with another six solid raps to complement his double and played perfect defense behind his superb pitching.

As for the Cards... well, it just wasn't their day. Only three Arlington diamond men made it as far as first, two going to second. Al Feldman was the first Card to reach first base, reaching on a checked swing dribbler that was fumbled, and he was followed up by first sacker Dave Armstrong who drew the only walk off Hasbach in the game.

AND IT WAS third baseman Jim Baumgartner who collected the only hit off Hasbach, punching a high floater into short left that fell just in front of hard-charging Greg Duffey and then rolled behind him for a double.

Other than that, though, it was all Palatine. The Pirates rocked Arlington moundsman Steve Stratton for three runs in the second — the only tallies of the game — and threatened several other times.

Hasbach — again — sparked the Pirate scoring flurry. On Stratton's fourth toss of the second inning, the Pirate chucker laced a double up the middle. Roger Outcalt followed up by tapping one back to second that was thrown wildly to first, and Palatine had men on first and third.

THIRD BASEMAN Scott Smith then knocked a solid shot over second to score Hasbach and move Outcalt to third. Then Duffey bounced a ball to short that went for a hit when Card catcher Pat Donahue was called for interference. The bases were loaded!

Up stepped center fielder Chris Andriano — and out went Stratton's first delivery into deep center for a double, chasing across Outcalt and Smith.

That was all for the Pirates, though they threatened once again in the fifth when catcher Ernie Purcell went as far as third before Stratton retired the side on a strike out and a bounce back to him.

But that was all the Pirates needed, as they claimed a share of the MSL's second spot with their 2-1 conference mark. Arlington's record now stands at 1-2.

Wheeling Golfs Past Deerfield

Underclass talent propelled Wheeling's golf unit to their second straight conquest of the season at the expense of a host Deerfield team Tuesday.

Paced by a freshman and a sophomore, Jack Berry's 'Cats dumped the Warriors at their home Sunset Valley layout in Highland Park 174-179.

Fresh Bob Winters and soph Terry Niede came in with identical 42s to share medalist honors with a Deerfield linksmen. They combined their productions with a 44 by Mike Guy and a 46 by Jay Lesniak to earn the five-stroke verdict.

Spartan Relays Draws 12 Units

They went by pairs into the ark that Noah built. Glenbrook North sends em three and four at a time into the relays they conceived quite a few years more recently.

The ark was only launched once however while the Spartan Relays are an annual affair.

The eighth annual running of this strictly relays meet gets underway at 4:30 today in fact with Wheeling and Forest View among the 12 teams returning to Northbrook's high school oval for the occasion.

Maine South is expected to retain possession of the crown they lifted away from a fellow Central Suburban league cinder unit in last years running of the meet. The home team is ranked up among the leading candidates too among a field which includes Barrington, Glenbrook South, Lake Forest, Marshall, Mundelein, Niles West, West Leyden and the 67 winners from Deerfield.

Five field events and ten races make up the agenda and the top five places in each category are determined by taking total times or distances for a schools three-or-four-man entry. Wheeling, for instance, holds the meet record in the pole vault with a 36-foot combined three-man effort.

The gathering is expected to conclude, under the lights, at approximately 9:30 p.m.

St. Viator Rolls On, 7-0

The first warning went out to the rest of the Chicagoland Prep League Monday afternoon when Coach Pat Mahoney's St. Viator varsity baseball nine downed league leader St. Joseph, 3-2.

St. George, evidently, doesn't put much stock in warnings.

So, Wednesday afternoon, the Dragons from Evanston paid the price for not heeding the warning the Lions are now a strong power, a power to be respected, in the CPL. And the price the Dragons paid was high — a 7-0 humbling at the hands of Mahoney's charges, the third win in five starts for the Lions.

That was the second and last warning for the CPL; from now on, foes of the Lions had better watch out!

In Wednesday's game Coach Mahoney showed the league that he has a superb one-two punch on the mound, when sophomore hurler Mike Pettenuzzo served up a sterling one-hitter, the single safety coming in the sixth inning and causing no harm. In all, the right-handed soph fanned nine Dragons and allowed only three free passes to first in his seven winning stint.

In addition, the young mound ace chucked four perfect innings of ball, facing the minimum 12 batters during that time!

Meanwhile his teammates were shelling Dragon pitching for nine hits good for seven runs — helped along by four George miscues. The Lions pushed across four runs in the fourth and three in the fifth to completely demolished the Dragon mound corps.

Lion short stop Ken Preski started off the fourth with a two base blast, followed by Pettenuzzo's grounder that was booted. Jim Hynes then beat out a grounder for a hit to load the bases. Up to the plate stepped Steve Smith — in only his second start — and the Lion third sacker laced a single to left to score both Preski and Pettenuzzo.

Catcher Dick Aylward was put down on a fly-out to left, but then the Lions got their final two runs of the stanza when Larry Quinnett followed up with another shot to the outfield that scored both Smith and Hynes.

In the fifth, after Preski had bounced out to the pitcher, Pettenuzzo singled, followed by Hynes' bouncer that was dropped by the Dragon third baseman.

Smith came through with another single to load the bases, but Pettenuzzo was cut down at home seconds later on Aylward's fielder's choice.

But then Quinnett came through with a knock fumbled by the first baseman to score Hynes, and — just seconds later — Smith and Aylward were chased home by Mike O'Donnell's single.

Lions Post 7th Links Victory

Whos next? Bring em out! The St. Viator golfers are ready and willing to challenge any links unit that would dare them on!

The Lion linksters proved again their prowess Tuesday afternoon at the Rob Roy Golf Course by dumping Montini, 153-176, and are eager to add to their impressive list of victims — now standing at seven in a row.

Mario Vitale once again was medalist in the meet, covering the Rob Roy circuit in 37 strokes. He was followed by Joe Dougherty with a sizzling 38 and Ken Mattini and Andy Gore with 39s.

The Viator potent foursome is now awaiting their next matchup coming next Wednesday against St. Ignatius at the Lions home Rob Roy course.

Keith Delays Resignation

Has 'Some Things To Do'

After declaring his intentions to resign from the Elk Grove Village Board, Trustee Eugene Keith had a modified change of heart Tuesday night.

He made no attempt to announce resignation, and afterward said that Tuesday "was a night for winners," adding he wanted to talk to other board members first.

He elaborated Wednesday, saying he had "some things to do" before resigning. "I have to take care of campaign promises," he said, "which will include writing up some legislation and submitting it to the board."

Keith, who lost the presidential election to Jack Pahl by a 2-1 margin on April 15, said he also wanted to "discuss their plans on the individual they're considering for my spot on the board."

APPARENTLY, KEITH is not looking on the talk of appointing Alvin Krasnow with much favor. Krasnow ran fourth in the race for three trusteeships, incurring the wrath of Keith in the process.

"I've had a great many telephone calls asking me to reconsider," Keith said, but he added "there is no change yet in my plans, time is an important factor now."

On election night, Keith was trailing badly behind Pahl and Robert Fleming, and not only conceded the election but announced he would resign.

He maintained that position through the week, but after returning from a business trip on Tuesday, appeared confident, cheerful, and ready to serve out the remainder of his term.

Keith's term runs to 1971.

OTHER BOARD MEMBERS said that Keith had something prepared to read, but decided not to as the meeting progressed.

After returns were canvassed and new board members installed, newly elected officials were given the floor to make what ever comments they wished. Having done so, Pahl opened the floor to other trustees, gently hinting that it was a good time to hear resignations.

But Keith remained silent, and after a long pause the meeting was adjourned.

Next regular meeting of the village board is May 6, after which Keith plans a vacation, making any resignation unlikely until the end of next month.

St. Viator Will Have 2nd Sign-Up

St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights will have a second registration for prospective freshmen tomorrow at 8:30 a.m.

Officials of the Catholic boys' school said the registration is intended for those who did not register in January.

SINCE THE JANUARY registration the St. Viator principal, Rev. James Michalek, has announced that tuition will not be increased next year beyond the present $350 level.

A larger-than-usual registration Saturday would indicate that many parents of Catholic eighth grade students had delayed enrolling their boys before because of questions regarding the possible cost.

Five Judges Paid Bonus

Three late-working judges at Prospect Heights Dist. 23's Anne Sullivan School are going to get an $18.50 bonus from High School Dist. 214.

An extra $14 apiece in overtime pay will go to five judges who counted Dist. 214 ballots at Kimball Hill School in Rolling Meadows.

The Prospect Heights trio worked until 4:30 a.m. counting high school district referendum and school board ballots, while the Kimball Hill group finished up at 3 a.m.

In all 80 judges were voted "overtime pay" Monday by the High School Dist. 214 school board.

THE BONUSES WERE proposed by Robert Weber, business manager.

He suggested that judges be paid $2.50 an hour for overtime between 10 p.m. and midnight and $3 an hour from midnight on.

Weber said he proposed overtime pay start at 10 p.m. so as not to "reward inefficiency."

He noted that at Prospect Heights long lines of voters were waiting to vote when the polls closed at 7 p.m. It was 9:15 p.m. before the last voter marked his ballot and went home.

School board members voted unanimously to pay the extra money, a total of $471.05 over regular election costs.

Chamber Head Is Wayne Walter

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce established a new executive committee this month.

The current members include chamber pres. Wayne Walter of the Statesman Corp.; Joseph Weber Jr., Weber Marking Systems; Marge LeMeulleur, Marge's Apparel; and John Janszen, Arlington Furniture.

ALSO SERVING ARE past president Ed Keegan, Key Plumbing and Kitchens; Ralph Clabour, Arlington Structural Steel; Gene Montgomery, Illinois Bell Telephone Co.; and Harold Bell, chamber executive manager.

Since beginning "Operation Understanding," an effort to visit new businesses in the community, the chamber reports many new applications for membership.

IT BEGAN WITH a sit-in at 8:30 yesterday morning, but at the urging of student Paul Stathas (second from right) several hundred Elk Grove High School students moved into the auditorium with the hope of changing the school's policy on smoking. Stathas, a senior, opposed the "anarchy" of a sit-in, and supported a meeting with administration officials and a petition to permit the high school to have a smoking area. Reason prevailed during the three-hour demonstration.

Students 'Take Over' School

by GEOFFREY MEHL

Spring wouldn't be spring unless the student body of a school didn't make its presence known. That was the story of Elk Grove High School yesterday.

Several hundred students "took over" the high school auditorium, issued "demands" and won a "confrontation" with high school and School Dist. 214 officials. It began in impromptu fashion at 8:30 a.m. with a sit-in outside the administration offices, and quickly moved into the school auditorium. After brief confusion, the group focused attention on the school's no smoking policy.

They engaged in debate with principal Robert Haskell, assistant principal Rick Farris, and director of student services Charles Aldrich, and then cleared the auditorium, milling around outside.

THEY HAD "demanded" to talk to board of education members, and when word came that Assistant Supt. Dr. Rod McLennan and aide Jack Martin were on the way, the group returned to the auditorium, plotted their next moves, and met with the two officials.

Afterward, it was agreed that student leaders would meet with district and school officials later in the day. With that, the "demonstration" ended three hours after it began.

Martin spoke for most school officials when he complimented the group "for your mannerly conduct."

"I appreciate this opportunity to talk with you and answer your questions, and compliment you on your behavior," he said.

A number of students shared the spotlight, and the microphone, varying in degrees of militancy. In the end, however, they took the advice of student Paul Stathas.

"LET'S TRY the representative thing," he urged, "and if it doesn't work, we can always go back to the mob thing. Anarchy just isn't going to work. What's happened has hassled the administration, and it would be kind of nice to have them on our side. So let's play it really cool, so they think we've got some kind of manners."

The issue was Elk Grove High School's ban on student smoking. Students contended that since it is a fact of life at the school, it should be accepted, moved out of student washrooms and into an approved area.

An outdoor area was favored by most of the group.

In a brief speech to the group, Martin explained Dist. 214's current policy on student smoking, and came across well enough to draw extensive applause.

"UNTIL LAST year, it was illegal for persons under 18-years-old to smoke in public places, and therefore schools couldn't even consider permitting it."

"But last summer the law was changed, and now there is no minimum age to smoke — although it is still illegal for minors to buy cigarettes. You're probably aware that that law isn't very strictly enforced."

"At Forest View High School, the principal asked permission of the board to provide a smoking area on an experimental basis. A gravelled area, about 10 by 20 feet, 80 yards north of the cafeteria was set aside."

"The board of education is not trying to encourage student smoking, but they're

Plan Monday Talks

A meeting yesterday afternoon between students seeking a change in Elk Grove High School's smoking policy and the school administration produced only agreement to discuss the matter again Monday afternoon.

At that time, students will meet with the faculty policy and welfare committee, the group that usually handles student complaints.

The session followed a polite, three hour demonstration that sought the establishment of permitted smoking areas at the high school.

Principal Robert Haskell commented yesterday afternoon that initial parent rejection has been one of keeping the no-smoking rule in effect. He added that the topic might be discussed at last night's Teacher-Parent Council meeting.

HASKELL MET with three student representatives briefly yesterday afternoon, following a sit-in demonstration involving several hundred youths during the morning.

Students are seeking a smoking area arrangement similar to that being tried on an experimental basis at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights.

Dist. 214 officials Dr. Rod McLennan and Jack Martin said the program there was proving successful, and suggested the students petition the board of education for a change in policy affecting Elk Grove High School.

CHALLENGE FROM students at Elk Grove High School was met with a response from Principal Robert Haskell that smoking policy is made by the board of education and not the school administration. He was not well received by several hundred students who stayed away from classes and demonstrated for three hours. Among the student leaders was Jim Jones (arm raised) and Paul Stathas at far right.

PAUL STATHAS, a senior, urged fellow Elk Grove High School students to try "the representative thing" and agreed, cheering Dist. 214 spokesmen.

Students List Smoking Wants

ognize that students do smoke," he said. Martin said the Forest View experiment was working out well, and that smoking inside the building has "virtually been eliminated." It was his feeling that the board of education would look favorably on a petition from students, although he made no firm commitment.

HE SUGGESTED a meeting with Haskell, a petition, and a visit to the next board of education meeting.

"Just a personal observation: You might want to suggest a change in policy for other schools too, and include an apology for any embarrassment you might have caused for the school. That would help your position," he said.

He drew considerable applause, and had his sentiments echoed by McLennan: "I congratulate you for being orderly, and I'm sure some sort of action can be taken."

One student asked about McLennan's feelings on the matter. "Are you opposed to a smoking area?"

"Personally, no," he said, drawing applause. "I'm not opposed because it's going on in worse areas. But let me make it clear that I'm not advocating student smoking."

HE ALSO noted that ultimately the decision would rest with the board of education, and that everyone in the administration must abide by current or changed policy.

The two pacified high school students even more when they told the group about the interest of student council Pres. Jim Brookman.

Martin said that Brookman "is the only student counselor representative I've seen at board meetings. He's there representing you. Your student council is doing a better job than any other in the district."

He noted that Brookman would be meeting with the board on the subject of curriculum. "That's more important to all of you than smoking rules," he said, "because it affects everything in terms of all the courses you take."

STATHAS, ACTING as master of ceremonies for the discussion, closed the meeting by urging that representatives meet with the administration, prepare and circulate a petition, and take it to the board of education. He asked all students to return to classes, and indicated he would inform them of progress on the matter.

There were some moans and groans, after having had a three-hour holiday from education, but everyone filed out and the "demonstration" was over.

The event took place without disrupting classes that remained in session, without violence, and without damage to the building. The sort of spring thing for Elk Grove students left positive impressions among most who witnessed it and participated.

It was smoothly handled by both sides, and may have been a major step in the resolution of a touchy issue between students, the school, and the district.

Teachers Criticize Dist. 59 Policy

by JAMES VESELY

Seventy-eight per cent of the teachers of School Dist. 59 would recommend a reduction in the curriculum department of the district "in order to increase the number of certified room teachers per building," according to a survey taken by a parent study group in the district.

Statistics which indicate substantial teacher dissatisfaction with Dist. 59 policies were revealed this week as part of a survey taken of all teachers in the district.

The poll was conducted by members of the Forest View Parents' Study Committee, an independent group formed to investigate the district.

OTHER STATISTICS were culled by the poll:

—About 61 per cent of the teachers who responded indicated they received some services which were helpful from the curriculum coordinators.

—Twenty-seven per cent felt the services increased this year.

—More than half the teachers said they were not using a specific program devised by the curriculum department.

—Forty-five per cent said they received the most help in curriculum planning from experienced teachers and/or principals, while only 5 per cent said they received the most help from curriculum coordinators.

—More than 60 per cent said the curriculum can best be developed by the local building staffs.

In effect, the teachers of Dist. 59 cast severe doubts on the efficiency of the curriculum department, a fact which reinforces the thrust of the study committee in its search for problems and solutions in the district.

FOLLOWING A barrage of questions and accusations from Forest View parents Tuesday night, Dist. 59 Supt. Donald Thomas remained publicly in favor of the group's suggestions.

"It was a very good meeting," Thomas said about the Tuesday night confrontation. "Their survey was good and positive and will make a contribution to the school district."

Regarding the strong comments from teachers in the survey, Thomas said, "These are real feelings (of the teachers). I believe them. The data will be given careful consideration and will be utilized. The survey was very helpful to the district and we appreciate their involvement and contribution."

The criticism of the district's curriculum coordinators centers around the belief among Forest View parents that the coordinator system, along with other administrative functions of the district, is overburdened with personnel.

Questions asked at the Tuesday night meeting implied that money was being diverted to administrative functions not related to in-class teaching.

THE TWO AIMS of the local study committee are to "bring quality education to the district and reduce the class size to 25 or 27 pupils."

Confronted with this proposition, Thomas maintains that to reduce all classes to that size would cost the district $1 million. "Give me $1 million and I will do it," Thomas said.

And that is the rub.

Forest View parents claim that the district has not only $1 million, but $10 million in tax money. This money should be more effectively used in the day-to-day classroom needs, they say, instead of for advisory talent.

Although the study committee is willing to compromise on the use of administration personnel in many areas, the meeting held Tuesday apparently did not convince the parents that their requests are being met.

Central to the issue over the worth of curriculum coordinators in the district was the sudden announcement that Thomas Warden, former Forest View principal, has been moved to such a post.

TO THE FOREST VIEW parents, this move was a slap at them for being involved in the district affairs. Thomas denied this and said the move to curriculum coordinator's post for Warden was a move up. Pay for the two posts remains the same, however.

In the jargon of the educator, a curriculum coordinator is an administrative person whose job it is to bring expertise on subjects to the classroom teacher.

Some districts, such as Dist. 21 in Wheeling, have only one curriculum director. Others, such as Dist. 25, have coordinators under different names.

At the close of Tuesday's meeting, members of the study committee agreed to present their facts to the Dist. 59 school board and received pledges of full consideration from some board members present.

The next meeting of the Dist. 59 board is scheduled to be held May 5 at Brentwood School.

Sitters: Watch for Danger

by MARILYN RUBEN

Parents (who hire) babysitters are paying (them) to be alert in combating every conceivable danger or mishap. With your telephone and a list of emergency numbers within easy reach, and your sense of responsibility, you are never really alone.

At a Jaycees Babysitting Clinic held last year, Chief Harry P. Jenkins warned local teenagers about the dangers which might occur on the job in light of the recent murder of a 15-year-old babysitter in Park Forest, the organization has requested a special printing of his advice on self-protection:

—Before the parents leave, list the telephone numbers of police (437-2131), fire (439-2121), the family doctor, a neighbor who is at home, and where the family can be reached.

—DO NOT INVITE guests, especially without the knowledge and consent of your employer. You cannot afford, nor can your employer afford, to have neighbors disturbed or harassed by unauthorized people descending upon a babysitter.

—Avoid a direct answer on the phone when the parent is not available. Do not let the caller know you are alone in the house. In the event of a suspicious, indecent, or threatening phone call, notify the police immediately.

—Before answering the doorbell, turn the front porch light on, look out through an unlighted window, and inquire through a locked door as to who it is and the nature of their business.

If there is any doubt in your mind, refuse to open the door and tell the caller to come back the following day. Call the police if the caller does not leave the property.

—REPORT suspicious persons and cars to the police immediately. In the event of window peepers, do not indicate by loud talking or gestures that you are calling for help.

—In the case of an undesired intruder, keep furniture between you and the intruder. Find out what he wants and demand that he leave. If he attempts to grab or harm you, throw something through a window and scream; get out of the house if possible — call the police or yell for aid from neighbors. Yell, bite, scratch, kick, pull hair, etc.

Do not attempt to get a knife or gun — these could easily be used against you. Remember what the intruder looks like and anything he said.

In conclusion, Chief Jenkins cautioned the sitters: "Whether you are a police officer or a babysitter, your basic responsibilities are prevention of crime, protection of life and property, apprehension of offenders, and preservation of the peace. "THIS IS NOT A responsibility you can perform while wearing a telephone on your ear, while glued to a TV set, or while entertaining your guests on your employer's time."

"Make frequent bed checks, look out of windows and doors occasionally, and make sure all doors and windows are securely locked — or screens in place. The vocation of a baby-sitter is a necessary and vital occupation; the responsibilities are very real and are not to be taken lightly."

Thomas Put On Firing Line

Angry parents — about 100 of them — met at Dist. 59's Forest View Elementary School Tuesday to take administrative officials apart piece by piece.

The parents met under the auspices of the Forest View Parent's Study Committee, a group investigating alleged discrepancies in Dist. 59's financial and personnel policies.

Overshadowing the meeting was the sudden announcement that Forest View Principal Tom Warden has been moved to an administrative post.

Angered by the announcement, parents stood up one by one and demanded that Dr. Donald Thomas, superintendent, explain why Warden was taken from Forest View.

Leading the questioning was George C. Schrieber, chairman of the study committee, who verbally chipped away at the professional judgment of Thomas.

ALSO ON THE FIRING LINE was Dist.

ELEANOR TURNER began her third term as Elk Grove Village clerk Tuesday, being sworn in by reelected Pres. Jack Pahl. After a canvass of returns, Pahl and Mrs. Turner were declared elected, along with Trustees Charles Zettek, George Coney and Tom Ullmann.

TOM ULLMANN, seated with his wife, was a spectator at his last village board meeting Tuesday before being sworn in as a trustee. Canvass of returns showed he received 1,909 votes, and was elected with incumbents Charles Zettek and George Coney.

Thomas Put On Firing Line

59's new board president, Dr. Allen Sparks, who took office just 24 hours before.

Sparks was the recipient of some tough questions by the parents, but it was obvious throughout the evening that the crowd was saving its largest pitch for Thomas.

"We want Tom Warden back," one woman shouted. The crowd applauded. Thomas answered: "Tom Warden has been placed in an administrative position. I thought we had come to a mutual understanding."

The crowd booed. Another person asked, "Was Tom Warden given a choice in his appointment?"

Thomas' answer indicated that Warden could have taken the curriculum director's post or leave the district. At that point, people in the back of the room began getting to their feet in visual opposition to Thomas.

Basis of the meeting was a study undertaken by the parents committee to seek answers about administration and budgeting. Schrieber's group was originally formed several months ago to look into the alleged "over population" of the administrative staff and a series of financial crisis which seemed to plague Dist. 59.

CENTRAL TO THE committee's study is the results of a pool taken among district teachers and principals in which the educators were asked to reply to questions about the curriculum department. The anonymous replies seemed to indicate that teachers and some administrators feel the district is over taxing itself with high priced talent.

"I've given up asking for help," said one teacher.

"Let's get them out of their ivory towers," said another.

Other quotes, fewer in number, supported the district policies and Thomas.

The study committee appeared last night to be a determined, talented group. But Thomas brought his own talent for persuasion. On the continuing question of principal Warden, Thomas said, it would be outside his ethical limits to reveal the reasons for the change. "Why don't you ask Tom Warden," Thomas asked the group. And for once the room was silent.

Faced with a new session of the school board and a rekindled interest in schools and Principal Warden, the study group intends to pursue its inquiries directly to the Board of Education. The crowd was not buying the explanation of an administration in which they have lost faith.

Dialing Elk Grove

In Miami Beach, Fla., the past week were Dee and Bill Lorch, 100 Oakton St. The trip was prompted by a special convention requiring Bill's attendance. Plenty of sunning, swimming and supper-clubbing were enjoyed by them in their free time. Janet and Linda, in the meantime, were home, being taken care of by Grandma Rose Garbasi from Chicago.

Agnes Luczak, president of the Over 40 Club tells of a third anniversary she and her club members and guests celebrated April 16 at Scandia House, Mount Prospect.

Supper club members who dined at Jean Bergbreiter's, 38 Wildwood Road, Friday night were Carolyn Novak, Dianne Greenholdt, Marge Freiwald, Jane Taylor, Liz Ryan, Sue Roeder and Sue Snell.

During spring vacation from Harper College, Jim Evans drove to Winter Park, Colo. to do some skiing. He is the son of the Robert Evans, 17 Wildwood.

AN R AND R, Rest and Relaxation, from U. S. Army assignments in Vietnam was in order for Lt. Dawson Huebner, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Huebner, 81 Ridgewood, this week. He spent the time in Hong Kong.

Baptized April 13 in Queen of the Rosary Church was Steven Leo, son of the Don Dylas, 637 Maple Court; Father George J. Rassas performed the baptism. Godparents chosen to attend were Karen Zillis, Chicago, and Joseph Brandt, Park Ridge. Among the 16 dinner guests welcomed later in the Dylas home were grandparents, Lorraine Dylas and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Radaskas, Chicago.

Also baptized in Queen of the Rosary Church by Father George J. Rassas was Michael John, son of William and Susan Bryne, 1048 Cypress Lane. Godparents were Mary Ellen and Tom Maloney, Chicago. Grandparents, Mrs. John Maloney, Chicago, and Mrs. Joseph Byrne, Oak Park, were also in attendance at the day's festivities, along with others from Chicago and suburbs.

FLYING HERE from Newton, Iowa, for the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Noble Griffith, to visit with their son and family, the Robert Griffith family, 36 Woodcrest Lane. They were there to watch Phillip receive his athletic award Saturday morning for athletic club participation at the Chicago Athletic Club.

Colette Pokorney, 3 Woodcrest Lane, hosted the Jayceette members to her home for a special meeting Monday night.

A Pittsburgh junket is reported by Bob and Gloria Cook, 372 Clearmont, with their son, Bobby. They visited two other Cook brothers and their respective families en route. The Tom Cooks welcomed them in Pittsburgh and Cincinnati hosts were Bruce and his family.

Phoenix was the first stop for the Kenneth Brauers, 1227 Carswell, on their recent train trip; they visited Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wills. In Las Vegas, they saw many celebrities and shows, including Carole Channing, Wayne Newton and the Paris Revue at the Stardust. There the Brauers boarded a train for the return.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Friday, April 25, the 125th day of 1969 with 250 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1846 the first shots of the Mexican War were fired.

In 1898 Congress formally declared war on Spain.

In 1901 New York became the first state to require auto owners to affix license plates on their cars—and 954 vehicles were registered.

In 1945 delegates of 46 nations gathered in San Francisco to organize a permanent United Nations.

A thought for the day: Ralph Waldo Emerson said: "Every sweet has its sour, every evil its good."

Annex and Zone Apartment Land

The Bensenville village board last week annexed and zoned R-4 (multiple-family) 5.5 acres at the northeast corner of Marshall Road and Argyle Street.

Hannibal Muscato of Browngate Builders, Bensenville, is planning to construct about four apartment buildings containing a total of from 75 to 80 units. They will be one and two-bedroom apartments.

Muscato said he hoped construction would begin in about six months.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board passed an ordinance calling for the vacating of Eastview Avenue, north of Hillside Drive, for the proposed Milwaukee Road industrial park.

The board also increased the pay of its secretary, Mrs. Kay Murphy, from $10 to $15 a meeting, and canvassed votes from Tuesday's election.

trip. They also tell of scenic sightseeing tours in that area.

ELLEN HARRISON, 342 Bianco, and her fiancé, Gary De Berge, 46 Avon, spent Easter week vacation from Illinois Wesleyan in Bloomington driving to Denver to stay with Ellen's brother and sister-in-law, Dennis and Colleen Harrison. Many mountainous trips were on their agenda in and around Denver.

Guests of Dr. Dominco Parma, Bogata, South America, the past several weeks were Jaime and Dorothy Tokay, Susan and Keenan, 494 Lilac Lane. Their view from the Tequendama Hotel provided them with a view of the illuminated bull ring at the base of Monserrate and La Guadalupe Mountains, plus statue of Guadalupe. Historic sites and forts and the La Plaza de la Constitución were on their sightseeing tours. A boat took them to a Rosario Chain island, five miles from the seaport of Cartagena; here they lived in a thatched roof abode and it was surrounded by typical South American house-pets, such as goats and pigs.

Unless the boys and men took time out to do some spear and barracuda fishing their dinner menus, they had to resort mainly to native rice and the like for food.

Souvenirs, such as an emerald, antiques, leather goods and brass and wood on figurines were purchased during their shopping tours.

Cartahana was the last city on their agenda before boarding the airliner for the trip home.

The Tokays arrived home in time to greet Dorothy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Falkner from Crown Point, Ind.; they came to return the Tokays' dog they had housed during the family's absence.

ELK GROVE FRIENDS of Charley Eining, 32 Woodcrest Lane, were impressing Sunday morning to watch him on TV. Charley, Director of technical operations for the station, gave a demonstration discussion on his "brainchild," the CG-3, color mobile unit.

Two candles were blown out at David Janos April 15 family birthday party in his 1211 Hemlock Drive home.

Easter dinner guests of the Art Dahl family, 507 Briarwood, when their son, Clayton, and his fiancée, Ginny Sellers, arrived from their studies at Illinois State University at Normal. Hal Sellers of Carpentersville and the Merle Williams family of Wheaton were also guests.

Home at 387 E. Elk Grove Blvd. are Bob and Ann Helman, Shawn, Ronald and Kae, from a visit with Bob's relatives, the Jack Wishart family in Columbus, Ohio.

Jazz Competition Set

The Fenton High School Stage Band will compete in a jazz festival May 3 at Mundelein High School. Groups participating in the festival will be in open competition from 11:30 a.m. through 5:30 p.m.

This year will mark the third annual festival. It is sponsored by the Mundelein High School Boosters and the Karnes Music Company of Des Plaines.

From the afternoon competition, which is open to the public at no charge, the judges will select eight bands to perform in the evening concert. From these, two bands in each category will be named the "Festival Bands for 1969."

Guest soloist for the music festival will be Sonny Stitt who often ranks as one of the top 10 saxophone players named by International jazz critics.

During the afternoon, Stitt will meet with participating students in informal clinic sessions and will perform as a soloist with the Karnes Jazz Lab Band at the evening performance. Mundelein auditorium will house the evening concert which begins at 7:30. There will be a $1.25 admission charge.

Program Added

College of DuPage has added a new technical-occupational program area to its curriculum — graphic arts.

The program will prepare students to fill a variety of positions in the graphic arts field, which includes specialists in mid-management, sales, estimating, quality control and production. Other professional areas include process photography, press work, color matching and process arts.

Current growth rate for the graphic arts industry is approximately a 16 per cent per year increase in demand for qualified professionals in the Chicago area.

Plans are being made to enable students to participate in cooperative education programs which will permit them to complement classroom experience with challenging work situations.

For further information contact College of DuPage, Office of Admissions, 29W235 Perry Road, Naperville.

Teacher Pay Plan

District 211's school board was expected to ratify a new salary policy for teachers for the 1969-70 school year last night. If approved, the plan would provide a minimum raise of $700.

A teacher with a bachelor's degree who has no prior teaching experience will receive a salary of $7,300, under the new plan.

Of primary significance in this year's salary agreement is the omission of merit raises, which long has been the basis of salary increases in Dist. 211, one of the last high school districts in the area to use the system.

For the past several years, the Teachers' Association has requested abolishing merit raises, but could not sway the school board to agree until this year.

In the new plan, an automatic index scale has been established based on teachers' level of education and experience.

A YEAR OF EXPERIENCE is valued at 5 per cent of the base salary or $365. Movement from one level of education to another is valued at 10 per cent of $730.

The three levels of education accepted in the plan are a bachelor's master's, and master's plus 30 hours of graduate work.

If a teacher has not received a master's degree by the end of his eighth year in the system, he is automatically stopped on the index. The same would apply to a teacher whose performance in the classroom is not satisfactory during the preceding year.

Such teachers remain "frozen" until the conditions for movement on the index are met.

A teacher beginning his career next year can look forward to a potential yearly income of $15,330, but only after he has met an education requirement of 30 hours beyond the master's degree. He would also have to perform satisfactorily in the classroom for 18 years.

THE BOARD OF Education and Teachers Association approved the index. They called it "a major gain in the district's struggle to attract and retain a high caliber of teachers particularly in this area where most other high school districts have similar plans."

School officials described the index as desirable for two reasons.

A teacher's salary is based on the beginning teacher salary, so that the relationship between the lower and upper salary ranges always remain the same.

A career is established in classroom teaching, providing the teacher with the opportunity to advance through experience and education, without having to leave the classroom or even teaching to reach the average level of income in the community.

IN DETERMINING the step at which to place a teacher on the index, teachers employed on Sept. 1, who had not received an M.A., had experience of 10 or more years in the district and 15 or more hours beyond a B.A. should be allowed to progress two additional steps beyond the seventh; one eighth step of 1.34 and a ninth step of 1.37. No other teacher may progress beyond the seventh year of experience without a master's degree.

The maximum raise would be set at $2,000, except that a teacher who obtains an M.A. degree or qualifies for the M.A. plus 30 track between Sept. 1, 1968 and Sept. 1, 1969, shall receive a raise no greater than $2,730.

A teacher whose raise is calculated at less than $700, shall be placed at the next higher step, so no teacher's raise is less than the original raise of $700. Those teachers would remain at that step until they qualify for a higher step.

AT THE CONTROLS in this learning situation at Campanelli School is Bruce Trevor, Dist. 54 substitute teacher and pilot for American Airlines. Trevor has been a substitute teacher in the district since 1966. He resides at 588 Chippendale Place, Hoffman Estates.

Downey Looks Ahead

by PAT GERLACH

"I feel very responsible to the people of Hoffman Estates and I am extremely concerned about the awesome and cautious exercise of the presidential powers," Frederick E. Downey said in a post-election interview this week.

Downey, 39, who was elected village president in a Republican sweep of the village last week, also told The Herald he is doubly aware of the challenge of his responsibilities because of the "large vote of confidence" placed in him by the electors.

He tallied 1,633 votes in the April 15 election compared with 808 ballots cast for Atty John F. Morrissey of the Hoffman Independent Party (HIP), and 744 votes which went to Howard "Jack" Noble, a current village trustee who led the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP).

"As a member and president of the Dist. 54 board of education I also felt an identical responsibility for the education of the elementary school children in our district," he said.

HE VIEWS THE HIRING of a village manager and planning for construction of a municipal building as several of the top priorities for his administration during the next few months, but stressed that there are also many other areas of concern needing fairly immediate attention.

Downey said that the day following his election he contacted Dr. Frank Endicott and his assistant Dr. William Hazard, both of the Northwestern University Placement Bureau, to make preliminary arrangements for a search for suitable candidates for the vacant managerial spot.

Endicott, who assisted Dist. 54 in the selection of former Supt. Kenneth Underwood, has been invited to attend the May 8 village board meeting to discuss job specifications with the trustees, Downey explained.

THE NEW VILLAGE president also plans to have his legal counsel review the existing village manager ordinance effected several years back to determine if revision is needed.

Indicating an amazing amount of organization which has taken place during the past week, the new president has set up methods to achieve implementation of all six planks in the village GOP platform on which he ran.

"During a talk with Chief John O'Connell last week, he particularly mentioned the deplorable working conditions under which the police department now operates," Downey explained in stressing the need for additional space.

Regarding appointments to various committees and boards, Downey said he is moving "rapidly to reappoint or interview new personnel."

"This is one of the most difficult areas in which to get qualified people, and it is certainly not just Republicans that we have in mind," he commented.

ALTHOUGH DOWNEY and his three new trustees and village clerk were sworn in last Saturday, much controversy has arisen since over just when he will be officially seated as president.

Roy L. Jenkins, retiring president, has refused to give up his post until the first board meeting next month, and has a supporting legal opinion from Village Atty. Peter Schultz.

Downey and his people have a legal opinion from their counsel which upholds their contention that they have been elected, notified of the canvass resolution adopted last week, and have been sworn in and are now in authority.

Downey said he expected to take office at last night's meeting and plans to pro-gram detailing matters to be discussed at that time.

He explained that he has realigned the committee structure and will announce the establishment of two groups — a finance and a public works committee — on which all six trustees will serve.

THE FINANCE committee will be concerned with sources of revenue and expenditures, and the public works group will handle matters pertaining to water, sewerage, and garbage collection.

Death Accidental

An inquest held yesterday morning ruled that the death of a Schaumburg teenage boy Tuesday from carbon monoxide poisoning was accidental.

Paul M. Lippold Jr., 15, 934 Duxbury Lane, Schaumburg, was discovered lying in the front seat of his car in the family garage Tuesday evening by his mother. He was taken to St. Alexius Hospital and was pronounced dead on arrival.

Police said the boy had apparently been working on the engine of his car. The car hood was up, police stated, and tools were placed on the left front fender.

When the boy was found in the car, he was covered with a blanket.

MRS. LORRAINE LIPPOLD, mother of the victim, said she found her son in the car about 5:50 p.m. Tuesday after she returned home, noticed his car, and then sought the house for him. She then summoned help.

According to his mother, Paul Lippold was supposed to begin work at a gas station in Schaumburg Tuesday. The boy left home 6:30 a.m. Tuesday to go to work, she told police. However, his employer, Shelby Jones, said the youth had failed to show up as scheduled.

Friends of the Lippold youth told police that he had not been unhappy or despondent.

Graveside services for Paul will be held today in Evergreen Cemetery in Detroit, Mich.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Sherry Hansen, Austin, Texas, his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Dearborn, Mich.; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Elmore Lippold.

Sub Teachers Like Mixed Bag

by DAN BRANNAN

What does a housewife with three children have in common with a pilot for a major airline? Quick now!

The answer is that both are substitute teachers in Dist. 54 classrooms when a regular teacher becomes ill. The Schaumburg Township school district has approximately 70 qualified substitutes registered for duty when needed.

At 7 a.m. on a school day, Mrs. Flo Ewen, Dist. 54 office secretary, starts taking the phone calls from regular teachers who will be unable to meet with their classes that day. Her job is to search through the files and line up a teaching replacement.

In nearly every case, a qualified substitute teacher is on duty by 8:30.

NORMALLY, between 25 and 30 substitutes are needed on a given school day. Most absences are due to teacher illness or unexpected emergencies.

"During the peak of the flu season, we needed as many as 45 substitute teachers each day," said Ronald Ruble, Dist. 54 director of personnel.

Many local housewives serve as substitute teachers in Dist. 54 schools. But the list also includes 12 airline pilots who reside in this area, a minister, a salesman, a chiropractor, and former Dist. 54 teachers. Most live in the district.

These substitute teachers are paid $22.50 per day.

To qualify for substitute teaching, a person must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited school, hold a valid Illinois teaching certificate of some type, or else have had two years of teaching experience plus at least 60 semester hours of credits, including six hours of professional education.

"Teachers are only human," Ruble stated, "and they are subject to illness, unexpected emergencies and personal problems. But their work in the classroom must go on without interruption. It is therefore necessary that we have capable and dedicated substitute teachers ready to step in and take over. These persons provide an important service to the children, the schools and the community."

RUBLE NOTED that Dist. 54 substitute teachers have the option of deciding what days they are available for teaching, what schools they prefer, and what grades they prefer. "The individual always has the option to say no," he remarked.

Dist. 54 provides a handbook for all substitute teachers in which that person's role is explained, according to the personnel director. In addition, an orientation session is held at the beginning of each school year.

"Some individuals prefer to teach only certain grades, while others will teach any grade," explained Mrs. Ewen, who is in charge of substitute files. A substitute can teach up to a maximum of 90 days per year.

Mrs. Virginia McNaughton, 244 Ashley Road, Hoffman Estates, does substitute teaching in grades three through six. She is also a library board member.

Another Dist. 54 substitute teacher is the Rev. David Bugh, of Hanover Park, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Living Christ and village trustee.

BRUCE TREVOR, an American Airlines pilot, has been a substitute teacher in Dist. 54 since 1966. Trevor, who lives at 588 Chippendale Place, Hoffman Estates, considers teaching a great change of pace.

According to Twinbrook Principal R. K. Driggers, a replacement for a substitute teacher was once needed when the first substitute was called home to nurse an injured child.

"Substitute teaching allows many housewives with teaching experience to maintain their interest in education," Ruble said.

Any person interested in doing substitute teaching in Dist. 54 may contact Ruble through the Dist. 54 administrative office, 105 Audubon Place, Hoffman Estates, 529-1806.

"Some of our present full-time teachers started out as substitutes," Ruble noted.

School Sign-Up

Registration for Dist. 54 pupils entering kindergarten next September will be held May 8 at the district's 14 elementary schools.

Parents are to register their children at their neighborhood schools. Approximately 1,800 pupils are expected to begin kindergarten next fall. There will be about 60 classes.

Registration hours at each school will be from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. Parents whose last names begin with A through L will register in the morning and those whose last names begin with M through Z are to register in the afternoon.

Children entering school for the first time will need a birth certificate to register. All children entering kindergarten next year must be 5 by Dec. 1, 1969.

Illinois law requires that children entering public schools for the first time or entering kindergarten must have a physical examination. Dental examinations are a part of this physical examination. Forms for the examinations will be issued to parents on May 8.

Parents are urged to make appointments as early as possible in order to avoid the late summer rush before school.

There will be a book and materials fee of $3.75 for each kindergarten child. This fee will be collected prior to the opening of school Aug. 21. On that date the pupils will receive their class and teacher assignments.

Humphreys Re-elected Head of Park Board

Harold Humphreys was re-elected president of the Hanover Park Park District this week. Humphreys has served as president for the last two years.

James Lyons was elected vice president. Lyons and Humphreys were elected to six-year terms on the park board April 15. Both have been serving as appointed commissioners.

Other reappointments were Harold Soucie, treasurer; Nancy Nielson, secretary, and James Kamradt, recreation director.

Commissioner Richard Baker submitted his resignation. He is mayor-elect of the village. Baker was appointed to the park board in November.

Teacher Pay Plan

District 211's school board was expected to ratify a new salary policy for teachers for the 1969-70 school year last night. If approved, the plan would provide a minimum raise of $700.

A teacher with a bachelor's degree who has no prior teaching experience will receive a salary of $7,300, under the new plan.

Of primary significance in this year's salary agreement is the omission of merit raises, which long has been the basis of salary increases in Dist. 211, one of the last high school districts in the area to use the system.

For the past several years, the Teachers' Association has requested abolishing merit raises, but could not sway the school board to agree until this year.

In the new plan, an automatic index scale has been established based on teachers' level of education and experience.

A YEAR OF EXPERIENCE is valued at 5 per cent of the base salary or $365. Movement from one level of education to another is valued at 10 per cent of $730.

The three levels of education accepted in the plan are a bachelor's master's, and master's plus 30 hours of graduate work.

If a teacher has not received a master's degree by the end of his eighth year in the system, he is automatically stopped on the index. The same would apply to a teacher whose performance in the classroom is not satisfactory during the preceding year.

Such teachers remain "frozen" until the conditions for movement on the index are met.

A teacher beginning his career next year can look forward to a potential yearly income of $15,330, but only after he has met an education requirement of 30 hours beyond the master's degree. He would also have to perform satisfactorily in the classroom for 18 years.

THE BOARD OF Education and Teachers Association approved the index. They called it "a major gain in the district's struggle to attract and retain a high caliber of teachers particularly in this area where most other high school districts have similar plans."

School officials described the index as desirable for two reasons.

A teacher's salary is based on the beginning teacher salary, so that the relationship between the lower and upper salary ranges always remain the same.

A career is established in classroom teaching, providing the teacher with the opportunity to advance through experience and education, without having to leave the classroom or even teaching to reach the average level of income in the community.

IN DETERMINING the step at which to place a teacher on the index, teachers employed on Sept. 1, who had not received an M.A., had experience of 10 or more years in the district and 15 or more hours beyond a B.A. should be allowed to progress two additional steps beyond the seventh; one eighth step of 1.34 and a ninth step of 1.37. No other teacher may progress beyond the seventh year of experience without a master's degree.

The maximum raise would be set at $2,000, except that a teacher who obtains an M.A. degree or qualifies for the M.A. plus 30 track between Sept. 1, 1968 and Sept. 1, 1969, shall receive a raise no greater than $2,730.

A teacher whose raise is calculated at less than $700, shall be placed at the next higher step, so no teacher's raise is less than the original raise of $700. Those teachers would remain at that step until they qualify for a higher step.

AT THE CONTROLS in this learning situation at Campanelli School is Bruce Trevor, Dist. 54 substitute teacher and pilot for American Airlines. Trevor has been a substitute teacher in the district since 1966. He resides at 588 Chippendale Place, Hoffman Estates.

Downey Looks Ahead

by PAT GERLACH

"I feel very responsible to the people of Hoffman Estates and I am extremely concerned about the awesome and cautious exercise of the presidential powers," Frederick E. Downey said in a post-election interview this week.

Downey, 36, who was elected village president in a Republican sweep of the village last week, also told The Herald he is doubly aware of the challenge of his responsibilities because of the "large vote of confidence" placed in him by the electors.

He tallied 1,633 votes in the April 15 election compared with 808 ballots cast for Atty John F. Morrissey of the Hoffman Independent Party (HIP), and 744 votes which went to Howard "Jack" Noble, a current village trustee who led the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP).

"As a member and president of the Dist. 54 board of education I also felt an identical responsibility for the education of the elementary school children in our district," he said.

HE VIEWS THE HIRING of a village manager and planning for construction of a municipal building as several of the top priorities for his administration during the next few months, but stressed that there are also many other areas of concern needing fairly immediate attention.

Downey said that the day following his election he contacted Dr. Frank Endicott and his assistant Dr. William Hazard, both of the Northwestern University Placement Bureau, to make preliminary arrangements for a search for suitable candidates for the vacant managerial spot.

Endicott, who assisted Dist. 54 in the selection of former Supt. Kenneth Underwood, has been invited to attend the May 8 village board meeting to discuss job specifications with the trustees, Downey explained.

THE NEW VILLAGE president also plans to have his legal counsel review the existing village manager ordinance effected several years back to determine if revision is needed.

Indicating an amazing amount of organization which has taken place during the past week, the new president has set up methods to achieve implementation of all six planks in the village GOP platform on which he ran.

"During a talk with Chief John O'Connell last week, he particularly mentioned the deplorable working conditions under which the police department now operates," Downey explained in stressing the need for additional space.

Regarding appointments to various committees and boards, Downey said he is moving "rapidly to reappoint or interview new personnel."

"This is one of the most difficult areas in which to get qualified people, and it is certainly not just Republicans that we have in mind," he commented.

ALTHOUGH DOWNEY and his three new trustees and village clerk were sworn in last Saturday, much controversy has arisen since over just when he will be officially seated as president.

Roy L. Jenkins, retiring president, has refused to give up his post until the first board meeting next month, and has a supporting legal opinion from Village Atty. Peter Schultz.

Downey and his people have a legal opinion from their counsel which upholds their contention that they have been elected, notified of the canvass resolution adopted last week, and have been sworn in and are now in authority.

Downey said he expected to take office at last night's meeting and plans to pro-ceeds detailing matters to be discussed at that time.

He explained that he has realigned the committee structure and will announce the establishment of two groups — a finance and a public works committee — on which all six trustees will serve.

THE FINANCE committee will be concerned with sources of revenue and expenditures, and the public works group will handle matters pertaining to water, sewerage, and other utilities.

Death Accidental

An inquest held yesterday morning ruled that the death of a Schaumburg teenage boy Tuesday from carbon monoxide poisoning was accidental.

Paul M. Lippold Jr., 15, 944 Duxbury Lane, Schaumburg, was discovered lying in the front seat of his car in the family garage Tuesday evening by his mother. He was taken to St. Alexius Hospital and was pronounced dead on arrival.

Police said the boy had apparently been working on the engine of his car. The car hood was up, police stated, and tools were placed on the left front fender.

When the boy was found in the car, he was covered with a blanket.

MRS. LORRAINE LIPPOLD, mother of the victim, said she found her son in the car about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday after he returned home, noticed his car, and then searched the house for him. She then summoned help.

According to his mother, Paul Lippold was supposed to begin work at a gas station in Schaumburg Tuesday. The boy left home 8:30 a.m. Tuesday to go to work, she told police. However, his employer, Shelby Jones, said the youth had failed to show up as scheduled.

Friends of the Lippold youth told police that he had not been unhappy or despondent.

Graveside services for Paul will be held today in Evergreen Cemetery in Detroit, Mich.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Sherry Hansen, Austin, Texas; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Dearborn, Mich.; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Elmore Lippold.

Sub Teachers Like Mixed Bag

by DAN BRANNAN

What does a housewife with three children have in common with a pilot for a major airline? Quick now!

The answer is that both are substitute teachers in Dist. 54 classrooms when a regular teacher becomes ill. The Schaumburg Township school district has approximately 70 qualified substitutes registered for duty when needed.

At 7 a.m. on a school day, Mrs. Flo Ewen, Dist. 54 office secretary, starts taking the phone calls from regular teachers who will be unable to meet with their classes that day. Her job is to search through the files and line up a teaching replacement.

In nearly every case, a qualified substitute teacher is on duty by 8:30.

NORMALLY, between 25 and 30 substitutes are needed on a given school day. Most absences are due to teacher illness or unexpected emergencies.

"During the peak of the flu season, we needed as many as 45 substitute teachers each day," said Ronald Ruble, Dist. 54 director of personnel.

Many local housewives serve as substitute teachers in Dist. 54 schools. But the list also includes 12 airline pilots who reside in this area, a minister, a salesman, a chiropractor, and former Dist. 54 teachers. Most live in the district.

Annexation Is Challenged

Landowners Promise Legal Recourse

Buffalo Grove landowners intend to file for an injunction against the Village of Arlington Heights asking the court to void a portion of Monday's 80-acre annexation to Arlington Heights.

The property in question is 1 1/4 acres of the total parcel. One section is a lot fronting on Dundee Road between the two jogs of Arlington Heights Road and the other section is 10 acres behind the lot.

The title owners and contract purchasers intend to develop a shopping center on the Dundee Road lot and a manufacturing area on the second lot.

Jerome Pinderski, 105 W. Madison St., Chicago, an attorney, said he will file suit in the Circuit Court of Cook County within a few days asking the court to enjoin Arlington Heights from filing the ordinance of annexation.

"WE WILL BE asking the court to determine if the annexation ordinance was properly formulated under the state code since the ordinance was pending before Buffalo Grove," Pinderski told The Herald.

Pinderski will base his case on chapter

24, 7.3 of the State Municipal Code.

The code says interested persons may file objections to an involuntary annexation on the premise that the territory is not contiguous to the annexing municipality, the petition is not signed by the requisite number of electors or property owners of record, that the description of the territory is inadequate, or that "the objector's land is located on the perimeter of such territory; that he does not desire annexation, and that exclusion of his land will not destroy the contiguity of such described property with the annexing municipality."

"The question is, is the property wholly surrounded by Arlington Heights," said Pinderski, who represents Ed Mattis, real estate man, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schippel and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Resudek, owners.

"The courts have held that there should be proper notice given individuals," said Pinderski. "This is a question of not acting in good faith."

THE ARLINGTON Heights annexation of the property took place Monday after a legal notice appeared 10 days previously.

The property was purchased from Mrs. Harry J. Hartzel on April 14, and Mrs. Hartzel received notification of the proposed annexation only a few days before the April 21 meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board. She immediately informed the new owners of the proposed annexation.

Other property owners in the area say they were not informed of the intended action.

A letter, dated April 21, that Pinderski presented the Arlington Heights Village Board said that annexation was "brought to my attention today."

It insisted that the annexation will do "irreparable harm and damage" to Pinderski's clients "in that many months of work toward the orderly development of the property has been done with the Village of Buffalo Grove."

A PETITION FOR annexation to Buffalo Grove was filed April 19.

Pinderski contends in the letter that annexation to Arlington Heights will "very substantially reduce the value of my clients' property, will abort a pending sale and development of the described property, and cause undue hardship."

The lawyer requested annexation be defeated until discussion could be held, but the annexation ordinance passed that Monday night.

The requested annexation to Buffalo Grove is now under consideration by the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission.

Park OKs Budget

by ANNE HEDBACK

Wheeling's Park District board approved a $125,106 budget Wednesday that is down $2,815 from last year's budget of $127,920.

In an adjourned meeting, the commissioners sent to the attorney a final draft of the appropriation ordinance, the maximum they can spend for the 1969-70 fiscal year, which totals $138,650.

That amount represents a $3,350 increase over from last year's appropriation ordinance of $135,300. The appropriation ordinance is higher than the budget to allow the district to spend the total amount if tax monies are available.

This year's increase in the appropriation and drop in the budget follows an increase of nearly $35,000 in the 1968 appropriation over that of 1967.

ONE REASON FOR the cutbacks is the tax anticipation warrants issued during the last year by the park district to support the recreation program until monies from the district's new recreation tax begin to come in this July. Also, many of the reasons for last year's hikes, including appropriation up $14,000 for maintenance and landscaping equipment, pay for a new superintendent of parks and buildings, and $6,000 for purchase and development of a new park, are not required additions to this year's budget.

At $125,106, the 1969-70 total fiscal budget breaks down into six general categories. A total of $50,525 is earmarked for general operation of the district, $26,550 for recreation, $40,050 for payment of bonds and interest, $2,200 for the insurance fund, $3,200 for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, and $800 for the audit fund.

LAST YEAR'S BUDGET called for $23,700 to be spent on recreation, and the appropriation ordinance would have allowed $27,500. This year's budget calls for $26,550 with a maximum appropriation of $29,200.

Expenditures for the community pool $6,000 for purchase and development of a last year were budgeted at $19,775, while this year's figure is $21,825. Increases are based on needed repairs before the pool can open. The park district has an agreement for purchase of the pool for $160,000 in negotiations with the pool committee, but funds for that purchase must come from a June 14 referendum.

Included in this year's budget, however, is the first $3,000 payment and interest needed by the park district to buy Chamber of Commerce Park over a five-year period.

After an executive session Thursday the board approved a pay hike for the district secretary from $4,800 to $5,500 yearly.

THE OLD CHICAGO Aurora and Elgin, car 431, is still alive and in operating condition at the Illinois Railway Museum near Marengo, Ill., a drive of approximately 40 minutes from the Northwest suburbs.

Village Is 2nd In Home Building

Buffalo Grove has come in second in home building in the Chicago metropolitan area in the first three months of this year according to a recent Bell Savings and Loan Association survey.

The village had a total of 116 homes built so far with an average cost of $17,824 per home.

ARLINGTON Heights led the metropolitan area in homes built with 196. Average cost of homes built in that village was $30,337.

Other villages classed as leaders in order of the number of homes built were Downers Grove, Woodridge, Palatine, Northbrook, South Holland, Schaumburg, Naperville, and Lake Forest.

OK Child Aid Bill

A bill that would reimburse River Trails School Dist. 26 for the education of children from Maryville Academy passed the state House of Representatives Wednesday.

State Rep. Eugene Chapman, D., Arlington Heights, sponsor of the bill told The Herald she was "delighted" by the 147 to 0 vote. "The problem is going to be in the Senate," she said.

The bill, as it now stands, would help every disturbed child in the state, Mrs. Chapman said.

The bill was also backed by Rep. David Regner, R., Mount Prospect, and Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R., Arlington Heights.

THE PRESENT BILL includes children from orphanages, children's homes, veterans' hospitals, military encampments or state housing units.

It provides for state tuition reimbursement to the districts to be separately determined for children who attend regular classes in public schools and those who need special classes.

Since the cost of educating individual children in special classes is higher than the average cost of educating a child in a school district, children with learning handicaps will receive an extra dollar of state aid.

The bill would give the districts 50 per cent of the money at the end of this fiscal year and would pay the remaining 50 per cent in December, the end of the first part of the next fiscal year. It also provides an extra 10 per cent for administrative costs.

Mrs. Chapman said the estimated cost of state aid under the bill will be $2 million by the next biennium.

IT IS POSSIBLE, after the first payments are made, that costs could run as high as $1 million a year, but Mrs. Chapman believes that figure is inflated.

This cost factor is the point which might give the bill trouble in the Senate.

The original intention of the bill was to aid the River Trails district but the provision for education of children throughout the state will increase the cost to the taxpayers.

An informed source said an amendment may be considered.

The educational program at Maryville was discontinued in September 1968, and students were sent to Dist. 26 schools.

Maryville is operated by Catholic Charities.

Concern Over Sex Education Growing

by DAN JOHN

Concern is growing in Dist. 21 over sex education. In response, a formal group, the Concerned Parents Committee of Community Consolidated School Dist. 21, was recently organized after an informal group conducted two weeks of investigation.

The object of the group's investigation has been the family living and sex education curriculum currently taught to youngsters, kindergarten through fourth grade.

"The organization was formed as a result of the interest arising in the community in Dist. 21 schools," Gloria Pfister, publicity director, said.

Officers of the group are Robert Hopkins, president; Mrs. Flo Ann Toporek, coordinating vice president; Mrs. Pat Zenger, recording secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Mickey Anderson and Gerald Moe, directors.

THE ORGANIZATION feels the introduction of sex education as taught in the district "has implied that the parents of children in this district are less qualified to teach sex education, morals, and ethics to their own children than are the schools."

The group is responding to what it describes as the district school administration's indifference to parental objections to the program. They seek to provide "a responsible and coordinated review of the philosophy, objectives and activities comprising these programs."

Calling for "the cooperation of school officials" in their endeavor, the members "will petition for the cessation of current compulsory programs pending their study."

The study's goal is "to determine if, and to what extent, local schools have exceeded the bounds of propriety and public trust."

"The question has been raised whether the community and the parents do or do not have a determining voice in what is appropriate to the school, to the parents, to the churches, and other community components."

CONCERN ALSO seems to center around some of the findings of the group's two-week investigation. Some of their reported findings are:

—"All teachers, administrators, and parents do not favor proposed or existing programs."

—"Some programs, particularly those incorporating parental involvement, have met with general satisfaction among parents."

—"Family living and sex education programs are not simply an explanation of the facts of life, but are instead a comprehensive and continuing kindergarten through twelfth grade program covering many aspects of human sexuality, sensitivity, moral and ethical standards and conduct."

"IT'S THE OLD Halsted Street streetcar!" an ex-Chicagoan gasped, walking from car to car, remembering the "old days." "Look at the wicker seats and the leather straps. I can almost smell the Stock Yards."

The railroad museum is no place to visit if you want canned Disneyland-type entertainment. For one thing, it doesn't cost a lot of money. Also, the child or adult must contribute his own imagination to the experience. There are no papier-mache, fake models of impossible scenes, only the actual trains and streetcars that once served real human beings.

At this time, the new museum has trains lined up in sidings, a mile and a half of track, a railroad car converted to a gift shop and an old station.

It is estimated that the station, currently being restored, dates back to 1851, making it the oldest passenger station west of Pittsburg.

by MARY DRESSER

A little more than a half-hour's drive from here, in Union, Ill., a portion of your past life is waiting to be rediscovered.

To children, the Illinois Railway Museum has trackloads of trains and trolley cars suitable for climbing and games of "pretend engineer."

To an adult, the old trains are a chance to relive days long forgotten.

Milwaukee's Wells Street streetcar, painted and carefully restored, is still in operation at the outdoor museum. This reporter remembers riding that street car on the first date with the gentleman she later married.

On another track are several old Chicago "El" cars used to take city children and their mothers to the Loop for a day's shopping.

"IT'S THE OLD Halsted Street streetcar!" an ex-Chicagoan gasped, walking from car to car, remembering the "old days." "Look at the wicker seats and the leather straps. I can almost smell the Stock Yards."

It is estimated that the station, currently being restored, dates back to 1851, making it the oldest passenger station west of Pittsburg.

Future plans for the Railway Museum include a display hall, car barns, stations, a sub station, and five miles of track to allow children and adults to ride in the reconditioned trains.

THE REGULAR SEASON at the Railway Museum starts May 30. Cars are now operated on weekends "when enough people turn out." After July 1, cars should be in operation on week days.

There is no financial pressure at the Railway Museum. Train rides cost 50 cents and there is a donation box for those who want to contribute to the job of restoring part of America's past.

As the visitor walks past the cars parked on the sidings, men in overalls and beat-up work clothes are apt to appear, smile, and hurry back to their job.

Most of these men are railroad buffs who spend their free hours tinkering with the old trains. College students and older men work together, all sharing the same enthusiasm for antique trains.

"Careful kids," they are apt to say, as fearless 10-year-olds attempt to climb to the top of box cars. "You might hurt the train."

SOME OF THE TRAINS in the museum

are so old they have wooden platforms and steps, and look like the Jesse James special, straight from the late-late-show.

One old train, the political whistle-stopper special, with carpeting and plush chairs, has a platform that must have been designed exclusively for political orations. No politician, standing on that platform, could resist the urge to address an imaginary crowd of well wishers with:

"My friends in Union City, I come here today to ask for your friendship, your confidence, and your vote in my race for..."

The Nebraska Zephyr, that ultra-modern futuristic streamliner of the 30s, also sits on a siding at the Railway Museum. Today, the Zephyr, the Railroad Queen of the jazz age is an obsolete old dowager.

The museum can be reached by taking the Northwest Tollway to U.S. Route 20, the Marengo exit. Drive northwest on 20 about 4 1/2 miles to Union Road. Take Union Road north and east one mile, going through the town of Union on Jefferson Street to Olson Road. Turn south at this point to get to the museum.

Wear old clothes so you can climb on the trains... and bring your memories.

Approve Bargaining Bill

Illinois state representatives approved by a 135 to 5 vote Wednesday a bill giving public employees the right to bargain collectively.

The bill has been supported locally by members of the Wheeling chapter of the Cook County Police Association (CCPA), a new organization consisting of over 90 per cent of the village's police officers.

Now before the state Senate, the bill would create a state labor relations board to bargain with the employer for the state, county and municipal worker. It does not preclude strikes.

THE BILL'S SPONSOR, Rep. Thomas Hanahan, D-McHenry, said the legislation "simply seeks treatment no less equitable for the state worker than his counterparts in the private sector."

Sgt. Gene Wolf, president of the Wheeling CCPA chapter, said that his organization supports the bill, and that it will request the support of Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, who represents the Wheeling area, in encouraging passage of the bill.

Wolf called the legislation "something that labor has had for 40 years," and explained that "municipalities in dealing with their employees are about 40 years behind the times."

Praise for Libraries Comes from Scanlon

In accordance with National Library Week, Wheeling Village Pres. Ted Scanlon proclaimed April 20 through 26 as Library Week in Wheeling.

Scanlon noted the theme of this observance — "... to spur our fellow Americans to read more and to accept the responsibility for making opportunities available to others."

In his proclamation, Scanlon described the importance of public libraries as "one of the basic organizations in the educational process."

Free Lance

Arlington Heights did a magnificent job this week of pulling the rug out from under Buffalo Grove and leaving a neighbor flat on its face in the mud.

It was as if the Green Bay Packers took on Wheeling High School.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson still has cleat marks on his back.

In a lightning-like attack, the big brother village to the south came, saw, and annexed 60 acres of prime commercial land.

BUFFALO GROVE is now rubbing numb gums because Arlington Heights stole its false teeth.

Buffalo Grove, top heavy with residential and apartment development, now faces the prospect of watching a valuable stretch of Dundee Road and the projected western corner of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads increase in value while tax dollars wing their way into Arlington Heights coffers.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson says his philosophy is not to annex unless property owners petition to come into Buffalo Grove.

After all, the property owners have a right to make their own decisions and their own profit, Thompson argues.

THIS IS A MOST commendable attitude and should make Thompson popular with land speculators and owners of choice hunks of commercial property.

However, the taxpayers of Buffalo Grove might be inclined to quarrel with this altruistic attitude since it promises to cost them a few bucks.

Thompson is an elected representative of the people and when they send him out to play in the pro leagues of ruthless inter-village border wars they expect him to win.

Buffalo Grove would be able to afford charity and good fellowship if it had several $50 million shopping centers and a booming industrial park. Meanwhile, it had better be sharp and tough.

Arlington Heights planned the 60-acre annexation, covered its bases legally, and acted swiftly when it got wind of a Buffalo Grove plan to annex a small portion of the property.

Former Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods modestly admits his village was a little bit smarter . . . and he is right.

WOODS ALSO SAYS Arlington Heights will repeat the performance on any less-than-60 acre tract it can legally bring into its orbit.

There is still some good unincorporated commercial property along Dundee Road. The polite thing to do would be to wait until these property owners ask to be annexed to Buffalo Grove.

Judging by last week's fiasco, Buffalo Grove will be the poorest and politest village in the northwest suburbs.

Meanwhile, old tom cat Arlington Heights will lick its chops and look around for another canary.

Arlington Heights shouted foul when the 127-acre Kornfeldt-Miller property went to Buffalo Grove because the developers figured they could get a better deal.

Arlington Heights cried, beat its fists on the floor, and sent reams of outraged protests to Rolling Meadows; when that village pulled a canny land grab on the Isestein-Parker property in southern Arlington Heights.

"OUR TEARS ARE DRY now," says Woods.

Thompson is still crying.

In the future, Arlington Heights will have a hard time plausibly insisting it is only protecting high class apartment development on its boundaries, because the 60-acres is no apartment development but juicy commercial property.

Better Buffalo Grove got a little smart and maybe started playing in the big leagues?

Haney Is Elected to Board

Harold Haney was unanimously elected to his eighth full term as president of the board of School Dist. 26 at its meeting Tuesday night. Ray Johnston was named by the board to another year as secretary.

The canvass of ballots cast in the April 12 school board election showed that Haney led the field of three incumbents re-elected in the five-man district race. The other two returning board members are Jack Halvorsen and Lee Hillman.

River Trails Junior High Principal James Retzlaff presented a plan for re-scheduling classes at the school. The proposed nine-period day received unanimous board approval and will go into effect in September, 1969.

Under the new schedule, students will begin their day at the present starting time of 8:30 a.m., but will be dismissed at 3:05 p.m. instead of 3:40 p.m. Retzlaff explained that the change to a nine-period day would shorten the school day by 35 minutes and allow more students to participate in after-school activities.

SEVENTH GRADERS will still have a choice of band, chorus, or general music during one elective period, and a choice of French, reading skills, or study hall for the other period. One semester of speech and art will remain in the seventh grade curriculum.

The eighth grade curriculum is still tentative, but some of the proposals discussed would make home economics and industrial arts semester classes which students would alternate with typing. This would leave eighth graders with the choice of two electives from the present district offerings of French, vocal or instrumental music, art, fine arts, or a study hall.

Retzlaff commented that only one-fourth of the junior high students make efficient use of study hall time and he sees no problem if most of them drop it from their schedule next year.

He explained that the after-school activity programs were popular with students, often involving over half of the school's enrollment. The district has one activity bus route, so students often walk home from extra curricular offerings. The earlier dismissal time will permit them to get home before dark during the winter.

Subdivisions to the west of the junior high have sidewalks that give easy access to the building, but children from other areas often use Wolf, Euclid, and Kensington roads to come home. Several years ago a boy was killed in an accident while walking home from after school activities at the junior high.

WINSTON HARWOOD, district superintendent, reported that House Bill 1232 received a "do pass" recommendation from the House Education Committee.

If passed, it would speed up the state reimbursements to the district for its cost of educating children housed at Maryville Academy. The bill was presented to the Illinois General Assembly by Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and has the local support of Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mount Prospect.

School Talks Expansion

Rapid growth in Buffalo Grove and Lincolnshire will demand additional classroom and physical education space at Adlai E. Stevenson High School in Prairie View by 1972.

Stevenson's School board members spent two hours discussing building plans for their school Monday with Dist. 125 Supt. Harold Baner and architect Conrad Kristmann.

Baner said that the district would need an additional 43,300 square feet of classroom space and about 19,000 square feet for physical education within three years when the school is expected to reach a total enrollment of 1,200.

Baner explained that Dist. 125 should have bonding power of about $1.4 million by April 1, 1970, if the present building rate continues in the Buffalo Grove and Lincolnshire areas. He also announced that this year's assessed valuation is $49,529,465. This is an increase of about $3 million over the previous year. Current building could boost the assessed valuation by more than $10 million next year, he indicated.

BANER SAID additions could probably be made most economically by filling in the space on the west side of the present building. Both academic areas and physical education space — possibly including a swimming pool — could be constructed here for the money available, he said. It was suggested that the community be polled on what type of physical education facilities should be added.

The superintendent also presented figures for an addition in the same area which would accommodate 1,500 students. He felt, however, that bonding power was not available in the immediate future for this large a structure. Board members felt that this possibility should be explored because Stevenson could reach that point within three or four years if home building continues to accelerate.

The board plans to continue its discussion of building plans with the administration and architect at a special adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. next Monday.

The group says, "It is difficult to describe program content to the community because many pertinent points, although presented in the classroom and in textbooks, could not be printed in newspapers nor be broadcast over the public airways."

Members of the group attended a recent school board meeting to demand copies of the district's sex education program materials for their examination.

Mrs. Margery Bue, curriculum director, told The Herald that all of the textbooks and the film shown district children have been loaned to the group at its request.

Annexation: A Drama in Nine Acts

by MARY DRESSER

Events leading to the Arlington Heights annexation of 60 acres in Buffalo Grove are a classic dramatic study in municipal border battles.

SCENE

A 60-acre, lightly developed unincorporated area bounded by Dundee Road on the north, Arlington Heights Road on the east, and a Buffalo Grove apartment development on the west. One lot in the property, an animal hospital, is incorporated in Buffalo Grove.

To thicken the plot, the villages of Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove have been engaged in friendly discussions to re-route Arlington Heights Road, which would put a new road through the 60 acres and possibly cut-du-sac the present Arlington Heights Road.

ACT I

January, 1969, Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson was approached by developers attempting to put together the 114-acre package. They asked for annexation and discussed the possibility of a liquor license for one of the stores in the proposed shopping center.

The names listed as property owners are Mr. and Mrs. Schippel, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Resudek and Edward Mattus, owner of Suburban Realty.

At one time, a nursing home in the area was under consideration, but that plan apparently never got off the ground.

ACT II

While negotiations were taking place between Thompson and the developers, other property owners in the area were beginning to move.

Pure Oil Co. began to build a gas station under Cook County zoning on the southwestern corner of Dundee and Arlington Heights roads.

Marathon is reported to have purchased lots one and two on the southeast corner of the property.

Spencer Realty L. Chicago is handling lots three and four and a representative of Spencer said the company is negotiating with an unspecified oil company.

The fifth lot is supposed to have been purchased by an FM radio station. A representative of Maine Realty Co. in Wheeling said he is "not at liberty to disclose such information."

Lot six, next to the animal hospital, is owned by a private individual and lot nine, next to the Pure station, is for sale.

Five acres west of the proposed manufacturing area are owned by a farmer who intends to continue farming the property.

The area along Arlington Heights Road is composed of residential property. It is estimated there are 14 to 20 property owners in the entire area.

ACT III

Arlington Heights, aware of the developments in the Buffalo Grove area, began to consider the prospect of annexation.

On April 11, a legal notice appeared in a local newspaper giving public notice of proposed annexation.

The legal description contained no common description of the property, making it difficult to recognize what was under consideration.

ACT IV

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods, speaking in Waukegan April 12, admitted that Arlington Heights, "for all its pristine virtue," sometimes considers its own interests more important than those of its neighbors.

Woods at this time was aware of the approaching showdown with Buffalo Grove.

ACT VI

Mrs. Harry J. Hartzel sold the 114 acres April 14. Two days later she received notification of the proposed Arlington Heights annexation. She immediately turned this information over to the new property owners, the Schippels, the Resudeks and Mattus.

On April 18 the Herald alerted Buffalo Grove officials to Arlington Heights annexation plans.

ACT VII

Property owners rushed to the Buffalo Grove village hall Saturday, April 19, and filed a petition for annexation to Buffalo Grove.

ACT VIII

Attorney Jerome Pinderski, representing the title owners, was informed of the Arlington Heights annexation April 21. He immediately sent a letter of objection to the Arlington Heights Village Board.

ACT IX

That same evening, April 21, Buffalo Grove village board accepted, at 8:40 p.m., the petition to annex the 114 acres. Later that evening, at 10:45 p.m., Arlington Heights unanimously passed an ordinance of annexing the property.

THE END

CURTAIN CALL

Pinderski says he will file suit to void the Arlington Heights ordinance.

Car Burned On Portwine

Wheeling Firemen battled a blaze at 2 a.m. Thursday in a car abandoned in the middle of Portwine Road about 100 yards north of Durvie Road.

The car, a 1968 green Ford, was destroyed in the fire, which Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen said may have been set by someone. Koeppen said gasoline was apparently dumped on the car seats and ignited.

Wheeling Police were searching for the owner of the car, which had Tennessee license plates. Police learned that the car had not been reported stolen, and turned the investigation to the Cook County Sheriff's police because the car was found in an unincorporated territory within the fire district.

WHEELING FIREMEN found this car bearing Tennessee license plates, aflame on Portwine Road in an unincorporated area of Wheeling's fire district. Cook County Sheriff's Police are now looking for the car's owner.

Winners Are Named

Walro Shoes, 8 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, recently conducted a "Bangaroo" coloring contest as part of a nationwide competition sponsored by Child Life Shoes.

Winners in the three age groups, and their prizes, are, through age four, Kris Ann Dahm, Mount Prospect, winner of a tricycle; Mary Kay Rorig, Arlington Heights, winner in the age five to seven group of an RCA transistor radio; and James Wiecek, Prospect Heights, in the age eight to 15 category, winner of a Polaroid Swinger camera.

The three entries are now submitted for judging in the national contest. Winners, to be announced June 7, will receive an all-expense paid one-week visit to Disneyland or Washington, D.C. for first place, and $300 and $150 savings bonds for second and third place, respectively.

EILEEN BLONDEL, is one of six Prospect Heights mothers participating in the Robert Frost School PTA sponsored "Picture Lady" program. The program allows the fifth and sixth graders to view the works of famous painters.

School Hosts Picture Lady

Robert Frost School in Dist. 21 hosted another of the PTA sponsored "Picture Lady" art discussions for the fifth and sixth graders Wednesday afternoon.

The program, started in February at the school, is held monthly. Volunteer mothers from the Prospect Heights area display and describe pictures of a particular painter.

THE YOUNGSTERS are then encouraged to give their impressions. The pictures are left in the classrooms for the month.

Mrs. Gloria Hamburger, the program's coordinator and cultural arts chairman in the school, hopes to include all grade levels as more picture ladies become available.

Interested mothers in the area should contact Mrs. Hamburger at 827-8946.

PTA Reorganizes

The old Prospect Heights PTA is no more.

At a final meeting of the Dist. 23 PTA Tuesday night, the organization divided into four new groups, each affiliated with one of the four elementary schools in the district. The action was taken because the old structure was becoming "just too big," according to PTA President Mrs. Harvey Sarnier of Prospect Heights.

Under the new alignment, the PTA will consist of a local unit for each of the schools, with a coordinating council handling problems arising throughout the whole district.

The newly elected officers from John Muir School are Mrs. R. Kerwin, president; Mrs. Charles Panzer, vice president; Mrs. Edward Spreigel, secretary, and Anthony Thomas, treasurer.

ROSS-SULLIVAN SCHOOL officers are Mrs. D. L. Sutherland, president; Larry Purcell, vice president; Mrs. R. Brinkman, secretary, and R. Brinkman, treasurer.

MacArthur School officers are Edward Sakach, president; Mrs. Robert Wroble, vice president; Mrs. Larry Purcell, secretary, and Roger Laughlin, treasurer.

Officers for the MacDonald School PTA are William Irwin, president, Mrs. William Hoffman, vice president, Mrs. Lou Herdel, secretary, and Mrs. Curtis Jouse, treasurer.

Past presidents of the organization were presented corsages. Three retiring board members received wooden gavels.

During the program, two speakers from NORWESCO, Mrs. Rodriguez, replacing Ramon Maldonado, Opportunity Center director, who was unable to appear, and Mrs. Marge Haugen, social worker for Head Start, explained the function of their offices.

Library Is Planning Summer Reading Club

Cheer up mothers, you may not have the kids home all day this summer.

The Prospect Heights Public Library could have the solution. It is starting a Summer Reading Club June 14th. Membership is open to (completed) first graders through eighth grade. The library would like the kids to be able to read. The library gives June 3rd as the opening registration date. The program will end Aug. 30.

Activities the youngsters will participate in include The Story Hour, beginning June 20th and continuing every Friday thereafter from 10 to 11 a.m., with Mrs. Ralph Van Patten conducting the programs.

Summer Study Sign Up Today

Today is the last day to register for the Dist. 21 Summer Study Program, beginning June 17 and ending July 11.

Students enrolling in the program are advised to enroll in only one class. Each class offered will be a full session, from 8:45 to 2:10 p.m. each school day, with time in each session divided among individual study, small group work, and some group activities. Time for library study, art, music, and physical education will also be included.

Band and orchestra are to be scheduled for half sessions, and provisions have been made to allow registration and participation in the other activities for the second half session.

BOOK RENTAL for district children is $5. For out of district children there is a $25 tuition fee.

Parents are asked to return the registration form to the school they now attend, and not to the curriculum office.

Community Church Hosts Elmhurst Choir

The Prospect Heights Community Church plays host Sunday night to the Elmhurst College Choir in a program of sacred choral music at 8:15 p.m.

The program is part of the choir's more than 30 concert dates in their 1968-69 season.

The program, primarily sacred music, includes contemporary pieces by Heinz Werner Zimmerman and Vaclav Nelhybel and music from sixteenth-century composers.

The choir, 40 men and women, are undergraduates of the college, an affiliated institution of the United Church of Christ.

A HANDBELL CHOIR, made up of members of the larger choir, will present specially prepared numbers at the service.

Souvenir LP recordings, made by the choir and the Chapel Bell Ringers, will be available.

Pastor Don Hibbs has invited the members of the local community to attend.

Parents and Teachers To Play Volleyball

The Robert Frost School PTA plans a parent-teacher volleyball game as part of its Monday meeting. The game, to be held after the general meeting, will pit teachers against parents in friendly competition.

The business meeting will include election of a proposed slate of officers for the 1969-70 school year, which includes Gloria Hamburger, president; Judy Cecchi, first vice president; second vice president, Sally Hedblom, and Lorraine Nelles, third vice president; Suzanne Major, recording secretary; Mary Drake, corresponding secretary, and Marge King, treasurer.

Close Runway for 3 Months

Bensenville and suburbs near the south end of O'Hare International Airport should have a relatively quiet summer, free of jet noise. Those to the north will be faced with increased noise.

Chicago officials announced this week that the 10,000-foot east-west runway at the south end of the airport will be closed for 105 days, more than three months.

Ferdinand Rosa, administrative engineer to City Aviation Comr. William Downes, said improvements will be made at the runway, including a new taxiway, a tunnel underneath the runway, and new runway turn-offs.

Improvements will enable planes to taxi off the runway more frequently. Increased use of the runway when improvements are completed in August will most likely result in more noise for residents near the airport.

THE TUNNEL under the runway will be used to gain access to a proposed cargo area planned for east of the Chicago & North Western Railway tracks and north of Illinois 19 (Irving Park Road).

Rosa said the improvements, which are expected to cost $1.4 million, are necessary if the city is to match the increased demands placed on air service.

"The thing Chicago needs is another airport," he said.

Neal Callahan, community relations officer for the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said the closing of the runway will result in added use of O'Hare's other runways.

O'Hare has five major runways, including the one which will be closed.

Those which will be used more frequently include two northwest-southeast runway strips, another east-west runway, and a northeast-southwest runway. Use of runways depends on several factors including the direction of the wind.

DAN VUCUREVICH, control tower chief at O'Hare, said construction, which will require closing the runway originally opened in fall, 1967, will increase the benefits of its use.

The east-west runway is used mostly for departures, he said, adding that when instrument landing equipment is put in at the runway this year more landings will be possible.

He indicated that more noise for residents living near the airport's east-west runway will be a likely result.

Last summer for five months residents in north DuPage County and the Schiller Park area were hit by jet noise when the 11,600-foot northwest-southeast runway was closed for improvements.

ANOTHER northeast-southwest runway is still in the planning stage. It would be located at the southeast end of the airport.

In conjunction with the 8,600-foot runway expected to be started this year, Illinois 19 will be relocated further south.

Dialing Prospect Heights

Special houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rotheroe, 1721 Wintergreen Ave., were Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Rotheroe and family from Birmingham, England. They stopped en route home from the Bahamas. Highlights during their stay included dinner at the Playboy Club, dinner show at the Palmer House with headliner Jimmy Durante, shopping and dinner at Long Grove and a tour of Chicago.

A welcome is extended to Charles Bodelson, father of Mrs. Jeanne Holm, 1205 Highland Drive, who now makes his home with his daughter and family. Mr. Bodelson was honored at a family dinner when he was 83 on Easter. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. James Longo from Cicero; and a son, Scott, home for Easter break from Rose Tech School, Terre Haute.

Home after a week's spring vacation to Washington, D. C., are Wanda and Angelo Dugo, 213 Aralia Drive, and children, Danny and Ronny. Highlights included Arlington Cemetery, where they saw the changing of the guard, Wax Museum and the FBI Building. Many of the public buildings were closed to the public due to General Eisenhower's funeral.

North Wheeling

The Ted Scanlon family, 281 S. Park, recently returned from a two-week vacation in Florida. Traveling to and from by plane, Ted, Grace, Debbie, David, Regina and Paul were guests of Ted's aunt in Palmto.

With temperatures in the 80's, the Scanlons swam in the Gulf every day. The male members also fished and attended a Mets baseball game during their stay.

The weekend jaunt of the Ray Splitters, 129 Sunrise, to Talmadge, Ohio, was a reunion for them and their hosts, the Chuck Hunts, former Wheeling neighbors. Ray, Leanne, Brian, Scott and Ann Lisa arrived at the Akron suburb Friday evening.

On Saturday, Chuck and Judy gave their guests a guided tour of the area. They stopped at the Football Hall of Fame in Canton and that afternoon they viewed the largest collection of model railroad trains, on exhibit in Akron.

ALVERA KOPPER, 149 S. Wheeling, was guest of honor at a luncheon with Laura Bird, Iona Holt, Dorothy Wojek, Marian Bitterman, Harriet Geske and Shelia Johnstone, all volunteer librarians at Walt Whitman School. The gathering, at Rickett's, was a farewell to Alvera, leaving after many years work in the library, to help her husband, Ken, in his office.

Marty, son of Mary and Larry Schuetz, 52 6th, received his First Holy Communion at St. Joseph the Worker last Sunday. Joining him at mass were his family, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Weidner of Buffalo Grove, and aunts and uncle, Mrs. Luella Hertel and Lorraine and Don Brown and their families. Marty was feted at a breakfast celebration at home, following the ceremony. Additional dinner guests were his godfather, Jerry Schuetz and family.

Marge and Alvin Nelson, 135 S. Wolf, had their daughter and family, Dolores and Ben Hershey and Michele, as houseguests recently. After a two-year residency in California, the Hersheys now make their home in St. Charles, staying with the Nelsons in the interim.

During their stay in Wheeling, Dolores enjoyed a visit from her close friend, Marilyn Stevenson Dahm and her daughter, now living in Palatine.

Betty Mazzenga, Mors Avenue, Dorothy Vogler, 900 Prague, and Chris Sweeney, 156 7th, proudly wore their pink wrist corsages, presented to them by the children of St. Joseph the Worker School, in recognition of the ladies' help on the variety show, presented Saturday evening.

MARY ANDERSON, 280 Mors Avenue, was the surprised guest of honor at a baby shower recently, co-hosted by Mary Hopkins and Ann Anderson at the Hopkins' 270 Mors Ave. home. Twenty-five friends and neighbors attended the party and late evening buffet.

A dinner and theatre party marked the 10th birthday celebration for Lisa Todorovich, 381 Highland, on Saturday night. Parents, Shirley and Bill, treated Lisa, brothers, Mark and Jeff, and guests Collette and Joey Valenti, to dinner at Caesar's before the "Happy Holidays" variety show. After the show, in which both Mark and Lisa appeared, the group enjoyed birthday cake and an overnight stay by the Valentis.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Friday, April 25, the 115th day of 1969 with 250 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1848 the first shots of the Mexican War were fired.

In 1898 Congress formally declared war on Spain.

In 1901 New York became the first state to require auto owners to affix license plates on their cars—and 954 vehicles were registered.

In 1945 delegates of 46 nations gathered in San Francisco to organize a permanent United Nations.

A thought for the day: Ralph Waldo Emerson said: "Every sweet has its sour, every evil its good."

School Lane, were Mrs. Muriel Gutzman and children from Janesville. One evening they had dinner at Rickett's Restaurant.

A Wednesday evening bridge group was hosted recently by Mrs. Evelyn Banks, 1204 Highland Drive. Welcomed for cards and refreshments were Jeanne Holm, Judy Lechner, Doris Pierce, Melissa Gill, Alice Truelson, Donna Halvorsen and Esther Farina.

Following confirmation ceremonies at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Prospect Heights, Janet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Altmaler, 104 Elaine Circle West, was honored at a smorgasbord dinner attended by 35 relatives from Park Ridge, Roselle, Chicago, Cary and Hoffman Estates.

Prospect Heights bids farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wessel, 108 S. Park Drive, moving to Hillsboro, Mo., after living here seven years. Their children are Harlan and Linda.

A business trip took Patrick Line, 1722 Woodview Drive, to England recently. The one-week trip also included Frankfurt, Germany, for several days before returning home.

AN AFTERNOON lunch party highlighted the birthday of Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith, 8 April 11. Guests were Matthew Wendell, Tommy Schaefer, Joel and Jeff Schurillo, Scott Andrews, Tracy Baldaconi, William Barrett, Scott Beltran, John Boettigheimer, Tom Fergus, Kenneth Heltinger, Paul Kreuser, Scott Stadalsky and Richard Garrett.

Angelo Dugo, 231 Aralia Drive, was honored at a dinner attended by friends the Russell Fritz and John Rutkowski families of Chicago.

Honored at a dinner following her confirmation recently at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church was Judy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mede, 100 Elaine Circle West. Attending were Judy's sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wedin and family from Des Plaines and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mede and family from Arlington Heights.

News of a combination business and pleasure trip comes from Peggy and Len Sitko, 1719 Woodview Drive. They flew first to Pebble Beach, Calif., for a six-day stay. While Len attended the convention, Peggy played golf, shopped in Carmel and played tennis. They rented a car for the drive to Los Angeles, stopping in Santa Barbara along the way. Sightseeing in Los Angeles included the City's famous first street, Olivero Street. They boarded a train for a relaxing trip home.

A family dinner highlighted the April 16 birthdays of twins, Johnny and Eddie, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Link, 1722 Woodview Drive, who were 10.

A FAREWELL also goes to Constantine and Donna Kosarzecki and daughter, Alicia, 109 Kenilworth, moving soon to Rockford. The result of a job transfer, the move comes just two years after they moved here. Donna was an active member of the Prospect Heights Newcomers Club, serving as the club's treasurer for a term.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Altmaler, 104 Elaine Circle West, recently celebrated the 17th anniversary of their wedding, March 29, with a family dinner.

Two trips to Florida were enjoyed by Mrs. Leo Gorski, 101 S. Park Drive, recently. She was accompanied the first time by a nephew, Greg Neuhaus of Prospect Heights. Mrs. Gorski spent the time with her father, recuperating from an illness. The second trip was a three-week stay at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Neuhaus. Highlights during the stay included the Jai Alai dog and horse races, shopping and sunning.

News of a weekend trip to Michigan comes from Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Coe, 409 Elowah, and children, Krista and Gregory. They drove to Detroit, staying with Rodney's parents Mr. and Mrs. George Coe. Highlight of the trip was the wedding of a cousin in which Greta was matron of honor. Following the wedding ceremony, the couple attended a bridal breakfast at Power's Place. An open house at the home of the bride's parents preceded the evening reception.

THE HOME OF Joyce Gauper, 1 Elaine Circle, was the scene of a Friday evening get-together for cards and refreshments. Present were Ann Nelson, Lois DeShon, Pat Vogel, Nancy Jump, Irene Mede, Dorothy Bergman, Lee Altmaler, Jean Perkowski, Dorothy Martinson and Lucille Hogreve.

The April 7 birthday of Mrs. Leo Gorski, 101 S. Park Drive, was celebrated with an evening at the Empire Room in the Palmer House in Chicago, where they had dinner and saw a performance by Jimmy Durante. They were accompanied by two couples from Chicago.

A welcome is extended to Harriett and Norbert Ciesil, 1210 Roberts Lane, who moved here from Chicago with their children, Mary Kay, 9, Donna, 7, and Jimmy, 5. Harriett enjoys homemaking and sewing. Norbert is a union representative with Local 73 of the General Service Employees Union. Happy birthday wishes go to Mary, 10 April 30. She was honored at a family dinner.

Welcome also to Arthur and Dora Brescia, 317 Aralia Drive, and children, Anthony, 5, and Robert, 2, from Chicago. Art, an auditor accountant for Texaco, is an enthusiastic sports fan. Dora enjoys painting and cooking.

Birthday wishes go to Anthony, 5 March 16. A family dinner marked the occasion recently and was attended by 20 guests from Chicago.

Annexation Is Challenged

Landowners Promise Legal Recourse

Buffalo Grove landowners intend to file for an injunction against the Village of Arlington Heights asking the court to void a portion of Monday's 60-acre annexation to Arlington Heights.

The property in question is 11 1/4 acres of the total parcel. One section is a lot fronting on Dundee Road between the two jogs of Arlington Heights Road and the other section is 10 acres behind the lot.

The title owners and contract purchasers intend to develop a shopping center on the Dundee Road lot and a manufacturing area on the second lot.

Jerome Pinderski, 105 W. Madison St., Chicago, an attorney, said he will file suit in the Circuit Court of Cook County within a few days asking the court to enjoin Arlington Heights from filing the ordinance of annexation.

"WE WILL BE asking the court to determine if the annexation ordinance was properly formulated under the state code since the ordinance was pending before Buffalo Grove," Pinderski told The Herald.

Pinderski will base his case on chapter

24.73 of the State Municipal Code.

The code says interested persons may file objections to an involuntary annexation on the premise that the territory is not contiguous to the annexing municipality, the petition is not signed by the requisite number of electors or property owners of record, that the description of the territory is inadequate, or that "the objector's land is located on the perimeter of such territory; that he does not desire annexation, and that exclusion of his land will not destroy the contiguity of such described property with the annexing municipality."

"The question is, is the property wholly surrounded by Arlington Heights," said Pinderski, who represents Ed Matius, real estate man, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schuppel and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Resudek, owners.

"The courts have held that there should be proper notice given individuals," said Pinderski. "This is a question of not acting in good faith."

THE ARLINGTON Heights annexation of the property took place Monday after a legal notice appeared 10 days previously.

The property was purchased from Mrs. Harry J. Hartzel on April 14, and Mrs. Hartzel received notification of the proposed annexation only a few days before the April 21 meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board. She immediately informed the new owners of the proposed annexation.

Other property owners in the area say they were not informed of the intended action.

A letter, dated April 21, that Pinderski presented the Arlington Heights Village Board said that annexation was "brought to my attention today."

It insisted that the annexation will do "irreparable harm and damage" to Pinderski's clients "in that many months of work toward the orderly development of the property has been done with the Village of Buffalo Grove."

A PETITION FOR annexation to Buffalo Grove was filed April 19.

Pinderski contends in the letter that annexation to Arlington Heights will "very substantially reduce the value of my clients' property, will abort a pending sale and development of the described property, and cause undue hardship."

The lawyer requested annexation be defeated until discussion could be held, but the annexation ordinance passed that Monday night.

The requested annexation to Buffalo Grove is now under consideration by the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission.

Park OKs Budget

by ANNE HEDBACK

Wheeling's Park District board approved a $125,105 budget Wednesday that is down $2,815 from last year's budget of $127,920.

In an adjourned meeting, the commissioners sent to the attorney a final draft of the appropriation ordinance, the maximum they can spend for the 1969-70 fiscal year, which totals $138,650.

That amount represents a $3,350 increase over from last year's appropriation ordinance of $135,300. The appropriation ordinance is higher than the budget to allow the district to spend the total amount if tax monies are available.

This year's increase in the appropriation and drop in the budget follows an increase of nearly $36,000 in the 1968 appropriation over that of 1967.

ONE REASON FOR the cutbacks is the tax anticipation warrants issued during the last year by the park district to support the recreation program until monies from the district's new recreation tax begin to come in this July. Also, many of the reasons for last year's hikes, including appropriation up $14,000 for maintenance and landscaping equipment, pay for a new superintendent of parks and buildings, and $6,000 for purchase and development of a new park, are not required additions to this year's budget.

At $125,105, the 1969-70 total fiscal budget breaks down into six general categories. A total of $50,525 is earmarked for general operation of the district, $26,550 for recreation, $40,050 for payment of bonds and interest, $2,200 for the insurance fund, $3,200 for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, and $800 for the audit fund.

LAST YEAR'S BUDGET called for $23,700 to be spent on recreation, and the appropriation ordinance would have allowed $27,500. This year's budget calls for $28,550 with a maximum appropriation of $29,200.

Expenditures for the community pool $6,000 for purchase and development of a last year were budgeted at $19,775, while this year's figure is $21,625. Increases are based on needed repairs before the pool can open. The park district has an agreement for purchase of the pool for $160,000 in negotiations with the pool committee, but funds for that purchase must come from a June 14 referendum.

Included in this year's budget, however, is the first $3,000 payment and interest needed by the park district to buy Chamber of Commerce Park over a five-year period.

After an executive session Thursday the board approved a pay hike for the district secretary from $4,800 to $5,500 yearly.

the philosophy, objectives and activities comprising these programs."

Calling for "the cooperation of school officials" in their endeavor, the members "will petition for the cessation of current compulsory programs pending their study."

The study's goal is "to determine if, and to what extent, local schools have exceeded the bounds of propriety and public trust."

"The question has been raised whether the community and the parents do or do not have a determining voice in what is appropriate to the school, to the parents, to the churches, and other community components."

CONCERN ALSO seems to center

THE OLD CHICAGO Aurora and Elgin, car 431, is still alive and in operating condition at the Illinois Railway Museum near Marengo, Ill., a drive of approximately 40 minutes from the Northwest suburbs.

Village Is 2nd In Home Building

Buffalo Grove has come in second in home building in the Chicago metropolitan area in the first three months of this year according to a recent Bell Savings and Loan Association survey.

The village had a total of 116 homes built so far with an average cost of $17,824 per home.

ARLINGTON Heights led the metropolitan area in homes built with 196. Average cost of homes built in that village was $30,337.

Other villages classed as leaders in order of the number of homes built were Downers Grove, Woodridge, Palatine, Northbrook, South Holland, Schaumburg, Naperville, and Lake Forest.

OK Child Aid Bill

A bill that would reimburse River Trails School Dist. 26 for the education of children from Maryville Academy passed the state House of Representatives Wednesday.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D., Arlington Heights, sponsor of the bill told The Herald she was "delighted" by the 147 to 0 vote. "The problem is going to be in the Senate," she said.

The bill, as it now stands, would help every disturbed child in the state, Mrs. Chapman said.

The bill was also backed by Rep. David Regner, R., Mount Prospect, and Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R., Arlington Heights.

THE PRESENT BILL includes children from orphanages, children's homes, veterans' hospitals, military encampments or state housing units.

It provides for state tuition reimbursement to the districts to be separately determined for children who attend regular classes in public schools and those who need special classes.

Since the cost of educating individual children in special classes is higher than the average cost of educating a child in a school district, children with learning handicaps will receive an extra dollar of state aid.

The bill would give the districts 50 per cent of the money at the end of this fiscal year and would pay the remaining 50 per cent in December, the end of the first part of the next fiscal year. It also provides an extra 10 per cent for administrative costs.

Mrs. Chapman said the estimated cost of state aid under the bill will be $2 million by the next biennium.

IT IS POSSIBLE, after the first payments are made, that costs could run as high as $1 million a year, but Mrs. Chapman believes that figure is inflated.

This cost factor is the point which might give the bill trouble in the Senate.

The original intention of the bill was to aid the River Trails district but the provision for education of children throughout the state will increase the cost to the taxpayers.

An informed source said an amendment may be considered.

The educational program at Maryville was discontinued in September 1968, and students were sent to Dist. 26 schools.

Maryville is operated by Catholic Charities.

Concern Over Sex Education Growing

by DAN JOHN

Concern is growing in Dist. 21 over sex education. In response, a formal group, the Concerned Parents Committee of Community Consolidated School Dist. 21, was recently organized after an informal group conducted two weeks of investigation.

The object of the group's investigation has been the family living and sex education curriculum currently taught to youngsters, kindergarten through fourth grade.

The organization was formed as a result of the interest arising in the community in Dist. 21 schools. Gloria Pfister, publicity director, said.

Officers of the group are Robert Hopkins, president; Mrs. Flo Ann Toporek, coordinating vice president; Mrs. Pat Zerner, recording secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Mickey Anderson and Gerald Moe, directors.

THE ORGANIZATION feels the introduction of sex education as taught in the district "has implied that the parents of children in this district are less qualified to teach sex education, morals, and ethics to their own children than are the schools."

The group is responding to what it describes as the district school administration's indifference to parental objections to the program. They seek to provide "a responsible and coordinated review of the philosophy, objectives and activities comprising these programs."

Calling for "the cooperation of school officials" in their endeavor, the members "will petition for the cessation of current compulsory programs pending their study."

The study's goal is "to determine if, and to what extent, local schools have exceeded the bounds of propriety and public trust."

"The question has been raised whether the community and the parents do or do not have a determining voice in what is appropriate to the school, to the parents, to the churches, and other community components."

CONCERN ALSO seems to center around some of the findings of the group's two-week investigation. Some of their reported findings are:

"All teachers, administrators, and parents do not favor proposed or existing programs."

"Some programs, particularly those incorporating parental involvement, have met with general satisfaction among parents."

"Family living and sex education programs are not simply an explanation of the facts of life, but are instead a comprehensive and continuing kindergarten through twelfth grade program covering many aspects of human sexuality, sensitivity, moral and ethical standards and conduct."

by MARY DRESSER

A little more than a half-hour's drive from here, in Union, Ill., a portion of your past life is waiting to be rediscovered.

To children, the Illinois Railway Museum has trackloads of trains and trolley cars suitable for climbing and games of "pretend engineer."

To an adult, the old trains are a chance to relive days long forgotten.

Milwaukee's Wells Street streetcar, painted and carefully restored, is still in operation at the outdoor museum. This reporter remembers riding that street car on the first date with the gentleman she later married.

On another track are several old Chicago "El" cars used to take city children and their mothers to the Loop for a day's shopping.

"IT'S THE OLD Halsted Street streetcar!" an ex-Chicagoan gasped, walking from car to car, remembering the "old days." "Look at the wicker seats and the leather straps. I can almost smell the Stock Yards."

The railroad museum is no place to visit if you want canned Disneyland-type entertainment. For one thing, it doesn't cost a lot of money. Also, the child or adult must contribute his own imagination to the experience. There are no papier-mache, fake models of impossible scenes, only the actual trains and streetcars that once served real human beings.

At this time, the new museum has trains lined up in sidings, a mile and a half of track, a railroad car converted to a gift shop and an old station.

It is estimated that the station, currently being restored, dates back to 1851, making it the oldest passenger station west of Pittsburgh.

Future plans for the Railway Museum include a display hall, car barns, stations, a sub station, and five miles of track to allow children and adults to ride in the reconditioned trains.

THE REGULAR SEASON at the Railway Museum starts May 30. Cars are now operated on weekends "when enough people turn out." After July 1, cars should be in operation on week days.

There is no financial pressure at the Railway Museum. Train rides cost 50 cents and there is a donation box for those who want to contribute to the job of restoring part of America's past.

As the visitor walks past the cars parked on the sidings, men in overalls and beat-up work clothes are apt to appear, smile, and hurry back to their job.

Most of these men are railroad buffs who spend their free hours tinkering with the old trains. College students and older men work together, all sharing the same enthusiasm for antique trains.

"Careful kids," they are apt to say, as fearless 10-year-olds attempt to climb to the top of box cars. "You might hurt the train."

SOME OF THE TRAINS in the museum

are so old they have wooden platforms and steps, and look like the Jesse James special, straight from the late-late-show.

One old train, the political whistle-stopper special, with carpeting and push chairs, has a platform that must have been designed exclusively for political orations. No politician, standing on that platform, could resist the urge to address an imaginary crowd of well wishers with:

"My friends in Union City, I come here today to ask for your friendship, your confidence, and your vote in my race for..."

The Nebraska Zephyr, that ultra-modern futuristic streamliner of the 30s, also sits on a siding at the Railway Museum. Today, the Zephyr, the Railroad Queen of the jazz age is an obsolete old dowager.

The museum can be reached by taking the Northwest Tollway to U.S. Route 20, the Marengo exit. Drive northwest on 20 about 4 1/2 miles to Union Road. Take Union Road north and east one mile, going through the town of Union on Jefferson Street to Olson Road. Turn south at this point to get to the museum.

Wear old clothes so you can climb on the trains... and bring your memories.

Approve Bargaining Bill

Illinois state representatives approved by a 135 to 8 vote Wednesday a bill giving public employees the right to bargain collectively.

The bill has been supported locally by members of the Wheeling chapter of the Cook County Police Association (CCPA), a new organization consisting of over 90 per cent of the village's police officers.

New before the state Senate, the bill would create a state labor relations board to bargain with the employer for the state, county and municipal worker. It does not preclude strikes.

THE BILL'S SPONSOR, Rep. Thomas Hanahan, D-McHenry, said the legislation "simply seeks treatment no less equitable for the state worker than his counterparts in the private sector."

Sgt. Gene Wolf, president of the Wheeling CCPA chapter, said that his organization supports the bill, and that it will request the support of Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, who represents the Wheeling area, in encouraging passage of the bill.

Wolf called the legislation "something that labor has had for 40 years," and explained that "municipalities in dealing with their employees are about 40 years behind the times."

Praise for Libraries Comes from Scanlon

In accordance with National Library Week, Wheeling Village Pres. Ted Scanlon proclaimed April 20 through 26 as Library Week in Wheeling.

Scanlon noted the theme of this observance — "...to spur our fellow Americans to read more and to accept the responsibility for making opportunities available to others."

In his proclamation, Scanlon described the importance of public libraries as "one of the basic organizations in the educational process."

Arlington Heights did a magnificent job this week of pulling the rug out from under Buffalo Grove and leaving a neighbor flat on its face in the mud.

It was as if the Green Bay Packers took on Wheeling High School.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson still has cleat marks on his back.

In a lightning-like attack, the big brother village to the south came, saw, and annexed 60 acres of prime commercial land.

BUFFALO GROVE is now rubbing numb gums because Arlington Heights stole its false teeth.

Buffalo Grove, top heavy with residential and apartment development, now faces the prospect of watching a valuable stretch of Dundee Road and the projected western corner of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads increase in value while tax dollars wing their way into Arlington Heights coffers.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson says his philosophy is not to annex unless property owners petition to come into Buffalo Grove.

After all, the property owners have a right to make their own decisions and their own profit, Thompson argues.

THIS IS A MOST commendable attitude and should make Thompson popular with land speculators and owners of choice hunks of commercial property.

However, the taxpayers of Buffalo Grove might be inclined to quarrel with this altruistic attitude since it promises to cost them a few bucks.

Thompson is an elected representative of the people and when they send him out to play in the pro leagues of ruthless inter-village border wars they expect him to win.

Buffalo Grove would be able to afford charity and good fellowship if it had several $50 million shopping centers and a booming industrial park. Meanwhile, it had better be sharp and tough.

Arlington Heights planned the 60-acre annexation, covered its bases legally, and acted swiftly when it got wind of a Buffalo Grove plan to annex a small portion of the property.

Former Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods modestly admits his village was a little bit smarter . . . and he is right.

WOODS ALSO SAYS Arlington Heights will repeat the performance on any less-than-60 acre tract it can legally bring into its orbit.

There is still some good unincorporated commercial property along Dundee Road. The polite thing to do would be to wait until these property owners ask to be annexed to Buffalo Grove.

Judging by last week's fiasco, Buffalo Grove will be the poorest and politest village in the northwest suburbs.

Meanwhile, old tom cat Arlington Heights will lick its chops and look around for another canary.

Arlington Heights shouted foul when the 127-acre Kornfeldt-Miller property went to Buffalo Grove because the developers figured they could get a better deal.

Arlington Heights cried, beat its fists on the floor, and sent reams of outraged protests to Rolling Meadows when that village pulled a canny land grab on the Leenstein-Parker property in southern Arlington Heights.

"OUR TEARS ARE DRY now," says Woods.

Thompson is still crying.

In the future, Arlington Heights will have a hard time piously insisting it is only protecting high class apartment development on its boundaries, because the 60-acre is no apartment development but juicy commercial property.

Better Buffalo Grove got a little smart and maybe started playing in the big leagues?

Haney Is Elected to Board

Harold Haney was unanimously elected to his eighth full term as president of the board of School Dist. 26 at its meeting Tuesday night. Ray Johnston was named by the board to another year as secretary.

The canvass of ballots cast in the April 12 school board election showed that Haney led the field of three incumbents re-elected in the five-man district race. The other two returning board members are Jack Halvorsen and Lee Hillman.

River Trails Junior High Principal James Retzlaff presented a plan for re-scheduling classes at the school. The proposed nine-period day received unanimous board approval and will go into effect in September, 1969.

Under the new schedule, students will begin their day at the present starting time of 8:30 a.m., but will be dismissed at 3:05 p.m. instead of 3:40 p.m. Retzlaff explained that the change to a nine-period day would shorten the school day by 35 minutes and allow more students to participate in after-school activities.

SEVENTH GRADERS will still have a choice of band, chorus, or general music during one elective period, and a choice of French, reading skills, or study hall for the other period. One semester of speech and art will remain in the seventh grade curriculum.

The eighth grade curriculum is still tentative, but some of the proposals discussed would make home economics and industrial arts semester classes which students would alternate with typing. This would leave eighth graders with the choice of two electives from the present district offerings of French, vocal or instrumental music, art, fine arts, or a study hall.

Retzlaff commented that only one-fourth of the junior high students make efficient use of study hall time and he sees no problem if most of them drop it from their schedule next year.

He explained that the after-school activity programs were popular with students, often involving over half of the school's enrollment. The district has one activity bus route, so students often walk home from extra curricular offerings. The earlier dismissal time will permit them to get home before dark during the winter.

Subdivisions to the west of the junior high have sidewalks that give easy access to the building, but children from other areas often use Wolf, Euclid, and Kensington roads to come home. Several years ago a boy was killed in an accident while walking home from after school activities at the junior high.

WINSTON HARWOOD, district superintendent, reported that House Bill 1232 received a "do pass" recommendation from the House Education Committee.

If passed, it would speed up the state reimbursements to the district for its cost of educating children housed at Maryville Academy. The bill was presented to the Illinois General Assembly by Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and has the local support of Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and David Regner, R-Mount Prospect.

School Talks Expansion

Rapid growth in Buffalo Grove and Lincolnshire will demand additional classroom and physical education space at Adlai E. Stevenson High School in Prairie View by 1972.

Stevenson's School board members spent two hours discussing building plans for their school Monday with Dist. 125 Supt. Harold Baner and architect Conrad Kristmann.

Baner said that the district would need an additional 43,500 square feet of classroom space and about 19,000 square feet for physical education within three years when the school is expected to reach a total enrollment of 1,200.

Baner explained that Dist. 125 should have bonding power of about $1.4 million by April 1, 1970, if the present building rate continues in the Buffalo Grove and Lincolnshire areas. He also announced that this year's assessed valuation is $49,929,465. This is an increase of about $3 million over the previous year. Current building could boost the assessed valuation by more than $10 million next year, he indicated.

BANER SAID additions could probably be made most economically by filling in the space on the west side of the present building. Both academic areas and physical education space — possibly including a swimming pool — could be constructed here for the money available, he said. It was suggested that the community be polled on what type of physical education facilities should be added.

The superintendent also presented figures for an addition in the same area which would accommodate 1,500 students. He felt, however, that bonding power was not available in the immediate future for this large a structure. Board members felt that this possibility should be explored because Stevenson could reach that point within three or four years if home building continues to accelerate.

The board plans to continue its discussion of building plans with the administration and architect at a special adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. next Monday.

The group says, "It is difficult to describe program content to the community because many pertinent points, although presented in the classroom and in textbooks, could not be printed in newspapers nor be broadcast over the public airways."

Members of the group attended a recent school board meeting to demand copies of the district's sex education program materials for their examination.

Mrs. Margery Bue, curriculum director, told The Herald that all of the textbooks and the film shown district children have been loaned to the group at its request.

Annexation: A Drama in Nine Acts

by MARY DRESSER

Events leading to the Arlington Heights annexation of 60 acres in Buffalo Grove are a classic dramatic study in municipal border battles.

SCENE

A 60-acre, lightly developed unincorporated area bounded by Dundee Road on the north, Arlington Heights Road on the east, and a Buffalo Grove apartment development on the west. One lot in the property, an animal hospital, is incorporated in Buffalo Grove.

To thicken the plot, the villages of Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove have been engaged in friendly discussions to re-route Arlington Heights Road, which would put a new road through the 60 acres and possibly cut-du-ac the present Arlington Heights Road.

ACT I

January, 1969, Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson was approached by developers attempting to put together the 114-acre package. They asked for annexation and discussed the possibility of a liquor license for one of the stores in the proposed shopping center.

The names listed as property owners are Mr. and Mrs. Schippel, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Resudek and Edward Mattus, owner of Suburban Realty.

At one time, a nursing home in the area was under consideration, but that plan apparently never got off the ground.

ACT II

While negotiations were taking place between Thompson and the developers, other property owners in the area were beginning to move.

Pure Oil Co. began to build a gas station under Cook County zoning on the southwestern corner of Dundee and Arlington Heights roads.

Marathon is reported to have purchased lots one and two on the southeast corner of the property.

Spencer Realty in Chicago is handling lots three and four and a representative of Spencer said the company is negotiating with an unspecified oil company.

The fifth lot is supposed to have been purchased by an FM radio station. A representative of Maine Realty Co. in Wheeling said he is "not at liberty to disclose such information."

Lot six, next to the animal hospital, is owned by a private individual and lot nine, next to the Pure station, is for sale.

Five acres west of the proposed manufacturing area are owned by a farmer who intends to continue farming the property.

The area along Arlington Heights Road is composed of residential property. It is estimated there are 14 to 20 property owners in the entire area.

ACT III

Arlington Heights, aware of the developments in the Buffalo Grove area, began to consider the prospect of annexation.

On April 11, a legal notice appeared in a local newspaper giving public notice of proposed annexation.

The legal description contained no common description of the property, making it difficult to recognize what was under consideration.

ACT IV

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods, speaking in Waukegan April 12, admitted that Arlington Heights, "for all its pristine virtue," sometimes considers its own interests more important than those of its neighbors.

Woods at this time was aware of the approaching showdown with Buffalo Grove.

ACT VI

Mrs. Harry J. Hartzel sold the 114 acres April 14. Two days later she received notification of the proposed Arlington Heights annexation. She immediately turned this information over to the new property owners, the Schippels, the Resudeks and Mattus.

On April 18 the Herald alerted Buffalo Grove officials to Arlington Heights annexation plans.

ACT VII

Property owners rushed to the Buffalo Grove village hall Saturday, April 19, and filed a petition for annexation to Buffalo Grove.

ACT VIII

Attorney Jerome Pinderski, representing the title owners, was informed of the Arlington Heights annexation April 21. He immediately sent a letter of objection to the Arlington Heights Village Board.

ACT IX

That same evening, April 21, Buffalo Grove village board accepted, at 8:40 p.m., the petition to annex the 114 acres. Later that evening, at 10:45 p.m., Arlington Heights unanimously passed an ordinance of annexing the property.

THE END

CURTAIN CALL

Pinderski says he will file suit to void the Arlington Heights ordinance.

Car Burned On Portwine

Wheeling Firemen battled a blaze at 2 a.m. Thursday in a car abandoned in the middle of Portwine Road about 100 yards north of Dundee Road.

The car, a 1968 green Ford, was destroyed in the fire, which Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen said may have been set by someone. Koeppen said gasoline was apparently dumped on the car seats and ignited.

Wheeling Police were searching for the owner of the car, which had Tennessee license plates. Police learned that the car had not been reported stolen, and turned the investigation to the Cook County Sheriff's police because the car was found in an unincorporated territory within the fire district.

WHEELING FIREMEN found this car bearing Tennessee license plates, aflame on Portwine Road in an unincorporated area of Wheeling's fire district. Cook County Sheriff's Police are now looking for the car's owner.

Winners Are Named

Walro Shoes, 8 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, recently conducted a "Bangaroo" coloring contest as part of a nationwide competition sponsored by Child Life Shoes.

Winners in the three age groups, and their prizes, are, through age four, Kris Ann Dahm, Mount Prospect, winner of a tricycle; Mary Kay Rorig, Arlington Heights, winner in the age five to seven group of an RCA transistor radio; and James Wiecek, Prospect Heights, in the age eight to 15 category, winner of a Polaroid Swinger camera.

The three entries are now submitted for judging in the national contest. Winners, to be announced June 7, will receive an all-expense paid one-week visit to Disneyland or Washington, D.C. for first place, and $300 and $150 savings bonds for second and third place, respectively.

Annexation Is Challenged

Landowners Promise Legal Recourse

Buffalo Grove landowners intend to file for an injunction against the Village of Arlington Heights asking the court to void a portion of Monday's 60-acre annexation to Arlington Heights.

The property in question is 11 1/4 acres of the total parcel. One section is a lot fronting on Dundee Road between the two jogs of Arlington Heights Road and the other section is 10 acres behind the lot.

The title owners and contract purchasers intend to develop a shopping center on the Dundee Road lot and a manufacturing area on the second lot.

Jerome Pinderski, 105 W. Madison St., Chicago, an attorney, said he will file suit in the Circuit Court of Cook County within a few days asking the court to enjoin Arlington Heights from filing the ordinance of annexation.

"WE WILL BE asking the court to determine if the annexation ordinance was properly formulated under the state code since the ordinance was pending before Buffalo Grove," Pinderski told The Herald.

Pinderski will base his case on chapter

24, 7.3 of the State Municipal Code.

The code says interested persons may file objections to an involuntary annexation on the premise that the territory is not contiguous to the annexing municipality, the petition is not signed by the requisite number of electors or property owners of record, that the description of the territory is inadequate, or that "the objector's land is located on the perimeter of such territory; that he does not desire annexation, and that exclusion of his land will not destroy the contiguity of such described property with the annexing municipality."

"The question is, is the property wholly surrounded by Arlington Heights," said Pinderski, who represents Ed Mathus, real estate man, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schippel and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Resudek, owners.

"The courts have held that there should be proper notice given individuals," said Pinderski. "This is a question of not acting in good faith."

THE ARLINGTON Heights annexation of the property took place Monday after a legal notice appeared 10 days previously.

The property was purchased from Mrs. Harry J. Hartzel on April 14, and Mrs. Hartzel received notification of the proposed annexation only a few days before the April 21 meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board. She immediately informed the new owners of the proposed annexation.

Other property owners in the area say they were not informed of the intended action.

A letter, dated April 21, that Pinderski presented the Arlington Heights Village Board said that annexation was "brought to my attention today."

It insisted that the annexation will do "irreparable harm and damage" to Pinderski's clients "in that many months of work toward the orderly development of the property has been done with the Village of Buffalo Grove."

A PETITION FOR annexation to Buffalo Grove was filed April 19.

Pinderski contends in the letter that annexation to Arlington Heights will "very substantially reduce the value of my clients' property, will abort a pending sale and development of the described property, and cause undue hardship."

The lawyer requested annexation be defeated until discussion could be held, but the annexation ordinance passed that Monday night.

The requested annexation to Buffalo Grove is now under consideration by the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission.

Park OKs Budget

by ANNE HEDBACK

Wheeling's Park District board approved a $125,105 budget Wednesday that is down $2,815 from last year's budget of $127,920.

In an adjourned meeting, the commissioners sent to the attorney a final draft of the appropriation ordinance, the maximum they can spend for the 1969-70 fiscal year, which totals $138,650.

That amount represents a $3,350 increase over from last year's appropriation ordinance of $135,300. The appropriation ordinance is higher than the budget to allow the district to spend the total amount if tax monies are available.

This year's increase in the appropriation and drop in the budget follows an increase of nearly $35,000 in the 1968 appropriation over that of 1967.

ONE REASON FOR the cutbacks is the tax anticipation warrants issued during the last year by the park district to support the recreation program until monies from the district's new recreation tax begin to come in this July. Also, many of the reasons for last year's hikes, including appropriation up $14,000 for maintenance and landscaping equipment, pay for a new superintendent of parks and buildings, and $6,000 for purchase and development of a new park, are not required additions to this year's budget.

At $125,105, the 1969-70 total fiscal budget breaks down into six general categories. A total of $50,525 is earmarked for general operation of the district, $26,550 for recreation, $40,050 for payment of bonds and interest, $2,200 for the insurance fund, $3,200 for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, and $800 for the audit fund.

LAST YEAR'S BUDGET called for $23,700 to be spent on recreation, and the appropriation ordinance would have allowed $27,500. This year's budget calls for $26,550 with a maximum appropriation of $28,200.

Expenditures for the community pool $6,000 for purchase and development of a last year were budgeted at $19,775, while this year's figure is $21,825. Increases are based on needed repairs before the pool can open. The park district has an agreement for purchase of the pool for $100,000 in negotiations with the pool committee, but funds for that purchase must come from a June 14 referendum.

Included in this year's budget, however, is the first $3,000 payment and interest needed by the park district to buy Chamber of Commerce Park over a five-year period.

After an executive session Thursday the board approved a pay hike for the district secretary from $4,500 to $5,500 yearly.

THE OLD CHICAGO Aurora and Elgin, car 431, is still alive and in operating condition at the Illinois Railway Museum near Marengo, Ill., a drive of approximately 40 minutes from the Northwest suburbs.

Village Is 2nd In Home Building

Buffalo Grove has come in second in home building in the Chicago metropolitan area in the first three months of this year according to a recent Bell Savings and Loan Association survey.

The village had a total of 116 homes built so far with an average cost of $17,824 per home.

ARLINGTON Heights led the metropolitan area in homes built with 196. Average cost of homes built in that village was $30,337.

Other villages classed as leaders in order of the number of homes built were Downers Grove, Woodridge, Palatine, Northbrook, South Holland, Schaumburg, Naperville, and Lake Forest.

OK Child Aid Bill

A bill that would reimburse River Trails School Dist. 26 for the education of children from Maryville Academy passed the state House of Representatives Wednesday.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D., Arlington Heights, sponsor of the bill told The Herald she was "delighted" by the 147 to 0 vote. "The problem is going to be in the Senate," she said.

The bill, as it now stands, would help every disturbed child in the state, Mrs. Chapman said.

The bill was also backed by Rep. David Regner, R., Mount Prospect, and Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R., Arlington Heights.

THE PRESENT BILL includes children from orphanages, children's homes, veterans' hospitals, military encampments or state housing units.

It provides for state tuition reimbursement to the districts to be separately determined for children who attend regular classes in public schools and those who need special classes.

Since the cost of educating individual children in special classes is higher than the average cost of educating a child in a school district, children with learning handicaps will receive an extra dollar of state aid.

The bill would give the districts 50 per cent of the money at the end of this fiscal year and would pay the remaining 50 per cent in December, the end of the first part of the next fiscal year. It also provides an extra 10 per cent for administrative costs.

Mrs. Chapman said the estimated cost of state aid under the bill will be $2 million by the next biennium.

IT IS POSSIBLE, after the first payments are made, that costs could run as high as $1 million a year, but Mrs. Chapman believes that figure is inflated.

This cost factor is the point which might give the bill trouble in the Senate.

The original intention of the bill was to aid the River Trails district but the provision for education of children throughout the state will increase the cost to the taxpayers.

An informed source said an amendment may be considered.

The educational program at Maryville was discontinued in September 1968, and students were sent to Dist. 26 schools.

Maryville is operated by Catholic Charities.

kins, president; Mrs. Flo Ann Toporek, coordinating vice president; Mrs. Pat Zenger, recording secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Mickey Anderson and Gerald Moe, directors.

THE ORGANIZATION feels the introduction of sex education as taught in the district "has implied that the parents of children in this district are less qualified to teach sex education, morals, and ethics to their own children than are the schools."

The group is responding to what it describes as the district school administration's indifference to parental objections to the program. They seek to provide "a responsible and coordinated review of the philosophy, objectives and activities comprising these programs."

Calling for "the cooperation of school officials" in their endeavor, the members "will petition for the cessation of current compulsory programs pending their study."

The study's goal is "to determine if, and to what extent, local schools have exceeded the bounds of propriety and public trust."

"The question has been raised whether the community and the parents do or do not have a determining voice in what is appropriate to the school, to the parents, to the churches, and other community components."

CONCERN ALSO seems to center around some of the findings of the group's two-week investigation. Some of their reported findings are:

"All teachers, administrators, and parents do not favor proposed or existing programs."

"Some programs, particularly those incorporating parental involvement, have met with general satisfaction among parents."

"Family living and sex education programs are not simply an explanation of the facts of life, but are instead a comprehensive and continuing kindergarten through twelfth grade program covering many aspects of human sexuality, sensitivity, moral and ethical standards and conduct."

A little more than a half-hour's drive from here, in Union, Ill., a portion of your past life is waiting to be rediscovered.

To children, the Illinois Railway Museum has trackloads of trains and trolley cars suitable for climbing and games of "pretend engineer."

To an adult, the old trains are a chance to relive days long forgotten.

Milwaukee's Wells Street streetcar, painted and carefully restored, is still in operation at the outdoor museum. This reporter remembers riding that street car on the first date with the gentleman she later married.

On another track are several old Chicago "El" cars used to take city children and their mothers to the Loop for a day's shopping.

"IT'S THE OLD Halsted Street streetcar!" an ex-Chicagoan gasped, walking from car to car, remembering the "old days." "Look at the wicker seats and the leather straps. I can almost smell the Stock Yards."

The railroad museum is no place to visit if you want canned Disneyland-type entertainment. For one thing, it doesn't cost a lot of money. Also, the child or adult must contribute his own imagination to the experience. There are no papier-mache, fake models of impossible scenes, only the actual trains and streetcars that once served real human beings.

At this time, the new museum has trains lined up in sidings, a mile and a half of track, a railroad car converted to a gift shop and an old station.

It is estimated that the station, currently being restored, dates back to 1851, making it the oldest passenger station west of Pittsburgh.

Future plans for the Railway Museum include a display hall, car barns, stations, a sub station, and five miles of track to allow children and adults to ride in the reconditioned trains.

THE REGULAR SEASON at the Railway Museum starts May 30. Cars are now operated on weekends "when enough people turn out." After July 1, cars should be in operation on week days.

There is no financial pressure at the Railway Museum. Train rides cost 50 cents and there is a donation box for those who want to contribute to the job of restoring part of America's past.

As the visitor walks past the cars parked on the sidings, men in overalls and beat-up work clothes are apt to appear, smile, and hurry back to their job.

Most of these men are railroad buffs who spend their free hours tinkering with the old trains. College students and older men work together, all sharing the same enthusiasm for antique trains.

"Careful kids," they are apt to say, as fearless 10-year-olds attempt to climb to the top of box cars. "You might hurt the train."

SOME OF THE TRAINS in the museum

are so old they have wooden platforms and steps, and look like the Jesse James special, straight from the late-late-show.

One old train, the political whistle-stopper special, with carpeting and plush chairs, has a platform that must have been designed exclusively for political orations. No politician, standing on that platform, could resist the urge to address an imaginary crowd of well wishers with:

"My friends in Union City, I come here today to ask for your friendship, your confidence, and your vote in my race for..."

The Nebraska Zephyr, that ultra-modern futuristic streamliner of the 30s, also sits on a siding at the Railway Museum. Today, the Zephyr, the Railroad Queen of the jazz age is an obsolete old dowager.

The museum can be reached by taking the Northwest Tollway to U.S. Route 20, the Marengo exit. Drive northwest on 20 about 4 1/2 miles to Union Road. Take Union Road north and east one mile, going through the town of Union on Jefferson Street to Olson Road. Turn south at this point to get to the museum.

Wear old clothes so you can climb on the trains... and bring your memories.

Concern Over Sex Education Growing

by DAN JOHN

Concern is growing in Dist. 21 over sex education. In response, a formal group, the Concerned Parents Committee of Community Consolidated School Dist. 21, was recently organized after an informal group conducted two weeks of investigation.

The object of the group's investigation has been the family living and sex education curriculum currently taught to youngsters, kindergarten through fourth grade.

"The organization was formed as a result of the interest arising in the community in Dist. 21 schools," Gloria Pfister, publicity director, said.

Officers of the group are Robert Hop-

Approve Bargaining Bill

Illinois state representatives approved by a 135 to 8 vote Wednesday a bill giving public employees the right to bargain collectively.

The bill has been supported locally by members of the Wheeling chapter of the Cook County Police Association (CCPA), a new organization consisting of over 90 per cent of the village's police officers.

Now before the state Senate, the bill would create a state labor relations board to bargain with the employee for the state, county and municipal worker. It does not preclude strikes.

THE BILL'S SPONSOR, Rep. Thomas Hanahan, D-McHenry, said the legislation "simply seeks treatment no less equitable for the state worker than his counterparts in the private sector."

Sgt. Gene Wolf, president of the Wheeling CCPA chapter, said that his organization supports the bill, and that it will request the support of Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, who represents the Wheeling area, in encouraging passage of the bill.

Wolf called the legislation "something that labor has had for 40 years," and explained that "municipalities in dealing with their employees are about 40 years behind the times."

Praise for Libraries Comes from Scanlon

In accordance with National Library Week, Wheeling Village Pres. Ted Scanlon proclaimed April 20 through 26 as Library Week in Wheeling.

Scanlon noted the theme of this observance — "... to spur our fellow Americans to read more and to accept the responsibility for making opportunities available to others."

In his proclamation, Scanlon described the importance of public libraries as "one of the basic organizations in the educational process."

Free Lance

Arlington Heights did a magnificent job this week of pulling the rug out from under Buffalo Grove and leaving a neighbor flat on its face in the mud.

It was as if the Green Bay Packers took on Wheeling High School.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres Donald Thompson still has cleat marks on his back.

In a lightning-like attack, the big brother village to the south came, saw, and annexed 60 acres of prime commercial land.

BUFFALO GROVE is now rubbing numb gums because Arlington Heights stole its false teeth.

Buffalo Grove, top heavy with residential and apartment development, now faces the prospect of watching a valuable stretch of Dundee Road and the projected western corner of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads increase in value while tax dollars wing their way into Arlington Heights coffers.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson says his philosophy is not to annex unless property owners petition to come into Buffalo Grove.

After all, the property owners have a right to make their own decisions and their own profit, Thompson argues.

THIS IS A MOST commendable attitude and should make Thompson popular with land speculators and owners of choice hunks of commercial property.

However, the taxpayers of Buffalo Grove might be inclined to quarrel with this altruistic attitude since it promises to cost them a few bucks.

Thompson is an elected representative of the people and when they send him out to play in the pro leagues of ruthless inter-village border wars they expect him to win.

Buffalo Grove would be able to afford charity and good fellowship if it had several 300 million shopping centers and a booming industrial park. Meanwhile, it had better be sharp and tough.

Arlington Heights planned the 60-acre annexation, covered its bases legally, and acted swiftly when it got wind of a Buffalo Grove plan to annex a small portion of the property.

Former Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods modestly admits his village was a little bit smarter . . . and he is right.

WOODS ALSO SAYS Arlington Heights will repeat the performance on any less-than-60 acre tract it can legally bring into its orbit.

There is still some good unincorporated commercial property along Dundee Road. The polite thing to do would be to wait until these property owners ask to be annexed to Buffalo Grove.

Judging by last week's fiasco, Buffalo Grove will be the poorest and politest village in the northwest suburbs.

Meanwhile, old tam cat Arlington Heights will lick its chops and look around for another canary.

Arlington Heights shouted foul when the 127-acre Kornfeldt-Miller property went to Buffalo Grove because the developers figured they could get a better deal.

Arlington Heights cried, beat its fists on the floor, and sent reams of outraged protests to Rolling Meadows when that village pulled a canny land grab on the Isenhardt-Parker property in southern Arlington Heights.

"OUR TEARS ARE DRY now," says Woods.

Thompson is still crying.

In the future, Arlington Heights will have a hard time piously insisting "it is only protecting high class apartment development on its boundaries, because the 60-acres is no apartment development but juicy commercial property."

Better Buffalo Grove got a little smart and maybe started playing in the big leagues?

Haney Is Elected to Board

Harold Haney was unanimously elected to his eighth full term as president of the board of School Dist. 26 at its meeting Tuesday night. Ray Johnston was named by the board to another year as secretary.

The canvass of ballots cast in the April 12 school board election showed that Haney led the field of three incumbents re-elected in the five-man district race. The other two returning board members are Jack Halvorsen and Lee Hillman.

River Trails Junior High Principal James Retzlaff presented a plan for re-scheduling classes at the school. The proposed nine-period day received unanimous board approval and will go into effect in September, 1969.

Under the new schedule, students will begin their day at the present starting time of 8:30 a.m., but will be dismissed at 3:05 p.m. instead of 3:40 p.m. Retzlaff explained that the change to a nine-period day would shorten the school day by 35 minutes and allow more students to participate in after-school activities.

SEVENTH GRADERS will still have a choice of band, chorus, or general music during one elective period, and a choice of French, reading skills, or study hall for the other period. One semester of speech and art will remain in the seventh grade curriculum.

The eighth grade curriculum is still tentative, but some of the proposals discussed would make home economics and industrial arts semester classes which students would alternate with typing. This would leave eighth graders with the choice of two electives from the present district offerings of French, vocal or instrumental music, art, fine arts, or a study hall.

School Talks Expansion

Rapid growth in Buffalo Grove and Lincolnshire will demand additional classroom and physical education space at Adlai E. Stevenson High School in Prairie View by 1972.

Stevenson's School board members spent two hours discussing building plans for their school Monday with Dist. 125 Supt. Harold Baner and architect Conrad Kristmann.

Baner said that the district would need an additional 43,500 square feet of classroom space and about 19,000 square feet for physical education within three years when the school is expected to reach a total enrollment of 1,200.

Baner explained that Dist. 125 should have bonding power of about $1.4 million by April 1, 1970, if the present building rate continues in the Buffalo Grove and Lincolnshire areas. He also announced that this year's assessed valuation is $49,928,465. This is an increase of about $3 million over the previous year. Current building could boost the assessed valuation by more than $10 million next year, he indicated.

BANER SAID additions could probably be made most economically by filling in the space on the west side of the present building. Both academic areas and physical education space — possibly including a swimming pool — could be constructed here for the money available, he said. It was suggested that the community be polled on what type of physical education facilities should be added.

The superintendent also presented figures for an addition in the same area which would accommodate 1,500 students. He felt, however, that bonding power was not available in the immediate future for this large a structure. Board members felt that this possibility should be explored because Stevenson could reach that point within three or four years if home building continues to accelerate.

The board plans to continue its discussion of building plans with the administration and architect at a special adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. next Monday.

The group says, "It is difficult to describe program content to the community because many pertinent points, although presented in the classroom and in textbooks, could not be printed in newspapers nor be broadcast over the public airways."

Members of the group attended a recent school board meeting to demand copies of the district's sex education program materials for their examination.

Mrs. Margery Bue, curriculum director, told The Herald that all of the textbooks and the film shown district children have been loaned to the group at its request.

Annexation: A Drama in Nine Acts

by MARY DRESSER

Events leading to the Arlington Heights annexation of 60 acres in Buffalo Grove are a classic dramatic study in municipal border battles.

SCENE

A 60-acre, lightly developed unincorporated area bounded by Dundee Road on the north, Arlington Heights Road on the east, and a Buffalo Grove apartment development on the west. One lot in the property, an animal hospital, is incorporated in Buffalo Grove.

To thicken the plot, the villages of Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove have been engaged in friendly discussions to re-route Arlington Heights Road, which would put a new road through the 60 acres and possibly cul-de-sac the present Arlington Heights Road.

ACT I

January, 1969. Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson was approached by developers attempting to put together the 11¼-acre package. They asked for annexation and discussed the possibility of a liquor license for one of the stores in the proposed shopping center.

The names listed as property owners are Mr. and Mrs. Schippel, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Resudek and Edward Mattus, owner of Suburban Realty.

At one time, a nursing home in the area was under consideration, but that plan apparently never got off the ground.

ACT II

While negotiations were taking place between Thompson and the developers, other property owners in the area were beginning to move.

Pur. Oil Co. began to build a gas station under Cook County zoning on the southwestern corner of Dundee and Arlington Heights roads.

Marathon is reported to have purchased lots one and two on the southeast corner of the property.

Spencer Realty in Chicago is handling lots three and four and a representative of Spencer said the company is negotiating with an unspecified oil company.

The fifth lot is supposed to have been purchased by an FM radio station. A representative of Maine Realty Co. in Wheeling said he is "not at liberty to disclose such information."

Lot six, next to the animal hospital, is owned by a private individual and lot nine, next to the Pure station, is for sale.

Five acres west of the proposed manufacturing area are owned by a farmer who intends to continue farming the property.

The area along Arlington Heights Road is composed of residential property. It is estimated there are 14 to 20 property owners in the entire area.

ACT III

Arlington Heights, aware of the developments in the Buffalo Grove area, began to consider the prospect of annexation.

On April 11, a legal notice appeared in a local newspaper giving public notice of proposed annexation.

The legal description contained no common description of the property, making it difficult to recognize what was under consideration.

ACT IV

Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods, speaking in Waukegan April 12, admitted that Arlington Heights, "for all its pristine virtue," sometimes considers its own interests more important than those of its neighbors.

Woods at this time was aware of the approaching showdown with Buffalo Grove.

ACT VI

Mrs. Harry J. Hartzel sold the 11¼ acres April 14. Two days later she received notification of the proposed Arlington Heights annexation. She immediately turned this information over to the new property owners, the Schippels, the Resudeks and Mattus.

On April 18 the Herald alerted Buffalo Grove officials to Arlington Heights annexation plans.

ACT VII

Property owners rushed to the Buffalo Grove village hall Saturday, April 19, and filed a petition for annexation to Buffalo Grove.

ACT VIII

Attorney Jerome Pinderski, representing the title owners, was informed of the Arlington Heights annexation April 21. He immediately sent a letter of objection to the Arlington Heights Village Board.

ACT IX

That same evening, April 21, Buffalo Grove village board accepted, at 8:40 p.m., the petition to annex the 11¼ acres.

Later that evening, at 10:45 p.m., Arlington Heights unanimously passed an ordinance of annexing the property.

THE END

CURTAIN CALL

Pinderski says he will file suit to void the Arlington Heights ordinance.

Car Burned On Portwine

Wheeling Firemen battled a blaze at 2 a.m. Thursday in a car abandoned in the middle of Portwine Road about 100 yards north of Dundee Road.

The car, a 1968 green Ford, was destroyed in the fire, which Fire Chief Bernie Koepfen said may have been set by someone. Koepfen said gasoline was apparently dumped on the car seats and ignited.

Wheeling Police were searching for the owner of the car, which had Tennessee license plates. Police learned that the car had not been reported stolen, and turned the investigation to the Cook County Sheriff's police because the car was found in an unincorporated territory within the fire district.

Winners Are Named

Walro Shoes, 8 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, recently conducted a "Bangaroo" coloring contest as part of a nationwide competition sponsored by Child Life Shoes.

Winners in the three age groups, and their prizes, are, through age four, Kris Ann Dahm, Mount Prospect, winner of a tricycle; Mary Kay Rorig, Arlington Heights, winner in the age five to seven group of an RCA transistor radio; and James Wiecek, Prospect Heights, in the age eight to 15 category, winner of a Polaroid Swinger camera.

The three entries are now submitted for judging in the national contest. Winners, to be announced June 7, will receive an all-expense paid one-week visit to Disneyland or Washington, D.C. for first place, and $300 and $150 savings bonds for second and third place, respectively.

Premier Karami Quits

BEIRUT—Premier Pashid Karami resigned last night at the height of a national crisis in which fighting between security forces and demonstrators urging support for Arab commandos killed 17 persons and injured 116.

Karami announced his resignation during parliamentary debate and is expected to submit it in writing to President Charles Helou.

Head Start Funds

WASHINGTON—All or part of the funds supporting Head Start programs may be switched to full-year programs. Health Education and Welfare Department secretary Robert H. Finch said yesterday.

He said leeway would allow the change of emphasis from summer to full-year programs "in order not to delay this important conversion for another 12 months."

Promises Tax Bill

WASHINGTON—Passage of a sweeping tax reform bill which would go further than Presidents Nixon's proposed was promised by August. House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills said this bill would include adjustments in the oil depletion allowance in addition to Nixon's proposals.

Mills' committee will begin Tuesday to write the reform bill. Passage of any tax legislation is virtually doomed without Mills' support.

Prices To Soar

WASHINGTON—The rising consumer price index will continue to soar for at least another three or four months, according to Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, even if inflation is halted.

Chase yesterday responded to questions about last month's eight-tenths of 1 percent jump in the index, the largest increase in 18 years.

Without Tax Plan...

CHICAGO—Cutting school aid and the welfare budget, as well as the budget requests of state departments and agencies, is the alternative to new taxes, Gov. Richard Ogilvie told the Chicago Bar Association yesterday.

But, Ogilvie added, he has no intention of backing down from his state income tax proposal and other revenue proposals in favor of such budget cuts.

Order Track Checks

CHICAGO—All 25 railroads in Illinois will begin inspection of 13,000 miles of main line track and another 13,000 miles of secondary track will receive a "summary inspection," the Illinois Commerce Commission ordered yesterday.

ICC chairman David Armstrong said the inspection was prompted by recent derailments believed to have been caused by poor maintenance. Illinois averages 150 derailments a year, he said.

New Jersey Returning

WASHINGTON—The battleship New Jersey, the only totally activated battleship in the U. S. Navy, may not join the 28-ship task force in the Sea of Japan. The Defense Department said last night the ship may return to San Diego.

The vessel was on its way to San Diego last week after a tour in Vietnam when it was sent toward Japan after North Korean jets shot down a United States reconnaissance plane.

Pay Plan For Teacher

District 211's school board was expected to ratify a new salary policy for teachers for the 1969-70 school year last night. If approved, the plan would provide a minimum raise of $700.

A teacher with a bachelor's degree who has no prior teaching experience will receive a salary of $7,300, under the new plan.

Of primary significance in this year's salary agreement is the omission of merit raises, which long has been the basis of salary increases in Dist. 211, one of the last high school districts in the area to use the system.

For the past several years, the Teachers' Association has requested abolishing merit raises, but could not sway the school board to agree until this year.

In the new plan, an automatic index scale has been established based on teachers' level of education and experience.

A YEAR OF EXPERIENCE is valued at 5 per cent of the base salary of $365. Movement from one level of education to another is valued at 10 per cent of $730.

The three levels of education accepted in the plan are a bachelor's master's, and master's plus 30 hours of graduate work.

If a teacher has not received a master's degree by the end of his eighth year in the system, he is automatically stopped on the index. The same would apply to a teacher whose performance in the classroom is not satisfactory during the preceding year.

Such teachers remain "frozen" until the conditions for movement on the index are met.

A teacher beginning his career next year can look forward to a potential yearly income of $15,330, but only after he has met an education requirement of 30 hours beyond the master's degree. He would also have to perform satisfactorily in the classroom for 18 years.

THE BOARD OF Education and Teachers' Association approved the index. They called it "a major gain in the district's struggle to attract and retain a high caliber of teachers particularly in this area where most other high school districts have similar plans."

School officials described the index as desirable for two reasons.

A teacher's salary is based on the beginning teacher salary, so that the relationship between the lower and upper salary ranges always remain the same.

A career is established in classroom teaching, providing the teacher with the opportunity to advance through experience and education, without having to leave the classroom or even teaching to reach the average level of income in the community.

IN DETERMINING the step at which to place a teacher on the index, teachers employed on Sept. 1, who had not received an M.A., had experience of 10 or more years in the district and 15 or more hours beyond a B.A. should be allowed to progress two additional steps beyond the seventh; one eighth step of 1.34 and a ninth step of 1.37. No other teacher may progress beyond the seventh year of experience without a master's degree.

The maximum raise would be set at $2,000, except that a teacher who obtains an M.A. degree or qualifies for the M.A. plus 30 track between Sept. 1, 1968 and Sept. 1, 1969, shall receive a raise no greater than $2,730.

A teacher whose raise is calculated at less than $700, shall be placed at the next higher step, so no teacher's raise is less than the original raise of $700. Those teachers would remain at that step until they qualify for a higher step.

Castor To Retire

School Dist. 15 will begin the search for a new superintendent following the official notice of resignation of E. S. "Pat" Castor at the board meeting Wednesday night.

Castor's resignation will be effective after the 1969-70 school year. He would reach the mandatory retirement age of 65 in 1971, but decided to advance his retirement "a year ahead of time," to "give the board adequate time" to find a successor.

In calling Dist. 15 "the finest district" he was associated with in his career, Castor cited the board's "close cooperation and support" since assuming the position in 1961.

"I was fortunate in being selected superintendent" of Dist. 15, Castor told the board, after Board Pres. Walter Sundling read an official letter of resignation.

"I WILL ALWAYS be interested in the district, I hope to see many good things happen," Castor stated. But he told them, "I made my contribution, it's time for someone else to take over. The time has come for me to retire."

"Since 1961, I worked hard to justify the confidence in me," Castor thanked the district "community and staff" for their cooperation. "The climate has been good," he noted.

Castor said the district rule to retire at 65 is one "I heartily approve." The decision was "a personal one, I have to think 'how many years will I have.'"

In finishing, Castor told board members "It's truly been wonderful."

The board in turn, paid tribute to the veteran school official.

Sundling stated that he has "worked a long time" with Castor and it's been a "personal friendship." Recently, "his desk was a clean as a whistle and it looked like he was ready for instant departure," Sundling joked.

JOSEPH KISZKA, administrative assistant, said Castor performed his job with "integrity and dedication."

I would be "very reluctant" to give my approval of the decision, board member Joel Meyer said.

Board member Leland "Bud" Gibbs said Castor made "my position far easier by his patience and understanding of my problems. They may have been routine to him," but he made a complex situation easier," Gibbs said.

Sundling said the board will have to "give some thought to a successor. There are any number of methods of choosing one that could be used," he said. The board has no idea if the new superintendent will be from in or out of the district. "We will try to make a decision reasonably soon," Sundling said.

Castor is a native of Lapel, Ind. He earned A.B. and M.A. degrees in education at Ball State Teachers College, Muncie, Ind. and did graduate work at the University of Chicago and Northwestern University.

HE WAS A PRINCIPAL of the Stuart R. Paddock School from 1955 through 1958, then became assistant district superintendent in 1959. Castor replaced Marion Jordan, who held the position from 1946 until his resignation, effective Dec., 1961.

The appointment was announced at the board meeting of April 12, 1961.

Haney Tells 'Y' of Apollo 10

by BOB ZANIC

Paul Haney, who was replaced Tuesday as the "Voice of Apollo," spoke about the past, present and future accomplishments of the nation's space program at the Countryside YMCA's first annual meeting at Barrington High School Wednesday evening.

Haney disclosed on Tuesday that he had been relieved of his job and the space agency announced that Brian Duff, 40, would succeed him. Duff is a former public relations man for the department of health, education and welfare.

Julian Scheer, NASA assistant administrator for public affairs, said that Haney was being transferred to Washington to

Admits Robbery Tale Was a Hoax

Wednesday's armed robbery in Rolling Meadows didn't really happen.

The alleged victim, Willie Scott of Chicago who told police a man using a gun had taken $364 from his wallet, confessed to Rolling Meadows police that the story was a hoax, according to Sgt. Vern Wendersee.

POLICE QUESTIONED his story of the robbery after checking his police record in Chicago and discovered he's wanted on a battery charge. Later, a total of $152 was found in the delivery truck Scott was driving.

The money belongs to his employer Joseph Lanzarotta who did not file a complaint against Scott and posted $50 bond for him on the Chicago battery charge.

Mrs. Placek Has A's

Mrs. Jerrine Placek of 3806 Jay Lane, Rolling Meadows, has been named to the dean's list at National College of Education in Evanston with a straight A average during the winter quarter.

MEMBERS OF THE Palatine Township Leisure Club enjoy a game of cards at recent meeting. The woman on the right looks like she has a winning hand, but her friend seems unhappy.

Life Is For the Elderly

by PETER WEISS

Most people think of a suburb as a residential area near a big city, full of people — most of them young — with pre-college children.

But a suburb also has its share of senior citizens and they find the majority of activities geared for the young married couples and children.

The Palatine Township Leisure Club does something to provide activities for the senior citizens, but Mrs. Lynn Rogers, director of the club, would like to see more done. Money is a severe handicap, with a budget at less than $1,000.

Mrs. Rogers said some towns, such as Wheeling, get budgets as high as $10,000.

"WE WOULD LIKE to have a piano, since many of our members like to sing," she told The Herald. She'd also like to see the addition of such activities as shuffleboard and horseshoes. A number of easy chairs would also be a help, she said.

The club, which meets every second and fourth Tuesday of the month at Community Park's Recreation Building in Palatine, has about 45 members.

Most of them are women. Mrs. Rogers said, adding, "if anyone knows any widowers or bachelors, send them over."

The members arrive for weekly meetings about 11:30 a.m. and bring sack lunches. The club provides coffee and sweet rolls.

After lunch, a short business meeting is held to plan various events. Following the meeting, the club has a social hour, usually consisting of cards, although many like to participate in arts and crafts. Card games include bridge or pinochle.

The members would like to play bingo, but it's outlawed by state law, Mrs. Rogers frowned.

AT THE MOST recent business meeting, the members discussed plans for a visit next month to the Holland, Mich. Tulip Festival, and a representative from a local travel agency was on hand to help with the arrangements.

The ladies will travel to Holland by bus and return the same day. Most of their trips are one-day journeys, Mrs. Rogers said.

Theater outings are a popular diversion and Mrs. Rogers was leafing through a circular advertising "Plaza Suite" playing in Chicago. They attended Mill Run Theater in Niles recently to see Dorothy Lamour in "Once More With Feeling."

Sometimes, three or four leisure clubs will get together and plan trips. For instance, about 80 members from several clubs went to Hawaii together. This is an excellent way for the members to make new friends.

THE CLUB MIGHT be handicapped by a small budget, but many travel agencies and entertainment facilities provide cut rates for the elderly.

The members pay $1 a year in dues, but this doesn't amount to much when bill-paying time arrives.

Most people are not aware of the problems of the elderly, Mrs. Rogers said. "The children don't know what to do with them," she said. She believes that "two families can't live in the same house."

WOMEN RUN A house differently and a mother's method might be completely different from the daughter's. This would lead to conflict, she said.

"THE CHILDREN FEEL obligated, but they also have an obligation to the immediate family."

What will frequently happen, is that "grandmother winds up as a built-in baby sitter when she should be out having a life of her own."

After raising a family, the elderly man or woman "shouldn't be saddled with another family," Mrs. Rogers said.

She does not regard the leisure club members as "old." "I don't consider them old until they reach 80," she said.

PAUL HANEY, who was replaced this week as the "Voice of Apollo," was guest speaker at the Countryside YMCA's first annual meeting at Barrington High School.

Pleasure In Cards

Members of the Palatine Township Leisure Club enjoy card games, a favorite diversion of the group, during a recent session at the Park District's Community Building.

The women usually play bridge or pinochle. They would like to play bingo, but state law forbids it, said Mrs. Lynn Rogers, director of the club.

The lady below looks like she has a winning hand, judging from the big smile on her face, but even if they didn't win, the girls enjoyed the game and social visits with friends.

THE CLUB MEETS every second and fourth Tuesday of the month. Perhaps the biggest problem the club faces is a lack of funds, which handicaps the activities they can enjoy.

The Palatine Park District provides special rates for those who wish to play golf, but most of the women pass this up, for some reason.

The leisure club has an official constitution and is registered with the State of Illinois. As a nonprofit corporation, the club pays no taxes, Mrs. Rogers pointed out.

If the club does have one problem, it's the predominance of women over men.

Dad, Son Conduct

Palatine Village Band concerts, renowned for providing family entertainment will turn the tables at Sunday's performance when both father and son take turns as conductor.

The regular conductor of the band, Dr. John Shoemaker, will give the baton to his father, Clarence, for two numbers. The elder Shoemaker was conductor of the Downers Grove High School Band for 34 years. In 1964, he was selected to conduct the All-State High School Band at the annual meeting of the Illinois Music Educators Conference.

He's currently on the staff of the North Central College as band director and instructor of woodwind instruments.

HIS SON, JOHN, joined the Palatine Village Band in March. In town, he's well-known for his job as chairman of Palatine High School's music department until 1965.

A musician as well, he has performed on trombone and baritone as a member of Ralph Flannigan's dance band, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and the North Shore Concert Band of Wilmette.

In addition to featuring the father-son conductors, Sunday's concert includes a guest soloist, Ronald J. Grundberg, on the euphonium.

He's credited with more than 800 solo performances and currently is principal euphonium in the North Shore Concert Band of Wilmette.

Grundberg will play "La Mandolinata" by Beethoven arranged by E. Leidzen.

Sunday's concert includes selections varying from Bach to Lerner and Lowe. The program will open with a march, "Vaquero," by Sammy Nestico.

OTHER SELECTIONS include "Classic

Overture" by Gasse, "Jazz Waltz" by Richard Maltby, "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna Overture," by F. von Suppe and "Marcha 3 de Bebrero" by Simon Roncal. The last two selections will be conducted by Clarence Shoemaker.

The program will end with "My Fair Lady" from Lerner and Lowe's hit musical and "Symphonic Scenerio for Concert Band" arranged by J. Cacavas.

The concert begins at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of Hersey High School in Arlington Heights. Admission is free.

R. Chierico Will Attend Meetings

Richard Chierico, defeated in a bid for election to the High School Dist. 211 board of education told The Herald this week that he will continue to attend board meetings "because I want changes" in the handling of school policy.

Chierico was highly critical of board operations over the past several years. "I am placing myself on the agenda and will decide on things I would like to discuss," he said.

He said the board is "still not addressing itself to the issues."

The former Dist. 211 teacher, now a member of the Elk Grove High School faculty, was emphatic when asked if he will have other people attend the meeting. "I've already spoken to people about having them attend," he replied. "I want them to see for themselves."

ALTHOUGH disappointed in losing, he was "pleased at getting 1,100 votes."

In regard to new president Lyle Johnson, Chierico said he "has the potential to be a good board president." He won't be as "dictatorial as (Donald) Truitt or as one-sided as (James) Humphrey," Chierico said, comparing Johnson with two former presidents.

Missouri Dean's List

Two Rolling Meadows residents have been named to the dean's list for the fall semester at the University of Missouri's college of education.

They are Reed A. Hawkes of 3302 Fremont St. and Thomas A. Lundgren of 3101 St. James St.

Addict Is To the Point

by JERRY DeZONNA

His answers are short and to the point. Aimed at the center of the bull's-eye and landing right on target with the impact of a perfect shot. His answers are straight.

He pulls no punches, no tricks and no gimmicks. He doesn't need to rely on them. He's a former drug addict of 17 years, and his information on drug abuse is first-hand.

Peter Stavredes, associated with the National Council for the Prevention of Drug Abuse (NCPDA), is part of the team speaking to Prospect High School students this week.

He doesn't capitalize on scare tactics to get the attention of his audience. "I just present the facts, clear and simple," said Stavredes. "I know what it's like to be a drug addict. I've been the route, and nobody can explain the situation better than a former addict."

STAVREDES HAS spoken to thousands of students about drug abuse, the problem in the communities, and his own personal experience as an addict.

The NCPDA has conducted programs at several Dist. 214 schools this year, as well as at other high schools in the Northwest suburban area and Chicago.

"One of the worst drug problems that I've ever seen," said Stavredes, "exists at Downers Grove and Evanston schools. 90 per cent of the students in those communities who have experimented with drugs are using them now."

"After having lived with drug addicts and pushers for 17 years, I can spot one with no trouble."

Stavredes explained that the ability to recognize a drug addict comes from having been one himself. "It's a sixth sense that I developed when I was hooked myself, in case I ever needed a fix in a strange town where I had no connections. I can tell by a glance usually if students are messing around with drugs."

"THEY'VE GOT A certain look in their eyes, and guilt is written all over their faces. Students have tested me to see if I could pick out one of their friends who they knew were using drugs. I do, and they're amazed."

Having spoken to students at Arlington, Hersey, Wheeling and Prospect high schools, he has assessed the problems at each of these schools.

"Wheeling and Hersey have a worse problem than Arlington and Prospect," he said. About 35 per cent of the students at Hersey and Wheeling are messing around with drugs, and at the other schools, about 15 to 20 per cent.

"But they have different problems," explained Stavredes. "The students at Prospect and Arlington who are smoking marijuana or shooting speed and LSD are upperclassmen. The kids at Hersey and Wheeling are underclassmen."

THE STUDENTS WHO have confessed to him that they are using drugs explain that they have problems with their parents who don't understand the "hip" generation. Some of them try marijuana and LSD because they're looking for "kicks" or an experience with intrigue.

"These high school students are messing around with marijuana and LSD because they know that these drugs aren't physically addicting, so they're not afraid. But what they don't realize is that they are psychologically addictive, which is much worse."

"There were times when my physical addiction to heroin was medically cured, but I went back to drugs because I had a psychological addiction. I mentally needed to depend upon heroin; it wasn't physical," he explained.

He speaks the drug lingo and the student jargon. Young people can identify with him and they listen when he speaks. "He can reach these kids on their own level, which is so important," said Dick Yost, police counselor at Prospect High. "They don't label him as stuff-shirt and tag him as part of the establishment."

Stavredes tells his audience just what it's like to live in the gutter and how low life can really be for a drug addict. He tells them about the mail robberies and thefts he committed to make money to support his habit. He tells them about life in prisons and medical clinics.

HE TELLS THEM about his common-law marriage to a drug addict and about his two children who were born drug addicts. He tells them that his wife would prostitute herself in order to buy heroin.

It's a sad story, but it's the truth. "I find it emotionally hard to speak to students about my personal life, but this is the only way to tell them the truth, to make them realize that this could happen to them," said Stavredes.

He said that the best way to combat the drug abuse problem is through education. "But someone who's been an addict is really the only one who can talk turkey with these kids. The school administrations have waited too long in bringing programs of this type to the schools."

"So many kids are involved now, and we're playing catchup ball. If only we could have started educating these kids a few years earlier," he said.

"The life of a drug addict is hell," said Stavredes. "and this is what I want them to realize. If I can help just one kid a day and discourage them from using drugs, it's the only gratification I want for doing this job. But you never know how much you've really helped someone. You just hope."

New Clerk Is Approved

Rolling Meadows City Council ratified the mayor's appointment of Mrs. Elizabeth Houldsworth as city clerk Tuesday night.

She has been serving as deputy city clerk for the past three years and now will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Gertrude Darnall, who left office in January.

Mrs. Houldsworth will serve until April of 1971 when the clerk's term expires.

The city council had the choice of appointing someone to the position or calling a special election to fill the vacancy.

SINCE WE ARE in the process of assessing the need for a full-time clerk in the city, we have agreed to appoint Mrs.

Houldsworth to the job on a part-time basis," Mayor Roland Meyer explained.

In addition to the clerk's job, she's employed as a full-time secretary on the city's administrative staff.

She will receive no salary as city clerk since a city employee cannot draw two salaries.

A committee of aldermen has been appointed by the mayor to study the requirements of the clerk's office in the city at the present time.

Based on its recommendations, the city council will decide the status of the clerk's job before the time comes to elect someone to the position in 1971.

We're Fifth in Home Building

Palatine is fifth in the number of new home permits issued during the first three months of 1969 in the Chicago area, Bell Savings and Loan Association reported this week.

The village issued permits for 96 homes with an estimated value of $2,434,985 in the three-month period.

Two other Northwest suburban communities lead the list — Arlington Heights with 196 and Buffalo Grove with 116. Downers Grove, in the western suburbs, issued 102 and Woodridge issued 99.

PALATINE'S SOUTHERN neighbor, Schaumburg, also is in the top 10 in the area with 84 permits, but is lower than it usually is. The home permit battle usually is between Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove and Schaumburg.

According to the Bell survey, the average cost of the 96 new Palatine homes is $25,364. Highest average cost in the area is shown by Lake Forest, where permits for 28 homes with an average cost of $69,000 were issued.

For the month of March, Palatine reported estimated valuation of new building at $1,488,000. That figure compares with last year's March record of $340,079 and this February's $2,410,390.

Homebuilding for March only included 25 permits with a valuation of $645,715. Last year, March had 13 permits with a valuation of $324,325.

$1,272,761 Budget OK'd

Premier Karami Quits

BEIRUT—Premier Pashid Karami resigned last night at the height of a national crisis in which fighting between security forces and demonstrators urging support for Arab commandos killed 17 persons and injured 116.

Karami announced his resignation during parliamentary debate and is expected to submit it in writing to President Charles Helou.

Head Start Funds

WASHINGTON—All or part of the funds supporting Head Start programs may be switched to full-year programs, Health Education and Welfare Department Secretary Robert H. Finch said yesterday.

He said law would allow the change of emphasis from summer to full-year programs "in order not to delay this important conversion for another 12 months."

Promises Tax Bill

WASHINGTON—Passage of a sweeping tax reform bill which would go further than Presidents Nixon's proposed was promised by August House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills said this bill would include adjustments in the oil depletion allowance in addition to Nixon's proposals.

Mills' committee will begin Tuesday to write the reform bill. Passage of any tax legislation is virtually doomed without Mills' support.

Prices To Soar

WASHINGTON—The rising consumer price index will continue to soar for at least another three or four months, according to Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, even if inflation is halted.

Chase yesterday responded to questions about last month's eight-tenths of 1 percent jump in the index, the largest increase in 18 years.

Without Tax Plan...

CHICAGO—Cutting school aid and the welfare budget, as well as the budget requests of state departments and agencies, is the alternative to new taxes, Gov. Richard Ogilvie told the Chicago Bar Association yesterday.

But, Ogilvie added, he has no intention of backing down from his state income tax proposal and other revenue proposals in favor of such budget cuts.

Order Track Checks

CHICAGO—All 25 railroads in Illinois will begin inspection of 13,000 miles of main line track and another 13,000 miles of secondary track will receive a "summary inspection," the Illinois Commerce Commission ordered yesterday.

ICC chairman David Armstrong said the inspection was prompted by recent derailments believed to have been caused by poor maintenance. Illinois averages 150 derailments a year, he said.

New Jersey Returning

WASHINGTON—The battleship New Jersey, the only totally activated battleship in the U.S. Navy, may not join the 29 ship task force in the Sea of Japan. The Defense Department said last night the ship may return to San Diego.

The vessel was on its way to San Diego last week after a tour in Vietnam when it was sent toward Japan after North Korean jets shot down a United States reconnaissance plane.

Salary for a part-time sanitarian boosted next year's budget in Rolling Meadows by $5,000 before it was officially adopted by the city council Tuesday night.

It will cost a total of $1,272,761 to keep city operations running smoothly during the 1969-70 fiscal year. Two weeks ago, the council had pared the figure down to $1,266,767, but then decided to leave the door open for hiring a sanitarian.

A motion to add $10,000 for an employee who would serve both as a sanitarian and building inspector was defeated by the council. John Schultz, city health officer, explained, "The busy months for a sanitarian are the same as a building inspector's."

A COUNCIL COMMITTEE will review jobs that could be handled by a part-time sanitarian and make its recommendations to the council within the next few weeks.

Although city spending is about $100,000 higher this year, indications are the tax rate could decrease, according to Mayor Roland Meyer.

A decrease would be primarily due to escalating revenue from sales tax and building permits and an anticipated increase in assessed valuation.

Last year, the city's total levy came to about $140,000. Meyer is confident the levy can be reduced by $50,000 to $70,000 for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

Other city funds will be provided by fees and sales tax. A projected $53 million assessed valuation also adds to increasing city revenue.

As revenue for next year increases, one of last year's large expenses, remodeling of the city hall, is omitted from the 1969-70 budget. Eliminating this item allows for increased expenditures in other funds.

ONE OF THE major groups to benefit is the civil defense unit, which will receive $31,140, compared with $1,065 last year.

Included in the civil defense budget is $17,900 for a storm warning system that involves four large sirens hooked into one major control unit.

The police department's budget for the next year has risen to more than $319,000, an increase of almost $90,000. Micro-filming of police records and adding more officers to the force account for a large part of the increase.

The new budget also reflects salary increases which average about a 11 per cent raise for city employees.

Provision for hiring a new youth officer at a salary of $14,000 is included in the budget too. Final decision about the proposed position will be made after study by a committee.

Castor To Retire

School Dist. 15 will begin the search for a new superintendent following the official notice of resignation of E. S. "Pat" Castor at the board meeting Wednesday night.

Castor's resignation will be effective after the 1969-70 school year. He would reach the mandatory retirement age of 65 in 1971, but decided to advance his retirement "a year ahead of time," to "give the board adequate time" to find a successor.

In calling Dist. 15 "the finest district" he was associated with in his career, Castor cited the board's "close cooperation and support" since assuming the position in 1961.

"I WILL ALWAYS be interested in the district, I hope to see many good things happen," Castor stated. But he told them, "I made my contribution, it's time for someone else to take over. The time has come for me to retire."

"Since 1961, I worked hard to justify the confidence in me," Castor thanked the district "community and staff" for their cooperation. "The climate has been good," he noted.

Castor said the district rule to retire at 65 is one "I heartily approve." The decision was "a personal one, I have to think 'how many years will I have.'"

In finishing, Castor told board members "It's truly been wonderful."

The board in turn, paid tribute to the veteran school official.

Sundling stated that he has "worked a long time" with Castor and it's been a "personal friendship." Recently, "his desk was a clean as a whistle and it looked like he was ready for instant departure," Sundling joked.

JOSEPH KISZKA, administrative assistant, said Castor performed his job with "integrity and dedication."

I would be "very reluctant" to give my approval of the decision, board member Joel Meyer said.

Board member Leland "Bud" Gibbs said Castor made "my position far easier by his patience and understanding of my problems. They may have been 'routine' to him, but he made a complex situation easier," Gibbs said.

Sundling said the board will have to "give some thought to a successor. There are many methods of choosing one that could be used," he said. The board has no idea if the new superintendent will be from in or out of the district. "We will try to make a decision reasonably soon," Sundling said.

Castor is a native of Lapel, Ind. He earned A.B. and M.A. degrees in education at Ball State Teachers College, Muncie, Ind. and did graduate work at the University of Chicago and Northwestern University.

HE WAS A PRINCIPAL of the Stuart R. Paddock School from 1955 through 1958, then became assistant district superintendent in 1959. Castor replaced Marion Jordan, who held the position from 1946 until his resignation, effective Dec. 1, 1961.

The appointment was announced at the board meeting of April 12, 1961. Before joining Dist. 15, Castor was a high school principal in New Castle, Ind., superintendent of schools at Redkey and Rochester, Ind., over a period of 11 years. In addition, he taught at the elementary and secondary levels for eight years.

First Game of Boys Baseball To Be May 4

May 4 as the opening day of Rolling Meadows Boys Baseball Association.

The first game of the year will follow opening ceremonies at the south diamond, near the park district office on Central Road. Ceremonies begin at 1:30 p.m.

THE ASSOCIATION'S regular monthly meetings are held on the first Monday of each month in the Bank of Rolling Meadows.

Meetings, which begin at 8 p.m., are open to members and friends of the association. Refreshments are served and a social hour follows the business meeting. The next meeting is May 5.

Haney Tells 'Y' of Apollo 10 Flight

by BOB ZANIC

Paul Haney, who was replaced Tuesday as the "Voice of Apollo," spoke about the past, present and future accomplishments of the nation's space program at the Countryside YMCA's first annual meeting at Barrington High School Wednesday evening.

Haney disclosed on Tuesday that he had been relieved of his job and the space agency announced that Brian Duff, 40, would succeed him. Duff is a former public relations man for the department of health, education and welfare.

Julian Schee, NASA assistant administrator for public affairs said that Haney was being transferred to Washington to take charge of coordination of public affairs programs that are being developed.

HANEY TOLD THE audience there were fewer than a dozen men seated around a dinner table in 1955 when he responsible for getting the nation's space program started. He made this observation to point out that there was every reason to believe that the new YMCA's objectives would also become a reality.

Haney said the upcoming Apollo 10 mission would be a "flying type" program and that the lunar landing, dramatic as it is, would be secondary in importance. He said that the flight would be similar to Apollo 8 at Christmas.

"The public will see more of what is going on in Apollo 10 than in any past flight and TV color pictures will be sent."

He said the three crew members were very interested in TV as a communications tool.

"IT WILL TAKE THREE days to get to the moon and then the men will spend three days travelling around the moon," Haney said. "On the first day they will check out the LEM, the lunar module. The second day will be the real flying day.

WRECKERS MADE fast work of the old service station on west Kirchoff Road in Rolling Meadows this week. The building was leveled to make way for a drive-in restaurant.

The property is west of the Meadows Theater on the south side of Kirchoff.

'Index Pay' for Teachers

District 211's school board was expected to ratify a new salary policy for teachers for the 1969-70 school year last night. If approved, the plan would provide a minimum raise of $700.

A teacher with a bachelor's degree who has no prior teaching experience will receive a salary of $7,300, under the new plan.

Of primary significance in this year's salary agreement is the omission of merit raises, which long has been the basis of salary increases in Dist. 211, one of the last high school districts in the area to use the system.

For the past several years, the Teachers' Association has requested abolishing merit raises, but could not sway the school board to agree until this year.

In the new plan, an automatic index scale has been established based on teachers' level of education and experience.

A YEAR OF EXPERIENCE is valued at 5 per cent of the base salary or $365. Movement from one level of education to another is valued at 10 per cent of $730.

The three levels of education accepted in the plan are a bachelor's master's, and master's plus 30 hours of graduate work.

If a teacher has not received a master's degree by the end of his eighth year in the system, he is automatically stopped on the index. The same would apply to a teacher whose performance in the classroom is not satisfactory during the preceding year.

Such teachers remain "frozen" until the conditions for movement on the index are met.

A teacher beginning his career next year can look forward to a potential yearly income of $15,350, but only after he has met an education requirement of 30 hours beyond the master's degree. He would also have to perform satisfactorily in the classroom for 18 years.

THE BOARD OF Education and Teachers Association approved the index. They called it "a major gain in the district's struggle to attract and retain a high caliber of teachers particularly in this area where most other high school districts have similar plans."

School officials described the index as desirable for two reasons.

A teacher's salary is based on the beginning teacher salary, so that the relationship between the lower and upper salary ranges always remains the same.

A career is established in classroom teaching, providing the teacher with the opportunity to advance through experience and education, without having to leave the classroom or even teaching to reach the average level of income in the community.

IN DETERMINING the step at which to place a teacher on the index, teachers employed on Sept. 1, who had not received an M.A., had experience of 10 or more years in the district and 15 or more hours beyond a B.A. should be allowed to progress two additional steps beyond the seventh; one eighth step of 1.34 and a ninth step of 1.37. No other teacher may progress beyond the seventh year of experience without a master's degree.

The maximum raise would be set at $2,000, except that a teacher who obtains an M.A. degree or qualifies for the M.A. plus 30 track between Sept. 1, 1968 and Sept. 1, 1969, shall receive a raise no greater than $2,730.

A teacher whose raise is calculated at less than $700, shall be placed at the next higher step, so no teacher's raise is less than the original raise of $700. Those teachers would remain at that step until they qualify for a higher step.

Stamp Club To Exhibit on Saturday

The Junior Stamp Collectors of Rolling Meadows are staging their 9th annual exhibition Saturday, in the community room of the Bank of Rolling Meadows, Kirchoff Road and Meadow Drive, from 3 to 7 p.m. Admission is free.

The club is comprised of boys and girls, ranging in age from 9 through 16. These young people have been working on their exhibits for the past year and will display such topics as stamps, statehoods and territories, hierarchy of the Catholic church, cathedrals and churches,

United States presidents, and historical buildings.

A trophy will be awarded for the best of show, plus other prizes.

JUDGES WILL BE S.B. Henson, Arlington Heights, (former park commissioner of Rolling Meadows); Donald Hartung, Arlington Heights (former president of the Rolling Meadows library board); and Rusty Fields Jr., Rolling Meadows (a former member and president of the club).

The club officers are Harry Poulos, president, Rick Hutchison, vice-president and treasurer; Gail Kuthe, secretary; Greg Kuthe and Brian Gardner, sergeants-at-arms.

Meetings are held in the educational building of the Community Church, Meadows Drive and Kirchoff Road, from 3:30 to 5:15 p.m. Membership is open to all young people.

For further information, call either Harry Poulos, 256-8535; Gail Kuthe, 392-3005; or Mrs. Joseph Reece, organizer and sponsor, CL-9-3712.

Pleasure In Cards

Members of the Palatine Township Leisure Club enjoy card games, a favorite diversion of the group, during a recent session at the Park District's Community Building.

The women usually play bridge or pinochle. They would like to play bingo, but state law forbids it, said Mrs. Lynn Rogers, director of the club.

The lady below looks like she has a winning hand.

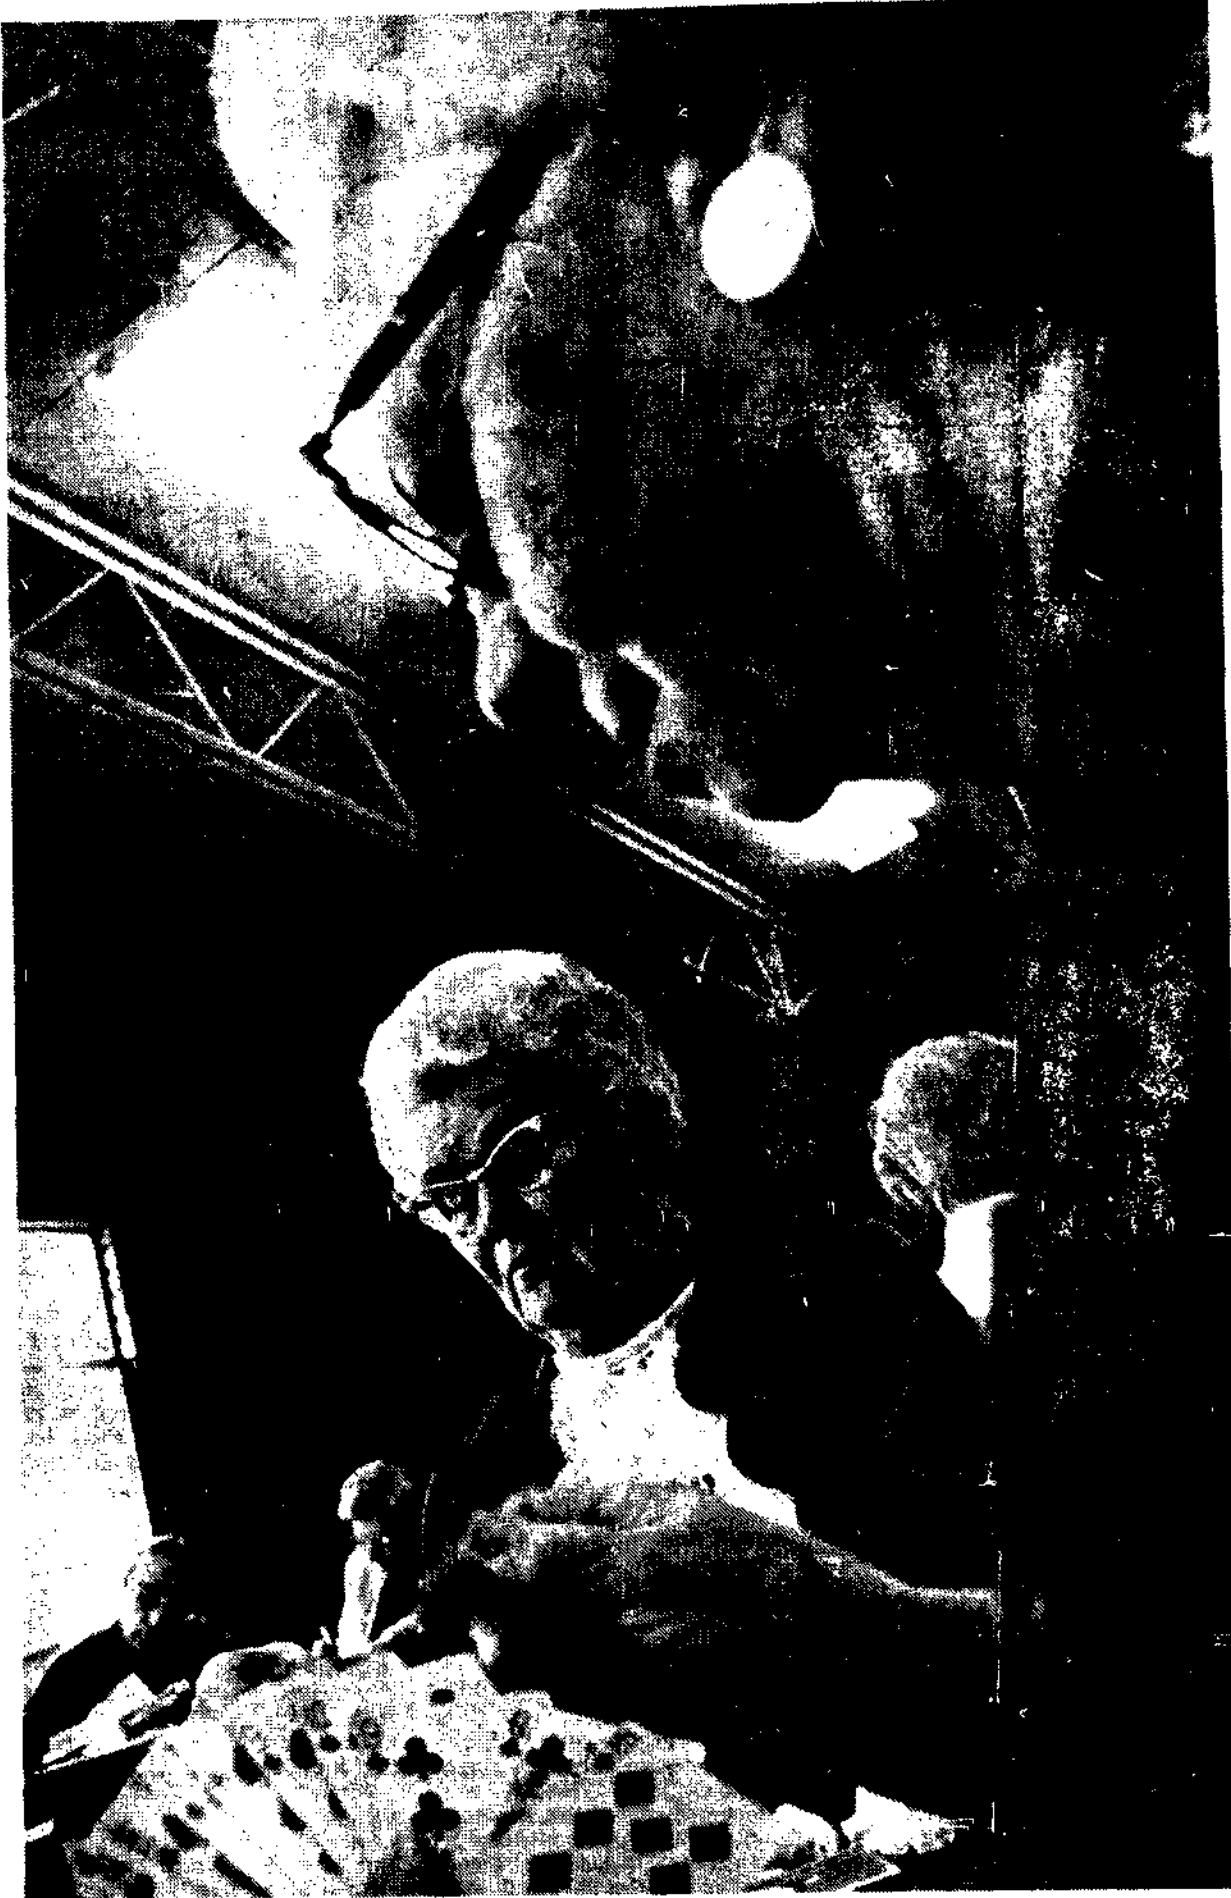

judging from the big smile on her face, but even if they didn't win, the girls enjoyed the game and social visits with friends.

THE CLUB MEETS every second and fourth Tuesday of the month. Perhaps the biggest problem the club faces is a lack of funds, which handicaps the activities they can enjoy.

The Palatine Park District provides special rates for those who wish to play golf, but most of the women pass this up, for some reason.

The leisure club has an official constitution and is registered with the State of Illinois. As a nonprofit corporation, the club pays no taxes, Mrs. Rogers pointed out.

If the club does have one problem, it's the predominance of women over men.

Dad, Son Conduct

Palatine Village Band concerts, renowned for providing family entertainment, will turn the tables at Sunday's performance when both father and son take turns as conductor.

The regular conductor of the band, Dr. John Shoemaker, will give the baton to his father, Clarence, for two numbers. The elder Shoemaker was conductor of the Downers Grove High School Band for 34 years. In 1964, he was selected to conduct the All-State High School Band at the annual meeting of the Illinois Music Educators Conference.

He's currently on the staff of the North Central College as band director and instructor of woodwind instruments.

HIS SON, JOHN, joined the Palatine Village Band in March. In town, he's well-known for his job as chairman of Palatine High School's music department until 1965.

A musician as well, he has performed on trombone and baritone as a member of Ralph Flannigan's dance band, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and the North Shore Concert Band of Wilmette.

In addition to featuring the father-son conductors, Sunday's concert includes a guest soloist, Ronald J. Grundberg, on the euphonium.

He's credited with more than 800 solo performances and currently is principal euphonium in the North Shore Concert Band of Wilmette.

Grundberg will play "La Mandolinata" by Bellstedt arranged by E. Leiden.

Sunday's concert includes selections varying from Bach to Lerner and Lowe. The program will open with a march, "Vaquero," by Sammy Nestico.

OTHER SELECTIONS include "Classic

Overture" by Gasser, "Jazz Waltz" by Richard Maltby, "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna Overture," by F. von Suppe and "Marcha 3 de Bebrero" by Simon Roncal. The last two selections will be conducted by Clarence Shoemaker.

The program will end with "My Fair Lady" from Lerner and Lowe's hit musical and "Symphonic Scenerio for Concert Band" arranged by J. Cacavas.

The concert begins at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of Hersey High School in Arlington Heights. Admission is free.

R. Chierico Will Attend Meetings

Richard Chierico, defeated in a bid for election to the High School Dist. 211 board of education told The Herald this week that he will continue to attend board meetings "because I want changes" in the handling of school policy.

Chierico was highly critical of board operations over the past several years. "I am placing myself on the agenda and will decide on things I would like to discuss," he said.

He said the board is "still not addressing itself to the issues."

The former Dist. 211 teacher, now a member of the Elk Grove High School faculty, was emphatic when asked if he will have other people attend the meeting. "I've already spoken to people about having them attend," he replied. "I want them to see for themselves."

ALTHOUGH disappointed in losing, he was "pleased at getting 1,100 votes."

In regard to new president Lyle Johnson, Chierico said he "has the potential to be a good board president." He won't be as "dictatorial as (Donald) Truitt or as one-sided as (James) Humphrey," Chierico said, comparing Johnson with two former presidents.

We're Fifth in Home Building

Palatine is fifth in the number of new home permits issued during the first three months of 1969 in the Chicago area, Bell Savings and Loan Association reported this week.

The village issued permits for 86 homes with an estimated value of $2,434,985 in the three-month period.

Two other Northwest suburban communities lead the list — Arlington Heights with 188 and Buffalo Grove with 116. Downers Grove, in the western suburbs, issued 102 and Woodridge issued 99.

PALATINE'S SOUTHERN neighbor, Schaumburg, also is in the top 10 in the area with 84 permits, but is lower than it usually is. The home permit battle usually

Addict Is To the Point

by JERRY DEZONNA

His answers are short and to the point. Aimed at the center of the bull's-eye and landing right on target with the impact of a perfect shot. His answers are straight.

He pulls no punches, no tricks and no gimmicks. He doesn't need to rely on them. He's a former drug addict of 17 years, and his information on drug abuse is first-hand.

Peter Stavredes, associated with the National Council for the Prevention of Drug Abuse (NCPDA), is part of the team speaking to Prospect High School students this week.

He doesn't capitalize on scare tactics to get the attention of his audience. "I just present the facts, clear and simple," said Stavredes. "I know what it's like to be a drug addict. I've been the route, and nobody can explain the situation better than a former addict."

STAVREDES HAS spoken to thousands of students about drug abuse, the problem in the communities, and his own personal experience as an addict.

The NCPDA has conducted programs at several Dist. 214 schools this year, as well as at other high schools in the Northwest suburban area and Chicago.

"One of the worst drug problems that I've ever seen," said Stavredes, "exists at Downers Grove and Evanston schools. per cent of the students in those communities who have experimented with drugs and are using them now."

"After having lived with drug addicts and pushers for 17 years, I can spot one with no trouble."

Stavredes explained that the ability to recognize a drug addict comes from having been one himself. "It's a sixth sense that I developed when I was hooked myself, in case I ever needed a fix in a strange town where I had no connections. I can tell by a glance usually if students are messing around with drugs."

"THEY'VE GOT A certain look in their eyes, and guilt is written all over their faces. Students have tested me to see if I could pick out one of their friends who they knew were using drugs. I do, and they're amazed."

Having spoken to students at Arlington, Hersey, Wheeling and Prospect high schools, he has assessed the problems at each of these schools.

"Wheeling and Hersey have a worse problem than Arlington and Prospect," he said. About 35 per cent of the students at Hersey and Wheeling are messing around with drugs, and at the other schools, about 15 to 20 per cent.

"But they have different problems," explained Stavredes. "The students at Prospect and Arlington who are smoking marijuana or shooting speed and LSD are upperclassmen. The kids at Hersey and Wheeling are underclassmen."

THE STUDENTS WHO have confessed to him that they are using drugs explain that they have problems with their parents who don't understand the "hip" generation. Some of them try marijuana and LSD because they're looking for "kicks" or an experience with intrigue.

"These high school students are messing around with marijuana and LSD because they know that these drugs aren't physically addicting, so they're not afraid. But what they don't realize is that they are psychologically addictive, which is much worse."

"There were times when my physical addiction to heroin was medically cured, but I went back to drugs because I had a psychological addiction. I mentally needed to depend upon heroin; it wasn't physical," he explained.

He speaks the drug lingo and the student jargon. Young people can identify with him and they listen when he speaks. "He can reach these kids on their own level, which is so important," said Dick Yost, police counselor at Prospect High. "They don't label him as stuff-shirt and tag him as part of the establishment."

Stavredes tells his audience just what it's like to live in the gutter and how low life can really be for a drug addict. He tells them about the mail robberies and thefts he committed to make money to support his habit. He tells them about life in prisons and medical clinics.

HE TELLS THEM about his common-law marriage to a drug addict and about his two children who were born drug addicts. He tells them that his wife would prostitute herself in order to buy heroin.

It's a sad story, but it's the truth. "I find it emotionally hard to speak to students about my personal life, but this is the only way to tell them the truth, to make them realize that this could happen to them," said Stavredes.

He said that the best way to combat the drug abuse problem is through education. "But someone who's been an addict is really the only one who can talk turkey with these kids. The school administrations have waited too long in bringing programs of this type to the schools."

"So many kids are involved now, and we're playing catchup ball. If only we could have started educating these kids a few years earlier," he said.

"The life of a drug addict is hell," said Stavredes, "and this is what I want them to realize. If I can help just one kid a day and discourage them from using drugs, it's the only gratification I want for doing this job. But you never know how much you've really helped someone. You just hope."

New Clerk Is Approved

Rolling Meadows City Council ratified the mayor's appointment of Mrs. Elizabeth Houldsworth as city clerk Tuesday night.

She has been serving as deputy city clerk for the past three years and now will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Gertrude Darnall, who left office in January.

Mrs. Houldsworth will serve until April of 1971 when the clerk's term expires.

The city council had the choice of appointing someone to the position or calling a special election to fill the vacancy.

SINCE WE ARE IN the process of assessing the need for a full-time clerk in the city, we have agreed to appoint Mrs.

Houldsworth to the job on a part-time basis," Mayor Roland Meyer explained.

In addition to the clerk's job, she's employed as a full-time secretary on the city's administrative staff.

She will receive no salary as city clerk since a city employee cannot draw two salaries.

A committee of aldermen has been appointed by the mayor to study the requirements of the clerk's office in the city at the present time.

Based on its recommendations, the city council will decide the status of the clerk's job before the time comes to elect someone to the position in 1971.

Premier Karami Quits

BEIRUT—Premier Pashid Karami resigned last night at the height of a national crisis in which fighting between security forces and demonstrators urging support for Arab commandos killed 17 persons and injured 116.

Karami announced his resignation during parliamentary debate and is expected to submit it in writing to President Charles Helou.

Head Start Funds

WASHINGTON—All or part of the funds supporting Head Start programs may be switched to full-year programs, Health Education and Welfare Department secretary Robert H. Finch said yesterday.

He said leeway would allow the change of emphasis from summer to full-year programs "in order not to delay this important conversion for another 12 months."

Promises Tax Bill

WASHINGTON—Passage of a sweeping tax reform bill which would go further than Presidents Nixon's proposed was promised by August House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills said this bill would include adjustments in the oil depletion allowance in addition to Nixon's proposals.

Mills' committee will begin Tuesday to write the reform bill. Passage of any tax legislation is virtually doomed without Mills' support.

Prices To Soar

WASHINGTON—The rising consumer price index will continue to soar for at least another three or four months, according to Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, even if inflation is halted.

Chase yesterday responded to questions about last month's eight-tenths of 1 per cent jump in the index, the largest increase in 18 years.

Without Tax Plan...

CHICAGO—Cutting school aid and the welfare budget, as well as the budget requests of state departments and agencies, is the alternative to new taxes, Gov. Richard Ogilvie told the Chicago Bar Association yesterday.

But, Ogilvie added, he has no intention of backing down from his state income tax proposal and other revenue proposals in favor of such budget cuts.

Order Track Checks

CHICAGO—All 25 railroads in Illinois will begin inspection of 13,000 miles of main line track and another 13,000 miles of secondary track will receive a "summary inspection," the Illinois Commerce Commission ordered yesterday.

ICC chairman David Armstrong said the inspection was prompted by recent derailments believed to have been caused by poor maintenance. Illinois averages 150 derailments a year, he said.

New Jersey Returning

WASHINGTON—The battleship New Jersey, the only totally activated battleship in the U.S. Navy, may not join the ship task force in the Sea of Japan. The Defense Department said last night the ship may return to San Diego.

The vessel was on its way to San Diego last week after a tour in Vietnam when it was sent toward Japan after North Korean jets shot down a United States reconnaissance plane.

Car Parts Plan

WASHINGTON—Your new car may cost more but parts for it may cost less if MIT economist professor Robert W. Crandall has his way. He engaged yesterday bargaining auto manufacturers from selling parts.

Crandall said manufacturers make more money selling parts than cars and said his proposal could standardize parts for a variety of car models.

‘Acting’ Post Is Open

by JAMES VESELY

Although nobody is willing to admit it, it looks as if Mount Prospect Village Atty. John Zimmerman will be the acting village manager.

A poll of incoming and outgoing village trustees conducted by the Herald disclosed that Zimmerman appears to be the No. 1 choice for the job vacated by Robert Moore.

The trustees were wary of speaking directly on the subject, but most of those contacted said Zimmerman is the logical choice because of his position as the full-time attorney for the village.

IN EACH CASE, the trustees said they understand that Moore's replacement will hold the post temporarily until the trustees and new village Pres. Robert Teichert can agree on a manager.

One village official said the temporary assignment could last as long as six months, depending on the wishes of the trustees and Teichert.

Outgoing village Trustee Joseph Grittani said it would not be "appropriate for me as a trustee whose term expires May 1 to comment on individuals . . . but I will say this: the trustees should form a committee immediately to search for a village manager."

Grittani also said the subject of an acting village manager does not necessarily carry over-riding importance for the board.

"WE HAVE competent department heads," he said, "the village business would carry on a while without an acting village manager."

One man not now in village government mentioned as a possibility for the temporary post is Ben Hemmeter, 112 School Street.

Hemmeter, an engineer, was Mount Prospect's manager for a short time several years ago and is now being mentioned as a possibility for the job.

Speculation over a temporary manager from outside the ranks of the village officials seems doomed, however, by a provision of a Mount Prospect ordinance which calls for an acting manager to be an employee of the village. This is normally construed to mean village department heads, of which there are seven.

The village's acting manager could be Police Chief Nowell Esmond, Fire Chief Ed Haberkamp, Director of Public Works Dave Creamer, Financial Director Dick Jess, Village Engineer William McManoman, Building Inspector Peter Retten and Zimmerman.

OF THE seven department heads, only Zimmerman and Jess are apparently being considered.

Jess, as a village employee deeply involved in finances, is considered a likely possibility. But one village spokesman said, "Taking Jess out of the dealings of the finance committee and budget hearings would be a bad mistake right now."

So, Zimmerman may walk out of next Thursday's special board meeting as a village manager. Nothing is certain, of course, especially in Mount Prospect this year.

Incoming trustee Daniel J. Ahern spoke for many others when he said, "I simply don't know who is going to be the acting manager. I guess we'll just have to meet on May 1 and kick it around."

4-Year-Old Runs Into Car

Four-year-old Thomas Kost, of 1101 Cottonwood, Mount Prospect, suffered minor injuries Wednesday when he ran into a slow-moving car in an alley behind his house.

HE WAS TAKEN to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines and later released.

The boy, according to police, darted out from behind a row of parked cars and hit the side of a car driven by Pamela Hanke, 2835 Eisenhower Dr., Des Plaines, who was going about 10 miles an hour at time of impact. No charges were filed against the driver of the car.

Lawsuit In Court

A suit filed against Mount Prospect by the Pioneer Trust and Savings Bank on behalf of local builder Salvatore DiMucci was continued in Circuit Court yesterday by Judge Edward J. Egan.

Judge Egan denied a motion made by the village to dismiss the case last month and instead gave Mount Prospect officials 14 days in which to prepare their defense.

DiMucci, who filed suit last February, is contesting a ruling made by the plan commission and backed by the judiciary committee last year.

At that time he requested that the plan commission rezone a five-acre tract of land at Palm and Tamarack from single-family residence (R-1) to apartments (R-4). The plan commission denied the because members considered it spot zoning and not compatible with the surrounding single-family residences in the area.

DiMucci holds present classification of the land is unreasonable and could be best used for apartments, which he wants to build there.

Village Mgr. Robert Moore said Thursday was the third time the suit has been before Judge Egan. "The first two times a representative for DiMucci didn't appear and we motioned to dismiss the case. Now we have 14 days in which to prepare our case, but no trial date has been set yet," he said.

OK Child Aid Bill

A bill that would reimburse River Trails School Dist. 26 for the education of children from Maryville Academy passed the state House of Representatives Wednesday.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D., Arlington Heights, sponsor of the bill told The Herald she was "delighted" by the 147 to 0 vote. "The problem is going to be in the Senate," she said.

The bill, as it now stands, would help every disturbed child in the state, Mrs. Chapman said.

The bill was also backed by Rep. David Regner, R., Mount Prospect, and Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R., Arlington Heights.

THE PRESENT BILL includes children from orphanages, children's homes, veterans' hospitals, military encampments or state housing units.

It provides for state tuition reimbursement to the districts to be separately determined for children who attend regular classes in public schools and those who need special classes.

Since the cost of educating individual children in special classes is higher than the average cost of educating a child in a school district, children with learning handicaps will receive an extra dollar of state aid.

The bill would give the districts 50 per cent of the money at the end of this fiscal year and would pay the remaining 50 per cent in December, the end of the first part of the next fiscal year. It also provides an extra 10 per cent for administrative costs.

Mrs. Chapman said the estimated cost of state aid under the bill will be $2 million by the next biennium.

IT IS POSSIBLE, after the first payments are made, that costs could run as high as $1 million a year, but Mrs. Chapman believes that figure is inflated.

This cost factor is the point which might give the bill trouble in the Senate.

The original intention of the bill was to aid the River Trails district but the provision for education of children throughout the state will increase the cost to the taxpayers.

An informed source said an amendment may be considered.

The educational program at Maryville was discontinued in September 1968, and students were sent to Dist. 26 schools.

Maryville is operated by Catholic Charities.

Vista In the Middle

To be in today is to be living in a kind of no-man's land. We are neither youth, nor are we establishment. We aren't old enough to have teenagers, but we are very concerned with the problems of children and what will face our children in five or 10 years as they become teenagers.

We have been dismissed as the last generation of nonthinking students. We were in school when Sputnik orbited a new idea of what students should learn. For the most part it was our younger brothers and sisters who benefited from the surge in knowledge and teaching.

We are not establishment in the true sense of the word, but we have chosen to live in suburbia under housing development roofs for a variety of reasons.

NOT ALL of us came here to be safe, secure, peaceful and calm. Some of us came here to be nearer jobs, in better schools or for the last vestiges of open space in a rapidly growing megalopolis.

True, there are some of us who wanted to flee the city and its problems, but for the rest the city was not our way of life. But I don't want to defend our choice of residence as much as to say, don't count us out.

We hear you, we know you and we admire you. We respect you for your thoughts, your battles, and even your shortcomings.

We are not marchers, demonstrators or dropouts. We in our 30s have chosen another way to fight — by working within the establishment, the way things are.

Look around — we're in politics trying to break the machines, trying to liberalize thoughts and action. We lost as much as you when the Kennedys were shot.

WERE IN church action groups trying to make meaningful the words, "Love thy neighbor." We're in human relations groups hoping to bring together black and white. We're in social groups and some civic groups working to help our neighbors less fortunate. We're participating in projects such as Friendly Town and Project Wingspread, or working with the Spanish-Americans here.

We are teaching our young children to judge people for themselves and perhaps more important, standing up for our beliefs and speaking out even though we may not hold the most popular beliefs at a particular time among our own relatives.

We seek to better our lives and our income, not always for the reasons you may think. There are those of us who don't object to our taxes being raised if it means helping those who are unable to help themselves — those in ghettos, on welfare or in advanced age.

We believe the Walker Report and the Kerner Commission Report and are butting our heads against the same walls you are. We regret your losing the Crystal Ship and would grant you a free exchange of ideas at all times. At the same time we are old enough to realize that in part your parents may be right and perhaps not all of you can objectively receive all ideas. Yet for the majority of youth who can, those rights should be protected — we'd give you that if we could.

In college we were idealists and optimistic and spent long hours discussing the world as we saw it. We did not have a war, but the threat of atomic bombs hung over us, too.

NOW IN our 30s, we have tempered our idealism with reality as we have seen it and instead of hoping to change the world we work to change the world we are in touch with. It is disillusioning to see some of our peers become more conservative and concerned with only their daily lives and paychecks, but not all of us will become like that.

We have learned that not all people are doers and that, even so, many of these people have good intentions. We try to respect all the people for what they believe, especially if they have thought it out to the best of their abilities.

And we fervently hope that your generation and those that follow will have more of the answers and more of the love that is needed today. We hope you will always work to that end and neither drop out of our society nor give up your idealism.

We hope prejudice will end with our generation, but we have seen it and heard it even in your young people. Are you up to changing your peer group's attitudes? Can you wipe out the prejudices some of today's parents are reinforcing in their children? We sincerely hope so.

Perhaps what we in our 30s do will complement what you seek to accomplish. We will try — just don't measure us short or unwilling.

Plan Soul Dance At Country Club

There will be a dance at the Mount Prospect Country Club tomorrow beginning at 8 p.m.

The dance is being sponsored by Soul International Productions, a recently formed company whose founders are two Harper Junior College students, Steve Boli and Tony Hinrichs, both of Mount Prospect.

Featured band will be the Steelers, a "soul" group who just returned from a tour of the East Coast.

All ages are invited. Price of admission is $2. The dance will be held in the Chestnut Room.

24 St. Paul Juniors Named to Honor Roll

A total of 24 junior high school students made the third quarter honor roll at St. Paul School in Mount Prospect.

Eighth graders who made the senior honor roll are Teri Lyon, Phil Fischer, Bob Jensen, Mark Strauch, Gloria Molzahn and Sue Grossman. Those who made the junior honor roll are Barry Huebner, John Fricke, Mark Young, Janis Fricke, Tom Bierman, Melinda Stearns, Allen Schramm and Glenn Bodanstab.

Seventh graders who made the senior honor roll are Rolf Molzahn, Sheryl Meyer and Janice Betterman. Those who made the junior honor roll are Ken Glassburner, Cheryl Putz, Gary Willert, Gary Benhart, Pattie Meeske, Jim Guistino and Kent Tamsen.

Park Needs Personnel For Summer Programs

Are you looking for a summer job? The Mount Prospect Park District needs qualified personnel to instruct and supervise activities for summer programs.

Positions are available for part-time and full-time instructors and aides for cheerleading, drama, senior citizens, arts and crafts, and chess school.

Applicants for teaching positions must have a high school diploma, specialized training, and experience. High school students, 16 or older with experience can qualify as aides for any of these programs.

For further information contact Sally Luettich, program supervisor, at 255-5380.

PROSPECT HIGH School's dancing students swing through rehearsals for their annual Orchestis show, "Look Out World, Nothing Can Stop Us Now." This season's variety of dances and songs will be presented today and tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Prospect Little Theatre. Tickets will be available at the door.

Library News

The Dancing Books

by LAURIE ROSSI

Two square dancing performances by students from Westbrook Junior High will be a part of the National Library Week program at the Mount Prospect Public library tomorrow morning.

Those interested in folk dancing will want to hear the library's new five-volume record of folk dances from around the world and read the revised edition of the book "Dance a While," which explains dance fundamentals, party mixers and icebreakers.

THE RECORDS ARE accompanied by directions for doing the dances and background history. Dancing has served just about every purpose, from disease or sickness, healing or prevention, to acts of flirtation and courtship.

Volume 1 features the popular Horah from Israel, Troika from Russia, Schottische from Germany, and the Boston two-step, as well as dances from Scotland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Lithuania, Bulgaria, Mexico, England, France and Denmark.

"The Mestice" from Mexico reflects the history of Spanish conquest in its story about a girl who is half Indian and half Spanish. The "Zandunga," from Mexico, is performed by Indian women, famous for their beauty and rich costumes. Their headdress is made of fine lace which, according to legend, is supposed to be made from the wide flounces of baby dresses washed ashore after a shipwreck.

Volume 2 includes songs from the British Isles and Scandinavia. "Greensleeves" from England is one, as well as "Picking Up Sticks."

Contrary to popular belief, the leaders of Cromwell's government weren't against certain types of dancing. Longways sets, in which partners continually changed, were acceptable since they were decorous and didn't display flirtatious behavior.

SCOTTISH FOLK dances, on the other hand, were limited to the soldiery in their beginnings.

The Welsh first performed their dances in the kitchens, where they were able to stamp their feet on the hard floor. The most precision is demanded in Irish dances.

Eighth Grade Classes To Visit Springfield

About 150 students at Mount Prospect's Central Junior High School will journey to Springfield Friday to tour the state capital.

John Gatto, principal at Central, said five eighth-grade classes will board buses at 6:30 a.m. Friday and return from Springfield the same day. The students will visit the capital buildings, meet with local state representatives and see some of the Lincoln monuments near the capital.

Gatto said the cost of the tour is being borne by the students and will complement the school's social studies program.

THE OLD CHICAGO Aurora and Elgin car 431, is still alive and in operating condition at the Illinois Railway Museum near Marengo, Ill., a drive of approximately 40 minutes from the Northwest suburbs.

Relive Days Long Forgotten

by MARY DISSNER

A little more than a half hour's drive from the city limits, the railroad museum is a place where time seems to have stopped.

To explore the Illinois Railway Museum is to explore the history of trains and the people who built them. The museum is a place where time seems to have stopped.

To an adult, the old trains are a chance to relive days long forgotten.

Milwaukee's Wells Street streetcar, painted and carefully restored, is still in operation at the museum. This is a perfect reminder of the streetcar that once carried millions of people to work and home.

On another track are several old Chicago Elgin cars, used to take city children and their mothers to the Loop for a day's shopping.

THE OLD Halsted Street streetcar, an ex-Chicago streetcar, is still in operation at the museum. This is a perfect reminder of the streetcar that once carried millions of people to work and home.

The railroad museum is no place to visit for a quick tour. It is a place where time seems to have stopped. It is a place where you can relive days long forgotten.

tual trains and streetcars that once served real human beings.

At this time the new museum has trains lined up in sidings, a mile and a half of track, a railroad car converted to a gift shop and an old station.

It is estimated that the station, currently being restored, dates back to 1851, making it the oldest passenger station west of Pittsburgh.

Future plans for the Railway Museum include a display hall, car barns, stations, a sub station, and five miles of track to allow children and adults to ride in the reconditioned trains.

THE REGULAR SEASON at the Railway Museum starts May 30. Cars are now operated on weekends, when enough people turn out. After July 1, cars should be in operation on week days.

There is no financial pressure at the Railway Museum. Train rides cost 50 cents and there is a donation box for those who want to contribute to the job of restoring part of America's past.

As the visitor walks past the cars parked on the sidings, men in overalls and beat-up work clothes are up to appear, smile and hurry back to their job.

Most of these men are railroad buffs who spend their free hours tinkering with the old trains. College students and older men work together, all sharing the same enthusiasm for antique trains.

"Careful kids," they are apt to say, as fearless 10-year-olds attempt to climb to the top of box cars. "You might hurt the train."

SOME OF THE TRAINS in the museum are so old they have wooden platforms and steps, and look like the Jesse James special, straight from the late-late-show.

One old train, the political whistle-stopper special, with carpeting and plush chairs, has a platform that must have been designed exclusively for political orations. No politician, standing on that platform, could resist the urge to address an imaginary crowd of well-wishers with:

"My friends in Union City, I come here today to ask for your friendship, your confidence, and your vote in my race for . . ."

The Nebraska Zephyr, that ultra-modern futuristic streamliner of the 30s, also sits on a siding at the Railway Museum. Today, the Zephyr, the Railroad Queen of the jazz age is an obsolete old dowager.

The museum can be reached by taking the Northwest Tollway to U.S. Route 20, the Marengo exit. Drive northwest on 20 about 4 1/2 miles to Union Road. Take Union Road north and east one mile, going through the town of Union on Jefferson Street to Olson Road. Turn south at this point to get to the museum.

Wear old clothes so you can climb on the trains . . . and bring your memories.

Premier Karami Quits

BEIRUT — Premier Fakhri Karami resigned last night at the height of a national crisis in which fighting between security forces and demonstrators urged support for Arab commandos killed 17 persons and injured 116.

Karami announced his resignation during parliamentary debate and is expected to submit it in writing to President Charles Helou.

Head Start Funds

WASHINGTON — All or part of the funds supporting Head Start programs may be switched to full-year programs. Health Education and Welfare Department Secretary Robert H. Finch said yesterday.

He said law would allow the change of emphasis from summer to full-year programs in order not to delay this important conversion for another 12 months.

Promises Tax Bill

WASHINGTON — Passage of a sweeping tax reform bill which would go further than President Nixon's proposed was promised by House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills said this bill would include adjustments in the ad depletion allowance in addition to Nixon's proposals.

Mills' committee will begin Tuesday to write the reform bill. Passage of any tax legislation is actually delayed without Mills' support.

Prices To Soar

WASHINGTON — The rising consumer price index will continue to soar for at least another three or four months, according to Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, even if inflation is halted.

Chase yesterday responded to questions about last month's eight-tenths of 1 per cent jump in the index, the largest increase in 18 years.

Without Tax Plan...

CHICAGO — Cutting school aid and the welfare budget, as well as the budget cuts of state departments and agencies, is the alternative to new taxes, Gov. Richard Ogilvie told the Chicago Bar Association yesterday.

Gov. Ogilvie said he has no intention of taking down from his state income tax "sugar" and other revenue proposals in favor of budget cuts.

Order Track Checks

CHICAGO — All 100 railroads in Illinois will be inspected by 12,000 miles of main line track and another 11,000 miles of branch line track will receive a similar inspection, the Illinois Commerce Commission ordered yesterday.

ICC chairman David Armstrong said the inspection was prompted by recent derailments, he said, but he added that they were caused by "human error." Illinois averages 150 derailments a year, he said.

New Jersey Returning

WASHINGTON — The battleship New Jersey, the only one left activated in the U.S. Navy, may not join the fleet but will be in the Sea of Japan. The Defense Department said yesterday the ship will return to San Diego.

The ship was off its way to San Diego to work after a fire in Vietnam when it was hit by a Japanese missile. North Korean jets shot down a United States reconnaissance plane.

Car Parts Plan

WASHINGTON — Your new car may cost a lot less if it may cost less if MIT professor Robert W. Gendall says. He suggested yesterday that car manufacturers from selling car parts and manufacturers make more standard parts than cars and sell them as standard parts for a variety of car models.

Zimmerman For Post?

'Acting' Post Is Open

by JAMES VESELY

Although nobody is willing to admit it, it looks as if Mount Prospect Village Atty John Zimmerman will be the acting village manager.

A poll of incoming and outgoing village trustees conducted by the Herald disclosed that Zimmerman appears to be the No. 1 choice for the job vacated by Robert Moore.

The trustees were wary of speaking directly on the subject, but most of those contacted said Zimmerman is the logical choice because of his position as the full-time attorney for the village.

IN EACH CASE, the trustees said they understand that Moore's replacement will hold the post temporarily until the trustees and new village Pres. Robert Teichert can agree on a manager.

One village official said the temporary assignment could last as long as six months, depending on the wishes of the trustees and Teichert.

Outgoing Village Trustee Joseph Grittani said it would not be "appropriate for me as a trustee whose term expires May 1 to comment on individuals... but I will say this, the trustees should form a committee immediately to search for a village manager."

Grittani also said the subject of an acting village manager does not necessarily carry over-riding importance for the board.

"WE HAVE competent department heads," he said, "the village business would carry on a while without an acting village manager."

One man not now in village government mentioned as a possibility for the temporary post is Ben Hemminger, 112 School Street.

Hemminger, an engineer, was Mount Prospect's manager for a short time several years ago and is now being mentioned as a possibility for the job.

Speculation over a temporary manager from outside the ranks of the village officials seems doomed, however, by a provision of a Mount Prospect ordinance which calls for an acting manager to be an employee of the village. This is normally construed to mean village department heads, of which there are seven.

The village's acting manager could be Police Chief Newell Esmond, Fire Chief Ed Haberkanip, Director of Public Works Dave Creamer, Financial Director Dick Joss, Village Engineer William McManoman, Building Inspector Peter Betten and Zimmerman.

OF THE seven department heads, only Zimmerman and Joss are apparently being considered.

Joss, as a village employee deeply involved in finances, is considered a likely possibility. But one village spokesman said, "Taking Joss out of the dealings of the finance committee and budget hearings would be a bad mistake right now."

So, Zimmerman might walk out of next Thursday's special board meeting as a village manager. Nothing is certain, of course.

course, especially in Mount Prospect this year.

Incoming trustee Daniel J. Ahern spoke for many others when he said, "I simply don't know who is going to be the acting manager. I guess we'll just have to meet on May 1 and kick it around."

4-Year-Old Runs Into Car

Four-year-old Thomas Kost, of 1101 Cottonwood, Mount Prospect, suffered minor injuries Wednesday when he ran into a slow-moving car in an alley behind his house.

HE WAS TAKEN to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines and later released.

The boy, according to police, darted out from behind a row of parked cars and hit the side of a car driven by Pamela Hanke, 2835 Eisenhower Dr., Des Plaines, who was going about 10 miles an hour at time of impact. No charges were filed against the driver of the car.

Addict's Facts, 'Pure, Simple'

by JERRY DEZONNA

His answers are short and to the point. Aimed at the center of the bull's-eye and landing right on target with the impact of a perfect shot. His answers are straight.

He pulls no punches, no tricks and no gimmicks. He doesn't need to rely on them. He's a former drug addict of 17 years, and his information on drug abuse is first-hand.

Peter Stavredes, associated with the National Council for the Prevention of Drug Abuse (NCPDA), is part of the team speaking to Prospect High School students this week.

He doesn't capitalize on scare tactics to get the attention of his audience. "I just present the facts, clear and simple," said Stavredes. "I know what it's like to be a drug addict. I've been the route, and nobody can explain the situation better than a former addict."

STAVREDES HAS spoken to thousands of students about drug abuse, the problem in the communities, and his own personal experience as an addict.

The NCPDA has conducted programs at several Dist. 214 schools this year, as well as at other high schools in the Northwest suburban area and Chicago.

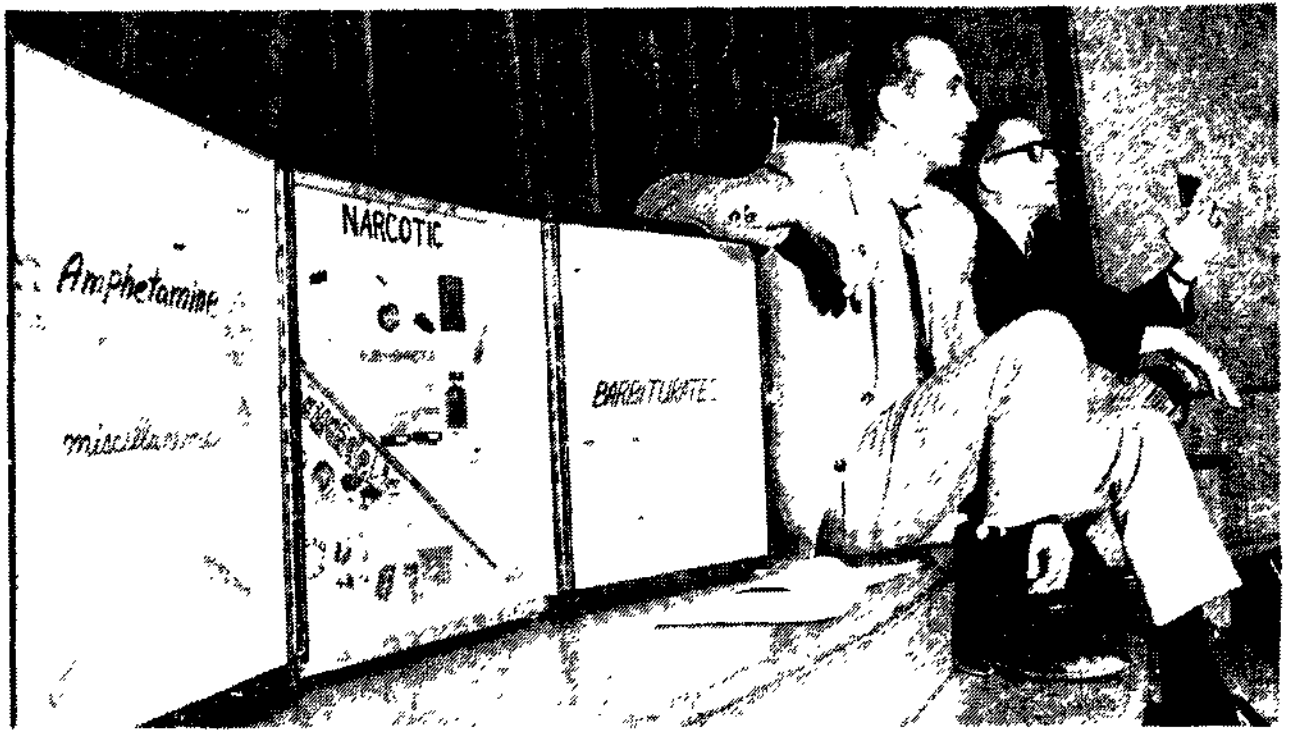

"One of the worst drug problems that I've ever seen," said Stavredes, "exists at Downers Grove and Evanston schools. Ninety per cent of the students in those communities who have experimented with drugs are using them now."

"After having lived with drug addicts and pushers for 17 years, I can spot one with no trouble."

Stavredes explained that the ability to recognize a drug addict comes from having been one himself. "It's a sixth sense that I developed when I was hooked myself, in case I ever needed a fix in a strange town where I had no connections. I can tell by a glance usually if students are messing around with drugs."

"THEY'VE GOT A certain look in their eyes, and guilt is written all over their faces. Students have tested me to see if I could pick out one of their friends who they knew were using drugs. I do, and they're amazed."

Having spoken to students at Arlington,

PETE STAVREDES, left, a former drug addict, and DeVore Waltermann, executive director of the National Council for the Prevention of Drug Abuse, speaks to high school students about the dangers involved in using drugs.

"You've got to tell them the truth, the way it really is," said Stavredes who relates his own personal experiences to students.

Hersey, Wheeling and Prospect high schools, he has assessed the problems at each of these schools.

"Wheeling and Hersey have a worse problem than Arlington and Prospect," he said. About 35 per cent of the students at Hersey and Wheeling are messing around with drugs, and at the other schools, about 15 to 20 per cent.

"But they have different problems," explained Stavredes. "The students at Prospect and Arlington who are smoking marijuana or shooting speed and LSD are upperclassmen. The kids at Hersey and Wheeling are underclassmen."

THE STUDENTS WHO have confessed to him that they are using drugs explain that they have problems with their parents who don't understand the "hip" generation. Some of them try marijuana and LSD because they're looking for "kicks" or an experience with intrigue.

"These high school students are messing around with marijuana and LSD because they know that these drugs aren't physically addictive, so they're not afraid. But what they don't realize is that they are psychologically addictive, which is much worse."

"There were times when my physical addiction to heroin was medically cured, but I went back to drugs because I had a psychological addiction. I mentally needed to depend upon heroin. It wasn't physical," he explained.

He speaks the drug lingo and the student jargon. Young people can identify with him and they listen when he speaks. "He can reach these kids on their own level, which is so important," said Dick Yost, police counselor at Prospect High. "They don't label him as a stuff-shirt and tag him as part of the establishment."

Stavredes tells his audience just what it's like to live in the gutter and how low life can really be for a drug addict. He tells them about the mail robberies and thefts he committed to make money to support his habit. He tells them about life in prisons and medical clinics.

HE TELLS THEM about his common-law marriage to a drug addict and about his two children who were born drug addicts. He tells them that his wife would prostitute herself in order to buy heroin.

It's a sad story, but it's the truth. "I find it emotionally hard to speak to students about my personal life, but this is the only way to tell them the truth, to make them realize that this could happen to them," said Stavredes.

He said that the best way to combat the drug abuse problem is through education. "But someone who's been an addict is really the only one who can talk turkey with these kids. The school administrations have waited too long in bringing programs of this type to the schools.

"So many kids are involved now, and we're playing catchup ball. If only we could have started educating these kids a few years earlier," he said.

"The life of a drug addict is hell," said Stavredes, "and this is what I want them to realize. If I can help just one kid a day and discourage them from using drugs, it's the only gratification I want for doing this job. But you never know how much you've really helped someone. You just hope."

Village Mgr. Robert Moore said Thursday was the third time the suit has been before Judge Egan. The first two times a representative for DiMucci didn't appear and we motioned to dismiss the case. Now we have 14 days in which to prepare our case, but no trial date has been set yet," he said.

DiMucci, who filed suit last February, is contesting a ruling made by the plan commission and backed by the judiciary committee last year.

At that time he requested that the plan commission rezone a five-acre tract of land at Palm and Tamarack from single-family residence (R-1) to apartments (R-4). The plan commission denied the rezoning because members considered it spot zoning and not compatible with the surrounding single-family residences in the area.

DiMucci holds present classification of the land is unreasonable and could be best used for apartments, which he wants to build there.

Premier Karami Quits

BEIRUT Premier Fakhri Karami resigned last night at the height of a nation-wide crisis in which fighting between security forces and demonstrators injured scores of people and demonstrators injured scores of people.

Karami announced his resignation during parliamentary debate and is expected to submit it in writing to President Charles Helou.

Head Start Funds

WASHINGTON At least part of the funds supporting Head Start programs may be switched to full-year programs. Health Education and Welfare Department Secretary Robert H. Finch said yesterday.

He said the move would allow the change to emphasize full-year to full-year programs in order not to delay this important conversion for another 12 months.

Promises Tax Bill

WASHINGTON Passage of a sweeping tax reform bill which would go further than previous ones proposed was promised by House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills said this bill would include adjustments in the mid-decade allowance in addition to Nixon's proposals.

Mills committee will begin Tuesday to write the reform bill. Passage of any tax legislation is virtually doomed without Mills support.

Prices To Soar

WASHINGTON The rising consumer price index will continue to soar for at least another three or four months, according to Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, as inflation is held.

Chase yesterday responded to questions about last month's eight-tenths of 1 percent jump in the index, the largest in 12 months.

Without Tax Plan...

CHICAGO Cutting school aid and the other budget cuts as well as the budget requests of state departments and agencies is the alternative to new taxes, Richard Ogilvie told the Chicago Board of Education yesterday.

Ogilvie added he has no intention to keep down his state income tax and other revenue proposals in the face of such budget cuts.

Order Track Checks

CHICAGO All railroads in Illinois will be inspected for 1,000 miles of track and another 1,000 miles of track will be inspected for 1,000 miles of track.

The inspection will be conducted by the Illinois Commerce Commission, which has been authorized to inspect the tracks.

New Jersey Returning

WASHINGTON The battleship New Jersey, the only one of its kind, will be moved to the Naval Air Station at Fort Belvoir, Ill., for use as a museum.

The ship, which was built in 1906, was the last of a class of 16 ships built for the U.S. Navy.

New Lights Outmoded

Tower Says State Has Newer Plan

Former city engineer Charles Tower recommended last night that the board of local improvements (BOLI) throw out its project for street lighting on Northwest Highway East of Arlington Heights Road.

Tower said that since the project was started standards concerning the type of lights to be used have changed. Previous state standards allowed poles with concrete bases and the project was designed with this type of lights.

Soon-to-be issued standards allow only aluminum poles with collapsible bases.

THE BEST thing to do is to junk this whole thing and start over, said BOLI chairman Russell Colvin.

BOLI would need a letter from the state highway department saying it would issue a permit for the concrete base poles before the already let contract could be canceled. If the project is dropped it would probably be at least a year before the street lighting was installed.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson appealed at BOLI's regular meeting last night to stress the urgency for the board's swift action on the Greenbriar release sewer. Hanson said the village should not allow any development in the area to go forward until the sewer project is completed.

BOLI members agreed to direct consulting engineers Consoer and Townsend to prepare plans, specifications and an estimate of cost for the project. The board will proceed with special assessment and members said they hope this would force the four major land owners in the area to have the project completed by private contract.

OWNERS OF large parcels of land in the area include Korvette Stone bridge Apartments, Rand Haven and Mont Deutsch, a developer who plans to build houses on approximately 100 lots.

BOLI members agreed with Hanson that the project should proceed quickly.

EVERY TIME you get a moderate rain sewers in the area back up, Hanson said. He described the sewer system in the northeastern part of the village as under-engineered and underdesigned all the way through.

BOLI members learned that village Atty. Jack Siegel has filed a petition for a grade crossing of the railroad tracks at Walnut and Ridge. Siegel informed the board by letter the petition was filed April 15 with the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Model Laws Could Hurt Head Start

David Fankhauser, director of the Head Start program in Northwest Cook County, said last night that model bylaws drawn up by the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity (CCOEO) for opportunity center advisory committee might result in elimination of Head Start programs.

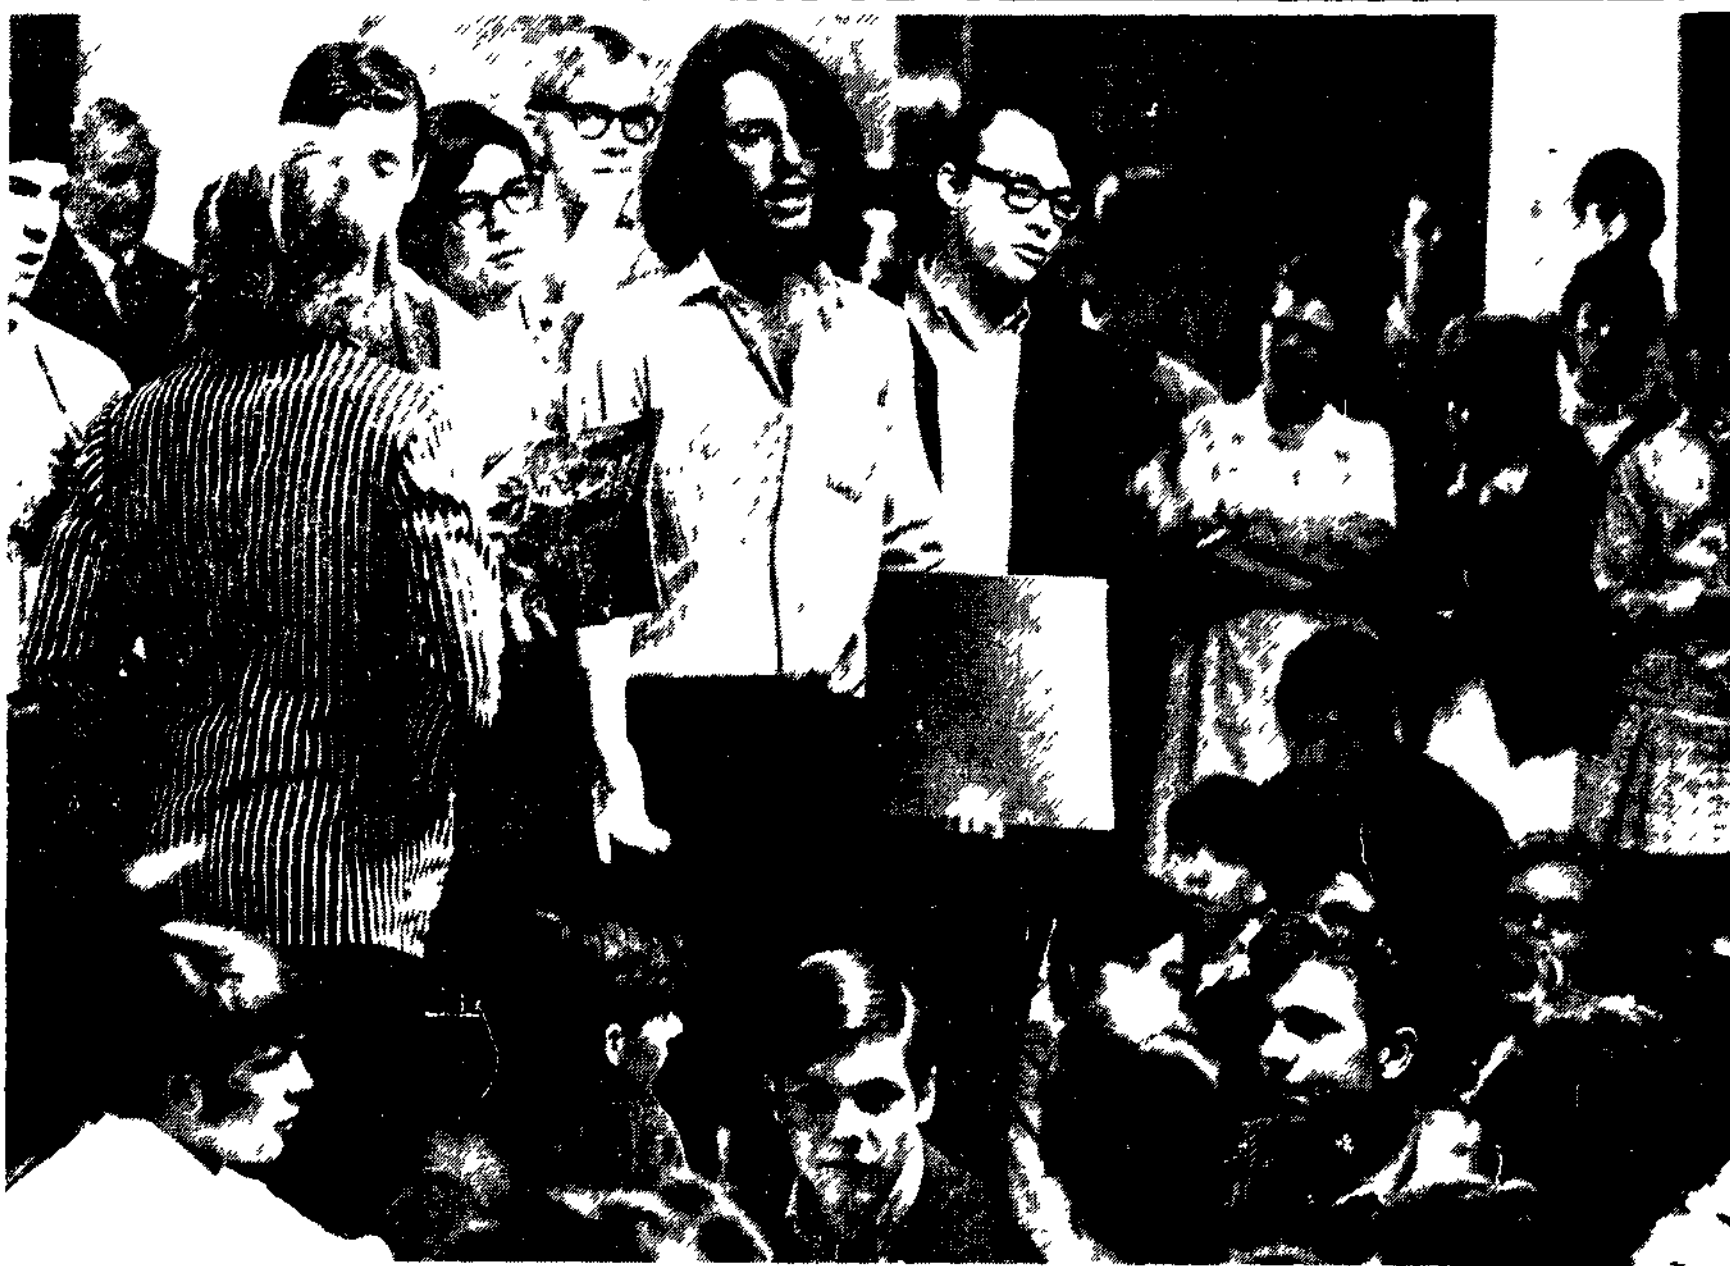

The proposed bylaws which would affect the advisory committee of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows mention that the committee may make recommendations to the governing board of CCOEO regarding delegation of projects within their areas.

FANKHAUSER SAID Small Head Start programs have a very hard time surviving. They don't have adequate income. Head Start is a difficult program to run at best.

He explained that at the present time Head Start officials who have classes in four locations in the suburban Northwest on money around when needed to meet expenses. NORTHWEST Ties Mrs. Jane Proffitt said NORTHWEST Ties should have the same opportunity to make recommendations regarding programs.

If we can also make appropriate suggestions, we would not object to the advisory committee making recommendations.

Members attending last night's meeting were asked to voice their own suggestions. Ballots will be compared before a final decision is made on the matter.

IT BEGAN WITH a sit-in at 8:30 yesterday morning at the opening of student Paul Stathas (second from right) several hundred Elk Grove High School students moved into the auditorium with the hope of changing the school's policy on smoking. Stathas a senior, opposed the "anarchy" of a sit-in, and supported a meeting with administration officials and a petition to permit the high school to have a smoking area. Reason prevailed during the three-hour demonstration.

Annex Faces Lawsuit

Buffalo Grove landowners intend to file for an injunction against the Village of Arlington Heights asking the court to void a portion of Monday's 60-acre annexation to Arlington Heights.

The property in question is 11 1/2 acres of the total parcel. One section is a lot fronting on Dundee Road between the two jogs of Arlington Heights Road and the other section is 10 acres behind the lot.

The title owners and contract purchasers intend to develop a shopping center on the Dundee Road lot and a manufacturing area on the second lot.

Jerome Pinderski 105 W. Madison St. Chicago, an attorney said he will file suit in the Circuit Court of Cook County within a few days asking the court to enjoin Arlington Heights from filing the ordinance of annexation.

WE WILL BE asking the court to determine if the annexation ordinance was properly formulated under the state code since the ordinance was pending before Buffalo Grove, Pinderski told The Herald.

Pinderski will base his case on chapter 24-73 of the State Municipal Code.

The code says interested persons may file objections to an involuntary annexation on the premise that the territory is not contiguous to the annexing municipality, the petition is not signed by the requisite number of electors or property owners of record that the description of the territory is inadequate or that the object or use of the land is located on the perimeter of such territory that he does not desire annexation and that exclusion of his land will not destroy the continuity of such described property with the annexing municipality.

The question is is the property wholly surrounded by Arlington Heights, said Pinderski, who represents Ed Matrus, real estate man and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schipper and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Restek, owners.

The courts have held that there should be proper notice given individuals, said Pinderski. This is a question of not being in good faith.

THE ARLINGTON Heights annexation of the property took place Monday after a legal notice appeared 10 days previously.

The property was purchased from Mrs. Harry J. Hartzel on April 14 and Mrs.

Hartzel received notification of the proposed annexation only a few days before the April 21 meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board. She immediately informed the new owners of the proposed annexation.

Other property owners in the area say they were not informed of the intended action.

A letter dated April 21 that Pinderski presented the Arlington Heights Village Board said that annexation was "brought to my attention today."

It insisted "that the annexation will do irreparable harm and damage" to Pinderski's clients "in that many months of work toward the orderly development of the property has been done with the Village of Buffalo Grove."

A PETITION FOR annexation to Buffalo Grove was filed April 19.

Pinderski contends in the letter that annexation to Arlington Heights "is very substantially reduce the value of my clients' property will abort a pending sale and development of the described property and cause undue hardship."

The lawyer requested annexation be defeated until discussion could be held but the annexation ordinance passed that Monday night.

The requested annexation to Buffalo Grove is now under consideration by the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission.

Edwards on Plans Unit?

Jack Edwards, retiring park board commissioner who was defeated in the April 1 election stands a good chance of continuing to represent the park district on the village's plan commission.

Edwards has served on the plan commission for about two years. He was appointed because he was a member of the park board and could represent its interests in the planning board's recommendations.

When he lost the election questions were raised about whether he would continue on the commission.

Park Director Thomas Thornton said it would be logical to keep Edwards on the plan commission as a representative for the park district. It would eliminate the need to appoint another member and would leave the park board members free of the extra time and work involved with the plan commission, Thornton said.

EDWARDS COMMENTED that he had not asked to the park board president about staying on the plan commission yet and he did not know what the board would decide.

With Edwards standing a good chance of remaining on the plan commission it removes one additional position that governmental leaders will need to fill.

The plan commission, which consists of 14 members, has at least one other position that must be filled the seat formerly

'Pirating' Will Stop At Harper

The Harper Junior College Board made it very clear last night that local high school teachers will have next to no chance to shift to positions in the community college.

The board approved the appointment of Mrs. Pauline Jenness of Mount Prospect as a mathematics professor in the remedial program but they did so only after throwing some tough questions at the college staff.

Board chairman Richard L. Johnson particularly protested hiring Mrs. Jenness away from Maine West High School where she has taught 12 years.

He made it very clear that Harper administrators should not recommend the appointment of someone coming from a high school without clearing the appointment first with the high school administration.

Mrs. Jenness is the wife of Ford A. Jenness, Principal Lawrence Jenness. An experienced teacher, she copes with poorly prepared students, a difference that is hard to find among mathematics teachers.

Free Lance

The following column appeared in today's Buffalo Grove Herald. Because of its obvious interest to Arlington Heights residents, we are reprinting it. The author, Mary Dresser, is a former staff writer for the Arlington Heights Herald.

Arlington Heights did a magnificent job this week of pulling the rug out from under Buffalo Grove and leaving a neighbor flat on its face in the mud.

It was as if the Green Bay Packers took on Wheeling High School.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson still has clear marks on his back.

In a lightning-like attack, the big brother village to the south came, saw, and annexed an acres of prime commercial land.

BUFFALO GROVE is now rubbing numb gums because Arlington Heights stole its false teeth.

Buffalo Grove, top heavy with residential and apartment development, now faces the prospect of watching a valuable stretch of Dundee Road and the projected western corner of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads increase in value while tax dollars wing their way into Arlington Heights coffers.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson says his philosophy is not to annex unless property owners petition to come into Buffalo Grove.

After all, the property owners have a right to make their own decisions and their own profit, Thompson argues.

THIS IS A MOST commendable attitude and would make Thompson popular with land speculators and owners of choice hunks of commercial property.

However, the taxpayers of Buffalo Grove might be inclined to quarrel with this altruistic attitude since it promises to cost them a few bucks.

Thompson is an elected representative of the people and when they send him out to play in the pro leagues of ruthless inter-village border wars they expect him to win.

Buffalo Grove would be able to afford charity and good fellowship if it had several $50 million shopping centers and a booming industrial park. Meanwhile, it had better be sharp and tough.

Arlington Heights planned the 60-acre annexation, covered its bases legally, and acted swiftly when it got wind of a Buffalo Grove plan to annex a small portion of the property. Former Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods modestly admits his village was a little bit smarter . . . and he is right.

WOODS ALSO SAYS Arlington Heights will repeat the performance on any less-than-60 acre tract it can legally bring into its orbit.

There is still some good unincorporated commercial property along Dundee Road. The polite thing to do would be to wait until these property owners ask to be annexed to Buffalo Grove.

Judging by last week's fiasco, Buffalo Grove will be the poorest and politest village in the northwest suburbs.

Meanwhile, old tom cat Arlington Heights will lick its chops and look around for another canary.

Arlington Heights shouted foul when the 127-acre Kornfeldt-Miller property went to Buffalo Grove because the developers figured they could get a better deal.

Arlington Heights cried, beat its fists on the floor, and sent reams of outraged protests to Rolling Meadows when that village pulled a canny land grab on the Isenstein-Parker property in southern Arlington Heights.

"OUR TEARS ARE DRY now," says Woods.

Thompson is still crying. In the future, Arlington Heights will have a hard time piously insisting it is only protecting high class apartment development on its boundaries, because the 60-acres is no apartment development but juicy commercial property.

Better Buffalo Grove got a little smart and maybe started playing in the big leagues?

Addict Is To the Point

by JERRY DeZONNA

His answers are short and to the point. Aimed at the center of the bull's-eye and landing right on target with the impact of a perfect shot. His answers are straight.

He pulls no punches, no tricks and no gimmicks. He doesn't need to rely on them. He's a former drug addict of 17 years, and his information on drug abuse is first-hand.

Peter Stavredes, associated with the National Council for the Prevention of Drug Abuse (NCPDA), is part of the team speaking to Prospect High School students this week.

He doesn't capitalize on scare tactics to get the attention of his audience. "I just present the facts, clear and simple," said Stavredes. "I know what it's like to be a drug addict. I've been the route, and nobody can explain the situation better than a former addict."

STAVREDES HAS spoken to thousands of students about drug abuse, the problem in the communities, and his own personal experience as an addict.

The NCPDA has conducted programs at several Dist. 214 schools this year, as well as at other high schools in the Northwest suburban area and Chicago.

"One of the worst drug problems that I've ever seen," said Stavredes, "exists at Downers Grove and Evanston schools. 90 per cent of the students in those communities who have experimented with drugs and are using them now."

Local Campfire Girls Sponsor Horse Movie

"Glory," a full-length movie about a horse, will be shown tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. at the Southminster Church, East Central Road and South Duntun Avenue, Arlington Heights.

The movie is sponsored by the Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling district of the Camp Fire Girls.

Tickets will be available at the door.

"After having lived with drug addicts and pushers for 17 years, I can spot one with no trouble."

Stavredes explained that the ability to recognize a drug addict comes from having been one himself. "It's a sixth sense that I developed when I was hooked myself, in case I ever needed a fix in a strange town where I had no connections. I can tell by a glance usually if students are messing around with drugs."

"THEY'VE GOT A certain look in their eyes, and guilt is written all over their faces. Students have tested me to see if I could pick out one of their friends who they knew were using drugs. I do, and they're amazed."

Having spoken to students at Arlington, Hersey, Wheeling and Prospect high schools, he has assessed the problems at each of these schools.

"Wheeling and Hersey have a worse problem than Arlington and Prospect," he said. About 35 per cent of the students at Hersey and Wheeling are messing around with drugs, and at the other schools, about 15 to 20 per cent.

"But they have different problems," explained Stavredes. "The students at Prospect and Arlington who are smoking marijuana or shooting speed and LSD are upperclassmen. The kids at Hersey and Wheeling are underclassmen."

THE STUDENTS WHO have confessed to him that they are using drugs explain that they have problems with their parents who don't understand the "hip" generation. Some of them try marijuana and LSD because they're looking for "kicks" or an experience with intrigue.

"These high school students are messing around with marijuana and LSD because they know that these drugs aren't physically addicting, so they're not afraid. But what they don't realize is that they are psychologically addictive, which is much worse."

"There were times when my physical addiction to heroin was medically cured, but I went back to drugs because I had a psychological addiction. I mentally needed to depend upon heroin; it wasn't physical," he explained.

He speaks the drug lingo and the student jargon. Young people can identify with him and they listen when he speaks. "He can reach these kids on their own level, which is so important," said Dick Yost, police counselor at Prospect High. "They don't label him as stuff-shirt and tag him as part of the establishment."

Stavredes tells his audience just what it's like to live in the gutter and how low life can really be for a drug addict. He tells them about the mail robberies and thefts he committed to make money to support his habit. He tells them about life in prisons and medical clinics.

HE TELLS THEM about his common-law marriage to a drug addict and about his two children who were born drug addicts. He tells them that his wife would prostitute herself in order to buy heroin.

It's a sad story, but it's the truth. "I find it emotionally hard to speak to students about my personal life, but this is the only way to tell them the truth, to make them realize that this could happen to them," said Stavredes.

He said that the best way to combat the drug abuse problem is through education. "But someone who's been an addict is really the only one who can talk turkey with these kids. The school administrations have waited too long in bringing programs of this type to the schools."

"So many kids are involved now, and we're playing catchup ball. If only we could have started educating these kids a few years earlier," he said.

"The life of a drug addict is hell," said Stavredes. "And this is what I want them to realize. If I can help just one kid a day and discourage them from using drugs, it's the only gratification I want for doing this job. But you never know how much you've really helped someone. You just hope."

St. Viator Chorale Is Tomorrow

St. Viator's Chorale will present its annual spring concert tomorrow at 8 p.m. at St. Viator High School, Oakton and Dryden, Arlington Heights.

The program will include musical highlights from "I do, I do," "On a Clear Day" and "Brigadoon," as well as spirituals and standard favorites written by Sigmund Romberg and Irving Berlin.

Solo and novelty numbers will be presented by Larry Quinnett and Mark Gangel of St. Viator's; Vicki Janda, Pat Gallagher and Shelly Presperin of Sacred Heart of Mary; Mrs. Irene Browning, Joseph Meissner, Kerry Meissner, Juan Sullivan and Bob Parsons of Arlington Heights; Mrs. Marge Dionesotes and Jeff Dionesotes from Palatine, and Dan Guthrie of Chicago.

THE CHORALE WAS formed two years ago under the direction of Father Gillgalen as a male chorus. To add variety to the Christmas concert, Father Gillgalen added a few female voices. The size of the group grew until today it has 92 members and is presently under the direction of James J. Stamm.

Members of the chorale are from Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Saint Viator High School and adult members from the Northwest suburbs who joined because they enjoy singing. The chorale presents two concerts during the year, one at Christmas time and another in the spring.

ROY BRESSLER as Arlington's poet laureate? Perhaps, after he amused the crowd at Tuesday night's swearing-in of village officials with several verses. However, perhaps he has greater ambitions, such as the GOP's equivalent of sometimes-poet Eugene McCarthy (who is also a sometimes-politician).

VILLAGE RESIDENTS can be projected backwards in time by travelling east on Campbell Street and turning north on Evergreen Avenue. The lighted sign on Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association is synchronized three minutes behind a similar sign on Annen and Busse Realtors.

IVY HILL area residents: Don't worry, no temporary link-up for Korvette will be permitted with the Ivy Hill sanitary sewer. Instead, the developers of the proposed shopping center will connect with the Greenbrier trunk line, when completed. An angry Ivy Hill resident informed us Wednesday that we had reported a temporary link-up would be permitted. However, it's just the opposite. No temporary link permitted.

MAKING POOH-POOH: It is with obvious relish that former village engineer Charles Tower refers to his former boss (Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson) without putting Mr. in front of Hanson. In fact, he almost spits out the name. His performances may be heard at meetings of the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements.

SANDWICHED BETWEEN lawn raking, fertilizing and other suburban weekend chores, residents must find time to broaden their knowledge. For the past several weeks over 6,000 books have been circulated each Saturday from the Arlington Heights Memorial Library.

ONLY FACE missing at Tuesday night's inauguration at the Municipal Building was Mrs. Jeanne Novotny, former village clerk. However, she appeared at the end of the meeting — to pay a traffic ticket. (Mrs. Joan Durham, able assistant clerk, will stay with the village to aid the new clerk, Mrs. Betty Revard.)

CAUCUS BELL-RINGERS in outlying areas of the village must be surprised at Burt Thompson's appointment as village trustee. "Inside" talk before the election was that the nod would probably go to someone in the outlying areas of the village — and most likely to someone living north of Palatine Road. Thompson, as a resident of 825 S. Chestnut, is considered to be living in the shadow of the North Western station by villages farther south and north.

Campfire Girls Slate Grand Council Fire

Area Camp Fire girls and their leaders will participate in a Grand Council Fire Sunday at 3 p.m. at Arlington High School.

Camp Fire Girls will receive ranks which they have worked for throughout the year.

Fourth grade girls will receive the rank of trailseeker; fifth grade girls, wood gatherer; and sixth grade girls, fire maker. Junior high girls will receive their rank of torch bearers.

Parents of the girls from the district, which includes Arlington Heights, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, have been invited to attend the council fire.

Start Sand Drive

Arlington Heights Jaycees will begin their ninth annual sand and charcoal drive tomorrow.

Tomorrow and for the following three Saturdays, May 3 to 17, Jaycees will deliver free sand for $1.50 per wheelbarrow load to local residents to be used in children's sandboxes, yards or gardens. Two free or four wheelbarrow loads will allow one to cash and live or more loads will cost one dollar.

In addition to the sand, Jaycees have a lot of charcoal boxes of Dow Chemical Co. Offshore Briquets, hardwood charcoal. The Jaycees plan to sell 40 pounds of this briquet charcoal for $3 a bag directly from the railroad car located near Arlington Elevator and Material Co., W. Northwest Hwy.

PROCEEDS from both the sand and charcoal sales will be applied toward the Jaycees' pledge to the Clearbrook School for Mentally Retarded Children.

Orders can be placed anytime during the day or night by phoning 392-2300 through May 17.

Equipment to help haul the sand and charcoal has been donated by Meyer Brothers Trucking, Lattof Chevrolet, Bill Cook Buick, United Rent-Alls, Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile, L. F. Draper and Associates, Al Sanders Construction Co., Arrow Paving Contractors, Klehm Nursery, Route 12 Rental Co. and Northwest Auto Wash.

Jaycees Randy Thomas and Bart Barrow are director and chairman of the drive.

Crime on The Increase

A recent Heights Police Department's monthly report showed an increase in auto theft, narcotics arrests, and reports of damage to village property last March as compared to the same month last year.

There were four auto thefts for March of 1969 compared to only two in March of 1968.

Narcotics offenses doubled as compared to last year when there were only two reported during the month. Last year for the same three months four narcotics offenses were reported. The total for that period was 11.

CRIMINAL DAMAGE to property decreased sharply from March of last year. Last year's figure was 73; this year's was 38. However, the total for the first three months of 1969 is still eight higher than for the same period last year.

Reports of sudden deaths in Arlington Heights increased from two in March of last year to seven this year. Totals for the first three months of 1968 show eight reports of sudden death, while this year's total is 22.

Reports of damage to village property numbered six last month, an increase of four over last year. The total for the first three months of this year is 10, seven more than for the same period last year.

Any Arlington Heights resident who received a parking ticket in March can take comfort in the fact that 632 other people also received them.

CONTEMPLATING whether to attend classes or go fishing are, from left, George Hellstrom, Susan Bartz and Charles Kern, in a rehearsal of "Ye Ole School," an original musical to be presented at St. Peter's at 7:45 p.m. today and tomorrow in the school gymnasium, 111 W. Olive, Arlington Heights.
